City Emergency Declared to Slow Coronavirus

By Rob McCarthy

El Segundo city officials have declared a local emergency for the coronavirus epidemic and closed the city's bars, beer pubs and after-work hangouts where alcohol is served. Dine-in service at restaurants also is prohibited for two weeks and possibly longer. City Manager Scott Mitnick issued the citywide order on Monday in response to warnings from public-health officials that the COVID-19 virus had expanded quickly. The City Council on Tuesday backed the city manager's decision to shutter social-gathering places through March to keep people unknowingly carrying the virus from mingling in crowds. And to keep the number of new cases as low as possible.

The restriction on El Segundo businesses took effect Monday and affects breweries, wine bars, cigar lounges, nightclubs and all bars that serve alcohol. They, along with the restaurants, may continue to sell food that must be picked up or delivered. The mandatory closures will be reviewed in two weeks and again in 60 days if the public-health emergency continues. Cafeterias, commissaries and nursing homes are exempt. The dining ban doesn't apply to food services at defense contractors or transportation and chemical facilities with kitchens that serve employees meals. Grocery stores and food banks aren't restricted either, and neither are pharmacies. Violators could be charged with a misdemeanor that is punished by a $1,000 fine and up to six months in jail.

Officials at Tuesday's council meeting emphasized El Segundo has no confirmed cases of the COVID-19 virus. Manhattan Beach has four cases, and that proximity shifted El Segundo's emergency-response task force to a higher state of alert, Fire Chief Chris Donovan revealed Tuesday. Inglewood has one case, and there are two in Westchester.

An El Segundo coronavirus response task force was formed before Sunday's announcement by Gov. Gavin Newsom that he was calling for more stringent measures, including asking anyone 65 and over to stay home-bound, to deal with the expected spread of COVID-19. Fire Chief Donovan acknowledged Tuesday that the epidemic represents an extraordinary event for the city. He assured the council El Segundo's emergency services are trained and ready to continue to deliver critical city services and to deal with 911 calls from residents. "Our police and fire departments continue to remain fully staffed" and are responding to calls for assistance, he said.

The city manager has assumed the role of director of city emergency services. The city has released daily updates about closures and steps taken to protect city employees during this time of uncertainty. "Stay informed, stay alert, and stay safe," Mayor Drew Boyles advised El Segundo residents watching Tuesday's council meeting, which was open

In Los Angeles, Kitten Rescue Helps Forgotten Felines

By Chase Maser

According to an article by LA Weekly in 2015, Los Angeles was home to anywhere between 1 million and 3 million stray cats. Now, in 2020, that number most likely favors the latter.

Worst of all, there's thousands of cats—if not more—that have no chance of ever being domesticated. Whether due to their feral nature or challenges with disease, a tremendous number of cats are doomed to roam the streets of LA forever. Then again, Kitten Rescue makes it their mission to help forgotten felines find a new home.

Sandra Harrison—Executive Director of Kitten Rescue—explains how the non-profit all started with a kitten in a paper bag.

"It was the spring of 1997. Kitten Rescue founder, Sue Romaine, was leaving her volunteer shift at the West Valley Animal Shelter. She then met a gentleman carrying a brown paper bag. The bag had a tiny, four-week-old kitten inside of it. He was headed to the shelter to turn it in. The man told Sue that he had brought the siblings in the day before, but this one had been hard to catch. Sue's heart sank because she knew that the siblings had been euthanized by the shelter due to their young age. This kitten would face the same fate if she didn't intervene.

Jane Ann McGivern Perkins

Jane Ann McGivern Perkins, age 87, was born in Chicago, Illinois to George & Henrietta (Knox) McGivern on February 27, 1933 – March 6, 2020 at home in El Segundo.

She graduated from Beloit College in 1954, then moved to West Covina, California to teach junior high. Married a wonderful man, Walter, on August 19, 1955 and they raised their three children in El Segundo since 1957. Jane and Walter were married until he passed in December 1993. She was always grateful to be a homemaker and raise her children; volunteered in the community and then later found work where she made life-long friendships. Yet, her greatest love was being a grandma. Never a week went by that she wasn't present, hugging and playing with all four.

Jane lived a fulfilling life as a sweet, strong, confident, loving Mom, Grams, wife, cousin, daughter, granddaughter, niece and friend. Family gatherings with cousins were traditions that could not be missed – such joyous connections. We were raised with family meals she filled with warmth, wit and often card-playing hilarity. Always thinking of others: making sure you had a safe place to live; if you visited, she wanted everyone to have some of the delicious oranges from her plentiful tree; she had a soft spot for every dog & kitten in need that she came across and gave safe haven to. Always welcoming and wanting to cook/bake for you...those famous chocolate chip/raisin cookies, best-ever banana bread, the super-thin pancakes and secret-recipe homemade syrup. Her decades of involvement at the El Segundo United Methodist Church inspired her and made a difference for so many. She was a voracious reader who frequented the El Segundo Library and volunteered there to teach others to read. Any nearby symphony, play or concert-in-the-park would have her ear. Many nights she would play her own piano as a call for everyone to come home for dinner. She nourished her friendships to make sure they endured. She delighted in her bosses, co-workers and her Accounts Receivables work at Flegenheimer International for nearly a decade where she didn't retire until she was 80. Travel truly excited her and she made several trips home to Chicago, annual family/friend camping trips, a cross-country road trip, tours of Amish country and Ireland with her dear cousin Ann Marie, and a thrilling three-month trek through more than 10 European countries, culminating in the birth of her granddaughter in Germany.

She is survived by her children Cynthia Sandbakken, Stewart Perkins, Donna (Hartley) Shellabarger and son-in-law Robert Shellabarger. Grandchildren missing her are Nicholas Sandbakken, Bonnie Broek, Michael Hartley, Erin Sandbakken, grandson-in-law Steve Broek, as well as dear cousins, extended family and friends.

A memorial service at her church will be scheduled in a few months. Family will keep everyone apprised as to when. In lieu of flowers, please consider making a donation in her honor to: El Segundo United Methodist Church, 540 Main Street, El Segundo, CA 90245. •

Community Briefs

Announcing the City of El Segundo's Elderfest and Older American of The Year Nomination

May is Older Americans Month, a perfect opportunity to show our appreciation for the older adults in our community. The theme for Older Americans Month 2020 is: "Make Your Mark." This theme was selected to encourage and celebrate countless contributions that older adults make to our communities. Their time, experience, and talents benefit family, peers, and neighbors every day. It highlights the difference everyone can make - in the lives of older adults, in support of caregivers, and to strengthen communities.

Every year, the City of El Segundo Recreation and Parks Department solicits nominations for the El Segundo Older American of the Year. A selection committee determines the winner and he/she will be honored at an annual Elderfest Celebration given by Recreation and Parks on May 9, 2020. The winner will also be honored at a luncheon hosted by the County Department of Aging in Downtown Los Angeles.

All older Americans in the community are invited to attend the event to help celebrate the El Segundo Older American of the Year, participate in vendor exhibits, and receive free lunch.

Nomination guidelines:

- Must be 60 years of age or older
- El Segundo Resident or someone who makes a substantial impact in the El Segundo community
- Volunteer accomplishments in one of the following areas:
 - Community Service in El Segundo
 - Community Role Model or mentor
- Active in a community or civic club, commission, or organization which provides service to the community.

Nominations must include a brief statement regarding the person being nominated and a short application form. These forms are available at all El Segundo Recreation facilities and the library and may be returned to the Joslyn Center: 339 Sheldon Street, El Segundo 90245. All nominations must be received at the Joslyn Center by March 20, 2020. The selection committee is composed of representatives from various service groups within the city. For more information please contact the Joslyn Center at (310) 524-2705. •

The Sports World Will Return

El Segundo Little League has been put on hiatus due to the pandemic of the COVID-19 virus. They follow the lead of all the professional sports leagues including the NBA, NHL, MLB and MLS who have all suspended play. These are serious times and for the immediate future there is no sporting events to attend other than those at the high school level but even that could change.

This is not the time to panic but just being cautious and courteous should be the norm. Suspending play to stop large gatherings at sporting events is a great way to not come into close contact with others. During this pause there's hope that those who have been infected can quail the virus. It's also a great way to reconnect with our families and have 'family time' each day.

Be mindful this virus will be conquered and controlled. So the panic buying at Costco and other stores makes all of us uneasy. Remember the 2009 flu pandemic or swine flu was an influenza pandemic that lasted from early 2009 to late 2010. It was many times more severe than our current virus contagion and we weren't over buying goods at such an alarming rate we're seeing now. Here's an idea that could work much like it did during the gas crunch of the 1970s. Using the odd/even day method shoppers would be allowed in stores based on the last number of their driver's license.

Show some restraint and stop overloading your shopping carts with toilet paper. Scale back on stockpiling other items so we can all get through these challenging times together and return to our sporting events.

– Gregg McMullin

Thank You El Segundo Fire Department

I want to thank the El Segundo Fire Department for making my day. The Fire Department held a Coronavirus Presentation for the residents of Park Vista, an independent senior living apartment complex in town. After the presentation, I mentioned that I had left my cane at Ralphs Market. I asked if anyone could retrieve it for me since it was advised that all seniors over 65 years of age should remain indoors.

A little while later, a hook and ladder fire engine showed up to Park West with three canes that were left at Ralphs. What a surprise. This goes to show that our Fire Department is made up of wonderful people who care about the residents of El Segundo.

El Segundo Fire Department, thank you so much for all that you do.

– Shelley Tucker

COVID-19 It's Time to Band Together

Now is the time for every member of our community, to paraphrase JFK — and ask not just what government will do for us regarding this most current crisis, but what will we do for ourselves, our neighbors and our employees?

America isn't an authoritarian regime like China or that will jail us for not practicing a state edict. Government response is only part of what we need. The practice of more "self-government" will help get us through this latest mess. We will get through it with a little humor and an awful lot of kindness.

The City and Rotary Club are combining efforts to provide door-to-door food and grocery delivery to the homebound elderly. Such not-so-random acts of kindness will be required to get us through this calamity.

Make no mistake; the coronavirus crisis is being tough on everyone. Local businesses are being hit the hardest while we practice "social distancing" from our usual destinations and layoffs already are occurring. We will all need to rise to the occasion to get us beyond these trying times.

The arrival of a worldwide virus can raise the proverbial question of "why bad things happen to good people?" We may ask, like the Biblical victim of scourges not of his own making, "What strength do I have, that I should hope?" But hope, and wash your hands we must. Lets band together putting our families and community first. For this too, shall one day pass.

Holistic Vet Care is The Future in The Dog Doc

By Morgan Rojas for Cinemacy.com

Why wouldn't we want to treat our pets with the same care and urgency as ourselves?

That's the question raised in the documentary The Dog Doc, a fascinating look at the benefits of alternative medicine in the veterinary field. The naturopathic wellness industry is booming, and regardless of where you stand on the ideology of Gwyneth Paltrow and Goop, there is no denying that what was once considered "quack" science, like acupuncture and supplements, can heal through the unbearable process of diagnosing their pet along with the relief in finally getting an answer. Dr. Goldstein does so much more than prescribe medications and supplements; he promotes an alternative, healthier lifestyle that genuinely focuses on pets' quality of life.

The documentary, directed by Cindy Meehl, reveals that out of all the veterinary clinics in the United States, only 5% of veterinarians offer the type of integrative care Dr. Goldstein practices. "I'm not anti-vaccine, our bodies in tremendous ways, and that includes the furry bodies of man's best friend.

Smith Ridge Veterinary Center's founding doctor, Dr. Marty Goldstein, is a pioneer in this uncharted (and often balked at) territory. His passion for pets is undeniable as he coordinates a new animal-themed pin on his monogrammed turtlenecks daily, and joins his team of equally passionate doctors to willingly take on pets with hopeless, terminal cases from all over the world. Using a holistic approach that combines conventional and alternative medicines to tackle the root causes of problems and not just the side effects, Dr. Goldstein gives his four-legged patients a fighting chance to not only survive but thrive.

Dr. Goldstein doesn't guarantee success; in fact, the documentary doesn't shy away from showing the natural complications that come from a terminal illness. It profiles a handful of dogs, including Waffles, Scooby, and more, as their distraught owners go

"I'm pro-sanity," he confidently expresses at one point in the film. The Dog Doc exposes a whole new process of thinking when it comes to the treatment and care of our beloved pets, and is a must-watch for animal lovers and progressive thinkers alike. •

Your Neighborhood Therapist

Dear Neighborhood Therapist,

Um, everything. Thanks.

— Person in El Segundo

Can I tell you about my morning routine? Great, thanks: I love my alone time, waking up before everyone else and making coffee while listening to the radio and leisurely packing a lunch for my 5-year-old. If the aforementioned 5-year-old, who I love more than anything in the world, wakes up and comes into the kitchen while I am in the middle of my aforementioned alone time, I get grumpy. I don't like having my routine thrown off. I'd feel bad if I was the only one, but I'm not.

Right now we're not taking the kids to school. Many of us are not going to work. In fact many of us are spending more time with our loved ones than we have in a very long time. It's a wonderful gift to have so much time together... right?

I often jokingly tell couples that the secret to a long marriage is spending time apart. When all of our routines are disrupted, and when we don't have the variety of social interactions most of us are accustomed to - oh and also we're cooped up - we can all be expected to be occasionally grumpy, or worse, with one another. This is heightened by the uncertainty of how long this will go on, how our health will be, and what is going to be different when it passes. Also, a lot of people are not getting paid. That might be just a wee bit stressful.

Just a modest proposal: agree, now, to give one another a break. When grumpiness comes calling and impatience makes us snippy, consider if it was coronavirus who sent them. We cannot escape the effects of what happens in the world around us, and we are all in the process of figuring out how to adjust, both inwardly and outwardly. It's hard to get it right right away. Ask one another if a disagreement would have happened without coronavirus, and if settling the disagreement can wait until after the worst passes. You might find it doesn't need to be settled at all.

It is a time to be thankful for community. If you are in a position to do so, it might be a good time to consider how to help someone else. If you need help, or have the ability to help others, please reach out and I will coordinate. If you or someone you know needs to talk to someone, please reach out and I will take as many people as I can during this crisis, regardless of ability to pay.

Eagles Rained Out, Blown Out and Little League Shutdown

By Gregg McMullin

With all the recent wet weather, the high school softball and baseball teams were rained out. The boy's volleyball team continued to play a tough schedule and the El Segundo Little League was not only rained out but decided to be on hiatus during these uncertain times.

Eagles No Match for Costa

The El Segundo boy's volleyball team scheduled a gauntlet of matches against arguably some of the top teams in the South Bay this season. Their latest test matched them with nationally ranked Mira Costa. The Eagles put up a great fight but were defeated in four games 14-25, 25-22, 13-25 and 19-25.

After falling in the first game, the Eagles countered with their best effort of the season in the second game. The second game was filled with blocks, digs and extended rallies and stunned the Mustangs with a 25-22 game two victory. Colin Dionne scored back to back points to even the game at 7-7. It was Robby Pedersen who gained the respect of the Mustangs with his blocks and hits. He scored three consecutive points as El Segundo took a 13-9 lead. His block made it 15-11 and you could sense the Eagles were in control. With the help of Thomas Clark, Logan Sharp and Jake Lubs, the Eagles held off the Mustangs' push for the victory. Pedersen's block gave the Eagles the well deserved 25-22 win.

Game three was like poking the bear. In this case, Mira Costa, and the Mustangs made it quick. The Eagles kept the game close with Pedersen's point at the net to make it 8-8. From there, it was all Mira Costa, which rattled off seven consecutive points. Pedersen sent the ball straight down at the net to make it 21-13, but that's as close as the Eagles would come.

In the fourth game, Mira Costa jumped out to a 12-4 lead and it looked like a route in the making. Then the Eagles found their rhythm that sidetracked the Mustangs and all of a sudden, it was a game. When the Eagles scored on an unforced error to make it a 17-15 deficit, Mira Costa came out of a timeout and built a 22-15 lead. The Eagles wouldn't go quietly with back to back points by Thomas Clark and a couple of unforced errors by the Mustangs to make 24-19. Mira Costa then finished off the game and the match.

The Eagles rebounded from that loss to defeat Culver City 25-20, 25-12 and 25-23 to improve their Ocean League record to 2-0. The Eagles host Hawthorne today at 3 p.m. as the Ocean League schedule continues.

Former Eagles Finish Their Colligate Lacrosse Seasons on High Note

The Williams College and Bard College men's lacrosse team's seasons came to an end when both schools decided to cancel the rest of their seasons related to the Coronavirus pandemic.

William College's Cory Lund (ESHS 2017 graduate) led the Ephs in scoring and an undefeated record this season. In his team's last game, before the season was canceled, the junior attacker scored five goals to lead his team to a 13-11 win against Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

(RPI). Bard's Lukas Roscoe (ESHS 2019 graduate) scored five goals and two assists in the Raptor's 20-5 win over State University

Facts on Climate Change

Provided by 8th Grade students, Sophia Willick and Bianca Hammer, their community project for their middle school is about climate change. They provided this information for us:

Climate Change: Climate change is affecting all of us from the rising waters in Venice, to the melting ice caps. We have become so familiar with this issue, but not many people seem to be taking action. We are providing some ways that you can help climate change.

Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle (in that order): Recycling is a great thing but you have to reduce and reuse first. Recycling plants take up lots of energy which outputs carbon into our Atmosphere.

Pull the Plugs: Using less energy at home can help us all it reduces carbon output and saves your energy bill.

Eat less meat: Especially eat less beef. Cows may taste good but their effect on our climate is not good.

Your Car : This is the most important personal climate decision. Carpool, and think to yourself 'Can I bike or walk' before you start to drive. Going electric is also a good option too.

Kitten Rescue

Without hesitation, Sue took it in and named the kitten Jackpot. He became Kitten Rescue's first foster kitten."

Over twenty years later, Kitten Rescue has saved and successfully adopted (found homes for) more than 21,600 cats. Not to mention, they provide a nursery, a sanctuary and rehabilitation programs for hundreds more on a daily basis.

"We can have 40 to 50 kittens at a time in the nursery where they're bottle fed," says all kinds of stories and hardships walk freely with a sense of compassion and playfulness.

The assistant manager at the sanctuary—Kelly Milam—explains that the area is mostly for "special needs" cats, but there's some adoptable cats here," however, every cat is up for adoption.

"Of course, there might be harder-to-place cats here. Like when we get returns, this is where they would come. In one case, the foster parent herself was older and couldn't handle the cat anymore. About a year ago, the cat then had an episode and became blind. She's on a lot of different medications now, so we're gonna try to place her with another blind cat in the meantime—pairing them together so they can feel more at ease," Milam explains.

Another rescue onsite is a 3-year-old brown tabby named Charlie. His left eye is missing and he has early signs of renal failure.

"His medical issues aside," says Harrison,

"Charlie is a great cat! He loves people and getting attention is his favorite thing! We think he could do well in a home with a laid back kitty, but we suspect he would be happiest as an only-cat."

To learn more about Kitten Rescue and to inquire about adopting a cat of your own, visit www.kittenrescue.org.

"The more foster homes we have, the more lives we can save, and that's what Kitten Rescue is all about," says Harrison. •

In clean, cozy rooms, cats with all kinds of stories and hardships walk freely with a sense of compassion and playfulness.

Charlie, a 3-year-old brown tabby cat with a missing eye, was rescued and has hope at being adopted.

Harrison. "It is really labor intensive because it has to be every two to four hours. Plus, it's the beginning of kitten season, so we have our nursery manager, Lindsay Reeves, working with a full staff, servicing kittens like clockwork."

Like Harrison mentioned, "kitten season" refers to the period between March and October when most unaltered cats go into heat. Especially in warmer climates, kitten season can happen twice a year. A female cat can actually go into heat any time during the year, which is why rescue shelters have such a hard time managing the overpopulation.

"Take feral cats, for instance," says Harrison.

"In 2017, we also launched a 'working cat' program for feral strays. Overall, a feral cat is an unsocialized cat, so just because they're a stray doesn't necessarily mean they're feral. With a true feral cat, you can't touch it because they've been born wild and they're already wired that way. They're untamable, so the feral cats that we pull, we place them in barns as working cats to catch mice and do their thing on ranches and farms—getting them out of the shelter and giving them a chance to live happy lives."

In fact, Harrison shares that 10% of all feral cats aren't feral at all. They're only scared, and through Kitten Rescue's sanctuary—rather than cats being euthanized by shelters—they're given a second chance to acclimate into the world with loving owners.

Walking further back into the property at 3519 Casitas Avenue, the sanctuary takes on a rustic atmosphere. In clean, cozy rooms, cats with to the public. Bottles of hand sanitizer were placed in front of each council member - all of whom attended in person. They were given a rare option, due to the governor's emergency declaration on Sunday, to be counted present via a video link.

El Segundo City Hall is closed to walk-in visitors except by appointment. The lobbies of the police and fire departments remain open to the public. Tuesday's council meeting also allowed visitors, though public remarks were submitted by email and read by the City Clerk. Three residents messaged the City Council, all urging members to be vigilant about the COVID-19 situation and asking about the quarantine area being set up at Dockweiler State Beach. People who test positive for the coronavirus and need a place to isolate themselves for the 14-day waiting period will be moved into trailers at the beach. The email writer's concern was whether people in quarantine could leave and come into El Segundo, potentially spreading the virus and foiling the city's best efforts.

Signs were placed on the chairs in the council chambers Tuesday admonishing anyone who attended to sit six feet apart. That recommendation, known as social distancing, comes from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control that also recommends frequent hand washing for 20 seconds and limiting gatherings of people to 10 or fewer. All city commission and board meetings are canceled except for the Planning Commission and in only to hear timely matters of importance that involve property owners' vested interests. It is unknown at this time how long the boards will be dark.

El Segundo's emergency task force is meeting daily and monitoring the fast-moving developments on the COVID-19 epidemic. The mayor and city manager attended a meeting last week with Los Angeles County Public Health officials after it was disclosed that two people in Manhattan Beach contracted the virus. At that meeting, the public-health officials coordinating the epidemiological fight won't alert city managers when someone from their communities tests positive for the virus. When pressed for an explanation, the county health specialists said they are bound by patient privacy laws.

Residents and employees in the city are encouraged to support local restaurants and retailers during the coming weeks when small businesses will feel the effects of the local emergency order. The El Segundo Chamber of Commerce has created a Gundo-to-Go program for pickup and delivery of food from local restaurants. The Rotary Club and the Parks Department have teamed on a shopping-assistance program for local seniors. The volunteers will buy groceries and essential supplies and be companions to older residents and those who wisely stay home and out of the stores until further notice. Call the Joslyn Center at 310-524-2705 or email outreachhelp@elsegundo.org to reach the Rotary Club volunteers.

Mayor Boyles said the Small Business Administration is prepared to make loans to help affected businesses get through the financial impacts already taking place here. Information and online applications are found at disasterloan.sba.gov/ela or call 800-659-2955. The city manager said Tuesday he expects a drop-off in bed taxes and sales taxes which fund the city's General Fund because of travel restrictions and orders that people do not travel during the next eight weeks, which are considered critical to slowing the coronavirus and preventing a steep climb in cases and hospitalizations.

Coronavirus preparedness dominated the nearly hour long meeting. Council members agreed to postpone a public hearing about the proposed short-term rental ordinance until April 21 when the council will add a fifth member to replace Don Brann, who stepped down in December. The council also gave final approval to the reworked deal with D.R. Horton, which will pay El Segundo $5.3 million instead of selling six townhomes at below-market prices to six buyers who would qualify for the affordable-housing units. Councilman Scot Nicol abstained; the payment in lieu of the original sales agreement passed 3-0.

New council members and a new city treasurer will be sworn in on April 14. The council also will select a mayor and honor outgoing City Treasurer Christa Binder, who was behind Measure T, which El Segundo voters approved in the March 3 primary election. Starting in 2024, El Segundo's city treasurer, who is in charge of investments and managing the city's cash flow, will be appointed and report to the city manager.

As of Tuesday's 18,000 people had signed up for El Segundo alerts about COVID-19. All El Segundo schools closed on Monday. The Teen Center and skate park and the two El Segundo public pools are closed until further notice. •

Finders, keepers! This lovely couple found Blue and brought him to spcaLA South Bay. No one claimed Blue during the legal

Little League Suspends Play Due to Health Crisis

Add the El Segundo Little League to the suspension of their league schedule like the NBA, NHL, MLB and the MLS leagues. Those professional leagues have decided to halt play because of the Coronavirus pandemic. Little League International operates more than 6,500 programs in more than 84 countries, and therefore, has recommended that leagues exercise an abundance of caution and implement a temporary suspension of all league activities until no earlier than April 6.

The ESLL President, Christibelle Villena, sent out a notice to all league coaches and players reflecting on what Little League International conveyed. "We are aware of the recent progression of the Coronavirus here in Los Angeles and throughout the world. Little League International (LLI) recommends a temporary suspension of Little League activities and we have agreed to follow it. Effective immediately, El Segundo Little League will temporarily suspend all Little League-related activities until Sunday, April 12, with the season resuming on Monday, April 13. This suspension includes games, practices, clinics, cages, meetings and Picture Day.

Resuming the season and rescheduling any games, Picture Day and other activities after Spring Break will depend on any further action required by the schools or government agencies. At this point, everything is day-to-day/hour-to-hour, so things can change quickly and we appreciate everyone's patience and flexibility."

On related news, the California Interscholastic Federation Southern Section (CIF-SS) is monitoring the developments related to the Covid-19 virus, also known as the Coronavirus. Other than canceling the state basketball championships, the CIF-SS has no plans to cancel or reschedule upcoming events. El Segundo high school administrators will be closely monitoring the situation and will take proactive measures to ensure their students and faculty are safe. If the situation continues into the spring championship calendar, then the CIF-SS will take appropriate action.

The annual South Bay All-Star Basketball Games, scheduled to be played Friday, March 20 at El Camino College, have been canceled due to the current Covid-19 virus situation. There is a possibility the games, one for boys who are seniors and the other for senior girls, will be rescheduled. •

The Eagle's Logan Sharp hits one past Julian Seivert.

El Segundo's Jake Lubs (#16) has just blocked Mira Costa's (#15) Nathan Toomey's hit.

Cory Lund (#6) scores here to help lead his Williams College Ephs to a 13-11 win over RPI (Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Engineers)

Robby Pedersen blocks a Mira Costa hit for an El Segundo point.
