The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo by Taylor Jenkins Reid

Reviewed by Desiree De La Cruz-Miller, Library Assistant, El Segundo Public Library

The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo is a scandalous novel written by Taylor Jenkins Reid about a young, inexperienced journalist who gets the opportunity of a lifetime to interview Hollywood's glamorous and oh-so-outrageous Evelyn Hugo. As with other books by Taylor Jenkins Reid, you will find this one hard to put down. She takes you on twists and turns while you feel a rollercoaster of emotions as you read Evelyn's shocking history.

Monique Grant is shocked by the opportunity when approached by her editor to interview Evelyn regarding the auction of the latter's gown collection. Monique knows the request is odd considering there are more seasoned writers at the magazine she works for (Vivant), but Ms. Hugo specifically requested her. Monique approaches this interview warily and after much anticipation, at the book's end, Evelyn reveals why she chose her.

Evelyn has worn many gowns over the years. She was nominated for awards and snubbed many times throughout her career. Monique's assignment is to interview Evelyn about the auctioning of the gowns. An interview like this will sell millions of copies since Evelyn has been off the radar over the last 20-plus years. But the real assignment that Frankie, the magazine's editor, has given Monique is to find out about all the juicy details of the life and loves of Evelyn Hugo. Having been entrusted with the story, Monique is eager to make it happen. However, is she willing to do what Evelyn wants for a tell-all if it will cost her? Why did Evelyn pick Monique for this interview?

Taylor Jenkins Reid held my attention throughout the novel. The reader travels through each era with the character and experiences the issues that were surfacing at the time. She approaches the topics of AIDS and the struggles many have faced with coming out in an age when being gay was not widely accepted. Taylor does a good job of connecting the reader to the characters. I felt myself rooting for them on their low points and cheering them on during the highs. To find out more about this book, come visit us at the El Segundo Public Library and check out a copy of The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo. Burning: This South Korean Thriller Will Fire You Up

By Kailee Andrews for www.cinemacy.com

Burning (available to stream now on Netflix) tells the story of a directionless Jong-su (played by acclaimed Korean film star Yoo Ah-in), who falls into a love triangle with a girl from his hometown who herself has the affection from a wealthy playboy.

The drama begins with a chance meeting when Jong-su runs into his mysterious childhood neighbor Hae-mi (played with wide-eyed calls Ben a Korean Gatsby, ranting, "How does he live like this at his age? Traveling abroad, driving a Porsche, listening to music while cooking pasta." He seems to believe that Ben is everything insincere, while his own connection with Hae-mi is real. Jong-su claims he's an observer of life's mysteries rather than a judge, but we watch as his -- and our -- judgmental, pattern-seeking impulses flare at Ben's behavior. It's not long until Jong-su gets the intensity by Jong-Seo Jeon) after she has been rendered unrecognizable by plastic surgery. She's a free-spirited presence who sweeps Jong-su into a relationship. She loves to reinvent herself, dancing and speaking with a vulnerable rawness that Jong-su lacks. The plot thickens when Hae-mi travels to Africa alone to seek out a group that teaches people to release the small hunger of life to seek the "Big Hunger" of spiritual meaning. When Hae-mi returns, she is joined by the fit and wealthy Ben, played by Steven Yeun (Walking Dead, Sorry to Bother You) in his first Korean language role. Once this main trio is in place, the film bursts with ambiguous rivalries.

Jong-su and Ben are constantly contrasted. Where Jong-su is slouching, Ben is suave. While Jong-su is burdened by his family's financial troubles, Ben commands vast wealth. Jong-su idea that Ben's interest in Hae-mi is sinister. Accomplished director Lee Chang-Dong knows just when to mete out information to keep an audience yearning, adding more mysteries and ominous moments to the film's Jenga-like structure. Much unease stems from the unsatisfied, troubled characters, who all have reasons to tease, manipulate or harm one another to fulfill their own desires.

I won't spoil the conclusion. I'll only say that the more we watch these characters, the less sure we become of them. Are their relationships sincere or transactional? Are their memories honest or unreliable? If creeping dread and haunting mysteries fire you up, you'll get endless fuel from Burning.

Burning is not rated. 148 minutes. Available to stream on Netflix. •

Down Year for Baseball Attendance? Not With Supportive Dodgers Fans

By Rob McCarthy

The Los Angeles Dodgers keep winning on the bases and at the turnstiles. The Blue Crew are the best-drawing team in Major League Baseball and playing before bigger crowds this season at home and on the road. That’s exactly what baseball needs right now.

Attendance is shrinking at Major League games, though poor weather and underperforming teams with losing records explain some of the drop-off at National and American League ballparks. Eighteen of the league’s 30 teams reported smaller crowds in April and through mid-May. The Dodgers, who are trying to win the club’s first World Series title in 30 years, have responded so far to the challenge. The team’s Southern California fan base has responded by turning out for home games in bigger numbers.

Los Angeles leads the league in home attendance through the first 25 games, according to ESPN baseball figures. Average attendance at home was a league-leading 47,119 fans per game. L.A. surpassed the 1 million home attendance mark by mid-May despite losing Yasiel Puig and Chase Utley, two of the team’s most popular players.

The Dodgers traded Puig to the Cincinnati Reds during the offseason, and Utley retired. Utley’s fans in Philadelphia, where he played before coming the Dodgers, have embraced the Phillies and their new free agent outfielder Bryce Harper. The Phils are one of only three teams, including L.A., to draw over 1 million fans at home this season. The New York Yankees are the other. All three teams currently sit in first place in their divisions.

Twelve teams are bucking the league-wide trend of smaller crowds, though. Philadelphia and MLB superstar Harper have increased home attendance by 302,219 fans through the first 28 games. The San Diego Padres, with former Dodger Manny Machado now playing for them, have boosted home crowds by 80,000 through the first 26 games. Another California team, the Oakland Athletics, have seen brisk business at the stadium turnstiles too, adding 60,000 fans through the first seven weeks of this season.

Down south in Anaheim, the Angels soon will hit the 1 million attendance mark, but it’s taking longer than last season. The Angels’ home crowds are down by 53,000 so far. The team’s home attendance stood at 857,694 after last weekend’s three-game homestand.

The Dodgers have remained the number one team for attendance in the Major Leagues for the past six seasons. They leapfrogged the Phillies in 2013 for the highest attendance in Major League Baseball. The Yankees outdrew both L.A. and Philadelphia back in 2010.

The San Francisco Giants are losing paying fans faster than any major league team this season, ESPN’s figures show. The Giants -- who ranked fourth last season and drew more than 3 million spectators at home -- are in a freefall. The team ranks 10th in attendance and is last in the National League West. San Francisco and Los Angeles were the first major league teams to relocate from New York to the West Coast between 1958 and 1959.

The teams making the biggest gains in average attendance from 2018 are:

The Winners

Philadelphia Phillies: 35,947 (10,794 more per game)

San Diego Padres, 29,870 (3,105 more per game)

Oakland Athletics, 19,541 (2,508 more per game)

Chicago White Sox, 46,501 (1,983 per game)

Cincinnati Reds, 36,383 (1,959 per game)

The Dodgers made the list too. They’ve added 866 paid admission per game over last season. Milwaukee’s Brewers, another playoff team from last season, gained about the same number as L.A.: 896. The Brewers play in a climate-controlled domed stadium, where fans watch games without braving the wind and cold that the league says has contributed to smaller crowds, including at Yankee Stadium. Attendance in the Bronx is down 2,763 per game, and players in early-April games wore

Council United in Opposition of State Housing, Cannabis Bills

By Derrick Deane

The Hawthorne City Council continued its opposition to potential state-mandated laws that would erode local control over issues such as low-income housing and cannabis during the group’s most recent meeting.

The Council voted unanimously to oppose State Assembly Bill 1356, introduced by Assemblymember Phil Ting of the 19th District, which encompasses western San Francisco and northern San Mateo County. The bill states that if a local jurisdiction received more than 50 percent of the vote in favor of legalizing cannabis in last November’s election, that city would be required to issue a minimum number of local licenses authorizing specified cannabis retailers. Hawthorne had a 58 percent vote in favor of legalizing marijuana.

“Our city prohibited the sale of cannabis and since that time, there has been a real push by Sacramento to pressure the cities into accepting marijuana in some form,” Mayor Pro Tem Olivia Valentine said. “This latest bill requires cities to issue cannabis licenses based solely on the percentage of city residents who voted in favor of cannabis sales. What they’re saying is if this bill passes, those cities would be forced to allow a certain number – and they’ve got a formula for the number of facilities that must be established.”

The bill calculates the minimum requirement by dividing the number of currently active alcohol sales licenses in the city by 1/6, or one license for every 15,000 residents in the city, whichever of those two is greater.

“This is another example of local control,” Valentine added. “Our city did vote to ban the sale within our city and there have been several bills and regulation was passed that subverted cities that had banned sales that said deliveries could be made to any legal address anywhere in the state.” Valentine requested that the Council send its opposition of the bill to Assemblymember Autumn Burke, State Senator Steven Bradford and Governor Gavin Newsom.

Eleven Lennox Students Awarded Full Scholarships for LACMA Summer Art Programs

The Los Angeles County Museum of Art (LACMA) awarded full scholarships valued at $1,685 for summer art programs to 11 Lennox Middle School students on Wednesday, May 15. The LACMA awards scholarships to promising students who do not have the financial means to attend an art class. These scholarships are available for students ages 6–17.

The LACMA offers a five-week Kids Art Class for students ages 10-13 to explore printmaking, typography and patterns with innovative techniques using conventional and unconventional materials. Six students from Lennox Middle School will be able to attend the courses at no cost and learn from Gloria Westcott, an artist, educator, curator and producer who has been based in Los Angeles for over twenty years.

The second course, Sketching for Teens, will provide students the opportunity to develop their drawing skills. They will receive a sketchbook and portable media such as graphite pencils, colored pencils, charcoal, and oil pastels. Five Lennox Middle School Students will work with Jenny Ziomek, a painter, illustrator and writer, to develop their personal styles.

Lennox Middle School and LACMA representatives presented the scholarship awards to students in front of family and friends. The Kids Art Class program will begin June 2 and the Sketching for Teens class will begin July 20.

“We are extremely thankful for this opportunity,” said Rafael Ramos, teacher at Lennox Middle School. “It was a great surprise to all of us when we heard 11 of our students are going to be part of this amazing experience. They definitely deserve this opportunity and much more! They are talented kids. I can’t wait to see what they create and learn as a result of the program.”

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy Named Norb Huber

SPRING OR WINTER?

What’s up with our weather? This has been the wettest May on record for parts of California. Snow is falling up at the higher elevations. We are usually hot and sunny by now here in Orangevale. It’s been a wetter than normal Spring for SoCal also. Climate change? The Trump effect? God’s answer to our prayers for rain? Who knows? After returning from a short stay down in Cabo San Lucas, Mexico, I’m really ready for some warmer weather.

105 AND STILL GOING STRONG

The Hawthorne City Council honored the oldest living resident in the City of Good Neighbors last week. Reina Solares turned 105 years of age recently. She is a very strong lady, full of life. She attributes her strong Christian faith to contributing to her long life. Congratulations to the entire Solares family with their celebration of this great lady.

K9 COMMUNITY DINNER

For over 30 years, the Spring Community Dinner has been hosted by the Hawthorne Presidents Council. Each year the dinner supports of the K-9 squad of the Hawthorne Police Department. This year the dinner will be held on Thursday, May 23rd from 5 – 6:45 p.m. at the Hawthorne Memorial Center. Tickets are only $5 for a great chicken dinner, with a presentation put on by the K-9’s themselves, and followed by an auction of some really nice prizes. This always is a great family fun thing to bring the kids to. They get to see the dogs in action. Tickets are available at the door.

50TH YEAR CLASS REUNION FOR HHS CLASS OF ’69

All Hawthorne High School Alums are invited to attend a very special celebration this September 20-21st at the Ayres Hotel in Hawthorne. It will be the 50th Class Reunion for the HHS Class of 1969. I’m old enough to remember back to the sixties. It was quite the time. Catch all the details of the reunion by going to several postings on Facebook. It looks like it will be a great time to reunite with old friends and classmates.

VACATION

Yes, we had a great time in Mexico. It was one of our most restful vacations. You probably know that feeling after some vacations you get home and you need another one to recuperate from the first one. Not this time. We spent a lot of time doing nothing. If you saw my beach photo, you know what I mean. Got some reading in. Got some swimming pool time in. Drank a few cold ones, as you know, beer is safer than water in Mexico. Took my very first, and probably last, yoga class. I connected with my universe through balance and relaxation. Water

Anderson Girls Run First 5K

William Anderson's fifth grade girls running club completed their first 5k this weekend at the Torrance Armed Forces Day 5k Run. After 10 weeks of training, 33 girls and 16 adults ran a 5k! The 10-week training program incorporated three days of running each week, along with lessons on self-esteem, body image, goal-setting and nutrition. This comprehensive program aimed to strengthen each girl's body image while teaching them the skills needed to run a 5k. It is truly a collaborative effort between the school's administration, social workers, PTA, District Wellness Coordinator, District Food Services, COPA, and classroom teachers and staff. Laura Schmitz, who is a fourth grade teacher, implemented this program four years ago and looks forward to continuing this program in the future! "I am so proud of the girls! Seeing the girls cross the finish line with such pride and excitement makes it all worthwhile," she said. Photo Provided by Laura Schmitz aerobics was better, a good workout with out the stress of hitting concrete while running on the streets. Of course the scantily clothed ladies drinking their margaritas at the pool bar made for some beautiful scenery. I did use my global entry card for the first time while coming back through customs in San Diego. It was a little scary that the facial recognition camera was able to print out all of my vital data by just taking my photo. I didn't even have to show my card. Now, any where I go, a camera will be able to pick me out of the crowd. I guess I won't be able to be a Mule any longer, the government has my ID. Maybe the Feds won't pull me over any more, since now they know who I am. Anyway, it's great to be back in the USA so I can pay

$4.00 per gallon for gas. Heck, I could get a couple of cold ones down in Mexico for 80 pesos. If we simply got all of the world leaders together for a few cold ones, we could solve many of our problems. Just relax and enjoy, why worry about a few pesos here or there.

Bobbs and Officer Stuart Sato responded to the scene. As Officer Bobbs and Officer Sato were walking toward the apartment, they could see that the female subject was climbing out of the second story window and appeared to be preparing to jump. The officers broadcast this information over the radio.

Officer Amendola and Officer Booth forced the bedroom door open and saw the female subject attempting to jump from the second story window. The upper half of her body was outside the window and her feet were dangling in the air inside the bedroom. The female subject had grabbed the exterior of the window frame and was pulling herself out. Officer Amendola and Officer Booth rushed towards the window and each grabbed onto the legs of the female subject to pull her back into the room. The female subject repeatedly screamed that she wanted to jump and die. Officer Bobbs and Officer Sato then ran into the bedroom and assisted Officer Amendola and Officer Booth with pulling the female back inside the bedroom. The female subject was detained and placed on a 5150 hold.

The grandmother was visibly shaken by the actions of her granddaughter, but was extremely thankful for the actions of the officers. The quick and decisive actions of Officer Amendola, Officer Bobbs, Officer Booth, and Officer Sato prevented the female subject from jumping out of the second story window and sustaining serious bodily injury and/or death.

Life Saving Award Winner:
Hawthorne Police Department
Date of Action: July 11, 2018
Award Recipients: Officer Pedro Nambo and Officer Jonathan Skovold

On July 11, 2018 at approximately 18:14 hours, officers of the Hawthorne Police Department, including Officers Nambo and Skovold, responded to a report of an automobile collision with injuries near the intersection of Doty Avenue and El Segundo Boulevard. Dispatch further advised that one of the reporting parties stated the driver of one of the vehicles was not breathing.

Upon their arrival at the scene of the collision, a passerby had broken out the driver side window of the vehicle but could not get the driver out. Due to the driver’s side door being blocked, Officers Nambo and Skovold moved to the passenger side of the vehicle and removed the driver out that side. Once outside on the ground, they confirmed that the driver was pulseless and not breathing.

Officer Nambo immediately began chest compressions while Officer Skovold set up a BVM from the patrol car STAT bag. Officer Skovold then began administering rescue breathing in conjunction with the chest compressions. The officers continued their two-person CPR for at least four rounds before noting some labored breathing and a faint pulse had returned. At that point, they moved the driver to the recovery position and continued to monitor his condition. Shortly thereafter they noted the driver had again lost his pulse and stopped breathing, at which point they resumed CPR. Upon the arrival of LA County Fire personnel, the two officers were eventually relieved of their duties and began processing the crash scene. The patient was transported to the hospital where he continued his treatment and recovery.

It was later determined that the 61-year-old driver (whose birthday happens to be July 12) had suffered a heart attack while driving, which resulted in him losing control of the vehicle and crashing. LA County Paramedics contacted members of the Hawthorne Police Department later on in the evening to pass on that information, as well as their appreciation for the officers’ efforts. According to those paramedics, Officer Nambo and Officer Skovold were directly responsible for that driver’s survival. According to those experts, the driver would have most certainly died without their prompt intervention.

Without a doubt, Officer Skovold and Officer Nambo’s quick response, decisive action and prompt application of CPR were directly responsible for the saving of a life. Their lifesaving interventions and actions are in keeping with the finest traditions of service to the community and reflect great credit upon themselves and the Hawthorne Police Department.

Summary of Adoption of Ordinance 2182 Amending Chapters 17.04.010, 17.20.030, 17.35.00, 17.35.030, and 17.35.130 of the Hawthorne Municipal Code ("HMC") Related to Structures and Signage in Residential Zones.

Pursuant to Government Code section 36933(c), the following constitutes a summary of Ordinance No. 2182 which will be considered for adoption by the City Council at its regular meeting on May 14, 2019 at 6:00 p.m. Pursuant to California Government Code section 36933(c)(1), the City Council has previously directed the preparation and publication of a summary of Ordinance Nos. 2182 which clarifies existing residential yard sign provisions, and provides new time, place and manner restrictions on the number and types of yard signs homeowners can place in their yards. The ordinance amendment is designed to protect free speech rights of Hawthorne residents while preserving the aesthetics and integrity of residential neighborhoods. Ordinance No. 2182 recognizes that signs constitute a vital means of communication and can serve as an economic and aesthetic asset. The intent of this ordinance is to promote and facilitate commerce by means of attractive signage and by addressing aesthetic concerns about visual clutter and visual blight. 2182 is intended to be consistent with land use patterns by adding rather than detracting from the architecture of the buildings where they are located. A summary of the amendment is as follows: a) Section 17.04.010 – Introduces "holiday decorations" to the definition section of the HMC to distinguish from commercial advertising and free speech, and mandates a maximum 45-day duration period. b) Section 17.20.030 – Clarifies accessory structures that are permitted within residential zones and their heights. c) Section 17.35.000 – Now contains language that addresses applicability, adds depth to the purpose and intent of Section 17.35.000 and delineates clear standards and introduces a new violation policy.
