Wiseburn School Board Addresses Cyber Hack; Honors Bee Winners

By Duane Plank

Last Thursday evening’s meeting of the Wiseburn Board included only one special presentation, acknowledging three students for their success in the Feb. 22 spelling bee.

The Board meeting encompassed the old and the new, feting spelling bee winners -- a practice that goes back in the field of education for decades. It also addressed a very recent plague – a cyber hack of Wiseburn Unified School District’s information technology system.

The spelling bee stalwarts recognized included first place winner Andrew Carranza, a sixth grader at Dana Middle School; runner-up Sakura Walters, also a sixth grader attending Dana; and third-place finisher Christopher Smith, a fifth-grade student at Peter Burnett Elementary.

Deputy Superintendent Chris Jones, who ran the initial portions of the meeting because Superintendent Tom Johnstone was across the street at Los Angeles Air Force Base receiving a commendation as an “Honorary Base Commander,” introduced the students and asked each which word they found to be challenging in the 26-student competition. The spelling bee winners then posed for a photo with the assembled Board.

Board member reports followed, with Neal Goldman thanking all who worked to “negotiate the ransomware scenario.” Nelson Martinez thanked the Wiseburn Education Foundation for its work at the recent Rock Around the Block extravaganza. Vice President/Clerk Roger Banuelos echoed Martinez’ kudos for the volunteers involved in the success of the Rock Around the Block program and also congratulated Peter Burnett Elementary for being selected as a California Distinguished School. “That is just fantastic,” Banuelos remarked. “I am incredibly proud of everybody there. It is a validation of what happens at Burnett.” The Burnett School will be recognized at a gala that will be held at the Disneyland Hotel on May 3.

Board President JoAnne Kaneda also thanked all concerned with quelling the ransomware threat, and lauded the subsequent game plan implemented. She thought Wiseburn “made the right decision” to not pay the “ransom,” noting it caused the District to investigate possible options in data storage and data safety that it may not have considered without the attempted cyber-attack. Kaneda also spoke about her wish to have a review of the parameters of the ransomware attack, what the District learned and what steps should be implemented. She added that the District could benefit from a “rolling three-year IT plan.”

Kaneda also spoke about the District’s plan to expand the Child Development Center (CDC), with a key component to lessen the waitlist that many families find that they are faced with as they seek childcare options. If the proposed school bond passes in June, money would be available to upgrade all District facilities and supplement and grow the CDC program.

David Wilson, chief business official, spoke about District financial liabilities as all California school districts struggle to meet their financial obligations (pre- and post-retirement) to people who work in the field of education. “When you are in the people business, it can be expensive,” Wilson said.

During his comments, Jones mentioned the April 9 EdShift event, which took place at the new high school and allowed the District to showcase the facility. Prior to Thursday’s meeting, Johnstone had categorized the EdShift mission as an attempt to “bring together teams that want to change the conversation on education, and effect positive, District-wide transformations.” The superintendent spoke of reconfigured learning spaces that enable 21st century advances that he described as “very progressive and risk-taking” at the higher K-12 levels. He posited that it is “fundamentally a different way of looking at learning,” saying that one of the goals of EdShift is to “tap into what the kids already know and build on it.”

About 100 people attended EdShift day, Jones said, and they were able to “see the schools in action.” He was also highly involved in quelling the ransomware attack and spoke of that threat to the District before introducing District technology technician Quan Tra.

Tra approached the presentation podium to share details about the cyberattack. Ransomware is an insidious software that hackers employ to paralyze a computer system until a sum of money is paid. Of the security breach, Tra said, “This is on me. We need to learn from this and move on.” He noted that as a small district, Wiseburn did not think it could be a candidate for a cyber-hack. This event, Tra said, made him look at possible District IT “shortcomings,” noting implementations that will “not allow this to happen again.” He detailed steps that will be or have been taken to protect District data.

“Lesson learned,” Quan concluded. “Even though we are a small [district], we are vulnerable. Instead of waiting for summer, there are things that need to be taken care of as soon as possible.”

Among the action items tackled by the Board were the first of what is expected to be four approvals for Da Vinci schools charter petitions; the approval of agreements with Cal State Los Angeles and Cal State Long Beach to have the District provide opportunities for student teachers; and an agreement with UCLA Extension to train people to work with the CDC.

With work still ongoing at the Douglas Street location, the facilities portion of the action item agenda focused on “piggyback” construction items that have typically allowed the District to save and make money under the guidance of Facilities Planner Vince Madsen. The Board also addressed repurposing the old District administration facility located on Aviation Boulevard, and placing the outdoor bleachers for the pool deck at the Aquatics Center.

Fiscal action items agreed to included the approval of additional payments to the Law Firm of Atkinson, Andelson, Loya, Ruud & Romo. Goldman queried whether there was any possibility of looking into a retainer agreement with District law firms, saying he was hoping to “look at creative alternatives.”

Johnstone then arrived and took his seat on the dais after his induction as an “Honorary Commander” across the street, commenting that the soiree was “a lot of fun.”

The next regularly scheduled Wiseburn School Board meeting is penciled in for Thursday evening, April 26. •

My Brigadista Year Buoy No Bromides About Cuba

Reviewed By Tommy Vinh Bui, MLIS, Associate Librarian, Inglewood Public Library

With all the commotion and cacophonous current events centering upon Cuba as of late, I thought it appropriate to cover a young adult book that approaches this Caribbean country in a positive light. It serves as a timely reminder that this charming island nation is much more than just the center of entrenched historical turmoil of missile crises, embargos and frayed diplomatic ties. There're positives too. And those positives are ably accentuated in Katherine Paterson's well-crafted and unconventional Cuban coming-of-age bildungsroman My Brigadista Year.

The writer inveigles us to reconsider preconceived perceptions of Cuba with this highly readable and enriching historical novel. The narrative follows teenage Lora as she submits to her patriotic vigor and volunteers to leave Havana to teach literacy in the impoverished villages of Cuba. Against the wishes of her family, she enlists in a small brigade of youth educators whose unwavering mandate is to promote learning and a love for reading. Often in the most remote and far-flung of jungle locales, My Brigadista Year deftly delves into notions of courage in the face of self-doubt and daringly delivers a tale of newfound resoluteness that should prove inspirational to young readers. It should especially appeal to readers interested in the feats of this little-known legion of life-long learners that stalwartly champion the power of words and empower vulnerable communities. It is history roundly resuscitated and revived to retell an endearing story of self-discovery.

Profoundly personal and primed with pathos, this story parries convention and pulls no emotional punches.

This well-researched Cuban chronicle just drips with authenticity and accuracy. The narrative sheds light on an exceptional moment in history with a country at a critical crossroad of transition and revolutionary flux and change. The Cuban Literacy Campaign managed to raise the national literacy rate from a nadir of 60 percent to a remarkable 96 percent. It was no small feat and one that was effusively heartening for the future of the Cuban people.

The narrative is compelling and produces plenty of thrills and flutters of the heart. Young Lora wrests with her own insecurities and inner conflicts throughout the novel. A plot peppered with true travails that are seemingly insurmountable test her resolve. It's a fish-out-of-water story and she must adapt quickly to the harsh demands of rural living and her new role as an educator seeking to abolish illiteracy. She wobbles slightly at first, but really undergoes a considerable transformation as the novel progresses. Her determination and grit win out resoundingly. We follow along and experience every high and low as Lora does. We watch her mature and collect hard-won wisdom and really come of age before our eyes. She taught, yes, but also learned sage life lessons herself. It amounts to a riveting reportage of self-realization. The story is equal parts The Motorcycle Diaries, Jane Eyre and The Dead Poet's Society. It's an enthralling combination.

So all in all, it's a whole-hearted recommendation for this shrewdly structured story of strength, persistence and social awakening. This is a book that instills a sense of pride and moral responsibility in the very act of cracking open a book. So quick-march on down to the local bookery and foment an incisive insurrection via the radical act of reading. •

HAWTHORNE PARKS FOUNDATION GOLF TOURNAMENT

BITTERSWEET, MIXED EMOTIONS OR JUST ENJOYING THE FINAL STRETCH?

A friend asked me if my final days of teaching were bittersweet? I think anyone who has worked at a career for any length of time goes through a period of mixed emotions. I really have enjoyed my time in the classroom. I look back at how much the kids have given back to me. They have kept me young, at least I feel younger than my looks. Yes, there have been "pains" along the way. There have been stress filled, outright disasters of days, and days that I have hurt people with my words. But through it all, maybe a few young minds have been inspired. Teaching has allowed me to be me. I try to be real. High school students can see right through you and know if you are a phony. As all 14 of you know, I like to have fun. I like to laugh and maybe get others to laugh with or at me. I guess I can say the same thing about you folks. Most of you have figured out that my self degradation is simply a way of amusing, entertaining and setting the hook for you to keep reading until I can drop the God loves you and have a cold one line. I'm blessed. Blessed by God to have friends, family and cold ones in my garage refrigerator ready to pop open when life gets tiring.

Preparation

1. Insert paddle attachment in a stand mixer. In a heavy metal saucepot, combine the water, butter, cayenne and salt; bring to a boil over high heat. Remove the pot from the heat, add all the flour and stir with a wooden spoon until thoroughly combined to form a smooth paste. Return the pot to medium heat and cook, stirring, for 1 minute longer.
2. Put the paste in the bowl of the stand mixer. Mix at medium speed for 1 minute. Add eggs one at a time, beating at medium speed until each is fully incorporated and stopping to scrape down the side of the bowl. Add the 3 1/2 ounces of grated Gruyere and mix until incorporated.
3. Transfer the dough to a pastry bag fitted with a 1/2-inch round tip and pipe nickel-size mounds onto a non-stick baking sheet, or a baking sheet sprayed with nonstick spray, 2 inches apart.
4. In a small bowl beat together the egg and egg yolk forming an egg wash. Using a pastry brush, brush each of the Gougères with the egg wash. Sprinkle with grated Gruyere cheese and a pinch of fleur de sel.
5. Bake the gougères on the center rack in the preheated oven until they are puffed and golden brown, about 18 minutes.
6. Serve immediately.

Notice To Potential Bidders: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder’s office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Notice To Property Owner: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. PETSPETS Pets PETSPETS

Precious Pooches

Billie

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Hwy., Redondo Beach 90277, from noon to 3: 30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoption fair or check out our website, www.msfr.org. If you have any questions about a particular dog's availability, you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! Bet you can't adopt just one.

"Hi there! I am Billie, a 2-year-old, male Miniature Schnauzer mix who was homeless and living on the streets of Tijuana. My companion Holiday -- who could possibly be related to me --and I decided to take a trip with friends and ventured south of the border for a weekend of fun. Unfortunately, we missed our ride home. without any place to stay, we ended up living on the street. Holiday has quite a voice, so we made our living as street entertainers until a rescue group rounded us up and returned us to the USA. They contacted the folks at MSFR, who were kind enough to take us in and are helping us find our forever homes. It has been decided that my mix could be Doxie because I have a longer, trim, 14-pound body with legs that are very sturdy but a bit short. I'm still very playful and have retained my puppyish charm that endears me to people and other dogs. I guess that's why I get along well with everyone."

If you're interested in Billie, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"I've been named Flora, which is of Latin origin, and means flower. It's absolutely the perfect name for a tiny 10-pound gal, as I continue to bloom under the care of my foster folks. I have to tell you that when I was found by animal control and taken to an LA county shelter, I was nothing short of a mess. I had to be placed in the medical building because of a disgusting and painful skin condition. I won't get too graphic, but the sores and inflammation were so bad that I didn't even want to be touched. I certainly was not adoptable in that condition and that's when the big-hearted MSFR folks rescued me. They took me straight to their veterinarian where several different skin tests were performed and the final diagnosis was that my condition was called demodectic mange. Plus, I also had an ear infection. Thankfully, the mange wasn't contagious. So I just spent a few days at the animal hospital receiving treatment. Amazingly, I responded so well that I was looking and feeling much better after only one treatment and a medicated bath. It has been a bit of a rough road for this 4-year old, female, purebred Miniature Schnauzer -- but I know the best is yet to come! If you're looking for a petite youngster to share your life, I'm definitely the gal for you. I will admit that children are not my favorite people and I would be best in a home without them. That said, I get along great with other dogs. However, I also do just fine by myself."

If you're interested in Flora, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"My name is Fritz and I was truly living the good life -- until recently. You see, my human mom had rescued me from the Laguna Beach shelter when I was a year old and for 10 years we had the most wonderful, happy, loving life. Then my mom passed away and now I'm a senior dog looking for a guardian angel to adopt me. I'm a small Dachshund mix who is in good health and my medical records are readily available to see. I had spinal surgery from one of the top docs in Orange County California, but now I can run and walk with the best of them. Since my surgery, I do need to wear a harness and can't be pulled by a collar/leash around my neck. I recently fractured three teeth and had to have them extracted, but I'm still on my same diet of kibble hydrated with water and can eat nutritious snacks. I am really a sweetie who gets along with children, but am not real enthusiastic about living with them. My favorite things in the whole world are to snuggle and go places with my family. While I prefer to sleep in bed with my humans... if that doesn't work for you, I'm happy sleeping in my own cozy bed. You can see that I would be a great addition to any family and I'm looking for my forever family to share all of the love and companionship I have to give."

If interested in Fritz, please contact Lynne of Whisker & Tails Foundation at amano@whiskerstails.org.
