Hawthorne Chamber Names Jan Vogel 2017-18 Citizen of the Year

More than 450 business leaders, civic officials and community members were on hand for the 2018 State of the City Luncheon featuring Hawthorne Mayor Alex Vargas on March 21 at the Hawthorne Memorial Center. Prior to the mayor's address, Patricia Donaldson, Hawthorne Chamber CEO, announced that the surprise recipient of the Citizen of the Year Award was none other than the annual event's perpetual master of ceremonies, Jan Vogel. The award was presented by last year's recipient -- and longtime personal friend -- Dennis Wild. For more than 35 years Vogel has served as the Executive Director for the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB), based in Hawthorne. He has also been a resident of the South Bay for more than 55 years. Literally thousands of lives throughout the region have been changed for the better because of Vogel through his efforts to connect job-seekers with business. His foresight has strengthened the regional economy through his persistence to collaborate -- by bringing public and private organizations, businesses, educational institutions and government leaders together to form partnerships for developing a trained and capable workforce and creating a business-friendly environment throughout the South Bay.

Born in Brooklyn in 1949, Vogel was raised in a baseball-loving household - more specifically a Dodgers household. Ever since he could walk and talk, he had a love for playing baseball and watching the Dodgers. And luckily for the SBWIB and Hawthorne, Vogel formulated a variety of pre-apprentice programs leading to registered apprenticeships that were incorporated into a region-wide training directory called I-TRAIN to ensure providers delivered approved quality education and training to students and job-seekers. He was also instrumental in the SBWIB receiving two of the largest federal National Emergency Grants in history from the Department of Labor and was responsible for training tens of thousands of laid-off workers, local residents and youth. Over the years, Vogel has also given his time and expertise to numerous Hawthorne area public and nonprofit organizations and boards such as the Hawthorne Education Foundation, the Centinela Valley Union High School District Foundation, the Centinela Valley YMCA, the advisory boards for Cal State Dominguez Hills and Inglewood Unified School District, Southern California Regional Occupational Center, El Camino College Foundation, and the Hawthorne Rotary Club (serving as president), to name a few. While living in Lomita, Vogel met his wife Sandy and they settled in Torrance. They will celebrate their 43rd wedding anniversary in May, along with their three grown children Jason, Cammie and Ariana.

his parents were such diehard Dodger fans that they relocated to Los Angeles to follow the team when he was 11 years old.

Vogel's family moved to Baldwin Hills and eventually settled in Rancho Palos Verdes where he excelled in academics and baseball. After graduating in 1967, he enrolled at Harbor College where he continued playing baseball and was elected as the first-ever freshman class [resident. He transferred to Cal State Dominguez Hills and graduated with a Bachelor's degree, double majoring in Political Science and Economics. He earned his teaching credential and Master's degree at Cal State Dominguez Hills and went on to earn his administrative service credential at Cal State Long Beach.

Vogel is the first and only executive director of SBWIB and is now in his 36th year in that capacity. He founded and shaped the SBWIB to be a leader in workforce innovation and has received national awards for performance of workforce development activities for employment and business services.

Check It Out I Am Not Your Perfect Mexican Daughter Dashes Expectations

Reviewed by Tommy Vinh Bui, MLIS, Associate Librarian, Inglewood Public Library

This is a riveting and rambunctious read that tugs all the right heartstrings unabashedly and without hesitance. Erika L. Sanchez has tapped into a rich reservoir of relatable and poignant characters who are flawed, vulnerable, and muster the courage to grow and change into better people by book's end. This is young adult fare that will have mass appeal and manage to get you flipping fervently page by page and rooting for our young female protagonist.

We follow teenage Julia as she navigates the rigors and pitfalls of growing up in a strict Mexican-American household that upholds familial responsibility supreme. But Julia has an independent streak that runs directly counter to that value and the friction between her and her mother is fraying her thin. To compound her frustrations, Julia suffers the slings and arrows of overcoming daily stereotypes. She yearns for more. The book is incredibly layered as it explores themes of self-identity, LGBTQ discrimination, loss and grief, and teen mental illness. These are all very sensitive issues that are dealt with by incorporating an appropriate amount of levity and gravity. It's a tough onetwo to maintain throughout.

Julia carries this novel single-handedly. Her voice is authentic and you're immediately yanked into her trials and tribulations from the first chapter. Julia is a firebrand, but also has a sensitivity to her: a febrile fragility. This is a complex character study that confounds and compels and the writing percolates with flair. From the farcical to the solemn, every tone and idiosyncrasy is captured with gusto. There's also a myriad of fleshed-out and memorable secondary characters to help prop up our primary protagonist, from the ever-kvetching mother to the sassy and sometimes absurd circle of friends. Every voice is singular and unique and ably captured. Top marks.

It's so much beyond just a coming-of-age tale. It's a modern day bildungsroman in the vein of Jane Eyre. It's just angrier and more relevant to today's diverse audiences. There's a smidge of Catcher in the Rye in there too. The author captures a voice of cynicism that is just a disguised cry for help, so there's sincerity in that sardonic tone. The struggles and challenges of growing up are timeless. And the writer here manages to carry on this rich literary tradition while also melding other aspects of popular genres such as mystery, social critique and race politics. It's an ambitious and culturally-timely piece -- and a successful one that merits a look-through.

A wholehearted recommend. Read and be ravished by the book's insights and cultural shrewdness. •

Lean on Pete Is a Stunning Companion Film Full of Heartache and Triumph

By Morgan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

Last year, it was Luca Guadagnino's visceral drama Call Me By Your Name that transported audiences to the remote village of Crema, Italy where we felt the warm summer breeze on our skin, tasted the juices of the perfectly-ripened fruit, and got that all-too-real pit in our stomach that only first love life. Charley experiences various tragedies and Pete becomes a sort of emotional support animal for him. It is a heartwarming moment once realized that just as Charley saved Pete from an unethical death, Pete is saving Charley from total loneliness.

Coming off of last year's role as the kidnapped J. Paul Getty III in All the Money in can give. While the "cinematic" year is just getting started, it seems like Lean on Pete is British-born director Andrew Haigh's answer to last year's aforementioned Best Picture Oscar nominee. The visual and emotional vibrancy of Lean on Pete, plus the powerful performance from breakout star Charlie Plummer, radiates from the screen and will easily make its way into your heart.

Sixteen-year-old Charley Thompson (Plummer) and his father Ray (Travis Fimmel) have a dysfunctional relationship, which is apparent from early on. They love each other dearly, but Ray is not financially stable and his emotional capacity is constantly being distracted by the various women he brings home. Because of his upbringing (Charley's mother left the family when he was young), he has always been an independent boy longing for connection -- so when he finds a job at a local horserace track working alongside Del Montgomery (Steve Buscemi) and jockey Bonnie (Chloë Sevigny), Charley finally feels complete. Del and Bonnie fill the role of "family" and Charley becomes emotionally attached to one of Del's older horses named Lean on Pete. However, when Charley learns that Pete is being sent to the slaughter after failing to win a race, he feels not only betrayed by the people he considered his chosen family, but heartbroken at the thought that his best friend was going to be discarded in such a horrific way. Charley won't let that happen and so, with Pete in one hand and a couple bucks in his pocket, he sets out across the Midwest to escape the harsh reality in hopes of a promising future ahead in the great unknown. While the story isn't an original idea -- Haigh adapted Lean on Pete from Willy Vlautin's novel of the same name - the director turns this story into an unforgettable cinematic experience. Heartbreaking and beautiful, we follow Charley as he makes his way through rough terrain -- both literally and figuratively -- navigating through the harsh environments and a messy personal the World, Plummer does an outstanding job holding it all together as the headstrong yet naive and underprivileged teen. The tension bubbles and tears well behind his eyes, but the attitude he adopts as Charley doesn't allow him to let his vulnerability show. It is during certain moments of the film when this vulnerability peaks through his tough exterior that we see a child who is aching for stability in any form. The supporting performances from Buscemi and Sevigny are full of depth and evoke a wide range of emotions. The environment is also very much a character in itself as the brutal landscape and places within it provide Charley and Pete with benefits or deterrents. However, Charley seems to always come out the other side having learned from the experience.

Lean on Pete is divided into three distinct parts, perhaps serving as an homage to the book. At times, it can feel like three different movies. The motivation deters slightly throughout each part, but the emotional impact of Charley's end goal remains consistent and strong. It will be hard to get through the film with dry eyes, but its lasting satisfaction and tenderness make it all worth it. 121 minutes. Lean on Pete is rated R for language and brief violence. Opening this Friday at The Landmark and ArcLight Hollywood.

Seniors Navigating Medicare: 5 Allies Who Can Help

(BPT) - Enrolling in Medicare for the first time or starting coverage under a new plan? It might bring you back to that first day starting a new job. You knew some of the basics, but you also knew there was a lot more to learn. More than likely, you got help from colleagues who have been around for a while and helped show you the ropes.

Don't worry. With Medicare, you have the same kind of knowledgeable support. You've got a team on your side that can help make navigating the health care system easier. Goodbye hassles, hello helpers.

Here are five allies in your corner:

1. Your Primary Care Physician. This physician is the "go-to" doctor who provides guidance on your health care needs, taking the time to really get to know you, your medical history and your health goals. Think of your Primary Care Physician as the "quarterback" of your medical team - someone who can take charge of knowing the ins and outs of your health status and help drive decisions to get you on the right track and keep you there.

2. A caregiver. Perhaps the "unsung hero" of your health care team, caregivers are the ones you know you can count on - the ones you know are there to offer support and care for you, whenever you need it. Whether a family member, neighbor, friend or professional assistant, these are the people in your life who help you along the way. Their assistance can span everything from bringing you to appointments or getting prescriptions filled to making meals or offering emotional support.

3. Your pharmacist. This team member keeps an eye on the medications you take prescription and over-the-counter - to make sure they work safely together. Your pharmacist is a great person to talk with about how medications are making you feel and answer any questions you have on topics including what side effects to expect, what to do if you miss a dose, or how to store your meds.

4. An insurance agent. Original Medicare. Medicare Supplement. Part D. Medicare Advantage. There are many options and decisions to make when it comes to your Medicare coverage, and a licensed insurance agent can help you find the right plan, or plans, for you. Once you've selected a plan, you can also always call your agent to ask questions if your health or coverage needs change or if your plan changes from year to year.

5. Your insurance company. Within your insurance company, there are more people than you likely realize who are working hard on your behalf to ensure you get the medical care and support you need. Insurers can offer tools, resources and support that can help you live a healthier life.

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Hwy., Redondo Beach 90277, from noon to 3: 30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoption fair or check out our website, www. msfr.org. If you have any questions about a particular dog's availability, you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! Bet you can't adopt just one.

Hello, my name is Gianna and I recently learned a very valuable lesson. Venturing out on my own in search of some new friends wasn't a very smart thing to do for a tiny 5-year-old female Maltese/Terrier mix. It was scary and dangerous and how I ended up at an LA County shelter as a stray. To make matters worse, I looked like something the cat dragged in with dreadlocks so matted that they had to sedate me to shave me down. Now I'm scared, naked, less than 6 pounds and hoping to be adopted even though I'm a nervous wreck. Surprisingly, my getting adopted actually looked very hopeful when the shelter had me listed as a 1-year-old. I had a large group of interested parties, but then they all backed off when the shelter changed my age to 7 years old. After being rescued and a trip to MSFR veterinarian, it was determined that I'm actually closer to 5 years old. Other than being a bit underweight (I should be closer to 10 pounds), I'm in good health. Even my dental went great and I have pearly white teeth and not a single extraction. I'm still a little nervous -- not aggressive, but jumpy -- so I would prefer an adult-only home. I'm a cutie with huge brown eyes and a lot of love to give."

If you're interested in Gianna, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"They call me Ryan, which is a Gaelic name meaning 'little king' and I thought I was until I got lost (picked up by animal control) and dropped off at an Inland Empire shelter where they changed my name to stray! They thought I was a Miniature Schnauzer... but in reality, I'm a 4-year-old male purebred Standard Schnauzer. At 41 pounds, there really isn't anything mini about me. I'm about 6 pounds overweight and I really need to work on that, so I'm looking for a forever home with a family who will help me exercise. I just had a great idea. Since I also need some leash training, walking would be the perfect answer to getting the pounds off! That way, while working on my leash training, I'll also be getting my exercise! I have a personality to match my frame and I just love everyone - dogs and people alike. I'm very friendly with other dogs and super affectionate with people. Aside from the weight issue, I'm in great shape and have had a dental requiring only two extractions. I'm a really fun guy who will entertain and amuse you as well as love and adore you! Come to adoptions to meet me. You won't be sorry!"

If you're interested in Ryan, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"Have you ever seen a German Shepherd/ Retriever/Border Collie mix? If not, you really need to meet me. Let me introduce myself. My name is Rocky and I'm sure it will be a pleasure to meet you. I'm about 3 or 4 years old and I weigh between 60 and 65 pounds - you know how weight fluctuates! Besides being a real stunner, I'm neutered, house-trained and I sleep in a crate at night... but it has to be in a bedroom with my people. I get along great with other dogs and children. However sometimes, in my enthusiastic playful way, I have been known to knock a few over. I'm really friendly, have lots of energy and I'll play fetch if you want to or just entertain myself with my toys. I love to chew on antlers, but on the down side I have an insatiable appetite for toilet paper and napkins - always have and I think I always will. I would be an excellent addition to a family that's active and enjoys hiking. I'm already neutered, chipped, up-todate on all my vaccines and ready to go home."

If interested in Rocky, please contact Lynne of Whisker & Tails Foundation at amano@ whiskerstails.org.
