Watkins Reflects Back on Over 50 Years in Local Education

By Brian Simon

This time, he means it. Well, for the most part. But when Dr. William (Bill) Watkins decided not to seek a fourth term on the El Segundo School Board, it marked the end of a remarkable run in local education. Sort of. Though he said that his retirement from public service is "for sure now," he admitted that he will remain involved with the El Segundo Education Foundation and the Kiwanis Club. But none of that other stuff. Seriously. After all, he is now 79 and has some other items on his agenda, including plenty of sailing (he just returned from a trip to Puerto Vallarta helping a friend drop off a boat there) and golfing galore.

Retirement isn't new to Watkins. Before his first election to the School Board in November 2005, he had enjoyed four years of it and focused on the aforementioned recreational activities as well as spending time with family. But love of community involvement and a desire to offer his experience to foster education in El Segundo brought him back to the fray.

A Los Angeles native who moved to the South Bay as a youngster and graduated from Dana Middle School and Hawthorne High School, Watkins attended El Camino College for two years before heading to Pepperdine University where he earned a degree in English and then a teaching credential. "It was through Bob Kingston that I applied for a job at El Segundo High School," he said. Kingston was a beloved long-time educator and administrator for El Segundo Unified District who passed away in 2010. In a number of ways, Watkins' career mirrored that of his mentor. Both taught at the high school for many years, served as assistant principal there, coached (tennis for Watkins) and oversaw athletics. Kingston was also a Kiwanian. But Watkins continued to add to his resume. He served as principal at the high school for 10 years before moving to the district offices in 2004 to head instructional services. He became interim superintendent in 1997 and then took on the role permanently, spending four years leading El Segundo Unified before announcing his retirement from public education in 2001.

Looking back at what he felt was the chief accomplishment in his tenure as superintendent, Watkins noted the passage of the Measure C bond that allowed El Segundo Middle School and Richmond Street Elementary School to modernize and undergo complete rebuilds – as well as jumpstart work on the high school main building.

Over the past 13 years on the School Board, Watkins pointed to several key highlights, including the middle school's recognition as an International Baccalaureate campus, the sale of the Imperial Street School site and El Segundo High's development of an advanced placement pathway (as well as others in engineering, biomedical science, business, and visual and performing arts). "Selling the Imperial Street land allowed us to secure $16 million to gain $500,000-plus in interest each year to maintain our facilities," Watkins said. He added that he was also particularly proud of his service on the board of the Southern California Regional Occupational Center.

During the "hiatus" after retiring, Watkins remained heavily involved in local education as a staunch supporter for the next bond that local voters passed – November 2001's Measure E. He was also a member of the bond's citizens' financial oversight committee. He became a board member of the Ed Foundation in 2001, chairing its Community Giving Committee, including the Superintendent's Roundtable, until his election to the School Board. In addition to his degree from Pepperdine, Watkins went on to garner a Master of Arts from California State University

Chevron Fuel Your School Program Update

This year, Chevron donated $466,635 to help fund 529 classroom projects, including 262 focused on science, technology, engineering and math (STEM), to help connect real world experiences to classroom learning for 41,797 students at 176 public schools in select cities in and around the South Bay. In 2018, Fuel Your School was available to 17 U.S. markets and, in total, generated $5,736,681 to help fund 7,038 eligible classroom projects, benefitting 790,693 students.

Beginning Sept. 30, through Oct. 31, 2018, public school teachers from Los Angeles County were invited to post classroom projects at www.DonorsChoose.org.

From Oct. 1 through Oct. 31, 2018, when consumers filled up with eight or more gallons at a participating Chevron or Texaco station, $1 was donated, totaling $466,635, to help fund eligible classroom projects for public schools in Los Angeles County.

Since 2013, the program has generated $2,944,809 for schools in Los Angeles County.

Attention All ES Residents

A trial balloon has just been put into the air.

According to the December 6 issue of El Segundo Herald councilmember and realtor Scot Nicol asked his business friendly colleagues if they would like to consider high density housing in the area adjacent to or abutting Washington Park, west of Pacific Coast Hwy. The area is currently populated by modest sized apartment houses and condos. True, some of this area could stand renovation but do we really want as Grand Tropez or Waypointe or possibly Playa Vista in this area. What does the council consider "high density"?

The rationale is concerning the heavy demand for housing in town from potential business tenants. Lack of available housing stock may deter major businesses from coming here. Do we need more businesses in town? In any case, it is a specious argument as there is no way, or should there be, enough housing to satisfy the demand from the businesses East of Pacific Coast Hwy. Next would we be talking about "affordable housing" as El Segundo property values and rents would not be reasonable for many of the employees of these firms. I would suggest that everyone on the East side of Center Street would be impacted by this type of development with heavier traffic and aesthetic concerns.

Council passed it off to the Planning Commission for recommendations and feasibility study. Did you ever know of a project the Planning Commission did not eventually approve? Note that it was just a few months since the Council was talking about residential housing on the East side of PCH. Now they have made the leap to the West side. Or is this project just a "straw man" for East side development?

The Future Is the Past

Featured Writer: Allison Armijo, Junior, ESHS

"Tell me a story, grandpa!"

"One of the past or future?"

"You decide, you always have the best stories."

The story was one of the past:

A sprightly young woman hovered down the street, completely entranced by her phone, physically unable to look up from the screen. This woman, though endowed with picture-perfect features and a curious mind, knew nothing of paperback books or records. She knew of messages, and "dings," and salivating every time she received a text. However, this was normal behavior in her town.

One night, an overbearing storm swept across the technology-infested town. The phone lines were thrashed and diced, scraping along sidewalks, shattering windows and decimating any and all technological conservatories. Of course, nobody in the town noticed this because they had all departed from the real world. Not physically of course, but they were significantly disconnected from the reality of the real world.

And when the people went to plug in their phones and other devices for the night, they did not realize they would lose much more than battery power. When they woke in the morning, realizing the lifeless state of their devices, they embraced a psychotic state of mind. They began to try and converse with one another to explain or ask questions about what happened, but could not physically bring themselves to say the words. It was painful, watching them try to say phrases they knew their mouths could not physically form. It was like pins and needles, except verbs and nouns. Instead of abandoning their devices and devoting their time to rejoining society, the rabid group resorted to fighting each other for powered devices. Words could not solve their conflict, so they resorted to violence.

There was one phone left in the town -- one phone that had not been drained of its power. One phone that rang. One phone with a ringtone that beckoned Pavlov's dogs and sent them running towards its beacon. Sprinting furiously over their fallen neighbors, they reached the device. Yes, it was a phone; but it was a flip phone. The people, unable to satisfy their incessant desire for a digital release, began to plug their chargers into their bodies, seeing if they could recharge themselves. Left with gory gashes and spouts, the people caused their own demise. Not a single person left. Only a phone. Ringing. Ringing. Ringing.

"Did you enjoy the story?"

"Absolutely! But why were those people so silly? Obsessed with something as silly as a phone..."

"Well, back in my day, they would tell us this story so we would not consume ourselves with such remedial toys. In an attempt to eradicate all technological devices, the government issued a bill stating that cell phones and all devices period were banned. We gradually returned to our archaic ways and grew to enjoy -- even thrive -- in old ways of life."

"Good, I am so glad I don't have a phone. Don't want to end up like those phone-thirsty zombies"

ES School Board Welcomes Two New Members Heading Into 2019

By Duane Plank

Tuesday evening, the El Segundo School Board administered the oath of office to new members Paulette Caudill and Tracy Miller-Zarneke and welcomed back the re-elected Emilee Layne. All three were voted in by the El Segundo electorate when the ballots were tallied after the election polls closed on Nov. 6.

It appears 2019 is shaping up as the year of the woman in El Segundo Unified School District (ESUSD), with all five board members, the superintendent (Dr. Melissa Moore) and almost all the school site principal positions helmed by women. Superintendent Moore said, "I can say, in our case, everybody was interviewed, the best person was selected…and if that happened to be a woman, so be it."

The only exception is Ali Rabiei, who is the acting principal at El Segundo Middle School. He took over for Dr. Melissa Gooden, who was tabbed to succeed Dr. Jennifer Hawn when Hawn unexpectedly resigned her post to take a position with the Whittier City School District.

After the oaths, protocol moved forward with the election of officers for the upcoming year. Nancy Cobb was selected to take over the reins of the presidency from Layne, with Dr. Jeanie Nishime selected as vice president, and Miller-Zarneke to serve as clerk for the next year.

Prior to the meeting, Miller-Zarnecke said she was eager to assume her duties, having spent "countless hours in gearing-up discussions and meetings, digging through piles of reading materials, and attending a jam-packed four days at the California School Board Association Annual Educational Conference in San Francisco."

For her part, long-time ESUSD teacher Caudill, who also attended the San Francisco conference, emailed that she was "excited and inspired" to put into practice some of the tenets she had learned at last month's conference.

After a brief celebratory reception to honor the election-winning members, Moore then detailed the myriad accomplishments during Layne's tenure as president, thanking her for her service and leadership in a "very challenging year."

The Board then quickly got down to the nuts and bolts of the only regularly scheduled meeting for December, designating meeting dates for 2019, as well as approving member assignments for so called "ad-hoc" committees that will be tasked to members for the next year.

Special presentations were next on the agenda, with Moore starting the proceedings by announcing the designation of the prestigious Golden Bell Award to the El Segundo High School Career Technical Education Program, citing the implementation of the school's Biomedical Science Pathway. The District also received a $1,000 sponsorship award from the California School Board Association to further support the Biomed Pathway and students involved in the program. Moore gave kudos to Biomed Pathway teachers Donna Tucker, Kathy Moody and Tiffany Missoni.

Also presenting Tuesday evening was PBK Architect representative Gilbert Baez, who, along with ESUSD administrator Dr. Dylan Farris, updated the members on the recently demolished Madsen House, with plans for the new modular classroom building, parking lot, and upgrades to the playing field on the western acreage of the Richmond Street School (RSS) property. The summary noted current blueprints on the drawing board, pending cost estimates, and the anticipated timelines for project completion. Layne said that none of the plans mentioned were "set in stone." Moore had said, prior to the meeting, that while she hoped the process for the new facilities would move forward quickly, she understood that "it is important that we follow all of the regulations and timelines as it relates to student safety."

Moore then retuned to present information regarding the "Profile of a Graduate" document that has been in the works for months. She explained what the profile was and why it's needed, as well as how the profile was

Ocean League Starts Soon

By Gregg McMullin

The El Segundo High School basketball teams had an exciting week leading up to their Ocean League start this week. The boys won two close games while the Lady Eagles advanced to the third place game in the Valley Christian Tournament. The boys soccer team is off to a perfect start and look to be tested in upcoming games.

Boys Basketball Improves to 8-4

Head coach David March has his team playing with an up-tempo attitude and a stifling defense that paid off in a signature win over a top-ranked team. Though the Eagles' win over Long Beach Cabrillo wasn't one over a ranked team, the Jaguars proved to test El Segundo's stamina. In the end, the Eagles second half rally proved that they could make a comeback and hold off their opponents.

The real test came against Wiseburn-Da Vinci, a team ranked 10th. The Wolves reached the CIF Southern Section finals last season and they return eight players from that team. So for the Eagles, this would be a test on how far they've come and how they stack up against another ranked opponent. Earlier in the season, they faced top-ranked Providence. The Eagles competed well before losing control in the second half and falling short in that game.

Against Da Vinci, it would be another story and a different outcome. The Wolves had a 10-point lead in the fourth quarter only to see the Eagles make a comeback and win 41-38. The nearly packed gym would witness one of the great games in what has quickly become a rivalry between two schools in the same city. Miles Jones, who is the Eagles' leading scorer, took a defensive rebound and went the other way for a layup to give El Segundo an early 4-0 lead. Da Vinci would take a 10-8 lead thanks to Blake Cabrera's three-pointer. Dylan Aubert's late three-pointer in the first quarter reclaimed the lead for the Eagles, 11-10.

The tempo and the aggressive style of defense made for a low-scoring game that plays well

See Eagles, page 14

Miles Jones (left) and #2 Dylan Aubert prevent Da Vinci's Nathaniel Perry to score in the closing moments of the game.

Baby Teeth by Zoje Stage

Reviewed by Jeff Huttinger, Library Assistant, El Segundo Public Library

The best work of fiction I have read in some time is a debut novel from a very talented first-time author, Zoje Stage. Baby Teeth is the story of a seemingly idyllic family slowly coming to grips with a horrifying realization: their 7-year-old daughter is a psychopath. Although this description may conjure up images of B-movie schlock, Stage's tale unwinds through alternating chapter perspectives of mother and daughter with earnestness and heartfelt candor, even if it does occasionally dip its toe into campy water.

After seven years of being a parent, Suzette is still not completely comfortable with this identity. Forced to be a stay-at-home mom due to her child's numerous expulsions, she coolly attends to troubled young daughter Hanna's daily needs with an exhausted longing to be anywhere else. Hanna, angry at her mother's increasing detachment, spends her time looking for ways to emotionally punish and psychologically torment her bewildered caregiver. Vying for the support of an oblivious and skeptical patriarch, Suzette and Hanna gradually expand the rules of engagement in their ongoing war, resulting in an escalating series of violent acts and upsetting truths.

Written with confidence and unapologetic honesty, Stage crafts an uncomfortable story of revenge, obsession, disappointment and fear as characters find themselves desperately trying to convince each other (and the reader) of their best intentions and seemingly justified behavior. With dueling narratives shifting between Suzette and Hannah, I found my heart breaking over Hannah's desire for her daughter's removal in one chapter, while squirming at the young girl's Electra-like affection for her father, Alex, in the next.

Although some of Hanna's erratic efforts to disturb Suzette tend to border on the unbelievable at times, Stage keeps the story grounded instead of letting it spin off into the absurd. This book is an experience, difficult to put down and equally hard to shake.

Film Review

Ben is Back: Returning Home, Avoiding Relapse

By Morgan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

Perhaps the perfect unintentional follow up to this year's family drama Beautiful Boy, starring Timothée Chalamet and Steve Carell, is the Lucas Hedges and Julia Roberts-fronted drama, Ben is Back. While both films tell the story of a boy dealing with the damaging effects of substance abuse and a supportive family member doing whatever they can to keep him sober, that is where the similarities between the two films end. Ben is Back, directed by Lucas's father Peter Hedges, takes place after the addiction has been acknowledged and instead focuses on a young man trying to stay sober. In this touching portrait of the PTSD of a recovering addict, Ben is Back is a beautiful and heartbreaking story that showcases the special, undeniable bond between a mother and son.

In a small, gloomy suburb of New York City, Ben (Hedges) surprises his family by leaving his sober living facility and showing up unexpectedly on Christmas Eve to spend the holidays at home with his loved ones -- including his beloved dog Ponce. To his mother Holly (Roberts), Ben is her prodigal son and all her attention immediately shifts towards him and his needs. Holly's husband (Courtney B. Vance) and daughter (Kathryn Newton) worry that she is blinded by this motherly love and remain skeptical of Ben's true intentions. Being newly sober with some 60-odd days under his belt, there is concern that the triggers at home may be too much for Ben, causing him to relapse. But Ben gives no outward appearance of slipping up, as he assures them he has turned a corner for good.

Promising to return to the sober living facility the next day, Ben agrees to stay by Holly's side so she can monitor his every move. The stakes become high for both Ben and Holly over this 24-hour trial period. For Ben, it is to keep the temptation of the real world at bay; and for Holly, it is driven by her ego in believing that she can keep Ben safe on her own. In the beginning, it seems as if everything will be okay until an unexpected break-in and subsequent theft of the family dog sparks a downward spiral that sees Ben pushed to his limit. As he sets out to confront the people from his past that he believes stole Ponce, Holly risks everything to desperately hold on to him and keep him safe no matter what.

Fueled by love and ego, Holly's hunt to find Ben is riddled with emotional turmoil as she learns the harrowing details of his former life as an addict. Watching her stark denial turn into a harsh reality is heartbreaking as she tries to digest details that no mother should ever have to learn about her own flesh and blood. Ben's intentions are genuine and solely based on protecting his family, but what he doesn't understand is that in order to save his family, he must unintentionally hurt them first.

There are many elements that make Ben is Back a standout film in a year of exceptional films. One aspect is how the film takes place over a 24-hour time period, keeping the story tight and concise. Another is the phenomenal meditative soundtrack by composer Dickon Hinchliffe, whose previous works include Leave No Trace and Locke. The film ends on a sobering note that is perfectly supported by a chilling musical score, making it one of my favorite moments in a film this year. It may not be a lighthearted watch, but Ben is Back is a must-see.

Ben is Back is rated R for language throughout and some drug use. Now playing at ArcLight Hollywood and The Landmark. •

Grandma Turtle's Marshmallow Salad

Recipe provided by Chase Waite

Ingredients

- 1 pkg (8 oz) softened Philadelphia Cream Cheese
- 1 container Cool Whip
- 1 pkg cherries with stems
- 1 can crushed pineapple
- 1 bag (10 oz) Kraft Mini Marshmallows

Preparation

1. Cut up the softened cream cheese into small pieces and place in a mixing bowl.
2. Beat together with an electric mixer the cut up cream cheese and the whole container of cool whip just until they are mixed and the cream cheese is not clumpy. Then drain the crushed pineapple and dump it into the mixing bowl.
3. Beat the drained pineapple into the cream cheese cool whip mixture until well distributed. Next, hand stir in the bag of mini marshmallows, until mixed and coated. Smooth out top with back of spoon.
4. Drain the cherries with stems, and place them over the top of the salad. Refrigerate overnight so that the marshmallows have time to soften. Enjoy!!

EL SEGUNDO FAMILY SINCE 1924

Watkins

Dominguez Hills, and a Doctor of Education in Institutional Management from Pepperdine University Graduate School of Education and Psychology.

Watkins and his wife Carol moved to town in 1972, have two children (Eric and Carrie) who are both El Segundo High graduates, and five grandchildren. Carrie followed in her dad's footsteps as an instructor and her daughter Eden is on the way to her own credential.

Watkins' final day on the dais was on Nov. 13 (as it was for fellow colleague Dr. Jim Garza, who also enjoyed a lengthy academic career in El Segundo and is now the principal at Bishop Montgomery High) and the School Board welcomed two new members – Paulette Caudill and Tracey Miller-Zarneke -- during its meeting this week. Any words of wisdom for the newbies? "I feel with the passing of the current bond and the sale of Imperial Street School, that the future boards will be able to concentrate on education and we will have funding to maintain the buildings and construct new classrooms, labs and facilities," Watkins said. "The primary focus going forward is providing the finest education for our students."

Asked if he could change anything about his career if he could go back in time, Watkins said he would not. "If you look at where our school district is right now, it's in the best hands," he said. "Excellent teachers. Excellent administrators. Excellent school board." That being said, he admitted that change itself is a continual process and has been from day one. After all, when he first became a teacher in his early 20s, students used pencils -- computers in the classroom were not even a remote thought. "Education like everything is a dynamic process," Watkins went on to explain. "We have to be ready as we move further into the 21st century. We need to be prepared to move ahead and evolve with technology and embrace it. Everyone I knew did." Yet while a fan of technology, Watkins has not taken to things like social media. "I'm not on Facebook and Twitter, but I do email." Perhaps the biggest change he has seen over the course of his career is the mindset of education. "It has become that we need to educate more of our students to prepare them for colleges and universities than was the focus when I first started teaching. More people went into trades. We have truly become more university-focused."

While Watkins has positively impacted countless lives in his various roles as teacher, administrator, superintendent and school board member, he was quick to credit others. "I have worked with nothing but the finest people and it is what has made the job so enjoyable – it has been a wonderful time," he said. "It has also been one of the joys of our life to live in El Segundo and be a part of the community." He summed it all up by saying just how lucky he has been. "I've always felt blessed to be in education. On the very first day that I taught, I came home and told Carol that I couldn't believe that I was actually being paid to do this. And I felt that way the whole time I've been involved in education…" • developed and how it dovetails with District's mission statement.

According to District-provided notes, the profile "describes the expectations our community believes are required of our graduates who can be the successful leaders of tomorrow," noting that "the districts that have already engaged in this nationwide initiative have discovered many ways to use the graduate profile as a means for transformative change."

Last but not least was the presentation debut of new Chief Business Official Kimberlie Linz. Linz, who was selected to replace the retiring Susan Aceves, comes to El Segundo from the neighboring Manhattan Beach Unified School District, where she held multiple positions in her 10-year stint there. She presented the financial "first interim report," which is required by the Educational Code. The District is filing a positive certification, which means that it can meet its financial obligations for this schoolyear as well as for the next two.

Linz emailed that "she was thrilled" to be join ESUSD, noting how "schools are at the center of the community." She spoke of the positive certification, also mentioning that because of state funding formulas, El Segundo "remains one of the lowest funded districts in the state" -- but that "sound fiscal planning and strategic decision-making by the Board continues [to keep] the District on sound fiscal footing."

Moore had said prior to the meeting that the positive certification was good news, but also emphasized that "the budget is tight, with unfunded mandates."

Among the consent agenda items that the Board took action on were the approval of an Eagles' Nest Roundhouse Aquarium Outreach Program slated to take place in late January; a music center assembly for the students at RSS calendared for March 11 and expected to broaden students' perspectives of other cultures; an agreement with VPLS Solutions to increase the District's ramp-up of technology; and an agreement of renewal with School Services of California to provide assistance on issues related to school finances, legislation and budgeting.

Prior to the meeting, Moore noted a key loss, with the resignation of Performing Arts Center Director of Theatre Operations Angelique Roque. "She is tremendously talented," Moore said. "We are going to really miss her."

Among the action items, the Board passed a resolution approving "forward-funding," with the members approving District advancement of "certain of its own funds" to address necessary projects. The expenditures will be reimbursed when the recently passed bond money starts to become available, which is currently slated for May 2019. The Board also approved the establishment of an independent citizens' oversight committee to "watchdog" the bond spending, as well as the final authorization of the earlier noted first interim budget filing and the "Profile of a Graduate."

Moore said the establishment of the citizens' oversight committee to look at bond spending is critical to the District, with an "open invitation to the entire community" to participate and engage in the process. She added that the selection of the committee members must adhere to strict guidelines.

The only information pending postings on the agenda involved Board policies. After that, Moore noted highlights on the upcoming informational calendar, including the Jan. 5 opening of the new Aquatics Center. Board members reports included the first from Caudill and Miller-Zarneke.

Moore then gave her report, recognizing the service that the outgoing Aceves has given to the District, highlighting, among other attributes, her work ethic and professionalism. Cobb adjourned the open portion of the meeting as the newly formed Board retreated to a closed session.

With the holidays looming, the next regularly scheduled meeting of the El Segundo School Board is set for Tuesday evening, Jan. 22. •

for El Segundo. When the Eagles would take a five-point lead, the Wolves would come up with a long range three-pointer to keep it close. After Jones gave the Eagles a 15-10 lead with an ESPN highlight impossible layup, the Wolves' Cabrera hit one from beyond the arc to make it 15-13. Da Vinci would claim the second quarter lead with better shooting and the teams went into halftime with the Wolves leading 19-15.

The Eagles' shooting woes continued in the third quarter and their deficit grew to nine points. The game was clearly in control by Da Vinci entering the fourth quarter and Nathanial Perry's layup extended the lead to 30-19. That uncontested layup woke the Eagles up and certainly got the crowd going too. Dylan Aubert's three-point play helped ignite the comeback as El Segundo now trailed by four points.

The El Segundo bench is deep and March has 10 players he can insert into the game at any time. Sure-shooting sophomore Leo Cagan came off the bench during crunch time and sank a three-pointer to give the Eagles a 37-35 lead and their first cushion since the second quarter. Da Vinci tied it with 1:40 remaining in the game. Harrison Hebert's only points of the night were the biggest when he drained a three-pointer with 1:15 left for a 40-37 El Segundo lead. In the closing moments, Da Vinci had an opportunity to tie the game when the Eagles sent them to the free throw line. Jaylen Bernard sank one of two and Perry missed both of his attempts with 13 seconds remaining as the Eagles held on in the final frantic moments.

The Eagles started Ocean League play last night at Hawthorne and travel to face Beverly Hills on Friday night.

Lady Eagles Take Fourth in Tournament

Riding a four-game winning streak El Segundo went on the road to play in the Valley Christian High School Tournament in Cerritos. After starting with two wins, the Eagles fell in the semifinals and then in the third place game to finish fourth.

El Segundo opened pool play in its first game against West Valley High School (Cottonwood, CA). Both teams struggled offensively from the field with the score tied 17-17 at the half. The Eagles ramped up their defensive intensity in the second half. Four key steals in the third period led to back-to-back three-pointers by senior Malia Hui and junior Reese Jones to open a 23-17 lead. Sophomore Storey Noble added two free throws in the third quarter to take an eight-point lead that the Eagles never relinquished in winning 35-27. El Segundo was led by Jones (17 points, 9 rebounds) and Noble (11 points, 7 rebounds).

In the second game, the Eagles rallied from a 10-4 deficit after the first quarter to record its sixth straight win. El Segundo took a 17-14 lead at the end of the first half and erupted for 16 points in the third quarter to lead by 15 points and cruise to a 42-31 victory. Sophomore Jordan Peterson helped lead her team with her passing that resulted in a trio of three-pointers. She finished with six assists. The Eagles were led by Storey Noble with 12 points and Reese Jones, who scored 10 points.

El Segundo advanced to the semifinals, but fell to North Torrance in a lopsided loss. The loss might have been expected since the Saxons are ranked sixth in the CIF-SS Division 2AA. Hannah Chang and Reese Jones led the Eagles in the scoring column.

Harrison Hebert causes a turnover late in the game the Eagles won 41-38.

In the third place game against Foothill. the Eagles played the Division 1 Knights close for the first three quarters. El Segundo's shooting went cold in the fourth quarter and Foothill outscored the Eagles 17-5 to win 45-38. Jordan Peterson led her team with a season and career high of 16 points. The Eagles opened Ocean League play on the road at Hawthorne last night and play Beverly Hills on Friday night at 6 p.m.

Boys Soccer Team 4-0

The Eagles haven't lost a step since winning their CIF title earlier in the year. They've started out 4-0 with wins over some of the South Bay's top teams including Torrance, Redondo, West Torrance and North Torrance.

Casey Lund and Malcolm Holtzmann-Cisse each scored first half goals against Torrance in the 2-1 win over the Tartars. The Eagles shut out Bay League power Redondo 4-0. Devontae Bowers led the Eagles with two goals, while Caden Schepp and Holtzmann-Cisse each scored one goal. Jack Finders' second half goal off an assist from Nate Salazar was the only point scored in the Eagles' 1-0 win over Pioneer League power West Torrance. Holtzmann-Cisse continued his scoring ways with two goals, including the game-winner in El Segundo's 3-2 win over North Torrance. Ciaran Feeney added a second half goal that tied the game.

The Eagles started Ocean League play yesterday and are at Beverly Hills on Friday. Next week, they travel to meet Mira Costa on Tuesday to take on the eighth-ranked CIF-SS Division 1 Mustangs at 3 p.m. •

El Segundo Holiday Tree Lighting

The rain stopped just in time to keep the crowds outside for the Annual Holiday Tree Lighting event at the El Segundo City Hall Plaza last Thursday. Attendees popped indoors to meet Santa and pick up some toys. Here are some photo highlights.

On went the lights!

The toy giveaway featured some super cool Hot Wheels.

Holiday Parade is a Main Attraction

The 55th Annual El Segundo Holiday Parade took place this past Sunday, with another memorable procession down Main Street. The always popular El Segundo Chamber event had the theme "Seaside Yuletide" and featured an assortment of marching bands, performers, floats, antique cars and, of course, Santa. Here are some photo highlights courtesy of El Segundo TV •
