El Segundo Fish Company Owner Allen Shadgoo poses with his family in front of his restaurant's order counter.

he said. He also thought El Segundo was a really unique city. Indeed, Shadgoo's experience in this town has been pleasant. "El Segundo has been so good to me," he said. "They've been so supportive since I took over the operation."

This is the second time he has worked with the Ed Foundation and held a fundraiser at the restaurant. The first year, 100 percent of the profit went to ESEF, and he added some of his personal funds to the donation as well.

Shadgoo's wife and two daughters volunteered to help him at the fundraiser this year. He said their work as volunteer employees generated more proceeds for local schools.

Restaurant manager Chris Bracewell reported that it was especially busy on the day of the fundraiser. "We're usually kind of slow around 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., but we've had customers all day long," he said near the end of the day. Bracewell added that working at this restaurant is rewarding because the workers get along so well with each other. "It's like a small crew here, so we're all pretty much like a close-knit family," he said.

And how much did the El Segundo Fish Company raise for the El Segundo Educational Foundation? Drum roll with the fish sticks, please... The restaurant made a profit of $1,250, and with the owner's additional 20 percent, the total donation came to $1,500!

The ESEF is an organization that works for the benefit of the El Segundo Unified School District. It also sponsors other fundraisers, such as last month's Benefit Car Show at the Automobile Driving Museum.

Stacey Long and Summer Sepci are two friends and parents who came out to the event with their children. Both women have sons in the first grade (who are also friends) at Richmond Street School and they wanted to support the school by attending the fundraiser. Long feels the education and teachers in El Segundo are great. "And with the budget cuts, it's making it very difficult for the teachers to do their jobs effectively," she said.

"I'm just glad that they're doing this," Sepci said. She feels the fundraiser is a great way to get the community together, see friends, and celebrate great teachers and schools.

The El Segundo Fish Company is located at 210 East Grand Avenue. For more information about the restaurant, visit <http://www.esfishco.com>.
