Hawthorne City Council Meets Minus the Mayor Pro-Tem and Mayor Brown

By Nancy Peters

When the Hawthorne City Council postponed the regularly scheduled Tuesday, November 11 meeting to Wednesday, November 12 as the city observed the Veteran’s Day federal holiday on November 11, Mayor Pro-Tem Olivia Valentine announced that she was not available on November 12. The meeting on Wednesday, November 12 was therefore held without her presence and all votes were based on four members casting ballots for resolutions or ordinances requiring a vote. In addition to the absence of Valentine, Mayor Chris Brown was not present for the rest of the voting as he vacated the meeting prior to the City Clerk’s, City Manager’s and City Attorney’s Consent Calendars were considered. City Council member Alex Vargas was assigned to preside over the balance of the meeting.

Unfortunately, the live streaming of the meeting and the subsequent taping available online on the city’s website does not have sound and so the public not in attendance in the City Council Chambers will not be able to hear any of the presentations, public comments, or Council comments in the archives of this meeting.

The first order of business involved the presentation of a proclamation to Hawthorne Police Department Detective Timothy Johnson who retired after 25 years of service to the city where he was born and raised and then employed. Det. Johnson served in the Gang division, on S.W.A.T., and also was a member of the department’s Robbery division.

The presentation of the California Water

Service Company announced new rates for the homeowners who subscribe to this service. The rates have not increased in several years and the average increase will be 12 percent over a three-year period, in 2015, 2016, and then 10 percent in 2017. The last rate increase went into effect in January 2009.. In order for any rate increases to be considered or to go into effect, the City Council will hold a public hearing for comments prior to the effective date of the first increase. As part of the resolution, which was approved by a vote of 4-0, the public hearing will be held as part of the City Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday, January 13, 2015 at 6 p.m.

The Hawthorne Energy Plan, approved as part of the City Clerk Consent Calendar, will involve the establishment of a baseline energy use, targeting of a reduction goal, identification of possible energy efficiency projects, provide community outreach of the plan through newsletters with energy billing statements to residents, and educate the public on each step to be taken through Town Hall meetings. Progress of the Energy Action Plan will be monitored and reported.

The month of November was declared In-Home Caregiver and National Family Caregivers Month.

The City Council approved support for the United States Congress bills S 2738 and HR 5484 for research on the toxic exposure to noxious gases that veterans of the Viet Nam, Desert Storm, and Iraqi Wars were subjected to during their service to the country serving on foreign soil and for support of those ailments afflicting those veterans as a result of exposure to those toxic elements which effect their ability to function in every day life since their service in these foreign locations ended.

A 5-minute parking restriction will immediately go into effect on Jefferson Avenue between 138th Street and 139th Street between 2 and 4 p.m. Signage will be installed as soon as possible in order for the area in front of Jefferson Elementary School to be better served. Any costs will be funded through gas tax funds.

As part of the approval of the City Manager Consent Calendar a contract with FilmLA will afford the city increased fees for filming permits to be handled by the outside agency and give more exposure to Hawthorne as a viable filming area with all the various historically correct structures as well as the structures that allow use for filming inside, such as the mall parking structure and the former RFK Hospital building.

New street signs and traffic regulatory signs are approved to be fabricated by Zumar Industries Inc. and will be available to the Public Works Department for installation after the construction on Hawthorne Boulevard is completed.

The next meeting of the City Council will be held on Tuesday, December 9 at 6 p.m. The City Council approved the cancellation of the regularly scheduled meetings on Tuesday, November 25 at a previous meeting. During this meeting (November 12), the City Council quorum of three members approved the cancellation of the regularly scheduled meeting of Tuesday, December 23, 2014. •

Quo Vadis (Where Are You Going?)

Last week, this column compared the results of the election to the awakening of a drunk from a long and disastrous binge. Six years of hazy memories of unbridled spending, unlimited debt, minimal economic growth, world's highest corporate tax rates, a spider web of paralyzing regulations, free food, 99 weeks of unemployment compensation, free phones, unrestricted abortions, failing government run healthcare, $3 trillion in newly printed money, 92 million unemployed, growing income/gender/racial divides, uncontrolled national borders, inept administrators managing bloated bureaucracies, and uneven and failed foreign policies.

This binge won President Obama the title of the “Worst President Since WWII,” and the “7th Worst President Of All Time.” A sobering America now recognizes that by a 27-65 margin the country had been headed in the wrong direction. To reverse course, America has selected Republicans to run both houses of Congress and to control both the governorship and both houses in 23 states. Among governors, Republicans now outnumber Democrats by a 31-17. The binge is over, Alcoholics Anonymous has won.

With a vow of renewed sobriety, where will America go? First, it will not renew the Leftist Agenda of the binge. It will not elect Obama's fellow Saul Alinsky acolyte, Hillary Clinton, because America remembers that before Obamacare (opposed by 38-51 margin) there was Hillarycare. The Bobbsey Twins share their belief that the private sector does not create jobs; neither has managed a state; neither has run a business; both bungled Benghazi; and both believe in a social engineering model run by Washington elitists. Neither will acknowledge the dirty little secret that Leftists need a divided America to survive. They depend on the continuing existence of splintered groups with individual agendas they can exploit with social engineering for financial and political gain, since a truly united America would spell its doom.

Quo Vadis? We will select a new leader in 2016 with governing experience in managing large and diverse states, each focusing on a subset of skills America deems crucial. In no particular order, there is Texas' Rick Perry, who has directed the fastest growing and prosperous state in the country. There is Florida's Jeb Bush, with strengths in education and immigration. There is Massachusetts' Mitt Romney, with unrivaled success in private sector growth. There is Wisconsin's Scott Walker, who was able to reconcile union demands with the best interests of his state.

All of them are centrists who will unite rather than divide the core of the political spectrum. All believe in the constitutionally assigned roles of each branch of government; believe in individual rights and responsibilities; have proven skills and experience in maximizing the benefit to the greater good rather than succumbing to the temptations of social engineering. In short, they're good at herding cats.

So Brothers and sisters in sobriety, clap your hands, bang your drums, and beat your tambourines. Cross your index fingers to ward off the evil temptations of the sauce since we've still got our heads swathed in wet towels to recover from the effects of the binge. •

Democrats Need to Do More Than Simply Engage Voters

Last week Politico.com posted an article where a reporter John Shinkle interviewed Congresswoman Nancy Pelosi. In her conversation with Shinkle, the congresswoman made two statements that I want to address. First of all, Pelosi made the claim that the Democratic Party's message is fine and that her colleagues in blue need to simply better engage voters. I have to disagree with the Congresswoman with that statement. While I will accept that our country's voter turnout is abysmal, getting people to simply vote is not the proper solution.

I'm sure we can debate all day over what is more dangerous: an unengaged electorate or a fanatical electorate that will simply vote based on party lines. My honest opinion is that they are both just as reckless and they hurt elections more than they help. So Congresswoman Pelosi's suggestion that Democrats need to get more people out to vote is only going to add to the problem. Rather, the Democrats should be unified in their platform as a party and better deliver that message. It is difficult to say why those apathetic voters didn't turn out to the polls but we do know based on the election results that the middle-of-the-road voter leaned a bit more to the right. Maybe if the Democratic Party did a better job at developing, packaging and presenting its ideas to the voters, the outcome could have been different. The Republicans certainly did a good job at bashing the Democrats through the uses of some facts, a bit of fact-distortion and in some cases by using flat out lies. Yet, the Democrats were so unorganized that the right's strategy worked.

Instead of worrying about a larger number of voters making it to the polls on election night just for the sake of voting,

The second thing that the congresswoman said, which I actually have to agree with is that the latest election results was not a wave of approval for Republicans. What we saw was the normal voting behavior of Americans in which after several years the political pendulum swings in the other direction. In 2008 Americans were frustrated with President Bush and the Republican Party so the vote went to Democrats. That did not represent a massive shift in American political ideology; it simply was the middle-of-the-road voters' reluctance to continue following one party for four more years. After eight years of having the Democrats in the White House, the voters have shifted in the other direction. So in this instance the congresswoman is right; the Democrats lost the election, but the American electorate is not all of a sudden filled with right-wing ideologues. Voters are simply giving the other party a chance.

This is the natural flow of the American electorate. Congresswoman Pelosi and the Democrats need to focus more on developing a vision for American that caters to the entire country and not just fanatical liberals. Furthermore, they should stop getting into irrational shouting matches with the right-wing portion of Washington. The hardcore GOP voters will never vote Democrat much like the die-hard Democratic voters will not vote for the GOP. Huge shifts in the electorate rarely happen and it certainly did not occur during the last election. The Democrats simply lost and will likely recover in eight years. •

The luncheon begins at 11:30 a.m. All seniors are welcome to attend.

HOLIDAY HOME DECORATING CONTEST

It’s already that time of the year, it’s time to start decorating our homes for the holidays. The Hawthorne Parks and Fine Arts Commission once again is offering some nice prizes to the winners of the Holiday Home Decoration Contest. Applications are available at the Parks office at the Memorial Center. The entry deadline is December 16th.

HOLIDAY HOMETOWN CELEBRATION

Santa will be arriving in Hawthorne on Saturday, December 6 at 5:30 p.m. at the civic center located in front of city hall on 126th Street. Bring your children down for a special treat when the jolly, old fella arrives on a fire truck and greets all the kidos. Children young and old will have a chance to sit on his lap, tell him their wish list, and get their picture taken. A short program, holiday music and refreshments will be served, all leading up to Santa’s arrival.

HAWTHORNE THANKSGIVING

A list of 10 things we can be thankful for in Hawthorne: 1. Great weather 2. A safe city of live in thanks to the Hawthorne Police Department 3. Lower gas prices 4. Good neighbors 5. A soon to be completed Hawthorne Blvd. renovation 6. Home values increasing 7. The job market improving 8. Community service organizations and individuals who feed the hungry and provide gifts to the less fortunate 9. Businesses, large and small that keep Hawthorne moving forward 10. Our local churches and their pastors who remind us to be thankful in all circumstances and to thank God from whom all blessings flow. (Oh yes, I am also thankful for all of that great food that we pig out on next Thursday and the leftovers on Friday and Saturday and maybe even the Sunday following Thanksgiving. There is nothing better than a good, turkey sandwich with mayonnaise.)

FORGET THE 12 DAYS OF CHRISTMAS

It’s more like 40 or 50 days of Christmas shopping. Forget Black Friday, it’s more like a month long Black selling season. Stores have already started to put things on sale. The Amazon delivery vans and UPS trucks and FedEx trucks are out until all hours of the night dropping off packages. Internet sales are projected to increase by 15% this year. I have been blessed to be part of this Christmas selling season. About eight years ago, I started to look at producing an affordable, outdoor nativity scene. Over the past few years we have put them on the internet to sell. We have been amazed at the response. Our company is now sending out over 2,000 outdoor nativities each season. Our mission has been to help people celebrate the true meaning of Christmas. If you would like to view our products, then visit our website at: outdoornativitystore.com. We are truly blessed to have a product that is unique and that many people wish to purchase from all over the world.

Groundbreaking Stem Cell Research Into Lou Gehrig's Disease

(BPT) - On July 4, 1939, Lou Gehrig said goodbye to the crowd at Yankee Stadium: "Fans, for the past two weeks you have been reading about the bad break I got. Yet today I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth." The bad break he referred to was his career-ending diagnosis of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), commonly known today as Lou Gehrig's disease. Seventy-five years later, researchers studying ALS are using cutting-edge stem cell science to develop treatments and, one day, a cure.

ALS affects nerve cells called motor neurons that control a person's muscles. As the disease progresses, the brain loses the ability to control voluntary muscle movement, which slowly causes paralysis, eventually taking away the ability to breathe.

Monica Carrasco, Ph.D., an associate research scientist at Columbia University, lives on the cutting edge of ALS research. Carrasco uses human stem cells to study the ways ALS functions. Her current project focuses on the interaction between motor neurons and cells known as glia that help maintain the balanced environment neurons require to function properly. Stem cell research can be very intense, she says, because the cells need attention every day.

The breakthrough that made her projects possible came in early 2006, when another lab pioneered the process for developing stem cells for motor neurons. At the time, people mostly used mice to study ALS, but only a tiny fraction - 5 percent - of ALS cases can be studied with mice models. That imposed serious limitations on ALS research.

Carrasco says that stem cells will be huge for many diseases. For ALS, they already are. The ability to develop stem cells from the skin samples of many different ALS patients gives researchers the big picture that studies using mice could not. As a result, the past few years have been a hotbed of new discoveries.

To support those discoveries, the ALS Association funds more than 98 projects with a total award value of $18.1 million through its Translational Research Advancing Therapies for ALS (TREAT ALS) program. From 2006 to 2008, Carrasco was the recipient of the Milton-Safenowitz Postdoctoral Fellowship for ALS Research from the ALS Association. Funding for this two-year scientific research award was made possible by the generosity of the Safenowitz family through The ALS Association Greater New York Chapter in memory of Milton Safenowitz, who died of ALS in 1998. Dr. Carrasco has since received several other support grants from the association to continue her work and says that the ALS Association's funding has been "Incredibly important. We wouldn't be able to study ALS in the lab without that support. There are many things that we could not be doing right now without it."

Research today is "advancing as fast as I have ever seen," she says.

Many ALS patients have lost up to 60 percent of their motor neurons by the time they are diagnosed. Carrasco wants to better understand the causes and phases of ALS and enable doctors to diagnose the disease as early as possible. Early diagnosis is crucial to effective treatment, she says. "By understanding the mechanism of the disease, we can move on to develop drug treatments."

There's still a long road to travel before stem cell research into ALS reaches its full potential, Carrasco says. "You have to consider that only in 2006 was the technology developed to take skin samples and develop the skin samples into pluripotent stem cells," she says. "This is unique and very new. It's not just about using the cells; it's about asking the right questions and understanding exactly what information you can get out of the cells. There is huge hope, but these are the really early days." •

Despite Big Effort, Lawndale Falls Short

Lawndale quarterback Chris Murray attempts to elude a Palos Verdes defender during last Friday’s CIF-Southern Section Western Division first round playoff action. The Cardinals fell short of the Sea Kings 35-28.

Lawndale High’s football team made a valiant effort as it overcame a 21-point second quarter deficit to catch Palos Verdes, but came up on the short end of a 35-28 score in the first round of the CIF-Southern Section Western Division playoffs last Friday at Mira Costa High.

The Sea Kings, who captured the Bay League championship and were seeded fifth in the playoffs, surged out to a 21-0 lead early in the second period before the Cardinals, who finished second behind the playoffs’ second seeded El Segundo in the Ocean League, took advantage of mistakes and eventually tied the game at 21 when quarterback Chris Murray completed a 17-yard touchdown pass to Dawan Ballard with 7:35 left in the third quarter.

Palos Verdes, which improved to 8-3 overall, came right back and took the lead for good on a trick play. It started when quarterback Steven Delcarson handed off to running back Stanton Gilbertson, who passed to wide receiver Shawn Hill for the 28-yard TD that gave the Sea Kings a 28-21 lead.

Gilbertson gave P.V. a 35-21 advantage on a four-yard scoring run with 9:16 remaining in the game. Lawndale (6-5) made one last shot and cut the Sea Kings’ lead to 35-28 on a nine-yard touchdown pass from Murray to wide receiver Jalen Walker with 2:11 to go. The Cardinals’ onside kick, however, was recovered by the Sea Kings, who were able run down the clock and move to the Friday’s quarterfinal game against fourth seeded Oxnard at Mira Costa, beginning at 7 p.m. Oxnard, the Pacific View League champion, won its first round game over Torrance 28-23 last Friday at Oxnard.

“In the playoffs, mishaps are magnifying,” Lawndale head coach Rick Mathieson said. “We rode on it for awhile but P.V. was able to regroup. They (the Sea Kings) are physical up front and well disciplined.”

After Palos Verdes took a 21-0 lead when Delcarson completed a 23-yard TD pass to wide receiver Lance Brown, the Sea Kings had a poor kickoff that gave the Cardinals the ball at the P.V. 22-yard line. Just a few plays later, Murray scored the Cardinals’ first touchdown on a three-yard run.

Shortly before halftime, the Sea Kings attempted to up their lead to 24-7 when kicker Kyle Coale made three attempts at a field goal, due to each teams committing five-yard penalties. Coale’s third try, though, was not a charm as it was blocked by Isiah Torres into the hands of Ballard. Ballard ran away from the field for an 80-yard score that cut P.V.’s lead to 21-14.

“I take my hat off to Lawndale,” Palos Verdes head coach Guy Gardner said. “They are definitely going the right direction. We committed a lot of penalties and turnovers but Lawndale played well. I am pleased that we’re moving on.” Delcarson and Gilbertson scored the Sea Kings’ first two TD’s on two-yard runs in the first quarter.

LAWNDALE FACES INGLEWOOD AT SHORES

Lawndale and Inglewood High’s boys’ basketball team will square off against each other in the first round of the Redondo Pacific Shores Tournament on Monday at 6 p.m. Both teams return several key players and are expected to be top contenders for titles in their leagues and even CIF-Southern Section and possible California State championships.

It appears that the Cardinals should be in a close race with Santa Monica and Beverly Hills for the Ocean League crown.

The Sentinels, who return four starters, will contend with power Redondo for the Bay League title. Inglewood’s cross-town rival Morningside, as well as Peninsula and Mira Costa, are also expected to contend in a very competitive league.

The classic also includes the host Sea Hawks, defending CIF-Southern Section Division IAA champion Long Beach Poly, Lakewood Mayfair, Bellflower St. John Bosco, along with top CIF-Los Angeles City teams Westchester and Woodland Hills El Camino Real.

El Camino Real won the City crown over the Comets 58-57 last season but Westchester bounced back to reach the Southern California Regional Open Division championship before losing to eventual state champion Santa Ana Mater Dei. Last year, Redondo won the tournament by edging Mayfair 64-63.

CROSS COUNTRY

Hawthorne Math and Science Academy’s boys’ cross country team advanced to the CIF-Southern Section Division V Prelims but failed to qualify for the championships last Saturday at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut.

The Aviators were led by junior Alex Garcia, who placed 47th with a time of 17 minutes and 59 seconds over the tough three-mile course. Other top HMSA finishers included Andrew Ash (49th place, 18:05), Dylan Highdicheck (53rd, 18:13), Joshiah Howard (64th, 18:46) and Andrew Tovar (70th, 19:09). •

Lawndale’s Dawan Ballard runs away for a touchdown after a blocked field goal attempt by Palos Verdes kicker Kyle Coale in last Friday’s CIF-Southern Section Western Division first round playoff action.

3 Things You Need To Know Before Starting A Home-Based Business

(BPT) - About 16 million Americans work from home - a number that Global Workplace Analytics expects will increase by 63 percent over the next five years. In fact, every 12 seconds someone starts a new home-based business in the United States, according to Business for Home. Access to new technology, increased job flexibility and a higher earning potential are just some of the reasons many entrepreneurs consider a home-based business more rewarding than the typical corporate cubical.

Home-based business owners can easily engage with customers in real-time through social media channels. They can even take advantage of technological advances, such as cloud computing, video conferencing services, apps and mobile payment devices to connect with business partners and conduct business from virtually anywhere in the world.

Millennials especially enjoy the idea of not worrying about the dress codes, arrival times and rush-hour traffic that come with traditional jobs. Global Workplace Analytics found that 81 percent of them expect to have a flexible work schedule, and home-based business models allow just that. Perhaps most attractively, self-employed business owners also have the potential to earn more money instead of being confined to a pre-determined salary, since higher risks sometimes yield higher rewards.

But while owning your own business and working from home offer many advantages, there are some important things to consider before taking the plunge. Here are three things you need to know before starting your own home-based business:

Get Established

Having the initial courage to get started is often the hardest part of setting up your new business at home. Proper financing can make or break your success. While federal agencies do not provide grants for starting a home-based business, many low-interest loan programs will give you startup financing. It's also important to decide what type of ownership is best for your business. You have many options: sole proprietorship, partnership, Limited Liability Company (LLC), corporation, S corporation, nonprofit and cooperative. The U.S. Small Business Administration notes that you must establish your business identity, as it determines which income tax return forms you have to file - income tax, self-employment tax, taxes for employers or excise taxes.

Once you've decided how to finance your business, most states require you to register your "Doing Business As" (DBA) name, according to the U.S. Small Business Administration. For sole proprietors and partnerships, you need to register a DBA if your business is called anything other than your real name. You can register a DBA at your county clerk's or state government office.

Get in the Zone

Depending on where you live, zoning laws can prohibit some home-based businesses. Restrictions may limit how much of your home can be used for business, your ability to advertise with signage, parking and the number of employees. If you're not approved to have a home-based business due to zoning ordinances, you can apply for a variance. You can familiarize yourself with these local rules and ordinances by checking with the public library and local government websites in your area.

Depending on your business, you may need to obtain additional licensing, according to BizFilings.com. For example, if you're a caterer, you not only need to obtain a business license, but you may need to meet Food and Drug Administration requirements. You can consult your local and state government websites to find specific requirements in your business region.

Get Covered

You probably already have homeowners insurance, but it may not cover your home-based business. "The three most common coverage options for a home-based business are a Homeowners Policy Endorsement, an In-Home Business Policy and a Business Owners Policy (BOP)," says Erie Insurance Vice President and Product Manager Joe Vahey. "You might even want to consider extra coverages like workers' compensation if you have employees; disability insurance to protect your income if you're ever injured and can't work; and business auto insurance if you use vehicles to conduct business." Most of the time, business insurance provides more coverage than personal insurance. An Erie Insurance agent can help assess where your coverage gaps lie, and which coverages will best protect your business.

By taking the proper steps to establish a strong home-based business up front, you may reap the rewards in the end by having a secure, stable and profitable business with the flexibility and earning potential you're looking for. •
