Brunt of New Tax Laws Hits Home at Refund Time

By Rob McCarthy

The mad rush to file income taxes by midnight April 15 has begun. Expect some added stress because there are fewer tax brackets, revised calculations, and fewer deductions to claim after Congress made sweeping changes in the nation’s tax code.

The additions and subtractions in the tax overhaul bill 17 months ago were too many to count. The immediate effect on workers was their take-home pay was slightly higher last year. What they didn’t know -- until now -- was whether they would still receive a tax refund under the new formulas for individuals and couples. And if so, would the IRS be giving back less.

Those residents who’ve already filed their federal returns have the answer. For the rest who haven’t prepared their federal returns yet, they will soon find out if there’s money coming to pay off outstanding debts, make some home repairs, or splurge on a vacation.

Based on IRS figures released before April 1, the consequences of the congressional changes to tax law aren’t proving to be as draconian as predicted. Yes, refunds are safe. The average refund has dipped under the new tax code by $20, the IRS said after calculating 92.9 million returns filed as of March 29. The average refund so far is $2,873. There are several factors that could cause a tax refund to be larger or smaller than expected, especially in the current tax season when individuals are encountering new tax brackets with higher standard deductions. These offset the past deductions -- including a cap on mortgage interest and state and local taxes paid -- which members of Congress eliminated in late 2017. Standard deductions increased to $12,000 for singles, $18,000 for heads of households and $24,000 for married couples filing a joint return.

Situations that could reduce the amount of this year’s refund include: math errors or mistakes on the 1040 forms; back taxes owed to the federal or state government; and unpaid child support or student loans. If the IRS makes adjustment to a return or withholds some or all of a refund, the tax bureau will send a letter explaining where the money went. The Internal Revenue Service says it “understands that taxpayers are anxious to get details about their tax refunds,” but to disregard misleading information circulating on social media.

There is no “secret way” for taxpayers to find out when their refund will be issued, though the IRS says it issues nine out of 10 tax refunds in less than 21 days. The “Where’s My Refund?” tracker at the IRS website takes the guesswork out of the waiting process. People can use “Where’s My Refund?” to check on the status of their tax return within 24 hours after the IRS receives an e-filed return or four weeks after a mailed paper return.

The “Where’s My Refund?” tool is updated daily and usually overnight. Only call the IRS tax help hotline if a check on an individual or couple’s refund indicates the taxpayer should contact the IRS. If the system doesn’t show a return filed 21 days after it was electronically filed or six weeks after tax forms were mailed, a call to the IRS is warranted.

South Bay residents without Internet access can call an automated refund hotline at 800-829-1954. There is a myth that ordering a tax transcript is a “secret way” to get a refund date confirmed. The IRS says doing this will not help taxpayers find out when they will get their tax refund. While taxpayers can use a transcript to validate past income and tax filing status for mortgage, student and small business loan applications and to help with tax preparation, they should use “Where’s My Refund?” to check the status of their refund.

Even though the IRS issues most refunds in less than 21 days, it’s possible a refund may take longer, it says. When a return is incomplete or needs more review, it takes longer to process and the taxpayer may need to provide more information or fix any errors found by IRS auditors. “This means that in some cases, a taxpayer who filed later may receive their refund sooner than someone who filed earlier in the season,” the bureau says. “Also, remember to consider the time it takes for financial institutions to post the refund to the taxpayer’s account or to receive a check in the mail.”

Amazing Grace Review: Bursting With Soul

By Ryan Rojas
for www.cinemacy.com

Bursting its way onto the big screen, Amazing Grace is a concert film that will blow you away. While audiences may be familiar with Aretha Franklin’s hits, few have heard the “Queen of Soul” sing Gospel. And to not only hear her but also watch her sing Gospel is to witness the divine.

Amazing Grace, Courtesy of NEON.

Taking place over two nights at the New Temple Missionary Baptist Church in Los Angeles, Amazing Grace is a collection of moments where you’re clapping and dancing in your chair, feeling the tears stream down your face, or trying to catch your breath. The live recorded album – backed by a full band – would go on to become the best-selling Gospel album of all time.

Shot by famed film director Sydney Pollack in 1972 with the backing of Warner Brothers Music, over 20 hours of footage were captured to bring this epic anthem to life. However, for technical difficulties and monumental editing challenge -- like matching Aretha’s vocals to the picture (Pollack didn’t use a clapboard to sync the takes) -- the film was ultimately shelved. Until now.

Amazing Grace features Aretha singing alongside the Southern California Community Choir, which is collectively as equal a force to Aretha. Also a great presence is conductor Alexander Hamilton and Aretha’s brother, Reverend James Cleveland, who plays piano and evangelizes throughout the film. Then there is Aretha herself. At just 29 years old then, to watch her sing is so immaculate and divine. Her voice is like having heaven’s presence on earth for an hour and a half, and this story is further proof that legends like her can inspire, touch, shake and move humanity. Amazing Grace captures a moment in time that should inspire this and future generations for time to come.

Amazing Grace is 87 minutes. Rated G. Now playing at ArcLight Hollywood, The Landmark, and Rave Cinemas Baldwin Hills Crenshaw Plaza 15 + Xtreme. •

Watcher in the Woods by Kelley Armstrong

Review by Kim Harris, El Segundo Middle School Librarian

Watcher in the Woods is the fourth Casey Duncan novel and is set deep in the Yukon Territory in Canada. Casey is the only detective for the city of Rockton, population 200. The police team has three members: Sheriff Eric Dalton, Casey and Will Anders. Rockton is both technologically and structurally camouflaged, so you would not be able to see it flying over the town or even know that anyone lived there. Rockton is fascinating because it is like living off of the grid. It has outhouses, no cell service and no electricity. The residents use wood stoves, fireplaces and lanterns for light, and use a generator sparingly.

All of the residents pay for the privilege of living in Rockton because they want to escape their pasts. Some are white collar criminals, some are escaping to a better life, and others are hiding from bad situations. The majority of the townspeople are only in Rockton for about two years. They do their assigned jobs and then move on. Some want to stay longer, like Kenny, who was shot but doesn’t want to leave because he is afraid he can’t return to Rockton.

The book starts by having Casey and Eric fly down south to Vancouver to convince her sister April, who is both a neuroscientist and a neurosurgeon, to help save Kenny because Rockton no longer has a doctor. When they return to Rockton, they discover that a U.S. marshal found Rockton and wants to bring back one of the residents. The marshal wouldn’t say which resident and gets shot before he can find his fugitive. After the marshal dies, it is up to Casey to figure out who killed him and how the marshal located Rockton.

I have a friend who says a mystery isn’t a mystery unless a murder occurs within the first 50 pages of the book. This book definitely fits that description! There are numerous suspects: April, who was smuggled in to town to fill in as the doctor, as well as the majority of the residents of Rockton. The sheriff has a dossier on everyone who lives in Rockton, but the majority lied to get in -- so their stories aren’t necessarily believable. It is up to Casey to find the killer and keep the rest of the residents safe. No one is who he seems to be in Rockton, and Casey and Eric have to determine who has motive and means to kill the marshal.

The book is really enjoyable because the author does a great job with setting and character development. It is definitely action-packed! The reader can picture what life is like in Rockton and Casey is a strong and intelligent detective. Sheriff Eric Dalton is the only resident who has lived in Rockton his entire life. It is interesting to see what technology and modern conveniences are through his perspective.

To read this book and others in the Casey Duncan series, stop by the El Segundo Public Library and check it out! •

City Council Discusses Litter in Proposed New Signage Ordinance

By Derrick Deane

Litter in the community was once again up for discussion at the Hawthorne City Council meeting this past Tuesday. Mayor Pro Tem Olivia Valentine introduced two items for discussion – the first enforcing the $100 first offense fine for littering according to California state law and the second suggesting the City of Hawthorne should invest in putting up signs to inform people of the penalty.

“It’s become a huge concern to the citizens and businesses of Hawthorne,” Valentine said of the litter in the city during her opening remarks. “I have walked the streets in Hawthorne and in certain places such as Van Ness, 119th Street, Hawthorne Boulevard, Inglewood Avenue, I’m constantly seeing the results of people carelessly throwing cups, papers, wraps...and people have also reported that furniture has also been thrown out on city property.”

Valentine reminded everyone that she initiated an ordinance several months ago that requires shopping centers to maintain a cleaning schedule, “but it is not enough. The shopping centers need help. They need cooperation from the public.”

Valentine continued, “This proposed ordinance is meant to stop the proliferation of litter and make residents and visitors aware that they also need to take responsibility for the cleanliness of their city.”

Valentine stated that she would like the fine to be placed on signs “so that people are looking at the sign and reminded that if they litter, they will be subject to a $100 fine on the first offense immediately...Hopefully this is going to be a reminder that litter is not going to be tolerated. Valentine emphasized that signs should be placed in key areas where shopping takes place and key intersections as decided by Code Enforcement.

State law dictates that a first offense is punishable with a fine of between $100 and $1,000 and at least eight hours of litter cleanup. A second offense is punishable with a fine of between $500 and $1,000 and at least 16 hours of litter cleanup. Subsequent convictions would be punishable with a fine between $750 and $1,000 and at least 24 hours of liter cleanup.

“I think we need ‘No Littering’ signs throughout the city, which I have not seen,” Valentine said in educating the public on the fines. “I understand that there is a cost involved. I think that it’s worth the cost, but I don’t want to cause too much of a burden on the general fund and so consequently I’m very mindful of the fact that there is a cost involved.”

Councilman Mike Talleda called out one of the biggest barriers with enforcing the litter law. “We always see the trash, but we rarely see who threw it,” he said. “You can walk in the parking lot of any market and find trash all over the place, but you never hardly ever see anybody throwing it. Catching them is a little tough.”

Councilman Alex Monteiro added, “Some of the kids from the Kiwanis Club of Hawthorne, from the Math and Science Academy have actually approached me because they want to come up with a day where we can do a cleanup. We’re trying to figure out when that is going to happen because we need to get the trash company involved to give us bags and all the stuff. The logistics is coming together and we’re talking about maybe Rosecrans Avenue, Hawthorne Boulevard. We’re going to do something soon.”

Mayor Alex Vargas noted that part of the solution is going to come from changing the culture in the city. “We’ve got to change the culture of keeping the community clean [and] making sure that the attitude with what you do with your trash, we need to change that,” he said. “There’s a reason why the state government had said we’re going to do away with giving away plastic bags. We’re going to sell them. Just as a deterrent to give away plastic bags at the shopping centers. You have to pay for them now, so people have to take their own bags because people don’t know how to take their trash and put it in the trash can.”

Vargas added, “Starting off with the kids and the adults demonstrating what to do with the trash – put it in the trash can. It’s just a cultural thing that we need to change and it happens in a lot of neighborhoods. We’re not the only ones having these issues, but I’m willing to entertain this idea and see how effective it could be.”

City Manager Arnie Shadbehr will conduct a study on the cost, how much Code Enforcement has enforced the litter law, and where the signs can be placed if the ordinance moves forward. “As long as people don’t feel the guilt inside, you cannot overcome that even with 2,000 more trash cans,” Shadbehr said. “There is another issue called sign pollution. There are all kinds of signs – street sweeping signs, traffic regulatory signs, street name signs...so we’ll talk about how many signs we’re talking about because you can multiply it by $400 apiece. That’s how much it costs to acquire it and install it.” •

HOLY WEEK

This Sunday is referred to as Palm Sunday, it signals the beginning of Holy Week. In just one week, Jesus goes from being welcomed by his followers as he triumphantly enters Jerusalem to being tortured and crucified on Good Friday. I am certainly happy that Jesus’ death is not the end of the story. Easter, known as Resurrection Sunday, is right around the corner. As a Christian, I believe that when I was baptized, I was given new life in Christ. My old self also died with Christ. One of my favorite bible verses is: Galatians 2:20: “I have been crucified with Christ, it is no longer I who lives but Christ who lives in me and this life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God who loved me and gave himself for me.” There is no greater gift than knowing we have life, eternal life. Christ died for the entire world, not just for the good people, he died for ALL people. God wants all to be saved. No matter who we are, how much money we make, how successful we are, or how big of a failure we have been, God still loves us. This Christianity stuff is backward from what the world teaches us. It’s when we fail that we realize we need God. We need a Savior. When we succeed, we usually look at ourselves and say “I did it, I made it, I am really something!”. We put our trust in our own ability or strength. But, when we fail, we realize we need to depend on an Almighty powerful God. It’s okay to screw up, it’s okay to be an idiot, it’s okay just to be average. Knowing God loves us, sets us free to really live. There aren’t a lot of hoops you have to jump through. There isn’t a big scoreboard in heaven keeping track of how many good deeds or bad deeds you have done. The message is clear and simple, repent and trust in God’s grace that has been won for us by Jesus Christ. If you think I’m just full of it and making all this crap up, then find a church this Easter and hear the Good News for yourself. Why would I want to keep all of this joy inside of me and not want you to experience the same joy that surpasses all understanding. You may be so happy that you just might have a cold one to wash down that Easter ham.

Mobile Dairy Classroom Visits Felton Elementary School

Felton Elementary School students beamed with excitement when they saw a cow and calf revealed during a visit Friday morning from the Dairy Council of California’s Mobile Dairy Classroom. The Mobile Dairy Classroom is an assembly program under the Dairy Council of California with a commitment to educate students on cow anatomy, dairy farming, agriculture and nutrition. The assembly complements Dairy Council of California’s free, in-classroom nutrition curriculum, which aligns with Common Core standards. When Mobile Dairy Classroom is paired with the classroom lessons designed to build healthy eating behaviors from all food groups, students can make a powerful food literacy connection with a lasting healthy impact.

Felton Elementary students had an opportunity to meet Louis Batista, a local dairy farmer and instructor for the Mobile Dairy Classroom, and a cow and calf from a local farm. Batista started the assembly off by asking students about food groups and their daily eating habits. He talked about the importance of food literacy and the connection between dairy and other foods they generally consume.

Batista asked them questions about farms and cows, leading up to the big reveal. When he lifted the side panel of the trailer, students jumped out of their seats to get a better view of the cow.

Batista moved on to teach them about the anatomy of a dairy cow and related it to a person’s body parts. “Does a cow need to cut her fingernails?” he asked while pointing at the cow’s hooves. “In order to keep her hooves healthy, they need to be trimmed, just like you have to trim your fingernails.” He also mentioned that cows use their tails to swat flies while people use their hand.

Students laughed. Students eagerly raised their hands and participated in the assembly, moving around in their chairs to get better views. They learned firsthand how milk and dairy foods get from the farm to the table, even seeing a live demonstration of how to milk a cow and seeing its calf.

By the end of the assembly, students were knowledgeable on how milk and dairy foods are produced, how they contribute to healthy eating, the role agriculture plays in the food supply, and the anatomy of a cow.

Refund Time

Another myth the IRS is trying to dispel is that the tax withholding on individual employees’ and self-employed people’s paychecks is correct since a refund was issued this year. It’s not true that getting a refund means there’s no need to adjust the withholding for the rest of 2019. The IRS encourages people to do what is calls a “paycheck checkup,” especially if the current tax return contained surprises or “unexpected results.” Either too little or too much withholding requires action for next year, as does additional tax withheld to avoid a costly tax bill. The IRS has a withholding calculator on its website that helps taxpayers to dial in the correct amount of federal tax to be withdrawn from each check.

Given all of the changes in tax brackets and deductions that tax filers are seeing first-hand this filing season, the IRS offers some simple advice for those procrastinators who haven’t prepared their federal returns yet.

File for an extension, but pay any amount they expect to owe the IRS to avoid penalties and interest.

The easiest way to file an extension is through the Free File link at IRS.gov. In a matter of minutes, anyone, regardless of income, can use this free service to electronically request an automatic tax-filing extension on Form 4868. Filing an extension avoids a late-filing penalty of up to 5 percent per month and any payments made by April 15 reduce the interest and late penalties that come with unpaid taxes to the feds.

California residents who file for a federal extension automatically receive more time to prepare and file their state returns, too. It doesn’t grant an extension to pay their state taxes. Residents still need to pay any tax due to the Franchise Tax Board using a payment voucher. The form is at www.ftb.ca.gov/professionals/efile/forms.shtml for download. •

PETSPETS Pets PETSPETS

Purrrfect Companions

Ruth

Every second of every minute of every day, a helpless animal is put to death just because no one was there to take them home. Give them a second chance for love when you adopt one of these precious kitties. You can also check out their friends on our website – www.kittenrescue.org

Clint is an adorable, sleek pocket panther with adorable white flecks along his legs. He adores other kitties more than anything in life and must have a kitty companion who will let him cuddle and even nurse on them. He loves to play and romp around with his fellow foster, Anastasia. They would make a great pair since they are already good friends and their personalities balance each other. Clint is a quiet little boy who needs a calm, relaxed home where he can thrive. He will cuddle on the bed and couch with you, gently chewing and licking your fingers, and then will go bananas for interactive play. He's not the kind of cat who will greet strangers at the door, but give him time to get to know you and you will have a sweet, precious companion. Clint is a fantastic little boy who deserves an amazing home!

Peanut Butter is a very fluffy bear cat. He is super affectionate with people and cats. He has also coexisted with small and medium-sized friendly dogs. PB is a young and playful kitty. He loves to explore and loves attention. He needs the freedom to run around and let all his kitty energy out. A great way for him to do that is to play with his sister, Big Eyes. They play together and chase each other all day long. When PB isn't chasing his sis, he loves to smother his humans with love. He loves to lay on top of people while purring super loudly. All in all, he is perfection and a great match for someone who is excited to have an energetic, playful kitty boy. He would love to be adopted with his BFF sister, Big Eyes. They bring out the best in each other.

Big Eyes is an exceptional little kitty. She always looks shocked as if she doesn't know if she can trust you. Found at a month old, she was very sick and was nursed back to health. Big Eyes will cry (a cute little yelp) if she feels cornered, but once you pick her up she purrs since she secretly enjoys being held. Earning her love is rewarding and magical -- you will fall in love with her. Big Eyes is best friends with her older brother, Peanut Butter. He is outgoing and brings out the best in her. They would love to be adopted together so they can stay together forever.

Our sweet and gentle Ruth always looks on the bright side of things and never lets life get her down. When she came to us, Ruth was nursing four newborn kittens. Once she finished nursing, she was a bit more mobile and we noticed her limping. It turns out that no one knew she had a broken leg all that time. Ruth had successful surgery and has bounced back with her same zest for life knowing that her future is bright! Ruth is playful and adores other cats, especially the boys. With her gorgeous looks and upbeat attitude, she is completely irresistible. If you are looking for a kitty to make you smile every day and remind you to stay positive through life's ups-and-downs, Ruth is your girl.

Florence ("Flo Kitty") is an extremely shy, reserved kitty who loves taking treats from your hand. She is very expressive when it is mealtime and will always let know when she's hungry (no shyness about that). Florence is very playful. She loves chasing her toys and Delphine, with whom Flo Kitty is best friends.

Florence

She also enjoys playing independently with her favorite ping-pong balls and catnip toys. Flo is an owner-surrender cat, so we are uncertain of the cause of her shyness, but she is a very sweet girl. Though not a lap cat, Florence enjoys being near wherever her foster mum and Delphine are. Florence would best thrive in a quiet home where her adopter is experienced with shy cats and who is willing to be very patient for the rewards of profound love this beautiful cat will surely bestow upon her forever companion.

Delphine is a sweetheart of an Abyssinian Tabby ("Abby-Tabby") mix. "Del" is an independent and expressive young lady, especially after capturing a favorite toy. She loves exploring and discovering that perfect, cozy nook where she can nap or just watch you work. While not a lap cat, Del enjoys being wherever you are. In a show of kindness, Del several times presented her toys to another kitty for whom Del's foster mum is caring. The other kitty, Florence, is extremely shy... but once she touched noses with Delphine, the two were fast friends. Both cats love playing together and chasing each other around their foster's home. A young mum herself (all of Delphine's kittens have been adopted), it's now this lovely lady's turn to greet you when you return home and become your forever friend.
