Plane Crash Rattles Residents as Claims of Flight Path Violations Come to Light

By Derrick Deane

Last week’s airplane crash dominated the public conversation in Tuesday’s City Council meeting as shaken residents addressed the council members with their concerns about aircraft flying over their residences.

The plane crash occurred shortly after 5 p.m. on Friday in the 4600 block of West Broadway and killed the two people on board. The aircraft crashed into two units of a townhouse complex near Hawthorne Airport.

“It happened in front of my house and to some friends of mine,” resident Mario Chiappe said. “Certain things jump out at you when you start to hear the specifics of the accident.”

Among those specifics that Chiappe pointed out included that the pilot was 90 years old and the flight instructor was 71 years old. Despite their age, the cause of the accident appears to be more of an issue with the airplane.

Pilot and resident Patrick Carey says that the air traffic control tower released the doomed aircraft without radio communication and instead relied on “light signals.”

“It was not because he couldn’t turn and avoid the building. He couldn’t climb,” Carey said. “The airplane wasn’t running right. It also didn’t have radio contact. The tower had released it without the ability to talk. That shouldn’t have happened but they did it anyway.”

The accident brought forth concerns from residents in the Ramona area of the city who say that planes have been regularly disregarding the flight pattern that has been mandated for aircraft leaving Hawthorne Airport.

“Literally every half an hour, a plane turns on Inglewood and El Segundo, not on Hawthorne Boulevard,” Alex Monteiro, home owners association president for the affected town homes, said. “Especially those jets that Elon Musk flies at midnight, taking off right on top of us.”

Chiappe echoed Monteiro’s concerns about pilots not obeying flight path rules.

“I would say probably 80 percent of the people don’t do that,” Chiappe said of pilots not making the proper turn away from the city as they head west. “It wouldn’t be a problem if they were flying at an altitude that was safe for the community, but it’s not. It’s pretty close to the roof of the houses, especially when you have a two-story house like I do, and it’s highly unsafe.”

“We’ve been dealing with a few problems, one of them being our airport tower manager didn’t agree with our noise abatement procedures.”

Chiappe implored the City Council to become more proactive on the matter of enforcing the laws at Hawthorne Airport and added that, “I don’t want the airport to disappear, even though, as you may know, I lost my run for City Council because I was against the airport.”

Montiero says that the family that lived in the townhouse that was crashed into arrived home five minutes after the accident.

“The dad that lived there worked from 2 a.m. to 2 p.m. so he was just arriving home from work and said that he normally taken naps on the couch where the plane went through the living room and the kitchen,” Monteiro said.

Other residents who witnessed the accident said they were traumatized from the event.

“Since that accident happened on Friday, I’ve been traumatized. I can’t sleep at night,” resident Carol Horton said after she witnessed the entire accident unfold before her. “I’m really scared to live in this residence and we’re sticking together right now, neighbor to neighbor.”

Horton pointed out a couple of other recent plane accidents adding that she was, “scared to live in this area now. I’ve been having nightmares every night.”

Carey says that he had met the pilot before and described him as “a nice guy.”

“The gentleman who was flying the airplane, I’ve met him. I actually have a scar on the front of my truck that’s from when he taxied into my truck on the airport,” Carey said. “The flight instructor, no one knew who he was. He came from Compton Airport.

Carey said that he was on the phone with Police Chief Robert Fager and City Manager Arnie Shadbehr late into the night discussing the accident.

“We’ve been dealing with a few problems, one of them being our airport tower manager didn’t agree with our noise abatement procedures,” Carey said. “It was only two months ago that he finally came to me and said, ‘Gee wiz Pat, the noise abatement procedures are in the airport facility directory! It’s the law!’”

Carey says that when he catches a pilot who is breaking the noise rule, their response is usually that they did not know about the law. He says that when the law first went into the books, they printed out more than 2,000 copies to be passed on to flight instructors at all the local airports.

“The downside of that was that there is a tremendous hiring spree going on right now and the flight instructor turnover is tremendous,” Carey said. “Instructors that we talked to just five months ago are already airline pilots.”

The accident is currently under investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board who will ultimately determine the cause of the crash. Meanwhile, residents continue to look to the City Council for enforcement of flight rules.

“If we don’t enforce the rules that govern the flight regulations, we’re doomed to have many more accidents and tragedies,” Chiappe said. •

From City Clerk Norb Huber HOLLY PARK PANCAKE BREAKFAST

This Saturday, June 18th the Holly Park Homeowners Association will be sponsoring a pancake breakfast to help raise funds for their scholarship fund. It will be held at Olivet Lutheran Church located just East of Crenshaw on Imperial Highway. Times for the event is from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Fathers This Sunday is Fathers Day. My father had a great influence on me. Both my father and grandfather were Lutheran pastors. When my father was up in the pulpit preaching, he was communicating God’s Word to me. As a youngster, he seemed like GOD to me. I never thought I could fill his shoes and follow in his footsteps. I became a teacher in Lutheran schools instead. It was with that same missionary mindset of wanting to help others that led me into the teaching/coaching profession and has motivated me for the past 39 years to continue to fight the good fight in our public schools. Almost every day, we are reminded of the sin that is in our world. We are surrounded by violence and death. I don’t know about you, but I have yet to find anything in this world that I can put my trust in besides Jesus Christ. My prayer is that my children would also come to that knowledge of this saving grace. My heavenly father forgives and loves me, I in turn forgive and love my children, my wife, my friends, neighbors and even my enemies in like fashion. May God bless all fathers this week end.

FIREWORKS

You talk about controversy, just mention the word “fireworks” in or around the City of Hawthorne and you are certain to get an ear full from neighbors fired up over the illegal discharge of high flying rockets or super loud M80s that boom across our properties so resounding that they scare the termites chewing away in our attics. The frustrating part of this mess is that there is very little the good neighbors of our community can do to stop this constant infringement upon our peace and quiet. Yes, it is illegal. Yes, the violators can be cited. No, it’s not easy to catch the violators “in the act”. The firing off of any type of fireworks is prohibited except for the safe and sane type that are sold by our nonprofits during the week prior to the 4th of July. Even those legal ones can only be shot off from 12 noon til 10 p.m. on the 4th. As usual, it is a small number of neighbors who make life miserable for the rest of us. Many dogs must be kept inside and our veterans suffering from their war experiences sometimes have to leave the area or take a vacation to escape the chaos. Our Hawthorne Police force has the inevitable job of trying their best to deal with a no win situation. Like any law, if a citizen can get away with breaking that law without being caught, the temptation is there to break it. To some, that’s what gives them a thrill. If you know of a location that is violating the law, please call the HPD desk or 911 and give them the address. They cannot respond to every report, but they will have the address for future reference. Living in the big city comes with a price. With 90,000 people living within 5+ square miles of each other, there are bound to be some “knuckle heads” or worse.

TALENT SEARCH

Good Neighbors Day will be held on Saturday, July 16th this year and the Historical Society is looking for “Hawthorne talent”. Here is your chance to show the world what you have. This could be your big start. If you ever have wanted to perform in front of an audience, please step right up onto our big stage and we will make you famous. The Boys, Marilyn, Russell Westbrook, and Gyasi all got their starts here in the City of Good Neighbors. It doesn’t matter what your talent is, we will find a place and time for you to perform. Sing, dance, skate, skip, roller blade, draw, recite a poem, crack a joke, or anything in between, we really want you to participate. Please contact us using my email below. The big event is only five weeks away, so start practicing. If you know of friends or relatives who want to perform, let them know. Garage bands are welcome. We look forward to a fun day this mid-summer. (Vendors and exhibitors are also invited to set up a table that day. If interested, do the same, contact me using my email.)

HAWTHORNE “MOMENTS”

It’s amazing to me that Hawthorne is connected to the world in so many different ways. Just in the past two weeks, I can count four Hawthorne “moments” that are noteworthy. June 1st was Marilyn Monroe’s 90th birthday, some say her only real home was for a short few years living on present day 134th Street. On June 3rd, Mohammad Ali died. His daughter, Laila Ali is married to Curtus Conway, the star football quarterback from Hawthorne High School. On June 7th, Gyasi Zardes, who grew up in Hawthorne, was a starting forward for the victorious US national team in the COPA Cup match versus Costa Rica. My final Hawthorne connection came on a visit to the California Science Center in LA’s Exhibition Park with my granddaughter. We were standing in front of a jet and read that the Northrop T-38 Talon Jet Trainer was built in 1959 at the Northrop Field in Hawthorne. I told her that she might have been made in Hawthorne also. Being the curious, five year old that was asking all kinds of questions, I was waiting for her to ask, “How was I made papa?” I would have responded with, “God made you”. Her parents can go into more details at the appropriate time. • If you have a special, “Hawthorne Connection” that you would like to share with me, shoot me an email at norbhuber@gmail.com.

Centinela Valley Historical Society BBQ

The Rancho Adobe, considered the first house of the South Bay, was built in 1834 by Ignacio Machado.

A walk through the Centinela Adobe Complex represents a walk back in time, a throwback, but one brimming with vestiges of a past still within reach of today’s modernity.

The crank phone on the wall, the vintage adding machines and typewriters give a glimpse of operations just a generational stone’s throw shy of the digital divide.

This weekend, over 300 neighbors and friends attended the 41st Annual BBQ and fundraiser. Participants enjoyed a vintage car show, consumed a communal meal and toured the three buildings.

The two-acre compound houses three separate structures. The Rancho Adobe, considered the first house of the South Bay, was built in 1834 by Ignacio Machado. The Walter Haskell Research Center features a war room, with photographs and memorabilia from the Civil War through the Gulf War era.

The land offices of Daniel Freeman, a cottage home with the first floor office preserved much the same as the original space, was relocated here in 1975 from the original site at Florence and Inglewood avenues. At that crossing where a railroad station, livery stable and boarding house stood in 1888, Freeman, a distinguished lawyer from Canada, sold the lots that would create the new town of Inglewood. Today, a walk-through gives one a sense of the bustling business handled here.

The museum complex, operated by the Historical Society of the Centinela Valley, is a repository of artifacts, furnishings and memorabilia from the mid- and late 1800s.

It’s a place to visit often, taking in the essence of the pioneering families of this local community. You’ll leave wanting more.

The Centinela Adobe Complex is open Sundays from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. A Fiesta Day event is planned for September. •

People Are Discovering A New Way To Boost Their Portfolio

(BPT) - As a volatile market sends ripples through the global economy, many investors are worried about how events overseas will impact their portfolio. In addition, concerns about political instability in much of the world have contributed to a heightened sense of worry and stress among investors. However, while the risks in traditional markets are real, 2016 is full of opportunities for the investor who is to build a diverse portfolio and reduce risk. Risk-adjusted returns. Marketplace lending platforms provide a product that offers competitive return rates relative to other investment products. Investors can choose to peruse the marketplace lending website manually to find the loans that match their risk tolerance. They can also use a tool available on some of the marketplace lending sites that will willing to think a little differently.

In the face of these uncertainties, the standard advice is for investors to diversify their portfolio. Many have been doing this by taking money out of their dividend-paying stocks and corporate bonds and investing in marketplace lending.

Marketplace Lending

Marketplace lending platforms, sometimes called peer-to-peer (P2P) lenders, are online marketplaces that connect credit-worthy borrowers with individuals seeking investment opportunities. This gives individual investors low-cost access to high-yield consumer loans - an attractive new asset class that was previously only accessible to large institutions.

As an alternative investment strategy, investing in marketplace loans has helped investors diversify their portfolio.

Early investors discovered five secrets that are still the keys to understanding why more people are choosing to diversify their portfolios through marketplace lending. They are:

Proven returns. Individuals who invest through Prosper, a leading marketplace lending platform, can earn an estimated 6.8 percent in returns.

Simple and fast. Investors go through an authorization process on a marketplace lending website to link their profile with their bank, or do a money transfer, in order to establish bank or institutional credentials. The process can be completed within a short period of time, allowing people to start investing in a matter of days.

Reduced risk. With marketplace lending, investors can diversify by investing in many different loans (in $25 increments). Many choose to invest in a number of different loans in order run a search to help the user easily invest in the specific type of loans they are looking for.

Positive social impact. P2P lending is not only a way to strengthen your financial plans, it offers real benefits to individuals and the community. Prosper Marketplace recently conducted a study and found that over 60 percent of Americans have credit card debt and two-thirds are going deeper into debt by not paying them off in full. With so many Americans struggling with debt, it’s no surprise that marketplace loans are becoming a popular option for debt consolidation. Individuals can invest in this debt knowing that marketplace lending platforms leverage technology to assess risk and determine a credit rating.

The following disclaimer can be used to clarify the 6.8 percent return mentioned under the “Proven results” section:

Estimated returns are calculated by taking the weighted average borrower interest rate for all loans originated during the period, adding (ii) estimated collected late fees and post charge-off principal recovery for such loans, and subtracting (iii) the servicing fee, estimated uncollected interest on charge-offs and estimated principal loss on charge-offs from such loans. The actual return on any Note depends on the prepayment and delinquency pattern of the loan underlying each Note, which is highly uncertain. Individual results may vary and projections can change. Past performance is no guarantee of future results and the information presented is not intended to be investment advice or a guarantee about the performance of any Note. •

Hello, my name is Flo and you've already met my mom, Precious. Our previous owner dumped my brother, my mother and me at a L.A. County shelter because he had too many dogs. I was told that I had someone who wanted to adopt me but they never followed through. I can't say that I blame them. I was such a dirty hot mess with matted hair and a large abscess on the side of my face. As it turned out the abscess was caused by an embedded foxtail but a trip to the vet and antibiotics made quick work of that. I'm a very petite gal, weighing in at five pounds, but I'm also only three months old. My approximate date of birth is March 1, 2016, so I'm still a pup but even when I'm full-grown the "guestimate" is that I would only weigh 15-20 pounds. Schnoodles (Schnauzer/Poodle mix) aren't very big but they are very cute, sweet, loving and make perfect companions. If you are interested in Flo, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

I assume that you've "met" my Mom, Precious, my sister, Flo and I, being the

Hi there! My name is Toby and I'm a 2-year-old male Schnauzer mix. I'm still not certain what happened but one minute I was out exploring the neighborhood and the next I'm at a L.A. County shelter being called a stray. I was micro-chipped so I figured my folks would be notified and I'd be home in a heartbeat. Can you imagine how devastated I was when they decided not to reclaim me and actually relinquished me to the shelter? I have no idea why after spending my puppyhood with them they decided to kick me to the curb. I'm only 8.5 pounds so it couldn't have been because I was too big. I have a really

It looks like Teresa has hit the forever-home lottery! Her new family is not only long time Schnauzer lovers, this being their sixth one, but they also have a beautiful black and silver mini sister and a senior cat. Not only that but sweet face with huge, dark, soulful eyes so it couldn't have been because I'm no longer cute. I guess they decided that they really didn't want someone who gets along with everyone, has a happy-go-lucky personality and a real love. I'm sure I'll find a much better home, could it be with you? If you are interested in Toby, please email info@msfr.org for more information. •
