In New Early Start Time, Council Hears About Communication Plan

By Brian Simon

Tuesday's El Segundo City Council meeting marked the debut of the earlier 6 p.m. start time and it was a relatively abbreviated session due to the deferral of three scheduled agenda items. A public hearing on the proposal to build eight moderate-income households (rather than six low-, very low- and extremely low-income units) at the DR Horton complex on Imperial Avenue will move to June 18. The Council will receive a summary of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report for the previous fiscal year on June 4. The third item pulled, Mayor Drew Boyles' request for his colleagues to support a letter of opposition to Senate Bill 50 (that would have allowed developers to override local plans and avoid local zoning requirements for various building standards), is on hold because it appears the legislation will not go through.

Tuesday's main presentation came from Deputy City Manager Barbara Voss and contract employee Kristen Bergevin (who provides support on website development and communications) on El Segundo's Communication Plan. Many months in the making, the expansive plan addresses each of the City's five main strategic goals and in particular the objective to "develop an effective strategy for improving communications with the public." While the effort prioritizes disseminating general and emergency information to residents, businesses and the community at large via website, social and other media, it also aims to bolster communication within the City departments themselves. A communications audit revealed department desires to have standard guidelines, receive social media and website writing training, and be able to share their stories and successes with other employees as well as the public. Voss spoke of the departments' wishes to "get the word out about what they're doing," maintain their branding, and also develop an Intranet to enhance communications within City Hall.

General program goals look to build understanding and trust of the City's operations, develop a unified and consistent brand identity, improve internal communications, support emergency communications, partner with media outlets, and gather feedback.

The Communication Plan includes 10 key initiatives: 1. Building stakeholder relationships 2. Proactive, timely and consistent outreach to the community 3. New City website development 4. Emergency and crisis communication planning 5. Establishing an integrated brand image for the City 6. Strengthening media relations 7. Enhancing social media 8. Evolving El Segundo TV (which is about to move out of Recreation and Parks and into the City Manager's office under Voss' communications umbrella) 9. Improving internal City communications 10. Supporting City Manager, Mayor and City Council priorities.

Voss and staff will employ different tools and metrics to measure the success of the program, with initial baseline metrics and service level standards considered. The Council will discuss the initiatives during the upcoming summer strategic planning sessions to look at staffing and resource requirements for implementation as well as determine available budget dollars to move forward. In the meantime, the Council unanimously approved the Communication Plan.

As part of the ongoing goal to be prepared in the event of a disaster, the Council approved the purchase (and chosen vendor) of emergency supplies for City facilities and disaster go-kits for service workers. The Council had previously budgeted the monies for these items. While focused on a catastrophic earthquake scenario, the supplies in question could be applicable with other hazards as well. Kits include food and water, first aid items, lighting and electrical supplies, sanitation and comfort supplies, and search and rescue supplies. Emergency Management Coordinator Randy Collins noted that these are the "same supplies folks at home should have." The supplies/kits will be stored in work areas for personnel to have immediate access.

The distribution breakdown includes 100-person kits to the Police Station and Park Vista; 50-person kits to Fire Station 1 and 2, Library, Public Works Maintenance Facility, and Recreation and Parks Facility; and 25-person kits to the Water Plant, The Lakes golf course, Joslyn Center, Campus El Segundo and Aquatics Center. Five-person kits will go out to other City departments and buildings (e.g. The Plunge and other pools, Teen Center) as well as public safety mobile command and communications vehicles. Kits will additionally go out to all full-time City employees. Some items included: flashlight, helmet, USB charger, first aid kit, handheld radio, work gloves and jacket.

In a request approved by the rest of the Council, Boyles asked staff to develop ideas for programs to honor and celebrate El Segundo's military veterans beyond already

Down Year for Baseball Attendance? Not With Supportive Dodgers Fans

By Rob McCarthy

The Los Angeles Dodgers keep winning on the bases and at the turnstiles. The Blue Crew are the best-drawing team in Major League Baseball and playing before bigger crowds this season at home and on the road. That's exactly what baseball needs right now.

Attendance is shrinking at Major League games, though poor weather and underperforming teams with losing records explain some of the drop-off at National and American League ballparks. Eighteen of the league's 30 teams reported smaller crowds in April and through mid-May. The Dodgers, who are trying to win the club's first World Series title in 30 years, have responded so far to the challenge. The team's Southern California fan base has responded by turning out for home games in bigger numbers.

Los Angeles leads the league in home attendance through the first 25 games, according to ESPN baseball figures. Average attendance at home was a league-leading 47,119 fans per game. L.A. surpassed the 1 million home attendance mark by mid-May despite losing Yasiel Puig and Chase Utley, two of the team's most popular players.

The Dodgers traded Puig to the Cincinnati Reds during the offseason, and Utley retired. Utley's fans in Philadelphia, where he played before coming the Dodgers, have embraced the Phillies and their new free agent outfielder Bryce Harper. The Phils are one of only three teams, including L.A., to draw over 1 million fans at home this season. The New York Yankees are the other. All three teams currently sit in first place in their divisions.

Twelve teams are bucking the league-wide trend of smaller crowds, though. Philadelphia and MLB superstar Harper have increased home attendance by 302,219 fans through the first 28 games. The San Diego Padres, with former Dodger Manny Machado now playing for them, have boosted home crowds by 80,000 through the first 26 games. Another California team, the Oakland Athletics, have seen brisk business at the stadium turnstiles too, adding 60,000 fans through the first seven weeks of this season.

Down south in Anaheim, the Angels soon will hit the 1 million attendance mark, but it's taking longer than last season. The Angels' home crowds are down by 53,000 so far. The team's home attendance stood at 857,694 after last weekend's three-game homestand.

The Dodgers have remained the number one team for attendance in the Major Leagues for the past six seasons. They leapfrogged the Phillies in 2013 for the highest attendance in Major League Baseball. The Yankees outdrew both L.A. and Philadelphia back in 2010.

The San Francisco Giants are losing paying fans faster than any major league team this season, ESPN's figures show. The Giants -- who ranked fourth last season and drew more than 3 million spectators at home -- are in a freefall. The team ranks 10th in attendance and is last in the National League West. San Francisco and Los Angeles were the first major league teams to relocate from New York to the West Coast between 1958 and 1959.

The teams making the biggest gains in average attendance from 2018 are:

The Winners

Philadelphia Phillies: 35,947 (10,794 more per game)

San Diego Padres, 29,870 (3,105 more per game)

Oakland Athletics, 19,541 (2,508 more per game)

Vistamar Student Earns Kinecta Scholarship

After receiving more than 200 applications from students and more than 70 submissions from teachers, Kinecta Federal Credit Union hosted an award ceremony on May 21 to honor eight students with $2,000 scholarships to help them make higher education a reality; as well as six teachers with $2,000 grants to help them bolster instruction and classroom projects.

Local El Segundo student Sabrina Marie Chwalek was one of the winners. Sabrina will be graduating from Vistamar School in El Segundo and has chosen to attend the University of California, Berkeley and major in Political Economy. With a full course load, Sabrina also leads the Interact Club, which she founded -- a school organization that performs service projects for the local community. She additionally leads Never Again Vistamar, another student organization she founded that promotes dialogue and awareness about gun violence. Sabrina also serves as editor-in-chief of her school's paper, the Vistamar View, in which she regularly covers social and humanitarian issues.

Eagles' Softball Dream Season Ends

Story and Photos by Gregg McMullin

The El Segundo High School softball team's dream season came to an end. It could be described as one of the program's most successful seasons. The team captured the Ocean League title, won 25 games, had an 18-game win streak (which is the longest in the program's history) and reached the CIF Southern Section championship game for the third time in 12 years. The Eagles did this despite fielding a team beset with injuries to key players and leaning on underclassman players to fill voids.

Audrey Butler's sacrifice bunt in the first inning of the CIF-SS Division 4 final helped lead to the Eagles' only run.

Eagle shortstop Katie Croxall played brilliantly in the CIF Southern Section championship game.

El Segundo's path to the CIF finals went through Sultana High of Hesperia in the semifinals of the CIF-SS Division 4 playoffs. The Eagles had to make back-to-back long distance road trips in the quarterfinals when they defeated Rialto 4-3 in eight innings. Next up was Sultana with their vaunted offense and a hard-throwing pitcher Savannah Serrata in the circle.

The game was tied 1-1 in the third inning when Kaili Reitano unloaded on a 275-foot three-run home run to highlight a four-run inning. The Eagles' bats had come alive after seeing Serrata the second time around. El Segundo went on to score single runs in the fourth and sixth innings to hold on for a 7-2 win.

Audrey Butler had a big game, going 2-3 with two RBI singles, a walk and a run scored. Freshman sensation Sophia Marrero continued her blistering offensive output in the playoffs with two more hits. She's hitting .500 (7-14). Kaila Little had two hits, including an RBI single in the sixth inning. Besides her great day at the plate, Reitano started in the circle and held an explosive Sultans lineup to two

The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo by Taylor Jenkins Reid

Reviewed by Desiree De La Cruz-Miller, Library Assistant, El Segundo Public Library

The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo is a scandalous novel written by Taylor Jenkins Reid about a young, inexperienced journalist who gets the opportunity of a lifetime to interview Hollywood's glamorous and oh-so-outrageous Evelyn Hugo. As with other books by Taylor Jenkins Reid, you will find this one hard to put down. She takes you on twists and turns while you feel a rollercoaster of emotions as you read Evelyn's shocking history.

Monique Grant is shocked by the opportunity when approached by her editor to interview Evelyn regarding the auction of the latter's gown collection. Monique knows the request is odd considering there are more seasoned writers at the magazine she works for (Vivant), but Ms. Hugo specifically requested her. Monique approaches this interview warily and after much anticipation, at the book's end, Evelyn reveals why she chose her.

Evelyn has worn many gowns over the years. She was nominated for awards and snubbed many times throughout her career. Monique's assignment is to interview Evelyn about the auctioning of the gowns. An interview like this will sell millions of copies since Evelyn has been off the radar over the last 20-plus years. But the real assignment that Frankie, the magazine's editor, has given Monique is to find out about all the juicy details of the life and loves of Evelyn Hugo. Having been entrusted with the story, Monique is eager to make it happen. However, is she willing to do what Evelyn wants for a tell-all if it will cost her? Why did Evelyn pick Monique for this interview?

Taylor Jenkins Reid held my attention throughout the novel. The reader travels through each era with the character and experiences the issues that were surfacing at the time. She approaches the topics of AIDS and the struggles many have faced with coming out in an age when being gay was not widely accepted. Taylor does a good job of connecting the reader to the characters. I felt myself rooting for them on their low points and cheering them on during the highs. To find out more about this book, come visit us at the El Segundo Public Library and check out a copy of The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo. For help locating the book, please see the reference desk. We are happy to help you! •

Film Review

Burning: This South Korean Thriller Will Fire You Up

By Kailee Andrews for www.cinemacy.com

Burning (available to stream now on Netflix) tells the story of a directionless Jong-su (played by acclaimed Korean film star Yoo Ah-in), who falls into a love triangle with a girl from his hometown who herself has the affection from a wealthy playboy.

The drama begins with a chance meeting when Jong-su runs into his mysterious childhood neighbor Hae-mi (played with wide-eyed intensity by Jong-Seo Jeon) after she has been rendered unrecognizable by plastic surgery. She's a free-spirited presence who sweeps Jong-su into a relationship. She loves to reinvent herself, dancing and speaking with a vulnerable rawness that Jong-su lacks. The plot thickens when Hae-mi travels to Africa alone to seek out a group that teaches people to release the small hunger of life to seek the "Big Hunger" of spiritual meaning. When Hae-mi returns, she is joined by the fit and wealthy Ben, played by Steven Yeun (Walking Dead, Sorry to Bother You) in his first Korean language role. Once this main trio is in place, the film bursts with ambiguous rivalries.

Jong-su and Ben are constantly contrasted. Where Jong-so is slouching, Ben is suave. While Jong-su is burdened by his family's financial troubles, Ben commands vast wealth. Jong-su calls Ben a Korean Gatsby, ranting, "How does he live like this at his age? Traveling abroad, driving a Porsche, listening to music while cooking pasta." He seems to believe that Ben is everything insincere, while his own connection with Hae-mi is real. Jong-su claims he's an observer of life's mysteries rather than a judge, but we watch as his -- and our -- judgmental, pattern-seeking impulses flare at Ben's behavior. It's not long until Jong-su gets the idea that Ben's interest in Hae-mi is sinister.

Accomplished director Lee Chang-Dong knows just when to mete out information to keep an audience yearning, adding more mysteries and ominous moments to the film's Jenga-like structure. Much unease stems from the unsatisfied, troubled characters, who all have reasons to tease, manipulate or harm one another to fulfill their own desires.

I won't spoil the conclusion. I'll only say that the more we watch these characters, the less sure we become of them. Are their relationships sincere or transactional? Are their memories honest or unreliable? If creeping dread and haunting mysteries fire you up, you'll get endless fuel from Burning.

Burning is not rated. 148 minutes. Available to stream on Netflix. • existing events (i.e. the Chamber's annual Salute to the Military) and programs (an affordable housing initiative in conjunction with the Department of Defense, Los Angeles Air Force Base and City of Redondo Beach). Council discussion on the matter brought up connecting potential activities with holidays such as July 4 (though troops are usually out of town during this period) and Memorial Day. Staff will return to the Council with recommendations at a future date.

Presentations at the beginning of Tuesday's meeting included Fire Chief Chris Donovan's introduction of new Battalion Chief Deena Lee; recognition of May 19-25 as National Public Works Week; and certificate handouts to members of the local AYSO All Stars team (Region 92-U12 Girls Division), who made it to the state tournament in March and braved inclement weather while being the only El Segundo team to qualify.

The fourth presentation came from Hawthorne Police Chief Michael Ishii, who presented the El Segundo Police Department with a plaque and a heartfelt thanks for the latter's "swift and immediate" mutual aid response last month in the wake of an officer-involved shooting. Shot in the leg by a man with a rifle, the Hawthorne officer is now doing okay, Ishii reported. He went on to laud the relationships his department has with ESPD and surrounding agencies and the importance of working together to "address difficult circumstances."

Ishii also noted that the wife of the above-mentioned officer also works for Hawthorne PD and happened to be in the midst of participating in the Run to Remember race that pays tribute to fallen first responders. The call came in about her husband's shooting while she was in the middle of her run… •

Chicago White Sox, 46,501 (1,983 per game)
Cincinnati Reds, 36,383 (1,959 per game)

The Dodgers made the list too. They've added 866 paid admission per game over last season. Milwaukee's Brewers, another playoff team from last season, gained about the same number as L.A: 896. The Brewers play in a climate-controlled domed stadium, where fans watch games without braving the wind and cold that the league says has contributed to smaller crowds, including at Yankee Stadium. Attendance in the Bronx is down 2,763 per game, and players in early-April games wore insulated headgear under their ball caps.

Teams in the NL West other than San Francisco are doing better than most, ESPN's data shows. The Colorado Rockies who play in a high-altitude outdoor stadium, are down 1,331 fans per game through the first 20 home meetings, while the Arizona Diamondbacks in their desert ballpark with retractable roof have only lost an average of 316 fans per game in 2019.

The Biggest Losers

Besides the Dodgers' rival, the Giants, teams with the biggest drop in attendance have been:

Toronto Blue Jays, 130.948 (5,952 per game); the Kansas City Royals, 104,821 (4,193 per game); and unexpectedly, the Houston Astros who've lost 83,197 in paid attendance at home despite being in first place and being one of the baseball's best teams this year. Another team you wouldn't expect to be going in reverse is the Chicago Cubs, whose home crowds have dipped by 12,000 over the first 22 games. Per game, that is 549 empty seats.

League attendance at all 30 major league ballparks declined last season by 4 percent, which the league blamed on poor April weather that forced 54 games to be cancelled. •

Recirculated Partial Draft EIR Review Period: May 23, 2019 through 5:00 pm July 8, 2019

The City of El Segundo (City) has completed the preparation of a Recirculated Partial Draft Environmental Impact Report (RPDEIR) (SCH# 2017011055) for Continental Grand Campus Specific Plan, summarized below. The RPDEIR has been prepared in accordance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), as amended, and the State CEQA Guidelines for Implementation of CEQA.

Background: A Draft EIR was released on September 21, 2017 for the Continental Grand Campus Specific Plan, and the comment period was extended to December 6, 2017 in response to a request for additional time to review the Draft EIR. The City determined that as a result of comments received, additional analyses were necessary to address comments related to the Traffic Study and the health risk assessment. The purpose of the RPDEIR is to recirculate for public review the revisions to portions of the Draft EIR to address the comments that would result in additional new information that warrants review by the public and/or that results in potentially significant impacts that were not previously disclosed. The RPDEIR incorporates revisions to the following sections of the EIR: a) Revised Section 3.0, Basis for Cumulative Analyses; b) Revised Section 4.B, Air Quality; and, c) Revised Section 4.J, Transportation and Circulation. Please submit your written comments to Eduardo Schonborn at 350 Main St., El Segundo, CA 90245, or via email at eschonborn@elsegundo.org

Public Hearings: Public notice will be provided of all future Planning Commission and City Council meetings.

Every second of every minute of every day, a helpless animal is put to death just because no one was there to take them home. Give them a second chance for love when you adopt one of these precious kitties. You can also check out their friends on our website – www.kittenrescue.org

Corky

Louie is a great big, goofy, giant kitten. Weighing in at just under 20 pounds, his size is the first thing you'll notice. But Louie has no idea how big he is — he still feels and acts like a tiny kitten. Like any other kitten, this enormous guy only wants to run and play and have a good time. He loves to play fetch with his favorite toys. And he's just as happy to play with his person as he is with another cat or kitten. Louie is also a lover. When playtime is over, he will happily relax and watch TV with the same intensity. Louie would love a home with another cat or two to keep him company. Do you have room in your heart and home for this big tuxedo-clad boy?

Sammy is a young adult male lynx point Siamese. A neighbor abandoned this handsome boy in his foster mom's front yard, probably when they moved away. He is very long, lean and tall like a jungle cat. No chubby fluff ball here! Playful, sweet and talkative, Sammy gets along great with other cats, but isn't keen on dogs. He would probably do best in an adult household, as he is quite strong. As you can see in his photo, Sammy loves to put his paw on his foster mom's hand. It's his take on hand-holding — definitely a lover and not a fighter... This gorgeous guy is looking for the wonderful forever home he so richly deserves.

Winchester can't wait to grow into his regal name. Right now, he is a cuddly little guy who is looking to melt his way into your heart. Winchester is a lover of belly rubs and sun puddles. He is very close to his sister, Corky, who looks like him except that she has a unique third color of black on her right side that looks like grease smudges. Corky and Winchester are an awesome pair. Please consider adopting them together. But if that is not possible, please know that Winchester needs to have another cat/kitten in his forever home. Winchester lives at our Adoption Center in Atwater Village with several of his closest friends. Finding another friend for him should be easy!

Corky is a unique girl, as rare as a unicorn. At first glance, she looks like an ordinary orange tabby. As you look more closely, she has what looks like engine grease marks on her fur – but they are her actual hair color. She is a tri-color or tortie. Corky is the sweetest little girl you would ever want to meet. She has a way of looking at you that will make you forget your troubles. Corky needs to be adopted with another cat or kitten. If you don't already have one, we can recommend her brother, Winchester. Together they are a super orange duo.

Freddie is an outgoing medium-haired gray and white teen with a gorgeous fluffy tail with a white tip. He is very sociable with people, cats and dogs and is looking for a safe and loving home with another playful cat or a dog. Freddie is currently being fostered with another awesome teen named Nicky. If you have room in your heart and home for two, please consider adopting Freddie and Nicky together!

Nicky is an adorable short-haired brown tabby teen with gold eyes who is looking for a safe and loving home to call his very own. He is a sweet, active and playful kitty who would love to find a home with another playful cat. Nicky is a tad shy in new situations, but once he warms up, he enjoys affection, cuddling and sleeping in bed with his people. Nicky and Freddie are great friends who would be the perfect pair in your family.

runs -- just one earned -- on five hits.

So for the first time since 2009, the Eagles had advanced to the CIF finals. It marked the sixth time El Segundo had advanced to a softball CIF final. El Segundo won the first-ever CIF title in softball in the only division played in 1974. Led by CIF Player of the Year Dora Young, the Eagles won their second title in 1976. CIF Player of the Year Terri Young and Colleen Glynn led the Eagles to their third title when they defeated Downey 1-0 in the 1978 final. The other appearance was in 2007.

El Segundo (25-6) went into the CIF Southern Section Division 4 finals tied with the most wins in any division and had the Southern Section's longest winning streak going at 18 games. The Eagles faced second-seeded Godinez (25-4) from Santa Ana. The Grizzlies have two Division I recruits in their lineup, including pitcher Airlin Ramirez and shortstop Keana Pola. Their formidable hitting lineup shows little weakness by virtue of their .436 team batting average.

The tone of the game, in front of several hundred Eagle supporters, was set early. The Eagles gave their faithful fans hope in the first inning that a 41-year drought since the program's last softball CIF title was ending. Sophomore shortstop Katie Croxall led off the game with a first-pitch single to centerfield. A perfect sacrifice bunt by Audrey Butler put Croxall into scoring position. Julia Chavez then knocked in Croxall with an RBI single to right field for a 1-0 lead. Unfortunately it would be the only offense the Eagles could muster all game long.

The Grizzlies took advantage of El Segundo mental and physical errors as well as wildness by Eagle pitching to defeat El Segundo 15-1. Never mind the lopsided loss because two key plays may have cost El Segundo nine runs. With one out in the first inning, Reitano had Samantha Villanueva struck out on a 3-2 pitch. An illegal pitch was called and it forced a base on balls. The first base umpire was challenged on the call and his response was, "Coach, she's doing it every third pitch." The question beckons why it wasn't called earlier in the count.

That walk opened the flood gates and Godinez scored four first inning runs. After the walk, Keana Pola struck out followed by a single and two consecutive walks to force in Villanueva to tie the game. A bases-loaded three-run double by Andrea Udriate gave her team a 4-1 lead. With two outs in the second inning, a rare drop pop fly in foul territory gave Ramirez a second chance and she delivered a two-run double. Udirate then hit a two-run double for a 9-1 lead. The Grizzlies would go on to score six more runs over the course of the next four innings and give Godinez its first softball CIF championship title.

Not many would have predicted a 25-win season from a team that started 8-6 only to win 18 consecutive games and advance to the title game. There were plenty of tears shed and hugs between the players, but head coach Megan McCann, in just her third season at the helm, beamed as she spoke to her team. "You have nothing to be ashamed of," she said. "There are a lot of teams who would have liked to have been here today, but you made it happen. We win as a team and we lose as a team and I'm as proud of you as our community is."

The Eagles will lose six seniors to graduation… but with eight sophomores and one freshman returning, look for McCann to build on this ending and return for a deep run again next season.

With Katie Croxall playing in a CIF final, she becomes just the fourth player in El Segundo High School history to have a parent either play or coach in a CIF final baseball or softball game. Katie's father Rob played in back-to-back CIF title baseball games in 1989 and 1990. Eric Stevenson played in both 1989 and 1990 baseball title games when his legendary father John Stevenson was the head coach. In 1978, Terri Young helped lead her team to the softball title while her son Ben Doucette started as a freshman and played in the 2006 CIF baseball championship game. Colleen Glynn was a standout member of the 1978 CIF winning softball team. Her daughter Jenna Rich led the Eagles to two appearances in the CIF title games in 2007 and 2009.

The Eagles showed their composure, poise and sportsmanship after losing in the CIF Southern Section Division 4 championship game.

Names in the News

Rhianna Rich (2015) has completed her senior season at Harvard where she led the Crimson to a 25-19 record and a berth in the NCAA Women's Softball Regional held at the University of Arizona in Tucson. Rich was a four-time All-Ivy League player, including being named Ivy League Rookie of the Year in her freshman season. Over four seasons, she hit .379 as the leadoff hitter and was considered the 25th toughest strikeout at the NCAA Division I level. Harvard fell to number six Arizona and then to Colorado State to get eliminated.

The El Camino Warriors have four former Eagles leading the way. In the Super Regional, the Warriors defeated Glendale 14-2 and 7-3 to advance to the California Community College Baseball State Championships starting Friday in Fresno.

Spencer Palmer (2017) was 1-3 with three RBIs in the first game. Spencer Long (2017) has been a two-way player all season long, manning second base and coming in late to relieve. He was 1-2 and walked four times. Jamie Galicia (2018) is the ace of the Warrior staff and improved to 12-2 on the year when he went seven innings and struck out nine while lowering his ERA to 1.74. Brenden Casillas (2018) is one reason Galicia has succeeded over the last half of the season when he took over as the starting catcher. In the second game Palmer walked twice, while Long had a single and scored a run. He picked up his ninth save of the season when he pitched the final two innings and struck out five.

The Warriors advanced and will take on defending CCCAA State Champions San Joaquin Delta on Saturday after the Mustangs defeated Los Medanos College in two games. In the other state final four matchup, the top seed from Southern California, Orange Coast College, will face either Sacramento City College or Ohlone College.

Cory Lund (2017) has led Williams College to the NCAA Division III men's lacrosse semifinals against Amherst College where the Ephs fell 12-8. Lund, who is a two-year starting attacker, was the leading scorer for Williams with 64 goals this season. He became the first Eph to score more than 50 goals in a season in over 15 years. The math major was also honored as the NESCAC Player of the Week for his outstanding performance. •
