Come And Park for Awhile

By Ron Sokol

“I like to take walks in the park by myself, where no one can bother me, and I can think.”

– Magic Johnson

Although the comforts of home are genuine, sometimes it is good for you simply to get outdoors. As they say: “Take a little time for yourself.” Doing so in the City of Hawthorne is not difficult. Known as the City of Good Neighbors, perhaps a subtitle could be “the City of Good Parks.”

Hawthorne covers all of 6.1 square miles, but has at least nine parks. You may have read about a few of them in this column: The wonderful Jim Thorpe Park. The fun Hollywood park that just had a “ribbon cutting” ceremony to celebrate its renovation. Last but not least is the walkable Glasgow fitness area. Here are some other great Hawthorne parks for you.

Bicentennial Park: Located at 13110 S. Doty Avenue in Hawthorne. You will find a unique blend of amenities, such as a tot lot, a par course, jungle gym equipment, and, when available, a splash pool.

Ramona Park: Located at 4662 W. 136th Street in Hawthorne. A very good-sized park with picnic tables, a tot lot, wading pool (when available). Horseshoes, shuffleboard, basketball courts, and croquet.

Holly Park: Located at 2958 W. 120th Street in Hawthorne, Holly Park has a tot lot, wading pool (when available), and so much else: Tennis courts, baseball fields, horseshoes, shuffleboard, basketball courts, croquet, picnic shelter, barbecues, as well as picnic tables.

Memorial Park: Located at 3943 El Segundo Boulevard, adjacent to the Memorial Center. This is the location of several Citywide events over the course of the year. You will find barbecue grills, a tot lot, wading pool (when available), futsal, basketball, bocce courts, and par course equipment.

Zela Davis Park: Located at 3650 W. 163rd Street in Hawthorne. This is a work-in-progress, with picnic tables and a tot lot presently. Renovations are scheduled to continue into 2023.

Eucalyptus Park: Located at 12100 S. Inglewood Avenue in Hawthorne.. Eucalyptus Park has picnic shelters and tables, barbecue grills, a tot lot, a wading pool (when open), basketball courts, and, notably, quite a nice skatepark.

Hawthorne is benefiting from a master plan to update many of its parks. This includes Zela Davis Park. A few years ago, Bicentennial Park was well renovated after not even being accessible for a time. To be sure, Hawthorne can pride itself on its plentiful parks.

And so, ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls: Please get thee outdoors! The Hawthorne parks are there for you to enjoy, play, and maybe even relax. Time to coin a new phrase: “Let’s parky”! •

Brainwashed: Sex-Camera-Power Exposes the Male Gaze in Hollywood

By Morgan Rojas, Cinemacy.com

Nina Menkes is not only one of America's earliest independent filmmakers but is also considered a cinematic feminist pioneer. Menkes has spent the last 30+ years observing a disturbing trend within the film industry, which she exposes in her latest documentary, Brainwashed: Sex-Camera-Power.

Using over 175 film clips from Hollywood blockbusters and cult classics, Menkes points out how simple, subtle techniques like framing and lighting can disempower women on the screen. For example, women are countlessly shot in fragmented ways, like close-ups of breasts, hips, and butts while men are usually always shot full body

Nina Menkes appears in Brainwashed: Sex-Camera-Power by Nina Menkes.

Playing like a TED Talk, Menkes takes the stage in a packed auditorium to discuss the nuanced but damaging gendered politics of shot design. She opens her argument by playing a clip from Bladerunner 2049 (2017), that infamous scene where a naked Ana de Armas interacts with Ryan Gosling.

Over the course of the film's hour-and-a-half runtime, clips like these will prove her hypothesis that shot design is gendered, and males are consistently shot differently than females. Welcome to feminist film school 101.

As Menkes shows, being a filmmaker also means accepting a great level of responsibility. What you create has an effect on those who watch your movie. And for too long, women have been treated less than or objectified more than their male counterparts.

Aiding in Menkes' theory is Laura Mulvey, the film theorist who coined the term the "Male Gaze." Mulvey, alongside film school professors, psychotherapists, and film directors, all contribute stories from their first-hand experiences of misogyny in the industry that has a love/hate relationship with women.

(even in hyper-sexualized films like Magic Mike). Another point, slow-motion has been consistently used on women to emphasize sexualization or victimization, whereas it's used on men to emphasize action scenes and toughness.

Menkes calls this a vicious triangle of repeated torment: the visual language of cinema

Almost American Girl by Robin Ha

By Kim Harris, El Segundo Middle School Library Assistant, El Segundo Middle School Library

Almost American Girl is an illustrated memoir about Robin Ha, who moved to the United States from Seoul, Korea. Robin's Korean name is Chuna, but she changed it to Robin when she started school in the United States.

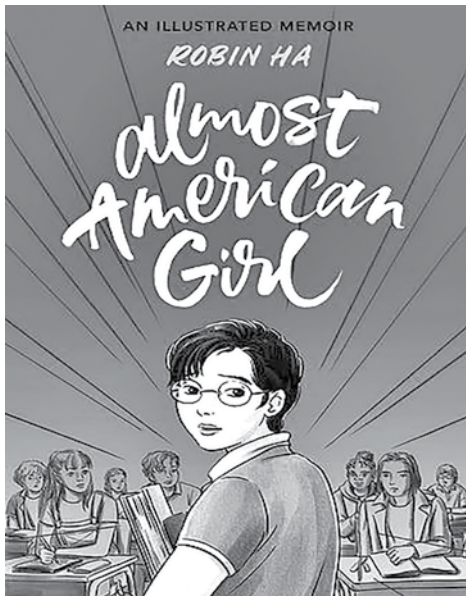

When Chuna was 14 years old, her mom told her that they were going on a trip to the United States, to a state called Alabama. At first, Chuna was very excited to go on the trip. Chuna and her mom traveled a lot: Saigon, Taipei, Hawaii, Guam, Singapore...so going Korean and have nothing in common.

Chuna decides to change her name to Robin to help fit in better. At first, Robin has a really hard time adjusting to life in Alabama. The weather is different, the schools are different, even the books are different. No one talks to her at school and she has no friends. Life becomes a little better after Robin's mom marries Minsik and they move to their own apartment. Robin begins to take comic book classes and starts to make friends. Eventually, Robin's mom divorces Minsik and they move to McLean, Virginia. It is close to Washington D.C. and the new high school is an International school. What happens to Robin? Does she eventually begin to fit in? Why did Robin's mom decide to move to Alabama and then decide to move again? Read the book to find out!

I really enjoyed the book because it was a humorous graphic memoir about what life is like for a teenager, especially one that moved to a new country and started a new school. The graphics really emphasize Robin's words and makes the story much more interesting and funny. If you like graphic memoirs, check out The New Kid by Jerry Craft and Hey Kiddo by Jarrett J. Krosoczka.

This book and others are available to check out at the Middle School and Public Library. Visit www.elsegundolib.org to request with your library card or stop by the Main Library Monday to Thursday 9am-9pm or Friday and Saturday 10 am-5 pm. • to Alabama was another adventure. However, when they arrive in Alabama, they are met at the airport by a man, Minsik Kim. He owns a fish market and is a friend of Chuna's mom. They stay with the Kim family in Alabama. At first, Chuna thinks they are just there on vacation, but is soon informed that her mom is going to marry Mr. Kim. Chuna does not react well to the news: she misses all of her friends and wants all of her stuff that is back home in Korea, especially her comic books and drawings. Mr. Kim has relatives that he and his daughter Lena are staying with: his brother and his wife, their three children and the Kim grandparents. Chuna doesn't get along with any of them because the kids don't speak

Holly Glen Park Celebrates Reopening with a Ribbon Cutting Ceremony

Holly Glen held their much anticipated reopening of the newly remodeled Holly Glen Park. The renovations began in June of this year. Project funding came from Prop 68, Prop A and Development Impact fees. It was estimated to cost $800,000 dollars, and a bit more than half was spent for the play equipment. Thanks to all the residents that came to celebrate with us on this renovation, and there are more parks to come. Photo courtesy City of Hawthorne.

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

SOMETHING HAS CHANGED

Something has changed in the last two or three years. It's hard to explain, it's hard to really put a finger on it. But, we all can feel it. We have changed as a nation. The pandemic has changed us. Getting locked down, being forced to stay home, getting paid to stay home, being told not to get too close to others, wearing a mask, getting vaccinated, still getting COVID even after receiving three shots, being told to do this but not that in order to save people's lives. We are worn out. The political divide has deepened; both sides think they are right, both sides think the other side is made up of wacky extremists. No one seems to want to compromise or find common ground. Still, with all of this going on, hundreds, if not thousands of foreigners come to America illegally every day. Prices for almost everything increase, but some how every man, woman and child has a cell phone to look at morning, noon, while driving, and at night. With so much going on, so many problems to deal with, it seems that we are worn out, we are tired. Some scary questions that need to be answered: Have we lost our will to work hard? Have we lost our motivation? Have we lost our pride in America? Is patriotism looked down upon, old fashion, out of date? The values that we have held on to for so long are being challenged. Do we still value hard work, standing up for America, being a good neighbor to every one of our fellow citizens, showing respect to all including those with a different viewpoint? Do our young folk know what it means to have to suffer and to dig deep to succeed? We all like to be optimistic and look forward to the future with high hopes, but where do we find that energy to keep on going? We might have changed, but God never changes.

God was, is and always will be that constant in our lives. He created us, he loves us. God never promises to make America great again, but he can. God never promises that our life will suddenly return to the good ol' days of 2018, but God could. When we remember who is in charge and that same all powerful Father loves us, life becomes much more livable. We can focus on loving others. We can bring ourselves out of the doldrums of post-pandemic lifelessness, and work hard, enjoy life and return to having our cold ones. God chooses us, he wants us to be on his team. Once He passes out the uniforms, we are winners, no matter what life throws at us. Our victory has been secured. We don't have to win big in the playoffs, we are already World Champions! Dear friends, neighbors, loyal readers, Dodger fans, Cardinal fans, yes, even Yankee fans, relax, celebrate, have a cold one!

LONG TIME, NO WRITE!

It's been quite a summer. 115 degrees last week in Sacramento! Rain in SoCal. Now, we are quickly moving into Fall. I hope all 20+ of my loyal readers have found a way to survive. I miss not sending you anything to trash. I hope you found a way to relax and you had a few cold ones to stay cool.

Tips To Reduce Your Health Care Expenses

(BPT) - Health care costs are in the news all the time. You hear about them at work and when you're with friends and family. The comments are always the same. Health care is getting more and more expensive and it seems to be outpacing the money you make.

Fortunately you're not helpless when it comes to controlling your health care costs. While some treatments simply have to be done in order to support your health, there are other things you can do to protect yourself and your loved ones while looking out for your pocketbook at the same time.

Employ these five tips today and you'll enjoy the care you need without breaking your budget.

- Focus on your health first. When it comes to controlling your health care expenses, you actually have more control than you think - a lot more. The decisions you make every day - what to eat, whether or not to smoke, how much to exercise - all play a dramatic role in your overall health. So take charge, dine on fruits and vegetables, take a run and kick that nicotine habit for good. Each of these little decisions will benefit your health and your budget.

- Be decisive with your deductible. Your insurance deductible is a fixed cost and one you'll pay every single year before receiving network coverage support. But once it's paid, you'll enjoy the full coverage of your plan. Thus, if you have another treatment or procedure coming up, don't put it off any longer than you have to. Undergoing additional procedures in the same year means you get more coverage while paying only one deductible. Many health plans also cover preventive services in full, without going against a deductible.

- Be smart about where you go for care. While health care facilities across the country are all capable of delivering compassionate, quality care, they are not all priced the same. According to a Blue Cross Blue Shield, The Health of America Report, 29.8 percent of emergency room visits were for conditions that could have been treated in retail clinics. The same research also found consumers saved money on out-of-pocket costs by visiting retail clinics for routine services when compared to doctor's offices, and the visits were much more inexpensive than receiving the same treatment in the emergency room, according to the Blue Cross Blue Shield Association.

- Ask questions. Your provider may know best, but it's all about your health. Don't be afraid to ask questions, not only about the procedure itself, but about the price of the procedure and if there is anything you can do to reduce the expense. Sometimes there may be something you can do on your own that supports your health and lessens your costs at the same time.

- Embrace an HSA. Health Savings Accounts (HSAs) provide a cost-effective way for people who don't use a lot of health care services, to access care and pay for services up until they reach their deductible. Plus the money you save in your HSA can be used to pay for co-insurance payments or co-pays at your doctor's office, and it's also an eligible tax write off, opening the door to further savings. There are ways you can manage your health care spending. Follow the tips above and be an active participant in your role as a health care consumer and you'll be surprised at how much you save. To learn more about the The Health of America Report, visit www.bcbs.com/healthofamerica.

My critics were hoping that I had given up with attempting to scribble some mumbo jumbo down. They thought I had just written my last and had ridden my broken down computer keyboard out into the sunset. But no, I'm still kickin'. I'm still here, I'm still suggesting that relaxing and having a cold can lead to employment discrimination against women which can lead to sexual abuse/assault. All that to say, what we see on screen has real-life consequences, "If the camera is predatory, the culture is predatory as well."

Although the points Menkes addresses are hard to hear (at times I even found myself wanting to defend these films), her points are indisputable. Watching her criticize scenes from some of my favorite films like

Phantom Thread, Contempt, and Eyes Wide Shut (okay, that one may be obvious) made me feel uncomfortable—but that's the point. Brainwashed: Sex-Camera-Power is provocative on purpose. Its whole purpose is to shake up the industry to the subliminally victimizing messaging that we've been watching and accepting for far too long.

107 min. 'Brainwashed: Sex-Camera-Power' is now playing at the Laemmle in LA.

PETSPETS Pets PETSPETS

Purrrfect Companions

Get ready for pumpkin spice and everything nice. "Autumn" it be time to find your purr-fect match? When you adopt, you save a life... and in turn enrich your own.

Lamborghini is a playful, sweet, and cuddly kitty. He loves to play with just about any toy and will carry it around in his mouth.

Beans

Lamborghini will follow you around while batting his toy. He spends much of his day racing around with his siblings, chasing them up the cat tree, and eventually cuddling with them and or his human. He will sleep next to you at night or while you are watching TV. He will often look up at you adoringly while providing lots of purrs. Lamborghini must be adopted with another young kitty. He would love to be adopted with one, or both of his siblings, Ferrari or Maserati.

Beans is the sweetest cuddle bug you will ever meet. He goes out of his way to say hello and ask for pets and scratches. He will never get enough of you and loves sleeping on the couch by your side. Beans loves all his foster siblings and has no problem making friends with everyone. His favorite activities include playing with toys with strings and laser pointer. But given the opportunity, he will always choose to be next to you before anything. Adopting Beans will be the best choice you ever made!

Elvis is a very handsome tabby boy and an all-around wonderful kitty with a warm personality. He loves hanging out with you or enjoys some romping about with his brother for good old-fashioned playtime. Elvis is best described as a laid back guy, calm and gentle, very easy to handle and enjoys some cradling and cuddling. He is a people-lover, comfortable with dogs, and gets along with other cats. He must be adopted with another young cat or kitten if you do not currently have a young, playful cat at home. His sweet brother Prince would be a great match.

Bunny and Lola are the best of friends who follow each other everywhere. They love to sneak under the covers and cuddle every single morning. Lola is a purr machine every time you pet her, and Bunny loves to be picked up and raised in the air. They are extremely energetic and love to zoom around and explore as much as they can. Their favorite toys are strings, mini stuffed mouse toys, the laser pointer, and bottle caps. This duo enjoys sitting by the window, watching birds fly by, and feeling a cool breeze. They prefer dark cozy spaces to sleep in but also enjoy basking in the sun when they get the chance. Bunny and Lola will sprint to you when they hear the word "treats" as they are absolutely obsessed with Temptations cat treats. With their adorable quirks, Bunny and Lola are the sweetest pair you could wish for.

Sugar and spice and everything nice is what little Caroline is made of! Caroline is such a sweet and thoughtful kitten with a lot of energy and spunk to back it up. She is a bit timid at first but warms up to you and starts purring when you hold her in your arms. Caroline is not afraid of anything. She has scaled all the cat trees at her foster mom's house and has even conquered her dog. She is always running around with her brothers and sisters planning what mischief they will get into next. She is the sweetest little babe who loves to get her cheeks and chin rubbed! Caroline loves to play with the resident dog and is great with older cats. Caroline is still very young and needs to be adopted with one of her siblings, Charlotte, Madison, Desmond or Everett.
