The Inglewood Walk Art Is Back!

By Ron Sokol

On Friday, November 11, soon after this column is published, the Inglewood Art Walk returns from a three-year hiatus (no thanks to the Pandemic). The opening reception is at Residency Art Gallery, 310 E. Queen Street in Inglewood, from 4 to 7 PM.

The excitement is palpable, partly because this will be the largest number of artists to date (at least 75) and will include all kinds of media: Drawing, painting, photography, mixed-media, printmaking, video, performance, and sculpture. The self-guided tour of the studios, sites, and locations – with maps available – is from 12 to 5 PM Saturday and Sunday, November 12 and 13. You can walk, bike, or take the bus (a free shuttle/bus will be available).

The first Art Walk was in 2006, through the efforts of Inglewood Open Studios, which continues at the helm. There were all 16 participants then. It began then and continues now as a way to introduce artists to each other and showcase the Inglewood art scene. The Art Walk strives to make clear that Inglewood is a place of culture and creativity.

Several locations will host workshops, talks, performances, and family-friendly activities. Some artists will provide light refreshments. The Weaver's Brewery is donating beer, and Fiesta Martin is donating finger foods. There will be a music-related event on Saturday and Sunday in the form of an open mic called "The Flowicious Experience".

But hold on a second. Hold on just a sec... The City of Inglewood is an art mecca? Really? Drum roll please: Many say Inglewood is enjoying a Renaissance and that the Inglewood Art Walk is part of it. This is good news since Inglewood was depressed and in financial trouble not so long ago. Crime and unemployment were high. The Lakers and Clippers had left. Then, one day, a few years ago, things started to turn.

For example, the Girl Scouts of America opened a service center in Inglewood in 2019 to serve as a hub for approximately 45,000 girl scouts in the Los Angeles region. Today there is also the Beckmen YOLA Center in Inglewood, which emerged due to a collaboration between Inglewood, architect Frank Gehry, and LA Philharmonic Maestro Gustavo Dudamel. YOLA stands for Youth Orchestra Los Angeles.

Meet Me in the Bathroom Rock Doc Relives The NYC 2000s Indie Music Scene

By Ryan Rojas, Cinemacy.com

Of the many concerts I've gone to throughout the year, I saw some of my all-time favorite, seminal bands: The Strokes, LCD Soundsystem, and Interpol. Not only are these bands all still together but they're still touring, and continuing to make new music. This is especially impressive when you consider that these bands all started out in the early 2000s, and did so while they were just in their early twenties. Born out of a true independent music scene and looking feelings, traveling back in time. There are no modern day interviews spliced in, which feels totally transportive to the era. With incredible never-before-seen footage, we see what it was to live in New York on the cusp of the new millennium, pre-internet and pre-9/11. As the doc shows, a few bands—looking for a new kind of rock music—emerged with a “new cool” rock aesthetic, born out of the true indie music scene. The Moldy Peaches, Yeah Yeah Yeahs, and of course, the band that would almost single-handedly explode the scene, The

for a new scene in rock, these bands—as well as the Yeah Yeah Yeahs and others—would create a new wave of rock music, which is captured in the new documentary Meet Me In The Bathroom.

Released by Utopia, Meet Me In The Bathroom chronicles the rise of this indie rock scene and its lasting influence on the music scene today. Based on the 2017 oral history book of the same name by Lizzie Goodman, the film combines interviews from all of the major people who were there to tell the story of the scene in their own words.

It's a fascinating read (did I mention I'm an enormous fan of all of these bands and music?). Directors Will Lovelace and Dylan Southern (who co-directed the LCD Soundsystem concert doc Shut Up and Play The Hits) bring a similarly direct approach to tell the story, by way of using entirely archival footage.

The look of the film—all VHS “home movie-esque” record footage—lends a nostalgia to the Strokes. After the Strokes' overnight success, new bands were born: Interpol, TV On The Radio, and later, LCD Soundsystem.

The footage of these bands from some of their earliest shows is incredible to see.

The Marriage Portrait by Maggie O'Farrell

By Mary Martes,
El Segundo Public Library Assistant

Fans of Hilary Mantel and historical fiction will find much to like in the pages of Maggie O'Farrell's new novel The Marriage Portrait. O'Farrell received the National Book Critics Circle Award and Women's Prize for Fiction for her bestselling tale of the death of Shakespeare's eleven-year-old son and the grief of his parents in dealing with the loss. She is back with the story of child bride Lucrezia de Medici, loosely guided by Robert Browning's famous poem, “My Last Duchess.”

As the novel opens, Lucrezia is dining with her husband the Duke when she realizes that he means to kill her. History records Lucrezia dying from tuberculosis at the age of sixteen, before her first anniversary. However, there is speculation that she was actually poisoned. O'Farrell dramatizes the murder scenario.

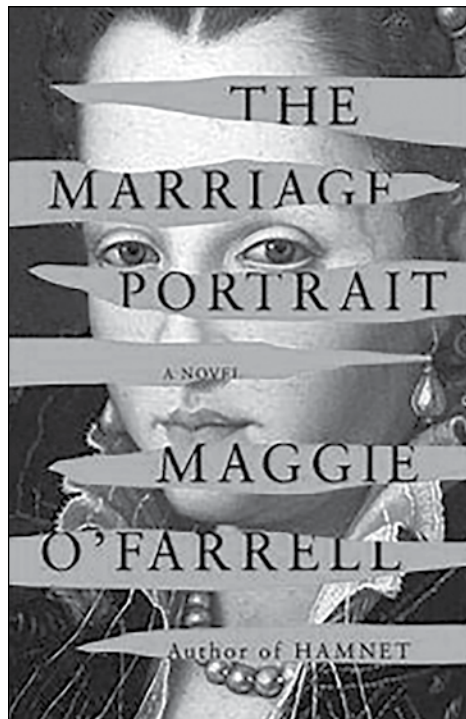

Set in Renaissance Italy, the third daughter of Cosimo I de' Medici, the Grand Duke of Tuscany and his wife, Duchess Eleanor is a precocious, “unbiddable” child named Lucrezia. With two older sisters and four brothers, Lucrezia enjoys the anonymity of the least esteemed child. She is given free rein to spend time in her own pursuits, until she is found to be exceptionally bright and a gifted artist.

Upon the sudden death of her sister, Lucrezia is settled upon as a substitute in marriage to Alfonso II d'Este, Duke of Ferrara at the age of thirteen. The Duke is a charming and devoted fiancé, bequeathing gifts and admiring her beauty. His grand gesture is to have her portrait painted by a famed royal portrait artist – the Marriage Portrait. Once married however, Alfonso shows another side, the tyrannical nobleman desperate for an heir.

O'Farrell illuminates the lives of these unseen women of history. As pawns in the game of power, they are forever at the mercy of men, perceived as possessions. O'Farrell brings them to vivid life as people in their own right, despite lives of quiet desperation.

To check out this or find your next great read, stop by the El Segundo Public Library. We are open 9am-9pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday and Saturday. •

Three Reasons Why Young Adults Should Invest in a Life Insurance Policy

(BPT) - Life insurance is for people of all ages, not just parents and grandparents. While life insurance needs vary by age and stage of life, it's a good idea to invest in a life insurance plan while you're young.

If you're in your 20s and 30s, life insurance may not seem necessary, but it's a useful tool to have at any age. Check out these three reasons provided by State Farm® why life insurance should be a priority for young adults.

1. The best time to get coverage

As a young adult, life insurance probably isn't top of mind, but it's the best time to get coverage. Since you're young and likely healthy, you'll typically qualify for more affordable premiums. Because you have a relatively long life expectancy, insurers see you as less risk than older individuals.

You don't have to apply for an expensive, comprehensive policy. Start with a small policy in your 20s that fits your budget to build the foundation of your financial security. You can always expand your coverage throughout your life.

2. Planning life and expanding coverage

When you experience a life change, like marriage or kids, you should evaluate and expand your coverage as needed. By the time you're in your 30s, you may have children and a mortgage or plan, which makes the financial protection offered by life insurance more important than ever. For example, life insurance coverage can help cover your children's education costs if tragedy hits and you are no longer there to provide for them.

If you don't have kids or a house payment but are planning on expanding your family or purchasing a home, don't wait to bolster your coverage. Now is the time to make sure you are fully insured, as rates typically rise with age.

3. Security and peace of mind

It's not pleasant to think about you or a family member passing. Still, should the unexpected happen, you'll want to be covered. According to the Life Insurance Marketing and Research Association (LIMRA), too many families are at risk of financial insecurity should their primary wage earner pass away. In fact, the association found that 44% of U.S. households would feel financial hardships within six months of their primary wage earner's passing.

A life insurance policy provides your family with security in the event of your passing and provides you with peace of mind knowing they'll be covered after you're gone. In addition to paying for college and providing income to your loved ones, it can help them cover funeral, burial and cremation costs. According to State Farm, the average funeral typically costs around $8,000, a hefty expense to try to cover when you're already grieving the loss of a loved one. Final expense insurance (or burial insurance) can help relieve the financial impact of a funeral.

These are just three reasons why you should invest in a life insurance policy while you're young and can qualify for lower premiums. If you want to protect your future now but have questions about what coverage you need and can afford, visit www.StateFarm.com or the State Farm app to talk with an insurance agent. •

Of course, there is now So Fi Stadium, the 3.1 million-square-foot arena, part of Hollywood Park, which consists of the 6,000 seats YouTube Theater, will have up to 2,500 brand-new residences, a retail district that will reach as many as 890,000 square feet, a 300-room hotel, and some five million square feet of creative office space.

And, let's not forget the adjacent six-acre artificial lake, part of a 25-acre parkland for the enjoyment of Inglewood residents and the public at large. Not surprisingly, So Fi is one of the hosts of the 2026 World Cup, and will be a host for the opening and closing ceremonies of the 2028 Olympics.

Did I mention that the Inglewood Forum reopened after substantial renovation in 2014 and that in 2024 the $1.2 billion Intuit Dome is scheduled to open as the home of the NBA's Los Angeles Clippers?

Well, the bottom line is Inglewood is a great community. Both the City and the Inglewood Art Walk are proud, and rightfully so. Did I say the excitement is palpable? •

Manage Depression And Mental Disorders

(BPT) - Sadness and grief are normal human emotions. These feelings can often last for a short period of time. However, when these emotions last for many days or weeks, depression becomes a concern.

According to the American Psychiatric Association, depression is a common and serious medical illness that negatively affects how you feel, the way you think and how you act. Fortunately, depression is among the most treatable of mental disorders. Between 80 percent and 90 percent of people with depression eventually respond well to treatment. Almost all patients gain some relief from their symptoms.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, an estimated 16.2 million adults in the U.S. have had at least one major depressive episode in a given year. In fact, according to a report from the National Center for Health Statistics an estimated 8.1 percent of adults age 20 and older had depression in a given 2-week period during 2013-2016. Of those affected by depression, 80 percent reported having at least some difficulty managing work, home and social activities.

In the past, stigma surrounding depression caused some people to avoid seeking help. As celebrities, musicians, and even politicians speak out about their own struggles with depression, people have felt empowered to take the steps to find the help they need.

Symptoms of depression

It can be difficult to know when feeling down is turning into something more concerning. According to the Anxiety and Depression Association of America, a major depressive episode may include some of these symptoms:

- Persistent sad, anxious or "empty" mood
- Feelings of hopelessness
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness or helplessness
- Restlessness, irritability
- Loss of interest or pleasure in hobbies
- Decreased energy
- Difficulty concentrating, remembering or making decisions
- Insomnia, early-morning awakening or oversleeping
- Low appetite and weight loss, or, overeating and weight gain
- Thoughts of death or suicide
- Persistent physical symptoms that do not respond to treatment (such as headaches, digestive disorders and pain for which no other cause can be diagnosed)

Three steps that can help

People experiencing some or all of these symptoms can take action by following these three steps.

Step 1: Get screened by a qualified mental health expert. Depression can only be diagnosed by a health care professional who has special assessments and tools to make the appropriate diagnosis.

Step 2: Talk to your healthcare provider about a treatment plan. Depression can be managed with the right treatment options. A healthcare provider can determine the strategy that works best for you. Common treatment plans may include psychotherapy and medication.

Step 3: Follow a treatment plan closely and take medications as prescribed. Abruptly stopping medications may cause withdrawal symptoms that could worsen depression. If you are uninsured or your health insurance doesn't cover the medications you need, there are programs that can help. For example, the Inside Rx program is a free prescription savings program that could save an average of 40 percent off select brand-name medications and 80 percent off retail price on generic medications. You can check the price of medications, and terms and restrictions like eligibility requirements, at InsideRx.com.

Depression doesn't discriminate. It impacts all races, ages and genders. Take these first steps to help manage your symptoms. Keep in mind, if you are ever feeling suicidal thoughts, call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255 immediately. •

You get to see them at their very beginnings, seeing the likes of Karen O of Yeah Yeah Yeahs and Paul Banks of Interpol introducing themselves to the camera, and playing songs in small clubs like The Mercury Lounge on the lower east side.

Meet Me in the Bathroom also shows the larger, pivotal moments in New York history: Y2K. The rise of the internet and Napster, to which some bands started losing money to the free pirating program. And then of course, the attacks on the World Trade Center, whose footage is so raw and horrifying that it's devastating to watch at times, and would have a major effect on them all.

Ultimately, the thing that comes across so prominently now is these young people's aspiration to be tomorrow's next rock stars appears to be born out of a need for acceptance.

While brilliant musicians and artists, Julian Casablancas (The Strokes), Karen O (Yeah Yeah Yeahs) and Jame Murphy's (LCD Soundsystem) desires for rock stardom masks a seemingly large insecurity they had as younger people. It's saddening to witness how the corporate record labels and commercialism started to affect them on their rise to fame.

Meet Me In The Bathroom is full of nostalgia and exceptionally amazing moments, and I hope will turn more people on to this music. It's a trip down memory lane of rock and roll and youth and the start of a scene that I hope will inspire the next great artists of tomorrow.

1h 45min. 'Meet Me in the Bathroom' is now playing in select Los Angeles and New York theaters. •

Cowboy Chicken Casserole

Provided by Campbells Soup Corp.

Why is this recipe called Cowboy Chicken Casserole? Maybe because we imagine cowboys aren't fussy in the kitchen and this is the perfect un-fussy one-dish meal? Whatever the reason, you will love this super-easy recipe. It tastes kind of like a chicken taco married a tamale pie, so if your family likes Tex-Mex, this is the one-dish bake for you! Cream of chicken soup, chili, garlic and salsa blend into a creamy, spicy sauce bringing the chicken, beans, corn and tortillas together into a hearty and yummy dinner. This Cowboy Chicken Casserole is a dish everyone (cowboys included) will love.

Ingredients

- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Campbell's® Condensed Cream of Chicken Soup or 98% Fat Free Cream of Chicken Soup
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 cup Pace® Chunky Salsa
- 1/4 cup rinsed, drained, canned black beans
- 1 can (about 15 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
- 2 cups cubed cooked chicken
- 4 flour tortilla (8-inch) or 6 corn tortillas (6-inch), cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Directions

- Step 1: Heat the oven to 350°F. Stir the soup, water, chili powder, garlic powder, salsa, beans, corn, chicken and tortillas in a large bowl. Season with salt and pepper.
- Step 2: Spoon the chicken mixture into an 11x8x2-inch baking dish. Top with the cheese. Cover the baking dish.
- Step 3: Bake for 25 minutes or until the mixture is hot.

Tip

- Make ahead and freeze for later. Assemble as directed, wrap tightly (add a layer of parchment on top under the foil so the cheese won't stick) and freeze. From frozen, bake, covered, for 55 minutes or until hot. Or, thaw in the refrigerator and bake, covered, for 45 minutes or until hot.

Kang is a soft and playful little guy. He loves to climb and play with his siblings or foster family. He has been known to even fall asleep in the arms of his foster parents. He will climb into your lap and want attention if you sit down. Liu Kang is truly a special boy and can be adopted on his own.

Atlantis is a big love and a big personality! She adores attention and affection, brushing, grooming, and all the pets. With a loud, creaky meow, she will announce herself and demand your attention. This very cuddly girl will sit on your lap or curl up in the crook of your arm. She is a fabulously funny cat and incredibly social. Atlantis has a spark of playfulness about her and really gets into her hunt mode. Her love for playtime ensures she gets a much-needed daily workout. Atlantis needs an adopter who is going to keep her on a healthy raw food diet and ensure she gets her daily play-exercise. She needs to be a solo cat and would not be good for a home with children or dogs.

When Celeste showed up in someone's yard with her kittens, a kind neighbor stepped in to get her the help she so needed. Because she was feral, she was trapped for TNR (trap-neuter-return) and then reunited with her kittens to continue to nurse them. Her brood moved on to foster homes and were eventually adopted out. When Celeste was set to be released back to her outdoor home, she started showing signs of just maybe liking this whole indoor life thing and began to open up. Her rescuer decided to take a leap of faith and hold Celeste back to continue working with her. After much socializing and patience, Celeste finally found her voice; she squeaked the softest, tiny mew and began to purr! Although it seemed like a miracle, Celeste was a new cat. Celeste is a simple girl who does not need a lot of frills and is so incredibly smart and inquisitive. Not only is she beautiful, but she is also an observer, an old soul, and has the softest, velvety coat. She gets along with calm dogs and has a foster brother she has started to pal around with. She is gaining confidence by the day but can be a little shy with new people and startle with sudden movements or loud sounds. Because of Celeste's

Atlantis background, she will need a patient adopter, someone who will understand how far she has come and allow her the grace to continue to thrive without expectation. She and her little, dainty paws are now ready to settle into a family and receive the forever love she so deserves.
