Local Students Get an Exclusive Behind-The-Scenes Experience

In partnership with Play Equity, SoFi Stadium, Hollywood Park, and the NFL Network, our Alliance students participated in a career lab excursion. Our students had the opportunity of touring both the SoFi Stadium and the NFL Network facilities and shadowing dedicated professionals across various departments. This unique opportunity granted them an insightful, behind-the-scenes perspective on stadium operations and a sneak peek into the intricacies of content production at the NFL Network. Everyone was Smiling – Here’s Why

By Ron Sokol

The first time an external defibrillator was utilized on a human being was in 1947. A portable version of the external defibrillator was invented in the mid-1960s by a gentleman in Ireland, Frank Pantridge, who was a pioneer in emergency medical treatment.

Abbreviated AED – for automated external defibrillator, or automatic electronic defibrillator – it is a device that can and does indeed save lives.

The AED is portable and automatically diagnoses life-threatening cardiac arrhythmias and pulseless tachycardia (often referred to as “sudden cardiac arrest”). The AED can treat each through defibrillation. This means the application of electricity, which stops the arrhythmia, allowing the heart to re-establish an effective rhythm.

AEDs are designed to be relatively easy to use by laypeople. So, a little bit more explanation will be helpful:

Sudden cardiac arrest occurs when the heart abruptly and unexpectedly stops beating. There may be no warning signs or even symptoms. It happens more often than you may know, and many die. The statistics, including with regard to young people at our high schools, are truly concerning. Research indicates that a young athlete dies here in the United States as a result of sudden cardiac arrest every two to three days.

AEDs are not inexpensive. If a high school even has one, but it is a distance from where and when it is needed, getting the AED there on time may be very challenging. As such, it helps if the high school has more than one. In fact, several!

All of which led to a few years ago. The Kiwanis Club of Hawthorne received a request from Christina Scutti, a Trainer with the Athletic Department at Leuzinger High School. Christina explained that the school bought an AED, but it needed to stay in the office at all times. This means the AED would not be available for an emergency on the field or near the campus. After consideration, the Kiwanis Club not only wanted to try to get more AEDs to Leuzinger but to the other high schools in the area as well (Hawthorne, Lawndale, and Hawthorne Math and Science Academy).

A fundraising event was planned for April 2020 at the Comedy & Magic Club in Hermosa Beach to kick off the campaign. Then Covid hit. The Pandemic took over, and the effort was stopped in its tracks. Thankfully, Christina reached out once Covid simmered down. By October last year, the Hawthorne Kiwanis Club bought one AED and determined to develop a campaign to obtain AEDs for all the schools in the area.

I have been able to observe just how an effort like this translates into the real world. Dedicated persons, including Joel Versh (recently President of the Hawthorne Kiwanis Club), Doug Herbst, a member of 33 years, and Moe Awadallah, now the Club President, have been among those to create paperwork, an online presence, a fundraising portal, to touch base with representatives of the Centinela Valley Union School District (not the least of which is Stephen Nellman, the Superintendent), and bottom line to get the word out. It takes time, patience, and stick-to-it-tiveness. It does not always go smoothly. You still forge ahead!

Along with the Hawthorne Kiwanis Club, some generous contributors that funded one or more AEDs are Imperial Projects, Inc., See Smiling, page 4

The Delinquents Will Make You Want To Finally Live Your Life

By Ryan Rojas, Cinemacy.com

A “delinquent” can be either of these things: someone who violates the law, or someone who is overdue in an action. In Rodrigo Moreno’s film The Delinquents, the meaning applies to both. In this case, those who break the law in order to rectify something they are crucially overdue in doing: finally living their lives. What starts out as a dryly funny bank heist comedy, The Delinquents ends as a poignant meditation on the sacredness of life that will inspire those who seek out this special film.

The film opens with a hilariously drab shot of a colorless suit laid over a chair. It’s the sad uniform of Morán (Daniel Elías), a lifeless bank teller who handles large amounts of money each day for a living, without the faintest trace of joy on his face. One day, Morán nonchalantly enters the main bank vault alone. Staring into the security cameras, he casually proceeds to put over $650,000 in cash into his bag and walks out of the building.

Morán then meets up with an unsuspecting colleague, Román (Esteban Bigliardi), informing him of the illegal act he performed earlier that day. Román also learns of Morán’s grand plan: that if he looks after the stolen money while Morán serves out his sentence (which he’s calculated to be just over three years; less with good behavior), he’ll receive half of the money—which Morán reasons would equal five years’ worth of salaries working at their soul-crushing bank job. Initially reluctant, Román agrees, and takes the money to hide.

After all, what could possibly go wrong?

What begins as an impulsive agreement to accept a sizable fortune turns into full-on anxiety for Román—especially after a strong-willed detective enters the picture and signs start to point to his involvement. Román decides it’s not worth it, visiting Morán in prison to inform him he can no longer keep the money. Morán—who himself is experiencing the unexpected roughness of prison life—tells him of a hidden nature reserve where the cash can be stashed. Román buries their fortune, but not before meeting a group of friendly strangers at the lake: Norma (Margarita Molino), Morna (Cecilia Rainero), and Ramón (Javier Zoro) (yes, they are all anagrams, signaling a cosmically fated connection that we all share with one another).

It’s here where the first act ends, and where the film takes on an entirely new tone in its second act: one that’s less comical, and more observant about life’s beauty when you’re finally outside of the system. Ramón embarks on a new passionate life path with Norma, avoiding the stresses of his job as well as the family he left behind. The film moves from the busy city into the wide expanse of nature, where Ramón, Norma, and his new friends live (and where Morán may still be connected to this new group of strangers).

Rodrigo Moreno’s film is an incredible work of art, ultimately revealing how people can let their jobs become their life’s meaning and forget the source of true happiness. Moreno’s ways of slowing the movie down to reflect this, such as dancing to a long song, hearing a full-length poem read aloud, and simply witnessing beautiful shots of rolling mountains, are flourishes that remind us as viewers to slow down and experience these

Death of a Bookseller by Alice Slater

By Library Assistant Mary Martes

Don’t let the bright colors and cartoonish graphics on the cover fool you. This book is dark! In Alice Slater’s debut novel, the protagonist Roach, as she calls herself, works for a chain bookstore in a branch that is plagued by low sales. She is obsessed with true crime, especially serial killers. She has worked for the bookstore her entire adult life, but does very little work, doesn’t like the customers, and uses phony customer names to order titles that she keeps for herself. Her life is contained in the black bubble of death, revolving around her passion for the genre, scoffing and hating on “wannabes” who jumped on the bandwagon when true crime became trendy.

When employees from the main branch arrive for an overhaul of the failing branch, Roach cannot keep her eyes off of Laura. Roach senses something in the golden girl aura of Laura and is convinced they could be best friends. Despite repeated attempts, Laura has no interest in a friendship with Roach. She rebuffs her entreaties and is dismissive and disdainful. Roach is not about to let this rest. Her burgeoning obsession with Laura tangles up in her obsession with serial killers. As she delves deeper into Laura’s past, she begins to realize they have something in common. The journey to discover Laura’s secret takes her on some very twisted turns. Roach doesn’t like no for an answer.

This is a creepy, dark thriller with a slow burn. Keep the light on when you read this and be sure you have plenty of time because it is a hard one to put down. •

Need Help To Ease Your Financial Stress? Seek A Financial Advisor

(BPT) - As inflation continues to rise, Americans are feeling the financial pressure and weighing their present needs against their future financial health. According to The National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA) Fall 2022 Consumer Survey, 87% of working Americans feel stressed about their finances, and nearly half are unsure of how much money they need to retire comfortably.

"Everyone is feeling the impacts of inflation, from the price of groceries to the fluctuations in their retirement accounts, and it's clear that more Americans are looking for the assistance and guidance that comes from a Fee-Only financial planner," says Kathryn Dattomo, CEO of the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA).

Finding the right financial advisor that can educate and guide clients can be challenging. When searching for a financial advisor, look for the following four qualities.

1. Fee-Only Compensation

How a financial advisor is compensated can affect the advice you receive. Financial advisors are compensated through three ways:

- Commission-based model
- Commission and fee model
- Fee-Only model

Advisors that work in commissioned and commission and fee models are paid based on the specific financial products they sell to their clients. These models create an inherent conflict of interest. Advisors may struggle to put their client's best interests above their own. They also may recommend riskier financial investments with lower returns because they'll earn more money.

In contrast, clients pay Fee-Only advisors directly based on an hourly rate, a percentage of assets, a flat fee or a retainer for advice, plan execution and ongoing asset management. Because financial advisors don't receive compensation from third parties, there's no incentive to sell you expensive and risky financial products. This model allows them to concentrate on financial recommendations suitable to your situation.

2. A Fiduciary

A fiduciary is a professional that manages assets or wealth while putting the client's best interest first. Fiduciaries are required to disclose any conflicts or potential conflicts to their clients before and during the advisory engagement, adopt a code of ethics and explain their fee structure.

Not all financial professionals are fiduciaries. Non-fiduciary advisors can recommend products with higher fees that generate bonuses, commissions and prizes. That's why it's of the utmost importance to ensure your financial advisor has signed a fiduciary oath.

"As consumers of financial services, we all owe it to ourselves to remain diligent - to understand our options and the standards our financial professionals are held to," says Dattomo. "Selecting a financial planner who has taken a fiduciary oath means they will always put your best interests first."

3. Experienced And Proactive

Having an experienced and proactive advisor is key to securing your financial future. When searching for a financial advisor, check out their educational history, including credentials and designations such as a Certified Financial Planner® (CFP®) certification.

Tips For Choosing Your Health Benefits This Season

(BPT) - As inflation in the U.S. remains high, you may be looking to adjust your lifestyle and spending habits. But when it comes to health care, it's important to keep your budget and well-being in mind.

This year's open enrollment season is a good chance to review how you're using health services and decide whether you'll stick with the plan you've got or switch to another being offered. It's also an opportunity to assess your overall care costs to help ensure you choose a plan that will work best for next year's budget.

Enrollment timing: For people with coverage from their employer, open enrollment typically happens during a two- or three-week period between September and December. For those eligible for Medicare, the Medicare Annual Enrollment Period runs from Oct. 15-Dec. 7 each year. Selections made during the fall will take effect on Jan. 1, 2024.

Here are tips to consider that may help lead you to better health and cost savings:

First, consider all your options. Take time to understand and compare the benefits, services and costs of each plan available to you, so you can figure out which will be the best fit. You also should understand what out-of-pocket costs, including the deductible, copays and coinsurance, you may be responsible for.

Medicare members and caregivers: As you weigh your options, ensure you're familiar with the difference between Original Medicare and Medicare Advantage. If you need a review, visit MedicareEducation.com - an online resource with answers to questions about eligibility, plan choices, cost basics, prescription coverage and more.

Learn the language. If you're overwhelmed by or unsure about certain health care terms, there are resources to help. As a start, check out UnitedHealth Group's Just Plain Clear Glossary (in English, Spanish and Portuguese) to help you make informed decisions.

Help prevent financial surprises. Visiting doctors that are in-network is one way to help keep your costs lower. Also, make sure your medications will be covered by the plan you choose. Look into filling your prescriptions at a participating network pharmacy or with home delivery by mail - two more potentially money-saving options.

Medicare members and caregivers: You may be surprised to learn Original Medicare doesn't generally cover prescription drugs. Consider adding Part D or enroll in

Stuffed Spinach and Cheese Shells

Provided by Campbells Soup Corp.

We love these Spinach and Cheese Stuffed Shells because they have all the comforting goodness of lasagna but are so much easier to make! Just cook some jumbo pasta shells and while they're cooking, heat the oven and make the filling. The filling is a creamy seasoned cheese mixture with fresh baby spinach, ricotta, mozzarella and Parmesan cheeses that comes together in seconds. Fill the shells, pour the savory chunky Italian sauce on top, sprinkle with more mozzarella and bake. This Spinach and Cheese Stuffed Shells recipe is the best- make it and see why!

Ingredients

- 18 uncooked jumbo shell shaped pasta shells
- 4 cups chopped baby spinach
- 1 container (15 ounces) ricotta cheese
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (about 4 ounces)
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon zest (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 jar (24 ounces) Prego® Chunky Garden Tomato, Onion & Garlic Italian Sauce or Chunky Garden Combo Pasta Sauce or Chunky Mushroom and Green Pepper Pasta Sauce

Directions

- Step 1: Cook and drain the shells according to the package directions. While the shells are cooking, heat the oven to 400°F.
- Step 2: Stir the spinach, ricotta cheese, 1/2 cup mozzarella cheese, Parmesan cheese, Italian seasoning, lemon zest, if desired, and garlic powder in a bowl. Spoon about 2 tablespoons ricotta cheese mixture into each shell.
- Step 3: Spread 1 cup sauce in a 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Place the stuffed shells in the dish. Pour the remaining sauce over the shells. Sprinkle with the remaining 1/2 cup mozzarella cheese.
- Step 4: Bake for 30 minutes or until hot.

Tips

- You can substitute a 10-ounce package of frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well drained, for the fresh spinach.

Send us a photo and recipe of your favorite dish. We'd love to share it with the community. Send to: web@heraldpublications.com a Medicare Advantage plan with prescription drug coverage to help keep your medication costs in check.

Check for mental health coverage. In addition to in-person mental health care, you may have access to a large virtual network of therapists and psychiatrists. Some health insurers also offer advocacy services to help you find the right type of behavioral health care. Medicare members and caregivers: Look for plans that offer virtual mental health care with a $0 copay.

Don't forget about specialty benefits. Additional benefits, such as dental, vision, hearing or critical illness insurance, are often available and may contribute to overall well-being.

Medicare members and caregivers: You may be surprised that Original Medicare doesn't cover most dental, vision and hearing services, but many Medicare Advantage plans do.

Look into wellness programs. Many health plans offer incentives that reward you for taking healthier actions, such as completing a health survey, exercising or avoiding nicotine.

Medicare members and caregivers: Many Medicare Advantage plans also offer gym memberships and wellness programs for members at no additional cost.

Explore virtual care services. If you're busy or just prefer connecting with a doctor from the convenience of your home, consider choosing a plan that includes 24/7 virtual care. You may have access to virtual wellness visits, urgent care and chronic condition management.

Film Review

“unproductive” but beautiful moments without a “productive” value.

The Delinquents is a long movie. At 3 hours and 9 minutes—complete with two chaptered parts—it’s something of an odyssey to endure. Ironically, the film (Argentina’s official entry to the 2024 Academy Awards) is about the preciousness of passing time, and how we shouldn’t waste a single minute of it. To that end, you might think that watching a three-plus hour movie might go against its own message, but I’m here to say that you’d be wrong. The Delinquents accomplishes its mission in the final scene, proving it has the impressive and magnificent power to make you reconsider how you live your life. •

CFP® professionals meet rigorous education, training and ethical standards that allow them to work in the best interests of their clients today, tomorrow and beyond. You can also check if they’re members of a reputable financial association such as NAPFA.

“When you entrust your financial well-being with a financial advisor, you want to make sure that they are looking out for your overall financial well-being,” says Dattomo. “That is why NAPFA-Registered Financial Advisors must meet stiff credentialing and rigorous continuing education requirements along with their Fee-Only and fiduciary oath.”

4. A Holistic Approach

When working with an advisor, you’ll want to choose someone who takes a broad-based approach to managing and planning your finances. Some financial planners focus on only one or two elements of your finances, such as selling specific products and investments, and overlook other critical areas of your long-term financial outlook. A holistic financial planner will consider all aspects of your finances to develop a tailor-made plan to help you reach your financial goals.
