Council Hears Proposed Budget as Cash Surplus Exceeds $18 Million

By Derrick Deane

The Hawthorne City Council received good financial news during Tuesday night's meeting. While the City of Hawthorne's proposed budget sees a slight increase in expenditures to $72,622,820, it is offset by recently voter-approved Measure HH income that helps boost expected revenue to $73,495,917. The difference creates close to a $1 million surplus.

The news gets even better for the City's cash surplus that will now exceed $18 million -- a total that City Interim Manager Arnie Shadbehr says he hasn't seen since he began working in Hawthorne in 2005. "All these years since I have been here in 2005, the highest I saw was $12 million," he said. "In 2005, we were at $7.5 million and we faced more than a $6 million deficit."

Shadbehr cited increased health care, retirement obligations and election year costs as major reasons for the increase in expenditures for the upcoming fiscal year. "There is a slight increase because of benefit costs because of health care, insurances and other things that are included in the payroll system," he said of the higher budget expenditures. Councilwoman Angie Reyes English added that health care costs and insurance was "something that was never going to go down -- it's always going to go up."

Despite the increase in expenditures, there is a lot moving in favor for Hawthorne. The recently passed transit occupancy tax, Measure HH sales tax funds, and increasing property values that in turn lead to increased property taxes all help to offset costs. "We conservatively estimated about $8 million [in revenue] from Measure HH," Shadbehr said of the additional income to the City. Shadbehr noted that the first small boost of Measure HH funds should be seen in July, with the larger portion coming in October this year.

English asked Shadbehr to look into other developments, including the hotel buildings across the street from City Hall and the recent announcement of Amazon-owned Ring opening a warehouse on Cerise Avenue later this year. "There are a lot of new endeavors that folks are not aware of and those are projected revenues," she said.

English added that she will continue to fight to open up the Hawthorne Memorial Center for conventional use and create another stream of income for the City. "I think ultimately what we need to look at moving forward -- not any time soon, but to potentially look at improving the Hawthorne Memorial Center so that we could be able to make that a more conventional use instead of having to rely on the hotels and others for space," she said.

Shadbehr presented the budget to the Council after now former Finance Director Rickey Manbahal was fired from his position due to an undisclosed $25,000 loan of public funds. "I think it's important that employee morale is considered when filling roles in that department," English said of finding someone to take over as director of finance. She also commended the Public Works Department for being proactive in applying for grants from county, state and federal agencies to improve infrastructure in the city. "At the end of the day, folks that see notices that are posted showing street improvement and projects of sorts need to know that we're working hard for them," she said. "We need to be able to keep our infrastructure going long-term and ensure that every dollar that we are receiving through grants [is put to work]."

English also questioned why the fire department has continued to increase the amount requested for fire services. "I still have a hard time wrapping myself around why it continues to increase," English said before asking Shadbehr to look into it at some point and determine the length of the contract and how much it has increased year over year as well as an audit.

The 2018-2019 budget sees fire services receiving just over $11 million in funding -- an annual increase of nearly $1 million from the current 2017-2018 budget. "I think ultimately we're headed in the right direction and you had to be commended for that," English said to Shadbehr for stepping into the role.

Shadbehr in turn thanked the Council for establishing the Public Funds Oversight Committee that oversees and reviews expenses and revenue sources in the city. "It's a watchdog committee that is quietly doing its job without anybody knowing," he said. "They don't make a lot of noise, but they are looking for what they are supposed to look for and I commend them for that. We want to empower them."

Shadbehr added that the Oversight Committee went through the entire proposed budget before it was presented to the Council. "They went through this whole budget before we brought it and presented it to the City Council," he said. "They are fully aware of the importance when we share bank statements, when we share cash reports with the City Council because these are all very easily looked at, investigated, audited. Bank statements don't lie." •

Two Amazing and Different Reads

Reviewed by Kristina Kora-Beckman, Librarian I, El Segundo Public Library

For this week’s review, I couldn’t pick between two slim but lovely volumes I’ve read recently. They are so different, but fantastic in their own unique ways.

Dear Fahrenheit 451: A Librarian’s Love Letters and Break-Up Notes to the Books in Her Life by librarian Annie Spence is an epistolary gem full of irreverent wit and snarky humor. In it, Spence features letters to books she loves and hates, essays about readers and libraries (including a lovely piece on the “magnificent Library featured in Beauty and the Beast Movie”) and of course, tons of book suggestions. Spence’s commentary spans diverse genres from romance to sci-fi, horror, and even cookbooks. I loved her humor and insights about books, reading and librarian tasks.

Backman’s novella, And Every Morning the Way Home Gets Longer and Longer, is a cerebral homage to family relationships that endure despite misunderstandings, illness and even death. Part of the book takes place in a town square that represents what a grandfather grappling with Alzheimer’s remembers of his life. As he loses parts of himself, struggling each day to recall the people, places and events that shaped his experiences, glimpses are interspersed of the grandfather’s life and relationships with his son, grandson and wife. I appreciated the graceful way Backman captured the time loss and confusion that many people with Alzheimer’s experience and his beautiful handling of sensitive topics such as death and mental illness. Best read with tissues nearby, I found this slender tome elegant, gently comical and profoundly moving.

And Every Morning the Way Home Gets Longer and Longer by Fredrik Backman.

Unseen Footage Revealed in Grey Gardens Prequel, That Summer

By Morgan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

If you’re familiar with the documentary Grey Gardens, you’re probably aware that it is arguably one of the most iconic American documentaries in cinema’s history. Grey Gardens tells the story of an eccentric mother and daughter -- Big and Little Edie Beale -- who chose to extricate themselves from high society in order to live together with the Beales (close to four rolls of film) went on to become That Summer.

That Summer is a small, quiet documentary that should excite fans of the Beales. Between Big Edie singing opera in her oversized armchair to Little Edie claiming that her cat with an eye disorder is the spitting image of Teddy Kennedy, the film is a fascinating collection of hilariously observed moments. With a runtime of 80 minutes, That Sum- in a codependent, yet loving, relationship. This unusual decision and existence became the subject of Grey Gardens. The film’s cult following in its devoted fan base would soon spark TV movies, numerous parodies and perfect Halloween costumes. This Friday, fans of Grey Gardens can go behind the scenes of the East Hampton estate where the Beales lived in never-before-seen footage that includes appearances by Andy Warhol, Truman Capote and Mick Jagger in the film That Summer.

The film opens slowly. Using entirely archival footage, we spend the first five minutes with photographer Peter Beard as he recounts stories while flipping through the pages of his photo book -- the most interesting being anecdotes of hanging out with Warhol and Jagger during the Studio 54 era. Through all of the glitz and glamour that Beard has photographed over the years, we find that with all of their peculiarities, there was no subject quite like the Beales. Beard, along with his friend Lee Radziwill (a cousin of Edith and Edie Beale), decide to chronicle the moments of this odd lifestyle at the crumbling Grey Gardens estate during one summer in 1972. The initial purpose of the film was to show how the East Hampton economy had changed over the years, and the run-down decrepit mansion was the perfect location and depiction.

However, after spending the summer with Radziwill and the Beales, the project was ultimately shelved. A few years later, directing duo Albert and David Maysles went back to visit Edith and Edie and the outcome of that visit resulted in the iconic and infamous documentary Grey Gardens. Forty-five years later, the original footage of Beard’s summer

mer may confuse or be slightly off-putting to those who aren’t already used to the nonsensical style of Grey Gardens or are expecting a documentary with a clear story of plot points, arc or direction. However, fans will be thrilled with the access to this never-before-seen footage that amplifies the eccentricity of the Beale women (who were also cousins of Jackie O.).

One may question if we really needed another documentary about the wildly wonderful Beales? Director Göran Olsson (The Black Power Mixtape 1967-1975) proves that there is never too much of a good thing, as he creates the perfect prequel to Grey Gardens with Last Summer. Although both Beale women have since passed, their memory will continue to live on in this iconic footage.

That Summer is not rated. 80 minutes. Opening this Friday in select theaters, now streaming on Amazon Prime Video. •

HAWTHORNE HAPPENINGS
COMMUNITY K9 DINNER

The Hawthorne Presidents Council will be hosting a community BBQ dinner this Thursday, May 24 beginning at 5 p.m. at the Hawthorne Memorial Center. There will be a raffle and all funds raised the evening will go to the HPD’s K9 unit. The dinner ticket price is only $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

MEMORIAL DAY

This Monday, we pay tribute to all of the men and women who have given the ultimate in service to our great nation, Memorial Day. This is not just a day to BBQ and have a cold one, this is a day to give thanks to God for the soldiers who have provided our country with freedom and peace. The Hawthorne American Legion Post and the VFW Post will jointly host our Memorial Day ceremony beginning at 10 a.m. out in front of the Betty Ainsworth Center by the Memorial Center.

COUGARTOWN ON FACEBOOK

All of you alums of Hawthorne High now can post and communicate with one another once again. Robert Jensen, a member of the class of ’71, has taken the time to start a new Facebook page entitled Cougartown. Check it out. The very popular posting site entitled cougartown.com had been closed down since the unexpected death of John Baker the originator and facilitator of the site. It’s great to stay in touch with your classmates and friends from HHS. Go Cougs!

I’M NOT DEAD YET

The Hawthorne Historical Society honored two great men, a long-standing Hawthorne, family-owned business and a legionary service club last Saturday at their annual Hall of Fame banquet held at the Ayers Hotel. Then they tried to remain the Good Neighbors Award after me by changing it to “Norb Huber-Good Neighbors” Award. I appreciate the gesture but I had to remind them of an ordinance passed by the city council saying that anything in the City named after a person requires that person to be dead. My ol’ lady might think I’m half dead but I don’t think I’m fully dead yet. As City Clerk, I would indicate that this name change is not allowed.

HAWTHORNE MALL

Enough is enough. When I moved to Hawthorne in 1977 the Plaza Mall was brand new. It was only open for about 20 years and now it’s been closed for 20 years. Last week we found out the owner was using anything possible to get someone to be a tenant. It’s time for the City and the powers that be to take direct steps to force the hand of the owner. Either he sells it or he must forfeit the property to Hawthorne. We have lost millions of dollars in lost revenue over the two decades that it has been shuttered. Hawthorne’s city center has been an eyesore far too long. The good neighbors of Hawthorne deserve something better. My idea of a terminal entry to the tunnel network being built by Elon’s Boring Company makes a lot of sense. People could drive to the terminal, park their cars there and hop on to the fast, clean skates that will whisk them under our freeways. Could someone ask Elon to help us out?

LIFE AND DEATH

We just got word yesterday that a longtime church friend and fellow member of the Hawthorne Historical Society, Jim Weishaar, was found dead in his retreat home in the high desert area. He had been having some health issues recently but was still very active and had just returned from a two week driving trip across the country visiting friends and family with his son. His death is a shocker to all of us. But knowing our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ makes our shock and grief manageable. Yes, death separates us from our loved ones, but we take comfort knowing Jim is reunited with his wife and home with his Savior.

HOW DO I SAY THANK YOU?

I would love to invite my 19 loyal readers to a thank you party so that I can thank you personally for sticking with me and reading my column. It would be a really honor and joy to have a cold one and some pizza together with some of you before I depart for greener pastures. Of course, ice tea or soda will be available for you non-alcoholic cold one drinkers. This gathering of sorts will be held on Saturday, June 9th beginning at 5 p.m. at the Pizza Show on Hawthorne Blvd. Please RSVP by emailing me back. Space is limited so the first 19 to respond get in. The deadline to RSVP is Thursday June 7th. There is a $10 charge for your food and drink which you can pay that evening. Please use my special code when reserving your spot to prove that you are one of my readers. The code is: “Have A Cold One!” Best of all, you will be able to meet the best thing Hawthorne has ever given to me,

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for

Purrrfect Companions

Rusty.

Every second of every minute of every day, a helpless animal is put to death just because no one was there to take them home. Saving one animal may not change the world, but it will change the world for that animal. Give one of these kitties a second chance for a lifetime of love in a new forever home with you.

Sandwich is a very playful boy. He's a firecracker of energy who will love any toy you bring him -- especially ones that make him jump and run. Sandwich does everything to the extreme...plays hard and crashes hard. He'll snuggle up with you on the couch and purr loudly when he's ready to nap. While he's very gentle with humans, he has a lot of pent-up energy that will be best spent with another young, active cat. With that, Sandwich will be a fun addition to your family.

Bergamot was rescued with her brother Yuzu (also available for adoption) from a backyard litter. She is an enchantingly tough little girl with pointy ear tufts and a faint black tabby pattern you can see in the sunlight. A bit timid at first, Bergamot loves to be held and touch noses with people. She purrs as soon as you pick her up. While she loves playtime, she doesn't initiate interaction with other kittens and could be a good candidate for an older buddy who is open to kitten energy. However,

Bergamot.

Bergamot is fine with her brother's engaging, playful manner and gives him a workout at playtime.

Cutsie is very confident and trusting. She is a laid-back cat who loves to hang out and look out the window. Cutsie loves people. She loves to cuddle and will follow you around the house to be very close to you. Cutsie is a wonderful companion and family member who will communicate her likes or dislikes. If you would like a touch of cuteness and cat-titude to your home, Cutsie will be your girl. She would prefer to be the only pet in the house, but doesn't mind a nice other cat companion (but no dogs or small toddlers).

Opie and Rusty are bonded twin brothers looking for a forever home. They are quite the little pair -- they play together, eat together, nap together and wrestle together. And they look so darn cute doing everything together. They absolutely love to chase the cat wand and are quite the little acrobats jumping, twirling and flipping in the air while trying to catch the toy dangling at the end of the wand. When it comes to nap time, they look like a big orange puddle. Sometimes it is hard to tell where one brother ends and the other begins.

Opie is a friendly, cuddle bug who will seek out love, affection and a warm, comfortable lap. Rusty is a little more reserved when he meets new people, but food and the cat wand are the way to earn his trust and affection. Both of the twins sound like purring engines when you pet them. Come and meet Rusty and Opie to see what an awesome pair of kitties they are (their foster mom is happy to arrange a playdate).

Zavier was found with his brothers and sisters in the Let's Make a Deal studio parking lot. He is a bit shy and is still learning to trust people. Once he is comfortable, Zavier really enjoys attention and pets from you. In a home with another cat and a patient adopter, he will blossom into the loving kitty he is destined to be.

Opie.

Zavier.

These kitties are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org.

Your tax-deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Blvd. #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Blvd. just south of Manchester Ave.; and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Ave., just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location.

Saving one animal won't change the world, but the world will surely change for that animal. •

Health Care Costs In Retirement: Can You Separate Fact From Fiction?

(BPT) - As their 65th birthday looms, many people eagerly anticipate the affordable access to health care that Medicare will provide. After all, Medicare covers everything, right? Not exactly. Because of this common misconception, many people are caught off guard when they realize that each one of the dozens of Medicare options available to them comes with its own set of out-of-pocket cost implications. In fact, a survey of the newly retired found 43 percent are spending more on health care than they had planned.

Myth: When comparing Medicare plans, it’s best to choose the lowest-premium option to help minimize your costs.

Fact: While premiums are an important factor when choosing a health care plan, they should not be the only factor - or necessarily the most important either. Sometimes a low monthly premium option comes with higher out-of-pocket costs or lacks benefits and services that are important to you.

It’s best to understand the total costs of a plan - including the deductibles, copays and coinsurance - as well as any benefit limitations that could increase your costs. For example, if the hospital you use isn’t in a plan’s network, you’ll likely incur higher costs if you choose to access care there.

Myth: If I enroll in a Medicare Advantage plan, I will pay only one premium. And if my plan has a $0 premium, I won’t have to pay any premium at all.

Fact: The simplicity of Medicare Advantage is one of the reasons enrollment in these plans has grown so dramatically. Many people appreciate the convenience of wrapping all of their Medicare coverage into one plan and having just one card in their wallet. That said, choosing Medicare Advantage doesn’t mean you’re totally off the hook in terms of paying monthly premiums. You are still responsible for paying your Part B premium. In 2018, the standard Part B premium is $134, but it may be higher or lower depending on your income.

Myth: There isn’t much you can do to contain or manage health care costs. It’s mostly up to chance or luck.

Fact: While no one can predict or completely control their future health care needs, you can take steps to protect yourself from high health care expenses. Choosing a Medicare plan that limits the amount you spend on health care costs during the year is one option to consider. Look for plans with an out-of-pocket maximum, which is the most you will pay for covered services in a year. Once you reach that amount, your plan will cover 100 percent of the cost of the Medicare-covered services you receive, and you’ll pay only your premiums. Medicare Advantage plans and two Medicare supplement plans include out-of-pocket maximums.

“Regardless of the plan you choose, everyone can stand to benefit by being proactive about taking care of their health,” said Efreem Castillo, chief medical officer of United-Healthcare Medicare & Retirement. “Eating a nutritious diet, exercising regularly, seeing your primary care doctor annually, getting your recommended cancer screenings and taking your medications exactly as prescribed are all steps you can take to help protect your health and possibly your wallet from the expense of managing major health issues later on.”
