The Many Ways That Veterans and Families Are Appreciated

By Rob McCarthy

Veterans Day falls on Sunday and businesses and attractions throughout the region are showing their appreciation by offering free meals and admission to honor vets for their service time -- both in wars and peace time. Los Angeles County is home to the largest veteran population in the state.

The message ahead of this Veterans Day is “they are our neighbors, friends, brothers, sisters, co-workers and classmates.” The greatest number of living veterans -- 606,879 -- in the state served in the Gulf War. Vietnam vets represent the second largest group at 444,695, according to the state’s veteran affairs office. There are more than 83,000 who served in Korea and 38,622 fought in WWII.

The federal holiday that falls on Nov. 11 honors military veterans with parades and speeches in cities across the nation. A remembrance ceremony takes place at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery in Arlington, Va. The ceremony honors and thanks all who served in the U.S. Armed Forces. Free meals and admission to attractions are available starting Saturday.

The BattleShip IOWA in San Pedro is offering free admission to its Veterans Day festival and everyone is welcome. Free self-guided tour admission will also be available from the 10th through 12th for veterans, as well as current service members, with valid military I.D.

The Los Angeles Rams will honor military personnel, their families and friends at Sunday’s “Salute to Service” game vs. the Seattle Seahawks. The division-leading L.A. team will offer an exclusive ticket discount to veterans, both active and retired.

Aerospace Museum of California, North Highlands: Free admission to all guests on Veterans Day.

Aquarium of the Pacific: Free Admission, Long Beach: Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the Aquarium of the Pacific is offering free admission with valid service identification.

California State Parks: Free admission to veterans, active duty and reserve personnel at 143 participating state parks on Monday.

Eagle Crest Golf Club, Escondido: Free golf for veterans and active military members on Nov. 11, which includes green fees. Carts may be purchased separately.

Knott’s Berry Farm, Buena Park: The theme park is offering Military Tribute Days with free admission to active duty and retired military, and veterans. This offer is valid through Nov. 15. (Also good between Nov. 26 and Dec. 21.) Promotion covers admission for the service member and one guest. Additional tickets may be purchased by the Military I.D. holder at a discounted rate.

Lyon Air Museum, Santa Ana: Veterans, retired military and active duty military will receive free museum admission to the Lyon Air Museum on Veterans Day Sunday, Nov. 11.

Nixon Library, Yorba Linda: Free admission on Monday, including a special Veterans Day ceremony with General McChrystal.

Pirate’s Dinner Adventure, Buena Park: From Nov. 11-12, former and active military members can enjoy a free show. In addition, service.

USS Midway Museum, San Diego: Free admission for veterans and active military members and their families Nov. 10 and 11. Maximum of four admissions per military ID. Activities include a Veterans Day Parade along Harbor Drive, blood drive, live entertainment, KidZone and giveaways.

A listing of meal offers and discounts is found at the California Department of Veterans Affairs website: <https://militarybenefits.info/veterans-day-discounts-sales-deals-free-meals/>

The California Department of Veterans Affairs estimates that nearly 250,000 active and former servicemen and servicewomen live in Los Angeles County. The majority served in World War II a half-century ago, followed

Ryan Gosling Is a Sailor of the Stars in First Man

By Ryan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

The moon, perched high in the sky, sits magisterially and quietly dignified. Like a watchful mother keeping eyes over her children that run around in the backyard of an adult dinner party, her protecting presence observes all. In director Damien Chazelle’s eyes – and as he portrays in his latest film, First Man – this celestial entity is a shared spiritual ancestor to the first man to ever set foot on the moon, Neil Armstrong. Just as silently solemn, we see a man who was a brilliant engineer, by adding virtuoso performances. Damien Chazelle has always been a man of ambition. With First Man, his third major release, he once again explores a young man’s ambitions of greatness and the things he sacrifices to achieve it. Chazelle naturally brings the cinema of life to the big screen with clear and incalculable vision. He is, after all, the youngest person ever to win the Best Director Oscar (for last year’s La La Land). To this end, perhaps First Man’s overall effect would be even more impressive if seen in IMAX. In this setting, the 16mm loving father and lonely sailor of the stars. First Man sets out to be many things. Telling the story of the eight years prior to his famed moon landing – including early tests and unsuccessful trials that weighed heavy on all involved – it’s a wonderfully exacted and historically accurate period piece dense with action-adventure elements that are captured with stunning practical effects and visionary camerawork. However, the real survival story that Chazelle focuses on is on the ground where Armstrong navigates the tragedies of life, including the early loss of his youngest child to cancer.

This is where the film’s center is -- a small character drama grounded not only by gravity but in the realities of life that surround him. It is Chazelle’s and screenwriter Josh Singer’s interest and portrayal of this smaller side of history that characterizes Armstrong as well as challenges the film. Armstrong is no space cowboy, but rather an engineer who thinks physics is “neat.” To this end, I wish that Chazelle and company would have gotten more swept up into the romance of the cosmos.

In First Man, Ryan Gosling offers his quietly powerful persona to this real-life stoic man of few words, bringing steadfast commitment and beautiful restraint to the role. It’s the enigmatic Claire Foy as Janet Armstrong who adds the necessary pulse and life force, holding those “boys” at NASA in check during moments that put her husband in danger. A fantastic supporting cast, including Kyle Chandler, Jason Clarke, Christopher Abbott and Corey Stoll, round out the film film transforms into IMAX during the moon sequences, which Chazelle states that was intended to be his “Wizard of Oz moment.”

At the end of the day, audiences will either cherish First Man for offering a contemplative inward journey or feel that it held itself too restrained. Overall, I would have liked to feel as if Armstrong was a little more awestruck. But even if this was intentionally absent in order to faithfully show his brilliance as an engineer and devoted father whose still waters ran deep, First Man is nonetheless a fantastic work of art and dutiful historical document that no doubt furthers Chazelle’s, Gosling’s, and the rest of the creative company’s artistry, as well as adds to the story of Armstrong and those who dare to find themselves amongst the stars.

141 min. First Man is rated PG-13 for some thematic content involving peril, and brief strong language. Now playing. •

Take Control of Your Personal Information

(BPT) - Understanding and managing your personal information is essential to achieving your life goals such as owning a home, financing an education, getting your next job or simply having the convenience of credit cards for everyday purchases.

Banks, landlords, employers and many others need to authenticate your identity and evaluate your creditworthiness to determine whether they can trust you to make payments if they lend you money. This credit behavior determines a person’s credit score.

So, how do you take control of your personal information and maintain good credit health? Here are a few key tips for financial health empowerment:

Monitor your information regularly: According to TransUnion’s July 2017 Credit Literacy study, almost half of consumers thought checking your own credit score has the same effect as when a lender checks it. Fortunately, this is not the case. When you check your information, it is usually reported as a soft inquiry and ultimately does not impact your score. Checking your information regularly is encouraged and should be part of a habitual routine, much like regular exercise.

It’s important to understand both what helps build credit and what negatively affects your credit. Once you are well-versed in your information, you are taking one important step toward being in control and can better inform your choices and be empowered to make the right decisions. There are many solutions available that provide easy access to your information, including TransUnion Credit Monitoring.

Make payments on time: Paying your bills on time and in full each month will show that you are reliable and more likely to pay back debts. Doing so will help grow your credit score, but remember, consistency is key. If you have missed a payment in the past, getting back on track and paying off debt should be a top priority. Having a positive history of on-time payments shows responsible behavior.

Don’t use all your available credit: It is recommended to maintain a low credit utilization ratio, that is, how much of your available credit you’re using at any given time. This suggests to creditors that you can use credit responsibly and do not rely on it too much. It is recommended that you use no more than 30 percent of your available credit.

Building credit takes time: Building and maintaining a track record takes time, responsible financial behavior and smart credit usage. Therefore, it is important to start early and understand the implications of your decisions. For example, closing your oldest credit card account could end up negatively impacting your score. However, every situation is different, depending on a person’s account history, fee structure or rates.

Protect your information: You have a vital role to play in controlling who has access to your information, and there are tools readily available to do this. Protecting your information from fraud is critical. As part of TransUnion’s ongoing commitment to empowering consumers to understand and manage their information and achieve financial health, it offers a range of solutions. To complement credit monitoring, Lock Alert is a new, innovative feature that automatically sends an alert to members whenever a request for their locked or frozen credit report is made in connection with an application for new credit. •

“Your credit score affects the interest rates you’re offered on credit cards and loans, can be used to vet your job application, and in some states may influence your insurance premiums.”

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy Named Norb Huber

ELECTIONS
I missed all the excitement that comes with City election day. From the polling places to the returning of the ballots to City Hall, to the waiting anxiously for the results to be posted on a website or for Channel 22 HCTV to show them for everyone who has Time Warner to see. We have a new City Clerk. I am officially the “former” City Clerk now. It seems to me that most citizens really don’t take too much interest in politics until a few days before the election. They get tired of hearing about all the fighting and especially all the campaign ads and robo calls that are placed on their home phones. Well, it’s over for another two years, and 2020 looks like it’s going to be a real bruiser of a battle with us voting for President again and also for Hawthorne City Mayor. So, fresh off the computer screen here are the winners from last night: For City Council: Olivia Valentine and Alex Monteiro, For City Clerk: Dr. Paul Jimenez, For City Treasurer: L. David Patterson. Also, Nilo Michelin won a seat on the El Camino School Board, so he will be vacating his seat as a Hawthorne City Council member. This will force the city council to appoint a replacement for him. Two years ago the appointment process got quite divisive when each of the council members had their favorite person to be appointed. Congrats to all of the winners. Serve well.

VETERANS CELEBRATIONS
November is here and the holiday early in the month is Veterans Day. The Hawthorne Veterans Commission will be hosting their 4th Annual Veterans Day Celebration on Saturday, November 10th at 7 p.m. at the Hawthorne Memorial Center. This year they will be recognizing all of the veterans who are employed by the City of Hawthorne and all the veterans who serve us in the Hawthorne Police Department. Each year this event has been a very popular and fun event. Music and refreshments will be part of the night’s agenda. We really do owe our veterans a lot of recognition for serving us. This event is a great way to show our appreciation.

VETERANS DAY CELEBRATION
The Hawthorne VFW Post 2075 will be honoring our veterans, families, active duty military and District 4 auxiliaries by hosting a Family Freedom Festival on Sunday November 11th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the post located at 4563 W. 131st Street in Hawthorne. The event will include Fun-Food-Raffles, Silent Auction, Activities for Kids. Long-time civic volunteer and VFW member, Carol Steinhauer sent me an email asking me to please let everyone know that this event is open to the public and will be a great way to celebrate Veterans Day on the 11th.

OUT OF BATTERY – NO LIFE
We have become so dependent upon our cell phones that if, God forbid, we lose our phone or run out of battery charge, we feel helpless, disconnected, and/or pretty lonely. Our personal cells phones have become part of us. I go to a football game now and just show the ticket bar code on the phone to get in. I board a plane now and just scan my ticket on my phone. I place and order on Amazon and with one click of the button, the item that I wish to purchase is on its way to my door step. I can almost run my entire ecommerce company using my iphone. It used to be the young people were on their phones 24/7, now it’s all of us. Young and old, rich or poor. Kindergarten students bring phones to school to call their moms at lunch time. African ranchers use phones to get the weather to plant their crops at the right time. Now, it’s not whether or not you can hear me, but whether there is a wifi hotspot close enough to me. Internet coverage has pretty much covered the globe. It’s nice not to be connected. When I attend church and turn my cell phone off, it actually is nice to not have to be distracted by what is going on in my pocket. Technology is great. It has given us greater opportunity to stay together. But, some times it’s just great to breath and just enjoy the moment without this thing connected to our hands. I would rather have my hand wrapped around a cold one. Stay connected, but remember to live and breath and smell the flowers along the way.

NASA’s Juno Mission Detects Jupiter Wave Trains

Based on a Press Release from JPL, Provided by Bob Eklund

Massive structures of moving air that appear like waves in Jupiter’s atmosphere were first detected by NASA’s Voyager missions during their flybys of the gas-giant world in 1979. The JunoCam camera aboard NASA’s Juno mission (<https://www.nasa.gov/juno>, <https://www.missionjuno.swri.edu>) to Jupiter has also imaged the atmosphere. JunoCam data has detected atmospheric wave trains, towering atmospheric structures that trail one after the other as they roam the planet, with most concentrated near Jupiter’s equator.

The JunoCam imager has resolved smaller distances between individual wave crests in these trains than ever seen before. This research provides valuable information on both the dynamics of Jupiter’s atmosphere and its structure in the regions underneath the waves.

“JunoCam has counted more distinct wave trains than any other spacecraft mission since Voyager,” said Glenn Orton, a Juno scientist from NASA’s Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, California. “The trains, which consist of as few as two waves and as many as several dozen, can have a distance between crests as small as about 40 miles and as large as about 760 miles. The shadow of the wave structure in one image allowed us to estimate the height of one wave to be about 6 miles high.”

Most of the waves are seen in elongated wave trains, spread out in an east-west direction, with wave crests that are perpendicular to the orientation of the train. Other fronts in similar wave trains tilt significantly with respect to the orientation of the wave train, and still other wave trains follow slanted or meandering paths.

“The waves can appear close to other Jovian atmospheric features, near vortices or along flow lines, and others exhibit no relationship with anything nearby,” said Orton. “Some wave trains appear as if they are converging, and others appear to be overlapping, possibly at two different atmospheric levels. In one case, wave fronts appear to be radiating outward from the center of a cyclone.”

Although analysis is ongoing, most waves are expected to be atmospheric gravity waves—up and-down ripples that form in the atmosphere above something that disturbs air flow, such as a thunderstorm updraft, disruptions of flow around other features, or from some other disturbance that JunoCam does not detect.

The JunoCam instrument is uniquely qualified to make such a discovery. JunoCam is a color, visible-light camera which offers a wide-angle field of view designed to capture remarkable pictures of Jupiter’s poles and cloud tops. As Juno’s eyes, it helps provide context for the spacecraft’s other instruments. JunoCam was included on the spacecraft primarily for public engagement purposes, although its images also are helpful to the science team.

Juno launched on Aug. 5, 2011, from Cape Canaveral, Florida, and arrived in orbit around Jupiter on July 4, 2016. To date, it has completed 15 science passes over Jupiter. Juno’s 16th science pass will be on Oct. 29. During these flybys, Juno is probing beneath the obscuring cloud cover of Jupiter and studying its auroras to learn more about the planet’s origins, structure, atmosphere and magnetosphere. •

Three waves can be seen in this excerpt of a JunoCam image taken on Feb. 2, 2017, during Juno’s fourth flyby of Jupiter. The region imaged in this picture is part of the visibly dark band just north of Jupiter’s equator known as the North Equatorial Belt. Image credit: NASA/JPL-Caltech/SwRI/MSSS/JunoCam.

“Jupiter, a world far larger than Earth, is so warm that it currently radiates more internal heat than it receives from the Sun.”

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of CLEMENTHA "CLEMETHA" MARIE DILLARD. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by ALEX R. BORDEN in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that ALEX R. BORDEN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/14/18 at 8:30AM in Dept. 67 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner

Purrrfect Companions

Kumquat

Oroblanco and Cara Cara

Give one of these kitties a second chance for a lifetime of love when you adopt a pet without a partner.

Percy and Noodle are best buddies at the Kitten Rescue Adoption Center where they live. They would love to go to their new home together or maybe with one of the many friends they have made here.

Percy is a gallant knight out to protect, serve and play with his best friend, Noodle, and all kittens under his protection. Percy is stunning in his brown, feathery-ticked coat. He loves warm laps and to receive belly rubs. Percy is the best kitten ever with his regal manner and playful antics, not to mention his epic cuddling. Percy needs to have another cat or kitten to protect, so he can only be adopted with another kitten.

Noodle is a sweet little nutcase who loves to snuggle. He is playful with kitties and people. He is smart enough to entertain himself and is welcoming to other kitties who want to play as well. He is very tolerant of brushing and nail trims. Noodle will be a stunning big kitty when he grows up. But right now, he is simply adorable. Noodle must be adopted with another kitty -- either one existing in the home already or one you adopt with him. His best friend is Percy, but he has many friends at the Adoption Center.

Ashton and Daphne are a beautiful brother/sister pair who are shy and need a quiet, calm home. Ashton loves head scratches and hanging out with you. Once he is comfortable in your presence, he will lounge on the floor and stretch out his entire body. His favorite place is perched high in a cat tree. If you want a kitty with a silly personality, Ashton is the one.

Percy

Ashton loves playing with his more outgoing sister, Daphne. He looks to his sister for guidance, so he would be best adopted with her so he could have her support. Daphne also enjoys head scratches and will purr very loudly in appreciation. If you are looking for a super-sweet kitty, then Daphne is your girl. She will give you sweet little kisses when you pet her. She is the more outgoing of the two and will provide direction for Ashton at times. Daphne is very attached to her brother and would love to be adopted with him.

Ashton and Daphne

Oroblanco, Cara Cara and Kumquat are our sweet little “citrus” kittens. Due to their young ages and energy levels, they each will need a playful buddy to grow up with -- ideally another kitten of similar disposition. It would be great to adopt them in a pair or as a trio if you don’t already have a fun-loving feline friend for them. They could integrate with other kittens and cats, or cat-friendly dogs easily, though they haven’t met any dogs yet.

Oroblanco is a lovable, playful kitten who knows how to balance high-energy playtime with sweet, snuggly people time. He’s the big guy of the family, but not dominant or aggressive. He’s actually a bit more tentative than his siblings, getting the lay of the land before jumping into new things. Oroblanco is particularly affectionate when held or cuddled. He loves to get right in your face for nose boops and cheek rubs. He is the most likely of the group to peel off from playtime to climb on your lap for a recharge. He enjoys a full-body scratch, lots of long pets from head-to-toe and face rubs.

Cara Cara is a very playful high-energy kitten who never gets tired of running and pouncing around the room with her brothers. Affectionate and sweet, she purrs to the touch and is amenable to frequent breaks from romping around if you scoop her up for hugs and kisses. She loves people, approaches when she sees you and enjoys patting your hands or nuzzled exchanges. Cara Cara has not met a toy she doesn’t love! Her favorites are plastic springs, which bounce in all directions and give her an exciting workout. She carries them around the room in her mouth looking for the perfect spot to drop and play.

Kumquat is an outgoing, energetic little guy who is always ready to go when anyone says it’s playtime! He’s a slight and slender frame built for the tosses and turns his siblings bring to him. On the interpersonal side, Kumquat loves people and starts purring immediately when you pet or hold him. This is when the charming people-lover in him comes out and he can turn his attention to you. Kumquat is adventurous and loves to discover new things. As an all-out physical comic, he consistently delivers a hilarious performance during his playtime.

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org.

by Korea in the 1950s, and Vietnam during the 1960s and early ‘70s. The Cold War with the Soviet Union ended with the breakup of the USSR, but hostilities continue between NATO forces and Russia. Californians since have answered the call to duty in Iraq, Kuwait, Bosnia, Somalia and Afghanistan.

While Memorial Day is set aside in late May to honor members of the Armed Forces who’ve lost their lives in active service, Veterans Day is all-encompassing and celebrates the service of ordinary Americans who are living and deceased. Sunday and Monday, however, are largely intended to thank living veterans for their personal sacrifices. And it’s not just the veterans being honored this year.

The Department of Defense reminds Americans that November is National Veterans and Military Families Month, too. Parents, siblings, spouses and children have a special duty that is easy to overlook despite the visible presence of the Department of Defense and U.S. Air Force in the South Bay. During November and throughout the year, Americans are encouraged to remember the burden and hardship that spouses and children of active-duty service people accept.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Blvd. just south of Manchester Avenue, and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Ave, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location.

Military spouses often put a career on hold to move to another installation or juggle family obligations, according to the Pentagon. “From settling their children in a new school to helping their service member’s parents navigate care when their loved one is far from home – military families do what needs to be done and never stop giving.”

Readers are asked to thank them this month on social media and show appreciation in other small ways. Surprise a local military family with a meal or a friendly visit at their door. Employers are encouraged to hire a veteran, a service member transitioning to civilian life, or a military spouse to lighten the financial burdens they face.

“Our military families have made it their mission to serve our nation; now it is our turn to serve them, whenever and however we can,” the Pentagon reminds all Americans. “These actions - big and small - demonstrate our appreciation.” •
