Our Nearby Mountains Bid Happy Trails to You

By Rob McCarthy

The largest urban national park in the country is right here in the South Bay, hidden in plain view for many who zoom past on the drive to Malibu or through the Sepulveda Pass. The Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area offers tranquility, sweeping vistas and ranger-led nature walks to those willing to unplug from their mobile devices and revisit a simpler time.

SAMO National Recreation Area is staffed by the U.S. Parks Service, state, local and private interests. Nearly 800,000 people visited last year, generating $34 million for the local economy and businesses, according to the National Park Service. The hiking and biking trails, visitor center and the western town at the Paramount Ranch are popular with visitors and appreciated by local businesses, according to Superintendent David Szymanski.

“The scenic vistas of the Santa Monica Mountains inspire thousands of people to visit each week,” he said. “We are delighted that so many visitors enjoy our park and also that their visits have such a positive impact on the local economy.”

SAMO is one of 400 national parks, even though it’s designated a recreation area. It begins at the Getty Center, running through Malibu and up to Point Mugu in Oxnard. The most popular hikes are accessible from Pacific Coast Highway, and Temescal Canyon Park is one of them - 25 minutes from El Segundo. Admission is free in the federal park areas, and some areas charge between $5 and $12 for parking. Check the web site at <https://www.nps.gov/samo/planyourvisit/feesandreservations.htm> for prices if you go.

Hikers, bikers and equestrian riders share 500 miles of trails, and there is so much to see and do here. Cell phone service is spotty in the mountains, and hikers should bring water and food. Many trails run a mile or two, and are easy to walk. The longest one - Backbone Trail - runs 67 miles and park officials held a grand opening on June 4. The trail from Los Angeles to Ventura County took 40 years to finish, with donations of private land and volunteers playing a major role.

The most popular areas of the recreation area are the visitors center, the Paramount Ranch and Malibu Creek State Park, all of which have drinking fountains and public restrooms.

The visitors center is free to visit and explains the history, the wildlife and plant diversity of the recreation area. The air-conditioned center opened in 2012 and offers a short 12-minute movie about SAMO, natural history exhibits, free maps and a gift shop. It is located at the King Gillette Ranch, 26876 Mulholland Highway in Calabasas, and is easily reached from Malibu. Take Las Virgenes Road from PCH at Pepperdine University, and head east through the winding canyon.

The visitor center is a good place to get introduced to the SAMO recreation area, and the staff are helpful and will answer questions and point newcomers in the right direction. Directly across the road is Malibu Creek State Park, where the television show “M*A*S*H” was filmed. The hike to the “M*A*S*H” site is moderate difficulty and runs uphill for the last couple of miles. A local preservation group has made the trek worth the effort, though, by restoring the filming location and installing the 4077 camp’s milepost featured in the long-running series. You won’t see the surgical tents, but there are markers showing where they were. If you look off to the west, you’ll see a familiar mountain where the medevac choppers fly past in the show’s opening credits.

For viewers who enjoyed the television show about a medical army surgical unit in Korea during that conflict, this destination is hallowed ground for the generation that came of age in the 1970s and early ‘80s. Malibu Creek State Park is owned by the state parks service.

The Paramount Ranch and western town in Agoura Hills is family friendly, and minutes from Mulholland Highway or Kanan Road, depending on whether you come from L.A. or Ventura counties. The National Park Service bought a portion of the original Paramount Ranch, where westerns were filmed for 25 years, starting back in the late 1920s.

“A veritable who’s who of Hollywood practiced their craft at Paramount Ranch including director Cecil B. Demille and actors Bob Hope, Gary Cooper and Claudette Colbert. The diverse landscape was the real star of the show. It offered film makers the freedom to create distant locales,” the National Park Service says. From 1992 to 1997, Paramount Ranch was used as the setting for the television show, “Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman,” and has been a shooting location for “Bones,” “CSI: Las Vegas” and “The Bachelor.”

Other popular hiking spots closer to the South Bay are Will Rogers State Park, Topanga State Park and the Malibu Lagoon State Beach. The parks are open year-round, from sunrise to sunset.

Rangers are happy to help visitors to plan a day trip, and regularly offer special events and programs. The July schedule includes a Plant Promenade from on July 10 about how native plants survive drought conditions, and a ranger-led walk on July 17 about coyotes in the park, and stargazing July 30 with telescopes in a program called Summer Star Festival.

Summers are hot and dry, and winters are cool and damp. Dogs are allowed in the park areas, but they must be leashed. Call the visitor center at 805-370-2301 for directions and information. •

Michael John “Mike” Hanna

Michael John “Mike” Hanna passed away suddenly from a heart attack on June 27, 2016, at the age of 54. Mike was born and raised in Hawthorne and was a lifelong resident of the city that he loved and whose people loved him.

Mike attended Anza, Sepulveda and Dana

Schools in the Wiseburn School District, and graduated from Hawthorne High School. He worked for the City of Hawthorne as a vehicle mechanic for over 20 years, and as an independent Master Mechanic for another 20 years.

Mike had many passions in life, including cool cars, riding dirt bikes and his beloved dogs. But his greatest passion was for people, where he would often repair their cars for little pay. When asked why, he said, “they just needed my help.” Mike is survived by brothers Steve (Thea), Rick (Jeri) and sister Katie (Kurt), Shirley (Rick), four nephews and three nieces, and countless friends. He is preceded in death by father Dave and mother Betty.

Please join us in a celebration of Mike’s life on Monday, July 11, at 2 p.m. in the chapel at Inglewood Cemetery Mortuary located at 3801 W. Manchester in Inglewood. A visitation/viewing will also be held on Sunday, July 10, from noon to 5 p.m. at the same place.

Mike we are heartbroken you are gone too soon, but we will see you again on the other side. John 3:16. •

Spielberg and Disney’s ‘The BFG’ is a Sleepy Family-Friendly Adventure

By H. Nelson Tracey for www.cinemacy.com

Legendary filmmaker Steven Spielberg teams up with Disney for the very first time in his five-decade career to adapt “The BFG,” ecuted, and yet here feels so obvious and on-the-nose that it’s impossible to generate any sense of magic.

To add insult to injury, Mark Rylance as the CGI-BFG, has all of the elements of a a classic Roald Dahl novel starring this year’s Best Supporting Actor and Oscar winner Mark Rylance (“Bridge of Spies”). It sounds almost too good to be true, especially when you add in the fact that there has never been a film adaptation of this beloved children’s book (other than an animated TV movie), and that all of Spielberg’s top-tier collaborators have joined him, including producer Kathleen Kennedy, composer John Williams, and cinematographer Janusz Kaminski. While this is a film that is almost hype-free, as an intellectual property that is not franchised, it should be a given that all of these combined forces should make a truly heartwarming film for all ages.

But frankly speaking, this is a film that doesn’t seem to work to its fullest potential. “The BFG” is a fantastical bedtime story full of wonder and imagination, and yet in this film adaptation, it is translated into something incredibly dull. The only thing worse than a poorly executed movie is a dull movie, and with such talent theoretically firing on all cylinders, it’s amazing that the result is so lackluster.

What it boils down to is the lack of two essential qualities that are crucial in a cinematic experience: spontaneity and tension. Take, for example, a sequence where the “Big Friendly Giant” (Rylance) takes the young-but-bright orphan, Sophie (Ruby Barnhill) to the Land of Giants where he catches dreams (in the form of colorful wisps) to later imprint on the sleeping children of London. This is a moment that has all the makings to be as spectacularly wondrous as “Avatar” or “Life of Pi,” and if you’ve seen still images of the sequence, you’d be persuaded into thinking as such. However, the whole enterprise lacks any sort of urgency or element of surprise. Even the camera movements, which are intended to serve as a guide into this magical world, feel so pre-ordained that my eyes somewhat glaze over. Spielberg utilizes his cinematic vision, which is often so marvelously ex-charming, delightful character that children will remember for years to come. And yet something in the film’s pacing tells me that the CGI translation removed any sense of looseness or impromptu behavior. For Rylance, every motion and step seems to follow a pattern and never strays into impulsive or erratic behavior, despite playing a character that is meant to be endearingly wacky. Compare this to a brilliant adaptation of a similarly loony Roald Dahl character: Willy Wonka, when, from his very first scene until his last, we never know what we’re going to get. Wonka’s unpredictability manages to feel so energized in both the mad-cap and sincere side of the character. The BFG character, on the other hand, never challenges our expectations. I can only imagine that the emphasis on the animation took away any room for creative enlightenment or alternatively, perhaps the take on the character was simply too mild. I could have envisioned the BFG coming across the way Yoda did in “The Empire Strikes Back,” a great mix of wisdom and silliness, yet neither are found in nearly the same capacity here.

In one particularly light and funny sequence involving the BFG and Sophie sitting for a royal breakfast, the film finally manages to break free of all of these criticisms for a solid, marvelous moment, where the audience finally gets to laugh and have some fun. There are no critiques to be had of this entire portion of the film. Sadly, it’s not enough to lift the weight that comes from the other sides. Despite absolutely stunning visuals in every frame, the molasses pacing and lack of unpredictability make this a bit of a slog to sit through. While “The BFG” has all of the makings to become a family classic, it unfortunately equates to one sleepy and uninspiring movie.

“The BFG” is rated PG for action/peril, some scary moments and brief rude humor. 117 min. Now playing in theaters everywhere. •

News for the 'City of Good Neighbors'

From City Clerk Norb Huber

WORST CITIES TO LIVE IN? HAWTHORNE IS NOT #4!

Someone forwarded the email when I returned from my fishing trip and I could not believe that Hawthorne was ranked #4 on the list of worst USA cities to live in. That is WRONG! One of the reasons for our high ranking: "Hawthorne residents are at a disadvantage. Incomes are lower than average in Hawthorne, while a higher than average cost of living in the city further weakens residents' purchasing power." I understand that reasoning but that doesn't make us one of the worst places to live in America. If we are so bad, why do so many people want to live here? Is it our fault that there are more people who want to buy or rent a house in our fine city than what the market has available? Here is my list of reasons why people love living here: #1.) the weather #2.) closeness to jobs, freeways and the beach #3.) affordable house prices for those who can afford to buy. I bet if you asked some of your relatives who live in the Midwest whether they like the winter weather in Omaha or Hawthorne, most would opt to live in Hawthorne. Hawthorne is small in size geographically but has a very broad range of income levels. Yes, a majority of our citizens are hard-working, lower-income workers who can only afford to rent an apartment or a house. But, come to Hawthorne's west side and you will see homes selling for close to one million and there are plenty of buyers who want to plunk down their money and move in. I'm tired of "outsiders" knocking Hawthorne. Let them say or write what they want. I know we have a lot of good neighbors living here who enjoy living here. Who cares what others think? Why don't we make Hawthorne GREAT again? (No, I'm not running for president.)

GOOD NEIGHBORS DAY UNITED HAWTHORNE

I challenge the good neighbors of Hawthorne to come together for Good Neighbors Day. The date is Saturday, July 16th and this community building event will be held at the civic center in front of city hall. The day will be full of great activities, our annual car show will kick things off at 10 a.m. Over 20 artists will display their talents at an Art Walk. Music will be a big part of the program. Emmitt Rhodes, a long-time Hawthorne resident who has been making music for over 40 years will be on stage beginning at 11 a.m. There will be local other bands that will perform. Did I mention that there will be vendors, exhibitors and games for the kids and adults? It's not too late to sign up to participate. Call me or email me to let me know if you wish to help us celebrate Hawthorne. My phone number is 310-292-6714 and my email is norbhuber@gmail.com.

JAIL HOUSE TOURS

A special treat at Good Neighbors Day will be tours of the old Hawthorne Police Department jail. This will be your last opportunity to peek inside and see the old holding tanks that have housed quite an array of villains during its day. The old city hall and police station building is scheduled to be demolished in the next year to make room for new development. Small group tours led by HPD's past jailers will be offered from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. that day.

"NEXTDOOR" UNITE

If you are a member of your local information-sharing website/app and you want to actually meet some of your neighbors who post then come on down to Good Neighbors Day, we will have a table designated for that purpose. We'll also show some of you who may not be familiar with this app how to join. It's another way for us to come together as a community.

RAMONA NEIGHBORHOOD PICNIC

The Ramona Neighborhood Association invite you to attend their annual picnic on Saturday, July 30 at Ramona Park. It's always a nice event to get to know your neighbors and enjoy some food and fun.

DID YOU KNOW?

Things happening in Hawthorne: Elon gave all of his hard-working, SpaceX employees this week off to enjoy the 4th and summer. The Costco business center will soon have a gas station located behind their warehouse over on Prairie Avenue. Another major renovation of a section of Hawthorne Blvd is underway between 120th and El Segundo Blvd. A Porsche dealership is going in at the 405 and Isis. The HPD received over 100 calls reporting illegal fireworks on the 4th. Two fires were reported due to our pyrotechnic displays. California's economy is the sixth largest in the world, only five countries produced more last year than California: the U.S., China, Japan, Germany and the United Kingdom. Forget the cold ones, have an iced coffee today! Stay sober my friends. • Email me at: norbhuber@gmail.com

Am I Insurable? 3 Steps to Take

(BPT) - Most people intuitively know the benefits of good health. Some work hard to maintain their health throughout their lifetime, and others not so much. Despite the best or worst intentions, health complications can occur at any time which may impact many areas of life, including finances.

At some point in our lives, perhaps when a personal experience jolts some serious thinking, many may even wonder, "Am I insurable? Am I eligible for life insurance?" And for those who have experienced health with more medical information available, better detection, earlier diagnosis, and more effective treatment of illness may mean people live longer, healthier lives. And that means those with a history of serious illness may qualify for life insurance at rates similar to people without pre-existing conditions - once their condition is under control.

So what can people do to help improve their insurability? MassMutual offers these 3 tips:

Buy when you're young. If you purchase life (and disability income) insurance coverage issues, they may be surprised to hear that the answer may be yes.

For example, MassMutual has been offering life insurance coverage to breast cancer survivors since 1964. Thanks to continuous evaluation of underwriting guidelines, the company believes that more survivors than ever are qualifying for coverage with shorter waiting periods and lower premiums.

So what factors influence a person's ability to obtain life insurance coverage? Family medical history, life expectancy, risk factors (such as high blood pressure or elevated cholesterol), and lifestyle (for example, smoking status) may play a role. If a pre-existing condition exists, insurers may look at the specific type of illness, severity, time elapsed since diagnosis, stability of the person's health, and treatment regimen, among other variables.

Although not everyone with a history of a serious illness will be able to obtain life insurance coverage, the good news is that before health issues begin to creep in, you will likely end up paying a lower premium over the lifetime of the policy.

Make your health a priority. People who watch their weight, exercise regularly, get routine physicals and preventative health screenings, and consistently take prescribed medications will generally have a better risk assessment, which could help increase their eligibility for coverage.

Stop smoking. It's an undisputable fact: non-tobacco users qualify for significantly lower rates than people who smoke or chew tobacco. There's always a health benefit to stopping, too. Cardiovascular risks drop rapidly, and after a period of cessation, former smokers can typically obtain a better rate.

Take every precaution to protect your health, and your financial health. Don't put it off for a rainy day - make it a priority.

Summer Roundup

By Haleemon Anderson

With the first day of summer in our rear view, it’s time to get actively involved. You’ll have no trouble staying busy, as the south bay cities have a cornucopia of concerts, arts events, classes and activities all designed to keep your summer safe, exciting, and dynamic. Just jump on in and find your passion.

El Segundo

To beat the summer heat and traffic, hop on El Segundo’s shuttle to the shoreline. It’s the only beach shuttle in the area; from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. you can ride to and from the Joslyn Center to Grand Beach in El Porto. Seniors ride free with your recreation ID ; it’s $1 each way for everyone else. Can’t beat that deal!

If it’s music that makes your summer swing, then El Segundo’s got just the thing. The Summer in the Park Series kicks off at Library Park with three, count ‘em, Saturday’s worth of sounds. Plan on catching at least one, on July 7 or July 24, or the final offering August 7. Arrive early, the shows open at 4 p.m. and are known to be a draw. For information, try 310-524-2700.

Hawthorne

The Hawthorne Parks Program is up and running with six fully-staffed parks open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Recreation leaders are on hand to lead team sports, arts and crafts and organized games. This is a drop-in program; participants over the age of seven can come and go as they please, while those 7 years of age and younger must be accompanied by a guardian. Information may be had at (310) 349-1640.

The Betty Ainsworth Sports offers 5-day Sports Clinics. Youngsters 8-15 years olds can get intensive coaching in volleyball, soccer and basketball for a nominal fee. Location is 3851 El Segundo Boulevard. Call the number above for age groups, dates and times.

Summer Swim Programs at the 12501 Inglewood Avenue pool offer water activities for all ages. Recreational swim runs $1 or $2. Check the calendar for exact times and dates through August 21. For formal instruction in water fitness, junior lifeguard, diving or beginning swimming, call 310-970-7228. From toddlers (with parents) to seniors, there’s a class to fit your needs and budget. Pick a class and register at the Memorial Center at 3901 W El Segundo Boulevard.

For those more inclined to artistic fare, Hawthorne has you covered. The Lark Gallery at 12609 Hawthorne Boulevard hosts “Yin & Yang,” an exhibit of works which explore the “eternal journey” between opposing forces. The exhibit runs July 2 through July 23. An opening reception will take place on Saturday, August 2 from 6-9 p.m.

Art meets the outdoors July 16, as Lark Gallery opens its doors for the annual Hawthorne Art Walk. Come to browse through paintings, prints, and small objets d’arts from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., inside and out the gallery. Both events are free and some art walk items may be for purchase.

Hawthorne will cap off July with a Block Party and Picnic at Ramona Park on July 30 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., hosted by the Ramona Neighborhood Association.

Lawndale

Bring the tots for a cool down session at the Jane Addams Park wading pool. Open from noon until 4 p.m., every Monday – Friday, July 1 through August 26, the wading pool is designed for two year olds through six year olds, accompanied by parental units.

Lawndale operates six public parks, and the Hofmann Community Center offers a variety of classes and programs with nearly daily activities and a focus on seniors. Registration is required. Check the cities website or call the Community Services Department at 310-973-3270.

Also in Lawndale, when summer fun is winding down elsewhere, mark your calendars September 24 for the Lawndale Blues and Jazz Music Festival. At Jane Addams, starting at 11 a.m., enjoy a car show, delicious food and of course the music.

Inglewood

Splash down at Edward Vincent Jr. Park now through September 5. General swim is offered Wednesday through Sunday, from 12:30 until 4 p.m., for the hefty price of $1! Swim classes and other activities are also ongoing at the park. Summer day camp is now in session, with a second session starting July 18.

Come out every first Saturday, all year long and get fit with the Althea Moses Fitness Club. New members are welcome to join Olympic Champion and Morningside High Alumna Althea Moses, who shows up every session to lead a walk for fitness. Designed for seniors, but all are welcome. 9-10 a.m. Edward Vincent Jr Park is located at 700 Warren Lane.

Manhattan Beach

Music continues all summer in Polliwog Park, with the Concerts in the Park series running from July 10 through September 4. That’s nine straight weeks of marvelous, musical Sunday afternoons. Check the city’s website for info on the featured bands; all concerts are from 5-7 p.m.

For the artist within, try the free Family Art Workshops held every first and third Saturday at the MB Art Center on 1560 MB Boulevard. Walk-ins are welcome to register at the desk. Come early; the two-hour class starts at 2:30 p.m.

Of special note: a treat for lovers of the theatre. Shakespeare By The Sea will mount “Othello,” Friday, August 12 at 7 p.m. One of the Bard’s most iconic works, it’s sure to be a crowd pleaser. So pack a picnic, a blanket, and some family or friends, and get on down to Polliwog Park.

Check the city’s website calendar for a complete listing of summer happenings including senior day trips, arts and crafts classes and the annual open tournaments in volleyball and tennis coming the second and third weekends in July.

Torrance

If you live in or around the city of Torrance, you’ll have no trouble filling those long summer days with a plethora of interesting activities. A partial list includes classes in bird watching, art and wood crafts, book clubs, day camps, gardening, pajama parties, reading workshops, sports, origami and nature walks. You get the picture. Look to the city’s website for a full listing; it’s way too numerous to give adequate space here. A few highlights worth putting on your to-do list:

On July 22, a two-week run of the acclaimed “Fiddler on the Roof” begins at the James R. Armstrong Theatre, 3330 Civic Center Drive.

An Antiques Street Faire on July 24, starts early, 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. The location is 1317 Sartori. For information call 310-328-6107.

Even opera lovers will find something on the menu: Mezzo-soprano Silvia Vasquez is in concert July 30 at the Katy Geissert Civic Center Library, 3301 Torrance Boulevard. The free program starts at 2 p.m. For information call 310-618-5959.

The Siale Festival 2016, celebrating the Pacific Island culture and community, launches August 20 at the Torrance Cultural Arts Center. A full list of activities can be found at TFSCA.org

Holly Park Minors Remain Alive

By Joe Snyder

The Holly Park Minor (age 9-10) Little League All-Star Baseball team seeked to reach the final of the District 37 Tournament as it took on Lennox in the losers' bracket final last Tuesday.

The winner faced unbeaten Westchester in the first round of the championship on Wednesday. If Westchester loses, a second game will be played tonight at 7 p.m. at Carl Nielsen Youth Sports Complex in Westchester.

Holly Park advanced to the losers' bracket final after defeating Wiseburn from Hawthorne, 9-2 on June 25 and Del Rey, 16-3 a day later.

Holly Park had its 9-11-year-old All-Star squad reach the final but it fell to Del Rey 5-3 on June 28 at Nielsen Park. Holly Park's Major (age 10-12) team lost to Del Rey in the losers' final 11-3 on June 25. Del Rey lost the championship to rival Westchester 19-1 a day later. All of these games were also at the Nielsen Complex.

The best Tri Park did was by its seniors. Since Tri Park and Lennox were the only two Little Leagues to have a Senior (age 15-16) division, Tri Park reached the final. On June 17, it fell short of Lennox 10-9 but, a day later, Tri Park had a player shortage and forfeited the other game giving Lennox the title. Lennox began Section 3 play with a 9-2 win over District 25 champion Santa Monica last Saturday at Marine Park in Manhattan Beach. •
