The Aerospace Players Star in Seussical the Musical

A wildly talented cast of 45 community members accompanied by a live orchestra present Seussical at Torrance's James R. Armstrong Theatre, with a six-night run that began last weekend and will continue on July 27, 28 and 29. The show highlights many beloved Dr. Seuss characters as they sing and dance through whimsical lands. In this photo from "Notice Me Horton," Angela Asch portrays Gertrude McFuzz and Matt Garber is Horton the Elephant. Photo by John Nolan (cast member).

City Council Approves Initial Agreement for Space X Test Tunneling Project

By Derrick Deane

While Space X has been an economic boon for Hawthorne in recent years, a proposed tunneling project raised a lengthy conversation at Tuesday's City Council meeting. The initial step in the Space X Test Tunnel Project would allow City Manager Arnie Shadbehr to enter into and execute an agreement with the aerospace, automotive and technology company on behalf of Hawthorne for a test tunnel to research proposed vehicle transport technologies. The proposed tunnel would be constructed under 120th Street between Crenshaw and Hawthorne Boulevard.

But before any digging begins, a California Earthquake Authority (CEQA) inspection would need to take place among several other safety inspections. The agreement before the City Council looked to secure and expedite the proper documents to ensure the project is in compliance with all applicable regulations.

"L.A. County Fire also has to approve fire prevention control plans," Shadbehr said of the initial agreement. "The other aspect of this is the appraisal that we initiated of the right of way that is going to be the location of the proposed tunnel. In addition to the appraisal, the agreement that we are looking in to myself, the City Attorney and Space X is that it has to come before the City Council for approval."

The estimated timeline for all necessary paperwork to be finalized put the project start date at around mid-October. Shadbehr said that the process could take three to six weeks, although he noted that it could take longer adding that "it depends on the findings—it can go up to three months."

"We don't know right now which one takes the critical path," Shadbehr said of the initial approval process. "Is it the CEQA [or] is it the fire department approval that takes the critical path or FAA determination because the FAA also owns fiber optic lines underground in the vicinity of the proposed [project]."

Space X will foot the bill for the entire project, including the $50,400 inspection process. The cost for the actual tunneling has not been discussed.

"We asked for an initial deposit from Space X, just like we do with all the other development projects," Shadbehr said. "At this point, it is not yet determined what kind of environmental document has to be prepared, but it involves basic study which determines the affected utility owners, air quality issues, ventilation issues and also dirt removal and disposal issues. These are the things that need to be [examined] at this point."

Mayor Pro Tem Hadir Awad took time to clarify that the project had not yet been approved before Tuesday's meeting. "There's

El Camino, Northrop Grumman to Sponsor “Global Innovation Summit”

The El Camino College Industry & Technology Division is partnering with Northrop Grumman Aerospace Systems (NGAS) to sponsor an exciting morning of innovation, science and creativity.

The Northrop Grumman Global Innovation Summit is an intern and student demonstration activity similar to a live-action video game. The summit is scheduled for 9 a.m. to noon July 28 in El Camino College’s Murdock Stadium. The event is free and open to the public--everyone is encouraged to attend!

Five teams of ECC/Hawthorne High School students and Northrop Grumman interns will battle together to save the world from simulated wildfires ravaging the planet. They’ll accomplish this feat using RC planes, quad copters, and rovers (with silly string!) they have spent their summer designing, building and flying.

“This is a great opportunity for our students to incorporate their technical skills and critical thinking, along with communication and teamwork,” said El Camino College Industry & Technology Division Dean Stephanie Rodriguez.

One of Northrop Grumman’s initiatives to encourage STEM education across the globe, the event is designed to bring student teams together to solve problems.

“The NG mentor team noticed that while many schools and workplaces focus on teaching technical skills, what often is the pivotal factor is the ability communicate and work as a team,” said Katie Halmagean, NGAS aerospace engineer and demonstration program lead. “We constructed a fun project with technical challenges, yet it requires collaboration, rapid innovation and creativity from all five teams to succeed.”

At the summit, wildfires will be represented with six-foot-tall fabric flames on a football field-sized map of the world. Each vehicle has a critical and unique role to extinguish the fires, as each of the teams use technology, and above all, cooperation, to support this simulated disaster relief.

El Camino College is located at 16007 Crenshaw Boulevard, Torrance. Campus parking is $3. For more information about the Global Innovation Summit, contact Karen Latuner at 310-660-3593, extension 3520, or view <https://tinyurl.com/NGGlobalInnovationSummit>. - Content: El Camino College

Airport Board Approves Projects Connecting All Nine Terminals Beyond Security Screening

Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners (BOAC) this month approved a project to modernize Terminals 2 and 3, as well as connect them to the Tom Bradley International Terminal (TBIT). The group also voted in favor of a lease agreement with Southwest Airlines for a new building (Terminal 1.5) that will include a connector between Terminals 1 and 2, as well as space for additional ticket counters, baggage carousels, a bus gate and an additional Security Screening Check Point.

BOAC took a number of actions as it approved the Terminal 2 and 3 Modernization Project, including certification of the Final Environmental Impact Report and adoption of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) Findings of Fact, the Statement of Overriding Considerations and the Mitigation and Monitoring Reporting Program (MMRP). The commissioners also recommended that the Los Angeles City Council concur with their actions.

Delta Air Lines plans to invest as much as $1.9 billion in the modernization, which would include upgrading the Terminal 2 concourse, demolition and reconstruction of the Terminal 3 concourse building, demolition of the southern appendages of the Terminal 3 satellite, and demolition and reconstruction of the passenger and baggage processing facilities (ticketing buildings). According to the environmental impact statement, reconfiguration of the gates as part of the projects could add as many as four gates between the two terminals.

The BOAC also approved two actions related to Southwest Airlines, amending its Terminal Delta Air Lines’ plan for Terminals 2 and 3 includes a connector to the Tom Bradley International Terminal Facility Lease and License Agreement for space in Terminal 1 while approving a new lease for the future Terminal 1.5.

The new building is a 417,515-square-foot, six-level facility that will span the gap between Terminals 1 and 2, and require demolition of Gate 10 in Terminal 1. In addition to providing space for baggage claims, ticket counters, a Security Screening Check Point, and two floors of office space, the building will connect Terminals 1 and 2. There will be connections between the non-secured areas of the terminals on the Lower/Arrivals and Upper/Departures levels, while the connection on the Concourse Level will be on the secured side of the building, allowing passengers to more easily transfer between the terminals.

Terminal 1.5, estimated to cost $490 million and expected to open in 2020, will also include a vertical circulation core to connect it to the future Automated People Mover, and feature a bus gate that will allow Southwest Airlines to transport passengers to TBIT for international flights. • - Content: Abridged from LAWA Press Release

Unlock The Secret To Healthy Aging By Improving Your Health In Three Key Areas

(BPT) - You’re still just as active as you were in your thirties and forties, but as you continue to add those candles to your birthday cake each year, you can feel the effects of aging starting to take a toll on your body. As you age, your body needs a little extra care to maintain optimal health; that’s why you go for your morning walk and eat a balanced diet. These things can help you support your overall well-being, but there are other factors to consider if you want to live a healthier, more active lifestyle as you grow older.

“Many people don’t realize how much of an impact hormone, heart, and bone and joint health can have on their day-to-day lives,” says Dr. Andrew Halpner, vice president of science and technical services at Douglas Laboratories. To maintain this ideal lifestyle, he offers his advice on ways you can support your health in each of these key areas.

Properly balanced hormone levels are one of the most important factors when it comes to staying healthy as you age. Healthy hormone levels support healthy sexual function, body weight, sleep and glucose metabolism.

Establishing a healthy diet, ensuring sufficient sleep and making time for recreation are great first steps toward supporting your hormone health. It is also important to consult your healthcare provider to discuss regular blood work to monitor your hormone levels.

Finally, to help maintain healthy glucose metabolism and tissues, add a nutritional supplement, such as Wobenzym Plus, to your daily regimen.*

Heart health is an important part of any healthy aging plan. You’re already monitoring your lipid profile diligently, but what else can you do?

Lipid levels are important, but maintaining glucose homeostasis and cytokine balance is just as important to supporting proper heart health.

A healthy diet that focuses on fiber and regulates carbohydrate intake has been proven to support healthy glucose levels. Consider complementing your diet with regular exercise and nutritional supplements to further support good health.*

Maintaining healthy bone and joint function is critical for both men and women. When bones are weak or joints are stiff, it can be difficult to keep up your desired level of activity.

Bone health is directly impacted by vitamin D levels. To support these function areas, boost vitamin D by spending brief periods of time in the sun - with sun protection, of course - or consult your healthcare provider about taking a supplement to achieve optimum vitamin D levels.* Additionally, adding a nutritional supplement such as Wobenzym Plus can help provide temporary relief from everyday aches and pains to ensure that when you want to be active, your bones and joints are ready to keep up with you.*

A balanced diet and moderate exercise are the building blocks of any health regimen, but as the years pass, your body may need additional support. Remember your hormones, heart, bones and joints when tailoring your health plan and consult your healthcare provider before introducing any new products into your routine. For more information on how to live a healthier, more active lifestyle, visit douglaslabs.com/healthy-aging.

Hawthorne Happenings

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

WHAT'S HAPPENING?

What's happening in Hawthorne? Here are some really random Hawthorne happenings. My brain is locked and I really can't think of anything newsworthy to write about. The sidewalk repairs and replacements in the Ramona Tract have been completed recently. A new pedestrian bridge over Crenshaw Blvd. for SpaceX employees to use to get safely from their parking structure to their job site was put up over this past weekend. A "hole in the wall" eatery has become a very popular place for Mexican food. Mi Zacatecas Mexican restaurant on Inglewood Avenue on some nights has a line out the door. The Boring Company is asking permission to dig a tunnel under 120th Street from Crenshaw to Hawthorne Blvd. and maybe further. Hawthorne would be the first city in the nation to try going underground to beat traffic. Maybe there will be extra parking spots underground also since there is a shortage of spots on our streets. The Dodgers continue to win and no one can watch them on television since no one has Spectrum cable. Two more futsal soccer courts are being constructed at Jim Thorpe Park thanks to the LA Galaxy Foundation and the Hawthorne Police Department. The temps might not be so bad, but we are not used to the high humidity readings lately. July 21st was the 48th anniversary of man first walking on the moon. Where were you? This Sunday is National Hot Fudge Sundae Day. Now that is something to celebrate! Forget the diet. Forget your waistline. Indulge and enjoy. For me, ice cream ranks right up there with beer, hot dogs and donuts. Have some random fun and food while you enjoy some summer happenings in

Hawthorne. HISTORICAL SOCIETY UPDATE

Thanks to all of you who came out to help the HHS move their belongings into the new Hawthorne Museum. The day went well and all of the furniture and memorabilia is inside the building. Now the fun begins. Hundreds of photos and articles have to be sorted out to determine how or whether we will put them out on display. As that work progresses, we will also get ready for September 16th. That is the Saturday for Good Neighbors Day, the first annual John Baker Memorial Car Show, and the grand opening of the Museum at the Jim Thorpe Park site. Call Danny at 310-643-6139 if you would like to get involved. The next open meeting of the Hawthorne Historical Society will be held on Monday, August 7th at 6:30 p.m. at the museum located at 14100 S. Prairie Avenue. We need your help.

RESOLVE TO RISE

There will be a "Right Touch" workshop this Saturday, July 29th at 10 a.m. at the Fun Ship Learning Preschool sponsored by Resolve to Rise. The workshop is meant for children and their parents to learn how to prevent sexual abuse. Please RSVP by calling 310-465-8652 or go to eventbrite.com and search: the Right Touch.

MOVING VACATION

I'll be up in Northern California this weekend helping my daughter and family move all of their earthly possessions into a home they purchased. The forecast calls for 102 degree heat all weekend. Those cold ones will be looking pretty good after lifting boxes and getting a tad bit sweaty climbing stairs. Yes, they do have a swimming pool. I hope it's full of water. •

“They call me Glory and I certainly am in mine now that I’ve been rescued. I kept hearing about the impending Fourth of July fireworks, so I thought I’d find a place to hide before they started. Little did I know that so many houses looked like mine and therein lies the reason for my getting lost. I wandered around and eventually ended up at an LA county shelter. They called me a stray, but I’m really a three-year old female Schnoodle--Schnauzer/Poodle mix--who is just a tiny 14 pounds. When I arrived, I must admit I was a real mess--filthy, dark gray, matted dreadlocks is the only way to describe my coat. After a bath and something called a grooming, even I didn’t recognize me. Who was this beautiful gal with the glistening white coat and huge, dark eyes? I even had someone who was going to adopt me... but then sadly, they didn’t show up to take me home. However, it was really fortuitous shelter as a stray, but since I had a microchip I was pretty confident I'd be home soon. Not so, since the chip was never registered by my previous owners. Consequently, I had to wait--and wait and wait--while they tried to locate my owner, but to no avail. Since I was a matted mess when I arrived at the shelter, no one had any idea how good-looking I was until I was rescued and got groomed. I've got a shiny black coat, cropped ears, the most expressive eyes and a docked tail, so I'm really quite stunning. As far as my personality...

well, I'm 18 pounds of fun and friendly and just looking for my forever family to love."

If you're interested in Linc, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

“Hello, my name is Bonsai and I’m an adorable eight-year old female Chihuahua. I know I would be a perfect addition to any family--especially yours. I have beautiful brown eyes that contrast nicely with my cream-colored coat and the sweetest personality. I love kids, am friendly with strangers and I’m just as happy to curl up on your lap and give kisses as I am to go for a brisk walk. Even though I would prefer to be an only dog, I get along well with dogs 10 times my size. Since I am no longer a puppy, eight years old is considered middle-aged for Chihuahuas. You don’t have to worry about me chewing up your shoes or your furniture, but I still have many more years of love and companionship to share. At approximately six pounds, I am the perfect size to take traveling--even in a purse. Once you meet me, I’m sure you’ll be charmed by my sweet smile and a tail that never stops wagging!”

Bonsai can be seen by appointment at Yellow Brick Road Doggie Playcare in El Segundo. Call 310-606-5507 or email southbaydoggie@hotmail.com for an appointment or more information. •

Happy Tails

Liam loves his new family - congratulations all around!

Congratulations to our little guy Liam and his new family. Liam, now known as Teddy, is the adorable black Bichon Frise/Poodle mix that we rescued from an LA county shelter. After being rejected five times by folks who were no-shows to adopt him, he hit the lottery when he was rescued. His new family definitely was worth waiting for! They are previous MSFR adopters and Teddy's new "sister" is Missy, who is a former MSFR alumni named Skyler. In addition to Missy, Teddy also has two human brothers who instantly fell in love with this guy when introduced at adoptions. This happy family is residing in North Redondo and we hope that they'll drop by to visit. •

Preparation

1. About 30 minutes before baking the pizza, preheat the oven to 500 F and place a large, rimless baking sheet in the lower third of the oven; for the most even cooking and optimal heat distribution. Place a large sheet of parchment paper on a work surface and dust the parchment lightly with flour. Stretch dough using hands or rolling pin. Pierce the dough firmly all over with the tines of a fork.
2. Slide pizza with parchment onto a baking sheet, then slide it onto the hot rimless baking sheet in the oven.
3. When the dough is slightly puffed, at about 7 minutes, take out of oven and spread on pesto mixture, top with mozzarella cheese, cherry tomatoes, Parmesan and ham. Place back in oven for another 3 minutes until cheese is melted. Slide pizza out, crack four eggs (one on each quarter of pizza), place back in oven and broil for about 4 minutes or until egg cooks to over easy.
4. Grab the edge of the parchment and transfer the pizza from the oven to a cutting board. Drop ricotta cheese by rounded teaspoonful over top, sprinkle with salt and pepper. cut and serve.

If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. a perception out there that the tunnel was approved or things of that nature,” Awad said. “We just wanted to make sure that the public knows that it’s not quite approved yet, but that was the perception we were getting. Even though the perception is out there, we’re just beginning now.”

Shadbehr said the confusion may have stemmed from Space X being able to successfully pull a permit for a test tunnel on its own property in the parking lot. Shadbehr clarified that the proposed tunnel and the one currently taking place on Space X’s private property are two very different things. “For example, what they’re doing right now under their parking lot was exempt from any CEQA inspection,” Shadbehr said.

Councilwoman Angie Reyes English raised some questions, beginning with the entire proposal in general seemingly coming out of nowhere. “This is really surprising to me that we’re here tonight discussing [this] out of the blue and not to say we’re not in support of Space X or feel that they shouldn’t move forward--however, perception is everything,” she said. “I’ve been hearing about a news article, the Mayor visiting. How coincidental that you were there and now we’re here.”

After being asked if CEQA findings would be available to the public, Shadbehr answered that an initial study had been completed about a month ago and it is currently being reviewed through consultants. “There is a whole laundry list of activities happening at this time,” he said. “Engineering is reviewing their plans and calculations, the fire department is reviewing the fire prevention control plan, South Coast Air Quality Management District issues have to be addressed with regards to ventilation and we’re also in contact with all the utility companies.”

Shadbehr added that his office sent out a notice to utility companies two months ago making them aware of the project and asking for any concerns that they might have. There are plans for meetings soon with both Shadbehr’s office and Space X to address any issues those utility companies may have with the project. Once all concerns and approvals have been met by the various municipal agencies and departments, then an encroachment permit will be issued for a City Council vote.

As for this initial agreement, all four Council members voted to approve the agreement. Councilman Nilo Michelin was not in attendance. •

Should Los Angeles Football Fans Choose the Rams as Their Team?

By Adam Serrao

Since the Rams packed up their bags and headed west for Los Angeles, it has been no secret that they have failed to incite excitement within their newfound fan base. A far cry from “The Greatest Show on Turf” that used to call St. Louis home, the Los Angeles Rams have been subpar so far, to say the least. Whether it has been management moves, coaching decisions, or simply just a roster full of bad players, the Rams debuted in Los Angeles with a 4-12 season last year, failing to excite a city that has been salivating for football ever since the Rams (and the Raiders) left after the 1994 regular season. This year’s Rams team is obviously still not a Super Bowl contender. They should be better, however, and in doing so will manage to give Los Angeles fans more of a reason to feel proud to enjoy football once again.

Last year’s Rams fan base crowded the Coliseum in Los Angeles for many reasons, but none of those reasons were because the Rams were actually good at football. Whether it was because it was the first year that the game was back in L.A. or simply because Sundays are meant for watching the NFL, Los Angeles had the second best home attendance in the entire league last season. Ineffectiveness has its own way of keeping fans away, especially when a second team (the Chargers) makes itself available to the masses and moves into the area. Rams fans shouldn’t scare easily, though, because this year’s team plans on being much better the second time around.

This year’s Rams roster could boast as many as 10 new starters when the NFL season begins. Those new starters will be most easily recognized on the offensive side of the ball and specifically under center. Though quarterback Jared Goff eventually made a few starts once head coach Jeff Fisher got fired, he didn’t start the season as the main signal-caller of the team. This year should bring with it added responsibility for Goff, which will either make or break the quarterback’s future with the team. Goff was in an awkward spot last season with uncertainty surrounding the entire organization and a cross-country move that had just taken place. This year, Goff is in charge and it’s time for the former number one overall pick the in draft to take control of the franchise.

Not only will many of the starters be new to the team, but Sean McVay is entering his first year as a head coach in the NFL. McVay has tabbed new wide receiver Robert Wood as a perfect fit for his offensive system. Woods used to play at USC, so at least he’ll be used to the scenery. He has yet to catch more than 65 passes in a season, but seems destined to do so in his first year in Los Angeles.

The Rams also beefed up their offensive line this offseason, which was a major liability one season ago. Look for Toddy Gurley and the running game to become much better this year than last with the additions of left tackle Andrew Whitworth and center John Sullivan. Rookie wide receiver Cooper Kupp and second-year tight end Tyler Higbee will also look to add depth to a passing game that lost Kenny Britt, but still looked absolutely anemic last year on the football field.

On the defensive side of the ball the Rams have welcomed in outside linebacker Connor Barwin, who most recently played with the Philadelphia Eagles but had his best season in Houston under new Rams defensive coordinator Wade Phillips. Phillips is also bringing over Kayvon Webster from the Denver Broncos to compete with E.J. Gaines for the starting spot at cornerback opposite Trumaine Johnson. Any addition to a defense that is already lethal and features the likes of Aaron Donald and Robert Quinn is a good move. The defensive side of the ball won’t necessarily be a problem that the Rams will struggle with this season.

It was no question that the Rams needed to shake things up on the roster after a four-win season in a very competitive NFC West division. Los Angeles has done its part to strengthen the roster with new coaches

McVay and Phillips plus a relatively new offensive line. That same offensive line is what will be instrumental to the team’s success and Goff’s growth as an NFL quarterback. As the line goes, so goes Gurley, the running game and Goff--with what little passing attack he presumably has. New players don’t necessarily mean more wins for the Rams. A starting job for Goff doesn’t mean that he’ll necessarily be good either. But a fresh start for everyone involved should only help to improve what was an agonizing second half of the season last year.

The Rams are 13 years removed from the playoffs and 14 years removed from their last winning season. Now is the time to show that they are on course for a future playoff appearance. The team may not have what it takes to beat out their divisional opponents this season, but they can certainly begin to make a mark on the league and on the city of Los Angeles before another team bolts in and steals their thunder. •
