Officials Say It's Still Full Steam Ahead on Obamacare Enrollments

By Rob McCarthy

Officials say the decision by a Texas judge hasn't changed their plans to enroll as many Californians as possible in health plans before the mid-January deadline. The Obamacare law remains in force for next year even if Congress did away with the penalty for being uninsured.

On Dec. 14, U.S. District Court Judge Reed O'Connor issued a ruling that the Affordable Care Act law -- known as Obamacare -- became unconstitutional when Congress removed the penalty on individuals who defy the 2010 law and don't buy health insurance for themselves or their children. His ruling isn't binding on California or any of the other states that expanded Medicare and created health care exchanges to make it easier for consumers to price insurance and decide on a plan. In fact, the ruling was handed down so close to the deadline for enrolling for Jan. 1 that California officials extended the enrollment period over concerns the public would be confused. The judge's decision isn't the final say on the future of Obamacare and so the law is safe for now.

"Open enrollment is full steam ahead and continues in California and other states for several more weeks," said Covered California Executive Director Peter V. Lee. "No one in California should let this ruling discourage them from enrolling in health coverage or be worried about using the health plan they have."

Individuals and families who haven't selected a health insurance plan yet have until Jan. 15 to meet the Obamacare deadline for next year. There is a 15-day waiting period on the later enrollees, who won't be covered to see their doctor or receive care until Feb. 1, officials advise.

People who met the Dec. 15 deadline, which was extended by a week after the Texas judge's ruling to overcome any confusion by consumers, will have uninterrupted coverage starting Jan. 1. California's open-enrollment period runs a month longer than the annual campaigns in other states.

Since Obamacare took effect in 2013, the uninsured rate among Californians has fallen by 60 percent. It reached a historic low last year, officials reported, and the 10-point drop since the Affordable Care Act began was a national high. Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones vowed that California leaders will protect Obamacare, which has survived numerous legal challenges.

Republican governors filed in the latest lawsuit in a Texas federal court, which was heard by O'Connor. The case put Obamacare to a legal test over whether Congress' decision to waive the penalty for non-coverage makes the rest of the consumer protections in the law invalid.

O'Connor sided with the governors who asked the law be struck down. He decided that elimination of the tax penalty in the Obamacare law on people who ignore law made the Affordable Care Act unconstitutional. That included the premium subsidies and the expansion of Medicaid by the states.

Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones said the judge overreached with his ruling and vowed that California would defend the consumer protection law by joining an appeal of O'Connor's decision. The federal subsidies to help people afford coverage and money giving to states that expanded Medicaid programs are "completely unrelated to the individual insurance mandate," Jones said.

Federal officials assured the public that Obamacare will remain in place pending an appeal. "This case will wind its way through the courts and I'm confident the Supreme Court will once again do the right thing and uphold the Affordable Care Act," Lee said.

Consumer interest spiked in the second week of December, when nearly 58,000 people signed up for coverage in a single week. As of mid-month, there were 179,000 new enrollees in the state-run health exchange for insurance. Another 1.2 million Covered California customers renewed their existing coverage for 2019, according to the state's free assistance service for Obamacare plans.

It's the second straight year there has been confusion created by attempts to dismantle Obamacare and parts of the consumer protection law. President Trump last year announced funding for the federal health insurance exchanges was being reduced, saying that outreach to educate and assist uninsured Americans wasn't needed as much. The Affordable Care Act enters its sixth year in 2019.

Covered California's leader disagrees, saying that four in five Californians who qualify for a subsidized health plan don't realize they are eligible for the financial assistance. South Bay individuals earning $25,000 per year pay as little as $1 for coverage and have their choice of plans offered through leading health insurers, including Kaiser, Blue Shield and Anthem. The other leading insurers among California's 11 companies offered Obamacare plans are Molina and HealthNet. If you have checked before, take the time to check again, and don't "leave money on the table," says Lee, "when you can get the peace of mind and protection that comes with health care coverage."

Nearly 90 percent of the clients who use the state-run health exchange receive some financial help, Lee said. The average Covered California enrollee pays about $5 per day for

If you're interested in learning more about Miniatures Schnauzers & Friends or our rescues, stop by our pet adoption fairs which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Hwy., Redondo Beach 90277, from noon-3:30 p.m. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at our website, www.msfr.org. If you have any questions about a particular dog's availability, you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! Bet you can't adopt just one!

"Hello, my name is Miller and I'm a very distinguished-looking young man who is approximately one year of age. I'm very friendly and a bit curious, so one day I decided to acquaint myself with the neighborhood and see if I could make some new friends. While out on my adventure, I got lost and the only new friends I met were the folks at an LA county shelter and they called me a stray. I can't figure out why no one was interested in taking me home, but I sure am glad that the MSFR people thought I was a keeper. I think you'll agree with them once you meet me. I'm not very big -- only 20 pounds -- so I can go everywhere with you. And did I mention that I'm a very friendly guy? I get along fine with other dogs and if you're looking for a stunning dog...well, let's just say that I fit the bill. I have natural ears, a docked tail, a luxurious coat and face that will melt your heart."

If you're interested in Miller, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

If you think that an adorable, 1-year-old, female Miniature Schnauzer mix would be the perfect addition to your family, look no more. My name is Beth and I was rescued from an LA area shelter where I ended up as a stray when I became lost while out for an adventure. It was shortly after the Fourth of July -- it seems so long ago -- and the shelter was extremely overcrowded, but the fact that no one inquired about adopting me was quite a surprise. I know that I needed a bit of work on 'Housebreaking 101,' but I'm very smart and eager to please. So that didn't take long... I'm not very big at only 10 pounds, so I'm easily transportable and would love to be your companion. I get along great with other dogs and I've been told that I'm cute as a button and am as sweet as can be. I love to play and I know we would have so much fun together. I sure would love to get adopted and spend the holidays with my forever family. I know that you're out there just looking for me."

If you're interested in Beth, please email info@msfr.org for more information. •

Congratulations to Brady and his new family!

Congratulations to Brady and his new family. Call it Kismet, destiny or "written in the stars," but this definitely was meant to be. Brady's new dad came to Petco with his 13-year-old Wheaten Terrier, Becker, to do some shopping and Brady caught his eye. It could have been the face or the fact that Brady looks like a "mini" Wheaten. Dad took a few pictures to show Mom and a few days later, a meet and greet took place with Mom, Dad and Becker. The rest, as they say, is history. Brady immediately settled in and it's as if he has always been part of the family. Brady, now named Theo, is living life large in Manhattan Beach and loving having Becker for a big brother. Wishing much happiness and great times ahead for everyone!

THE YELLOW DOG PROJECT.com

If you see a dog with a YELLOW RIBBON or something yellow on the leash, this is a dog who needs some space. Please do not approach this dog with your dog. Please maintain distance or give this dog and his/her person time to move out of your way.

There are many reasons why a dog may need space:

- HEALTH ISSUES
- IN TRAINING
- BEING REHABILITATED
- SCARED OR REACTIVE AROUND OTHER DOGS

THANK YOU!

Those of us who own these dogs appreciate your help and respect!
