Boy Scout Troop 762 at a Flag Retirement Ceremony on Flag Day

Scout Troop 762's Flag Retirement ceremony on Flag Day, June 14th. The boys retired 10 flags in all, saluting and saying the Pledge of Allegiance one last time to each flag. Many people stopped by while walking through the park. The ceremony was quite nice and reverent. Photo by Neal Boushell. ♦

City Council Gives El Segundo Co-Op Nursery School a Dollar Deal

By Brian Simon

The operators of the longstanding El Segundo Co-Op Nursery School received some very good news on Tuesday night when the City Council voted to reduce the non-profit's annual fee to use the bottom portion of the George E. Gordon Clubhouse Building at Recreation Park---dropping the amount from $3,000 down to just one dollar. Co-Op Board President Sara Whelan explained that the school occupies the space 10 months out of the year on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8:30 to noon. It had never paid any fees from 1947 to 2014, but that changed after the Council implemented comprehensive new hourly rate policies for all users of Recreation and Parks facilities. Assigning a "market rate" of $15 per hour, staff determined the normal annual fee for the group to reserve the Clubhouse should be $6,000 based on 400 hours of usage per year. Considering the school's limited resources, staff met with Co-Op officials in June 2014 and the parties agreed on a $3,000 annual fee to be phased in at $750 for fiscal year 2014/15, $1,500 in 2015/16 and $3,000 in 2016/17.

However, Whelan reported that the school currently has only 16 students who pay between $95 and $145 a month, with the monies going towards two teacher salaries, supplies and field trips. Even with a Casino Night fundraiser, the Co-Op only managed $33,100 in total revenues in 2015/16 compared to expenditures of $34,900. With that in mind and noting the negative impacts on the already scant field trip and supply budgets, Whelan asked the Council to shave the fee back to $1,500. "We are simply trying to stay afloat," she said.

After stating that he didn't understand why the City would need to impose fees after negotiating a "$115 million agreement" with Chevron, Councilmember Don Brann made the motion to set the Co-Op rate at $1. His colleagues agreed with the exception of Mayor Suzanne Fuentes, who argued that the fee structure helps keep El Segundo in line with other cities while still being lower comparatively. She felt the deal to charge the school half of the regular rate was fair. Fuentes also pointed out that while the Chevron tax in-lieu settlement certainly helps, it doesn't make the City solvent. In

Charitable Giving Takes a Dive, New Study Finds

By Rob McCarthy

The ground is shaking beneath 35,000-plus charities based in Los Angeles County, and it's not the San Andreas' doing. Residents are donating $1 billion less to local causes than before the housing crash, and gifts from wealthy donors are going elsewhere.

Charitable giving steadily declined in Southern California after the housing crash and never recovered, according to researchers at UCLA's Luskin School of Public Policy. Using IRS tax data, they know that Los Angeles County residents donated $7.1 billion in 2006, the year before the subprime mortgage crisis.

People at every income level gave less from 2008 to 2013 than they did before the crash, regardless if they earned $25,000 per year or had six-figure salaries.

"This report presents evidence that historical patterns of local generosity are changing, and not for the better," wrote Bill Parent, project director for "The Generosity Gap: Donating Less in Post-Recession Los Angeles County" report.

"The Generosity Gap" expands on earlier work that identified L.A. giving patterns by zip codes. People living on the Westside and in the lower-income South Los Angeles are bigger donors than folks living near the beaches. The team found a correlation between regular attendance at religious services and charitable gifts.

Proper Flu Etiquette to Help Keep You and Your Family Flu-Free

(BPT) - It came out of nowhere. The sudden fever, aches, and chills you're experiencing are unbearable. You crawl into bed, thinking there's not much you can do. You already feel guilty for bringing the flu home to your kids and spouse. You can try to fight it, but the virus will likely make its way through your household. Right?

That's what the majority of U.S. adults think. According to a recent national survey conducted by the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases (NFID) more than half of U.S. adults (55 percent) incorrectly think that when they get sick, others in the household are bound to get the flu and they just have to wait for the flu virus to pass. The survey also found that almost twice as many U.S.

great-great-granddaughter of etiquette guru Emily Post and co-author of Emily Post's Etiquette 18th edition. "Etiquette is all about consideration. Using basic good etiquette can help keep you and your family flu-free by preventing the virus' spread."

The Emily Post Institute offers the following etiquette tips to manage situations where the flu virus could spread:

- Know your F.A.C.T.S.: If you're experiencing Fever, Aches, Chills, Tiredness and Sudden Onset, it's likely flu. Realize that you're contagious and quickly see a healthcare professional.
- Stay home: If you have flu symptoms, it's okay to cancel plans or take a sick day. The polite thing to do is to stay away from adults call a healthcare professional when their child experiences flu symptoms (46 percent) versus when they personally experience flu symptoms (25 percent).

"It's important for adults to take care of themselves as well as those they care for, including children. The virus does not have to take down your whole family if one person gets sick," says Dr. William Schaffner, MD, NFID medical director. "There are ways to fight flu. If you see a healthcare professional quickly, they may prescribe prescription flu medicines that may help you get better faster. Your doctor may also prescribe them to prevent others in your household from getting the flu."

"Be proactive when it comes to the flu. It's the considerate thing to do," says Lizzie Post,

- Stock up: Keep tissues and hand sanitizers with you at all times. If it's others who are sick, like that cougher or sneezer next to you, prompt them to protect others by offering a tissue or a spritz of alcohol-based sanitizer.
- Hands down. Keep your hands below your shoulders when in public. The idea is to avoid touching your face, which may also help keep you from getting sick after rubbing your nose, mouth or eyes with unclean hands.

Charitable Giving

Major gifts of $1 million or more are flowing outside Los Angeles County. “Only giving to higher education tended to remain within the county, with nearly $3 billion staying and a little more than $2 billion leaving,” the report said. Those gifts are going primarily to USC, UCLA, Loyola Marymount and Pepperdine universities.

Donors’ highest priority would be ending homelessness if they were making a sizable gift locally, they told UCLA researchers. The leader of a statewide foundation see a duplication of services and inefficiency among the nonprofits in Los Angeles, which could be causing “donor fatigue” among the more willing givers.

“When donors do want to give to Los Angeles, they can be discouraged and intimidated when trying to navigate the country’s 35,000 nonprofits,” said Anita Hernandez, president and and Southern California has huge immigrant populations from Mexico, Central America and Asia. In time, maybe they’ll contribute - that’s the hope.

The report isn’t all data, doom and gloom. Fixing the hole in the L.A. County’s charitable and nonprofit safety net is doable, the reports’ suggests. It’ll take more outside funding, some merger and contraction within the nonprofit community, better marketing to avoid donor fatigue in choosing a local cause to support, and being ready for the largest wealth transfer in U.S. history.

A few takeaways from the UCLA report: The economy can’t explain everything: “But as the housing market has recovered and the stock market has reached record heights, charitable giving in Los Angeles has continued to decline.” It’s off by $1 billion since 2006, Ending homelessness is the highest priority for large donors, the UCLA study.

chief executive of the California Community Foundation. “This difficulty can draw attention and dollars away from Los Angeles to national organizations with greater brand recognition.”

She thinks county residents would be better served by a network of “healthier and stronger nonprofits” that join forces and cooperate rather than operate independently of one another and compete for L.A.’s shrinking pool of available funding.

Parent, the study’s director, said his team and the nonprofit organizations are perplexed why charitable giving hasn’t rebounded yet in L.A. County, like it has in other metropolitan areas around the nation. He offered some possible explanations, but said nothing was conclusive from the data and interviews with some locals.

“We’re sitting here staring at the ceiling,” Parent said, because an expected recovery in 2014 charitable contributions stalled. One possible explanation is: “It’s the economy, stupid,” a line made famous by then-candidate Bill Clinton.

Households are earning less now than in 2006, so the connection seems plausible. Or, Southern Californians could be in catch-up mode with home repairs and debt. There’s another possible explanation - immigration. It takes a generation before newcomers to the United States become givers, maybe 20 years, and the mega-gifts to community-based causes, which have a “transformational effect on an organization’s impact, mission and future,” nearly disappeared after the housing crisis.

Faith is strong: “While Los Angeles area donors reported giving across all purposes, both locally and beyond, their patterns of local support vary by purpose. Higher proportions of donors gave overall to basic needs as well as to organizations that serve a combination of purposes, like the United Way, Catholic Charities, or the Jewish Federation. However, religious congregations received the highest proportion of locally focused giving.”

Nonprofits are multiplying: “The number of nonprofit organizations in Los Angeles County has grown consistently and steadily since the 1970s, with small slumps corresponding to recessions and cuts in government funding. As of January 2016, there were 35,226 registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations in Los Angeles County ... they appear to be proliferating faster than ever.”

The 2.5 percent solution: “It wouldn’t take huge efforts to transform the future of our county. If Angelenos gave 2.5 percent of their annual income – with the extra 0.5 percent going to Los Angeles – Los Angeles County nonprofits could see an additional $1.5 billion in revenue,” the report says. •

Kill the 9-to-5 by Turning Your Hobby into a Thriving Business

(BPT) - A beloved hobby can feel like a mini vacation from everyday life. Whether it’s gardening for relaxation, photography as a creative outlet or computer coding to exercise the brain, hobbies serve as an escape from stress and boredom.

What if rather than a hobby being your escape, it was what you did for a career?

“When you do what you love, it doesn’t feel like work. However, people are intimidated by the idea of transitioning a hobby into this type of dream,” says Jim Salmon, vice president of business services at Navy Federal Credit Union. “Becoming a successful entrepreneur doesn’t have to be difficult with the right drive and passion.”

Navy Federal Business Services has helped thousands of people turn their dreams of owning a small business into reality by providing expert guidance and financial support through Business Services products. Here are some of Salmon’s expert tips based on best practices he’s observed through his close relationship with entrepreneurial clients:

1. Take your time.

Becoming a successful entrepreneur doesn’t mean you have to drop everything and devote all your time to starting a business. In fact, research shows the opposite: People who keep their day jobs while starting companies are a third less likely to fail than those who abandon their full time jobs. Instead, they’re tinkering, researching and cautiously testing things out to see if their idea is a viable business venture and if there is a market for their product or service.

2. Set a timeline.

Is there a season where it would make sense to test out your business venture? Or perhaps there’s a transitional time in your life where you’ll be looking to open a new chapter. For example, transitioning your hobby into a viable business venture a great option for active duty military personnel and veterans because they naturally begin to think about what their second career will be after retiring or leaving the Armed Forces.

3. Decide on time commitment.

Decide how much time you are willing to dedicate to your new venture in the beginning. Being an entrepreneur means being your own boss which affords you unprecedented flexibility, but the effort you put in directly effects what you get out. Keep in mind, entrepreneurship isn’t just for full-time professionals. Turning a hobby into a career is a great option for military and stay-at-home parents who require flexibility in regards to working hours and location, but they may have more open time to dedicate to the transition.

4. Create a business plan.

Transitioning a hobby into a profession is a lot of fun, but it’s also serious business if you want to be successful. That means creating a business plan that includes goals and plans for attaining them. This will serve as the foundation for how you strategize and build a successful business today. Plus, when it comes time to finance your budding business, a solid business plan will give you a leg up and direction for the future.

5. Find financial backing.

Depending on what type of business you want to pursue, you may need some additional funding beyond what you can afford. Establishing a relationship with a financial institution like Navy Federal Credit Union will help you learn more about small business loans and lending products that will help your small business grow. Bring your passion and your business plan - potential investors and financial institutions alike will want to see both before they make a decision.

Beauty is, Literally, in the Eye of the Beholder in Stylish, Hypnotic “The Neon Demon”

By Morgan Rojas
for www.cinemacy.com

After the credits roll and the lights come up, the older man sitting next to me says “So what’s for dinner?” and had we not just seen “The Neon Demon,” I may have said something like spaghetti and meatballs, but also feel obligated to mention that there are also multiple scenes with bright, unrelenting flashing lights that may cause seizures (now you’ve been warned!). And for as much as fashion and beauty are eroticized by the actions of the characters, Natasha Braier’s artfully realistic cinematography adds sophistication all I can muster up now is a slight chuckle while trying not be sick.

Days later, I find that I’m still trying to ‘digest’ the visual rollercoaster that is „The Neon Demon.“ Elle Fanning plays Jesse, a small town girl with big dreams of making it as a top model in Los Angeles. Her doe-eyed innocence and all around aura seem that of a porcelain doll, and at 16, she is quickly becoming the industry’s next „It Girl.”

Her sudden rise to fame doesn’t come without dangerous consequences. Jesse befriends the well-intentioned makeup artist Ruby (Jena Malone) but is met with thinly veiled jealousy by the other genetically gifted blonde beauties, Gigi (Bella Heathcote) and Sarah (Abbey Lee). Playing into the cattiness of the fashion world and its unattainable ideal of beauty, the girls’ relationship with Jesse is a mix between „Heathers“ meets „Mean Girls,” but far darker. We’re talking necrophilia, physical torture, and other bizarre abstractions.

At one point, Jesse is pressured by the famed yet creepy photographer Jack (Desmond Harrington) to strip naked while he rubs gold paint over her body in the name of “art.” Sure it is evocative, but also quite disturbing. Not only is she underage, but instructed by her agent Jan– played by Christina Hendricks– to tell everyone she is 19 “because 18 is too on the nose.” She is fragile, literally a blank canvas slowly being stained by the industry and everything it stands for before our very eyes. It is at this point that we see Jesse’s transformation. Humility turns into confidence, that turns into entitlement, and the light that once illuminated her, fades.

Director Nicolas Winding Refn’s latest cinematic experience (just saying ‚film‘ seems to downplay his work) is more twisted and bizarre than others in his repertoire. He does again, however, manage to capture in his characters that unique feeling of emptiness within chaos, which made „Drive“ and „Only God Forgives“ memorable, for better or for worse.

The performances from everyone involved, including Keanu Reeves as a sketchy motel owner and Alessandro Nivola as a major fashion designer, play well against Refn’s aesthetically ambitious vision. As the title suggests, neon hues are present in almost every scene, often a moving gradient like the screensaver of a 95 Macintosh computer. I

supporting the fee reduction, Mayor Pro Tem Drew Boyles opined that the City has “bigger fish to fry.” Councilmember Mike Dugan later displayed a $1 bill that he said could cover the next year’s rent.

Also on Tuesday, the Council granted a request from Pacific Corporate Towers to install identification signage atop a building at 100 North Sepulveda Boulevard. Though in compliance with City code related to location and type, the sign (which will read “Guthy/Renker”) required Council approval because it exceeds 500 square feet. In a related issue, library window replacement this month, Joslyn Center elevator refurbishing in July, storm drain catch basin installation in August, and ADA ramp additions in September.

The Council, at the behest of Boyles and Councilmember Carol Pirsztuk, directed staff to develop a recommendation for expanding membership within the Technology Subcommittee to include local industry representatives and residents—as a way to tap into the wealth of IT knowledge and experience within the community. Boyles also received his colleagues’ blessing to staff will also begin the process of examining potential changes to the City’s signage ordinance in the wake of a recent Supreme Court decision in Arizona. The ruling calls into question to what extent municipalities can regulate signage content.

Fuentes and Brann said no to a local resident’s application for a special peddling permit to sell frozen pudding at certain events. Brann, who reminded the audience that a similar dissenting vote during his first term regarding an ice cream vendor became his “most infamous action,” went on to explain his stance on the matter. He stated concerns about safety (i.e. kids running across the street to get dessert) and taking potential monies away from teams trying to sell their own food or businesses that pay rent. He also didn’t want to go down the path of granting permits and end up similar to places like Lennox. The Council majority ultimately approved the item. Boyles said the vendor in question might not otherwise have the means to keep his business going and that it is “unfair to single out an operator.”

During reports, City Manager Greg Carpenter provided updates on ongoing projects—including construction on Richmond Street that was delayed at least two weeks when the main contractor asked to replace the electrical subcontractor. He said the matter is now resolved, with work now in the second of four segments on the 100 block. Carpenter estimated that crews will begin the 200 block next month starting with removal of all the ficus trees. Other projects in progress include water main replacements on Center Street near the schools, sewer repairs in the east side residential area, and various sidewalk fixes. Upcoming will be have staff draft a proposal to form an Arts and Culture Advisory Committee to enhance opportunities and community/stakeholder input as El Segundo’s art scene continues to blossom. Fuentes and Dugan were open to the idea, but emphasized their opposition to using City funds towards the arts.

During presentations, the Council recognized Los Angeles Air Force Base 61st Air Base Group Commander Colonel Donna L. Turner for her leadership efforts and role in establishing a partnership with the City. Colonel Turner, who is leaving the Base to take a new assignment in San Antonio, received an honorary key to the City from Mayor Fuentes. The Council also issued a proclamation to The Boeing Company as the latter will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its founding on July 15. Boeing representative Thor Kissman spoke of the breadth of the company’s products and philanthropic efforts. He also reported that it will host the upcoming Aerospace Summer Games, taking place on July 16 at Dockweiler Beach. A final proclamation noted that July is National Park and Recreation Month. City Recreation Supervisor Jesse Bobbett listed several upcoming events including the July 4 Celebration as well as Concerts in the Park July 10 and 24. He thanked Chevron, Kumon and Scot Nicol Real Estate for sponsoring several events to keep those going.

Finally, Sam Pena of Consolidated Disposal Services announced that trash/recycling pick-up will be delayed by one day during the entire week of July 4. He added that the next Community Shred Day will take place at the City parking lot (Holly and Standard) on July 9 from 10 to 1. • balls. Brady then got Shawn Kekilian to hit a sharp ground ball to second baseman Ian Michel who flipped to Dornblaser, just ahead of the sliding McMullin, at second base to end the game and put a bow on the Beavers' championship season.

The Beavers had one of their most produc-after his father's tragic murder at UCLA. Bill Klug had been a fixture at El Segundo Little League and was an assistant coach with the Giants when tragedy struck.

It took the Giants a couple innings to get their offense started. Consecutive six run innings helped break a tight game open led by Bernstein, Giroux, Lee, Klug, Logan Brooks, Benjamin Barnhardt. With the score 14-10 in the fifth inning, the Giants went wild with another five run rally that included a triple by Klug, Preston Engel's RBI single and Bernstein's third extra base hit of the game.

Congratulations to the Athletics and the Giants on a great way to wrap up the season.

The ESLL is hosting the District 36 11-12 year old All-Star tournament starting Saturday and plays Hermosa Beach LL in their first game at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday. The tournament and games runs each day through July 12 with July 3 and 4 off. • tive offensive outbursts of the season. They pounded out eleven hits led by Brady, Slavens and Mydland who each had two hits apiece.

So the curtain comes down on the Babe Ruth League season where there were plenty of exciting games, plenty of improvement by players over the concise schedule and plenty of memories. Congratulations to the Beavers on a well-played season.

ESLL Makes History

For the first time in recent memory and perhaps history of El Segundo Little League, a Major Division and a Minor Division team won the coveted Beach Cup in the same year. The Major Athletics and the Triple-A Giants each went through pool play to win their respective tournaments.

The Athletics jumped out to an early lead on Manhattan Beach LL and captured a 12-2 victory in the championship game played at Brett Field. The game was a runaway from the start when the Athletics exerted their will early with eight runs in the first three innings. Cooper Stolnack highlighted a four run third inning with an RBI double scoring Zach Gardiner. In another four-run inning in the fourth inning, it was highlighted by Stolnack's double, an RBI groundout by Zach Exstrom an RBI double by Nolan Kelly and a walk by Owen Kirsten.

The Athletics defense played well behind the pitching of Nolan Kelly who went 1 1/3 innings. Kelly gave up no runs, no hits, no walks and struck out three to pick up the win.

In the Minor final, the Giants defeated the Diablos, 19-10 at Premier Field in Manhattan Beach. Throughout the pool play tournament, the Giants had big games from Cole Bernstein, Luc Giroux, Ben Lee and Timmy Klug. This was an especially emotional win for the Giants and in particularly to Timmy Klug. Klug was playing with his teammates less than two weeks

Give Homes Custom Curb Appeal with Exterior Moulding and Trim

(BPT) - When it comes to home exteriors, the beauty is in the details. Custom homes have rich, unique exterior elements, including decorative moulding and trim, which enhance architectural aesthetics and create captivating curb appeal. But you don't need a custom home to enjoy custom looks. With eye-catching details tastefully placed - from the front porch and windows up to the gables - you can distinguish new and remodeled homes and boost their value.

People often picture moulding as bridging wall-to-ceiling seams or securing siding. But moulding is even more versatile and offers splendid aesthetics - the same applies to exterior trim. Adding welcoming warmth, luxurious looks, and elegant finishing touches to homes is simple with Klear Moulding and Klear Trimboard. In fact, low-maintenance exterior moulding and trim applications are among the easiest, most economical ways to give homes custom allure.

Easy-to-install Klear Moulding and Trimboard are ultra-low-maintenance with unmatched durability. They feature wood's authentic appearance - without the lifetime of intensive upkeep. Crafted from strong cellular PVC, Klear Moulding and Trimboard are impervious to moisture and insect damage, so decorative elements remain flawless indefinitely.

When used alongside Klear Trimboard products, Klear Moulding offers striking ways to accentuate trim. Available in many heights and projections for unique applications, Crown Moulding lets you place "crowning" architectural touches anywhere, from stylish details above soffits to graceful finishes on gables. Crown Moulding is always traditional and versatile.

Klear Moulding profiles also include Brick, Bed, Band, Cove/Scotia, Rake, Ram's Crown, Historical Sill, and more - so creative applications are unlimited. For instance, inviting Brick Moulding makes cozy window and door surrounds. Bed Moulding installs warmly above trim as fascia or header details beneath

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. from page 5 making it that far in the first place. It would make sense that the NBA would want their Western Conference face (Curry) to face off against their Eastern Conference face (LeBron). This is the second year in a row that it has been so. This year, commissioner Adam Silver and the NBA clearly sees the benefit in prolonging a rivalry that began last year as many games as possible. Whether it be for ratings, money or both, the NBA gets what they want. LeBron has been in the league longer and has had hype surrounding him since High School. That’s why the NBA has labeled the Eastern Conference as his and he runs through the rest of the weaker field every year as the NBA makes sure he winds up in the Finals. It’s what gets the most ratings. He’s been there six years in a row now. Also, by prolonging the Finals to seven games, the NBA owns the month of June and most of July before football gets started. The NBA Finals will lead right into the NBA draft which will then lead into NBA free agency. Silver knows what he’s doing. Even all of this talk about how the league is fixed gives his league press. A commissioner would never shy away from press for his league.

If you were the NBA commissioner like Adam Silver is, wouldn’t you rig everything, too? With all of the ratings and money on the line and a chance to be on the center stage with the entire world watching, why wouldn’t you try to create the most entertainment value that you possibly could. After all, doesn’t it raise at least the smallest question in your mind when you realize that the only game in the seven game series between the Cavs and Warriors that was close was Game 7? There will always be those who think that the theory that NBA is rigged is preposterous. They’ll say that there is absolutely no way. No one wanted to believe that certain priests who worked for the Catholic Church were corrupt either. Those who follow each institution believe that they are sacred. There is no way that the NBA could be involved in fixing games. The NBA is too sacred. But when it comes down to it, sports exist because of the pure entertainment value they bring into all of our lives. What could possibly be better entertainment than a Game 7 where the winner takes all between Curry and James? Next week we’ll take a more in depth look at how the Cleveland Cavaliers became this year’s NBA champs. It’s not looking good for Curry. •

Naomi
Have a great start to your summer when you adopt your purr-fect match.
Naomi is a total lap kitty who rolls over to give you her tummy. She is just 2 years young and ready for a home of her own now that her kittens are weaned. Naomi is fine all by herself while you are at work, but loves it when you return home! She enjoys interaction with you as she plays with string and wand toys. Soft and fluffy, she is not as big as appears and weighs only 8 ½ pounds. Naomi is not good with other cats or dogs and will be happy to be the only cat unless you adopt her with one of her kittens - Gru, Lydia, or Bob.
This dashing young boy just loves to be held! So much so, that sometimes Bob would rather cuddle than play. He is a character! Bob is rough-and-tumble, but smart, affectionate and playful. And boy does he like attention! Bob is courteous when meeting new cats or kittens and he needs to have one for a friend. He is good with cats and ok with children eight or older and friendly calm dogs. Welcome this little guy into your life for a forever friend.

Lydia is the perfect kitten! She is a balance of spunkiness and softness. Her beautiful fluffy fur will need regular brushing to keep her adorable appearance. She has a confidence about her that makes her what we call “plug and play”. It means she will do well in many situations. Lydia does wonderfully with older children, friendly dogs and other kitties. This girl is kissable sweet!
Gru is so special that he can steal your heart just by reaching out to you with one of his big white “gloved” paws. He is full of fearless curiosity and energy. This super smart boy is so responsive that he will come when you call him “baby.” Gru will provide you with endless entertainment even though he is not the cuddliest kitten. He just doesn’t have time for that! Gru loves to play with other kitties. He is good with older children and friendly dogs, and simply loves other cats.
Jade and her sister Emerald were found by a Good Samaritan when they were just days old after someone had thrown them away in a trash can. They went to an expert bottle feeder, where they thrived. Because these sisters were bottle fed, Emerald and Jade are incredibly outgoing, love people and are super affectionate. They would be great for gentle children, or in a busy household. Emerald and Jade get along with other kitties, but have a very strong adverse reaction to dogs. It is possible that they might adjust to a dog who leaves them alone, but they definitely do not want to interact with one. These girls would adore finding a home together, even with other kittens in their foster home they tend to gravitate to each other. They absolutely cannot be an only kitty in the home, they are too young and need a playful companion to wrestle, chew and romp with.

Powder is a high-energy alpha cat who is just over a year old. He is almost all white with his gray face and tail with beautiful grayish green eyes. This cool cat loves to be the center of attention, is curious and always eager to learn. Powder plays with a huge dog and is respected by all the other kitties. He’s not much of a talker, but does purr really loud. Powder is a very loving boy who likes to be held. He is totally ready for his forever home. To be happy, Powder needs to be adopted with another feline or have a feline friend at his new home.
These kitties are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All of our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org. Your tax deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Blvd. #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Blvd. just south of Manchester Ave. and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Ave, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location. • rooflines. Cove/Scotia Moulding adds texture to column headers and bases. Sophisticated Rake and Ram's Crown Mouldings top off trim enchantingly.

Kleer Trimboards, Kleer Sheets, KleerBeed Sheets, Kleer Konceal, and Kleer Post Wraps complement every Kleer Moulding profile. Trimboards work naturally around doors and windows and for corners, soffits, fascia, cornices, rakes, and other high-profile décor. Trimboards are also available with Kleer's innovative TruEDGE technology, which features clean-looking sealed edges that resist stains and provide a smoother finish than wood and other PVC boards, and UV inhibitors to protect from harsh elements over time.

Kleer Sheets are designed for easy custom millwork, while KleerBeed Sheets make charming porch ceilings and soffits. When installing siding, Kleer Konceal covers rough-cut edges and imperfections at corners and other spots for seamless finishes. With Kleer Post Wraps, you can encase and protect posts to adorn porches, porticos, and anyplace you want the natural splendor of wood columns without the continuous upkeep.

Tapco's Kleer Moulding and Trimboard are perfectly paired for beautiful, low-maintenance home exteriors with custom curb appeal. Backed by Limited Lifetime Warranty, Kleer products provide the industry's highest quality. With Kleer, trimming your home in custom style is surprisingly simple.

Kleer Moulding and Kleer Trimboard are products of The Tapco Group, a U.S. Green Building Council member. For more information, call 1-800-521-8486 or visit www.TheTapcoGroup.com.
