Council Honors Longtime Resident; Addresses LAX Improvements, Fireworks

By Derrick Deane

Continuing construction around Los Angeles International Airport (LAX) and its impact on Hawthorne in the near future led off the final City Council meeting of June this past Tuesday night.

Community Relations Manager for the Metro Transit Authority (MTA) Mark Dierking laid out an ambitious plan that would involve connecting the Metro Green Line rail system out to LAX and include a number of Automated People Movers (APM) that would shuttle travelers into the various terminals at the airport.

idea of where to start."

With Fourth of July right around the corner, many residents who are opposed to the use of fireworks in the city may not know where to turn. Mayor Alex Vargas laid out the Council's response very clearly to the familiar group of residents who broach the topic each year. "We've had these in years before and these referendums have not passed," he said about previous efforts to ban fireworks in the city. "Overwhelmingly the community has opposed banning fireworks in the city. If there is anybody that wants there are folks that arrive and don't have an to try that, put together a committee and put it on the ballot."

> Vargas added that the City is doing the best it can to enforce the current fireworks laws with the resources available. "There's not a magic device that will help us find where these things are at," Vargas said of the illegal fireworks that are set off in the community. "You might find where it's at, but the thing is by the time you pinpoint where the firework was launched, the people are already gone, there is not a trace and the

"The idea on this project is to consolidate into one facility and keep parking off-site to keep it out of the central maintenance facility," Dierking said. "We're also going to be consolidating two separate bus bays at LAX so that all of the municipal bus operators can come in to one point."

The project is not scheduled to be completed until 2023, but Councilwoman Angie Reyes English noted that the finish date will be here sooner than expected. "It's a long time coming. I know 2023 sounds like it's far away, but it's really not," she said while also voicing her hopes that the facility will feature changing stations for families traveling with babies. "It's very important how we're getting together in making efforts not only for safer travel but also making it easier to get to and from."

The APMs would also bring travelers to a centralized car rental area along with numerous long-term parking structures scattered around the airport. "I think that's very convenient," Reyes English said. "Today,

Wiseburn School Administration Selects New Principal for Cabrillo Elementary

By Duane Plank

Last Thursday evening's Wiseburn School Board meeting featured a lengthy update on the state of the progress made by construction crews and affiliated workers at the new Wiseburn High School site at 201 N. Douglas Street. Balfour Beatty, the company that is managing the four-story, $140 million construction project that started taking shape in August of 2015, had representatives Wayne Roehmild and Don Rondeau on-hand to provide information on the project's progress as workers strive to make deadlines that will allow the on-campus ribbon-cutting ceremony to take place on August 12, with the first day of classes at the new facility slated for August 22.

Vince Madsen, Director of Facilities Planning, introduced the Balfour Beatty representatives, who said that while there were issues with some of the logistics of the project, workers had been toiling overtime to make sure that the facility would be ready to welcome students and staff when the doors officially open in less than two months.

When asked by a Board member if there were any "surprises" being encountered on Douglas Street, Roehmild said that "while not everything has been perfect," there were "no more surprises--just a lot of work." IT issues, fire alarm integration, and getting the building elevators to mesh with the building's infrastructure were mentioned as typical areas to still be addressed as a project of this magnitude moves into the final stages.

Also present during the meeting to answer questions were Alvin Flores and Scott Griffith, representatives from the K-12 architectural design firm Ruhnau, Ruhnau and Clarke. The Board was set to approve the sum of $180,000, contracting with the firm to develop an architectural master plan and provide design services for the soon-to-be-vacated land at the west portion of Dana Middle School, bordering Aviation, once the District offices are moved to the new High School facility. The Board will officially vote on the item during a brief meeting scheduled the morning of June 28. The new facility will be known as the Dana West Sports Complex. Wiseburn Superintendent Tom Johnstone has mentioned the possibility of installing a full running track on the property.

Not mentioned at the meeting, because it is pending Board approval, was the selection of the new principal for Juan Cabrillo Elementary. Prior to the meeting, Johstone said that Lisa Baggio, an assistant principal at Marco Forster Middle School in San Juan Capistrano, will be taking over for the retiring Margaret Lynch. The Board was expected to approve the appointment of Baggio at a very brief meeting that was set to take place yesterday morning.

Emailed Baggio about her new position: "I am thrilled to have been selected as principal at Juan Cabrillo Elementary. It is an honor to become a part of such a prestigious district and school. I am truly looking forward to working with the dynamic team at Cabrillo. I am excited about getting to know all stakeholders and continuing the progressive work that Juan Cabrillo and Wiseburn Unified are known for."

Baggio will be joining the recently selected Kim Jones (Peter Burnett Elementary) as new school principals in the District for the 2017-18 school year. Jones' selection was approved by the Board at the June 8 meeting.

Baggio obtained a BA from Chapman University, a Masters from UC Irvine, and another Masters in Educational Leadership from UCLA, and has also worked in education in New York City. One of 17 initial applicants for the position, Baggio was one of three candidates called back for a second interview.

Both Lynch and Laura Sullivan, principal at Burnett, who is also retiring, attended the Thursday evening meeting, and were praised by Board members for their years of service to the District.

The only special presentation that took place during the 100-minute meeting was made by Sarah Nitsos, the District's Intervention coordinator. Nitsos shared with the Board what she termed her "deep dive" into reading intervention, with a specific focus on K-2 students.

Nitsos, who had served the District in a prior capacity as the principal at Anza, talked about the successes of Wiseburn's 2016-17 reading intervention program. Initially focusing on K-2 readers in need of extra help to increase their reading comprehension, the program provides a goldmine of specific data that enabled Nitsos to not only help classroom teachers identify young learners who may be falling behind, but also grace teachers with specific information and data that they could use to help young learners improve their reading and comprehension skills.

Said Nitsos: "My job was exploratory in nature, much like Christopher Columbus." While each school site, she said, had previously had interventions, they were not necessarily synched-up throughout the District. She sought to develop a program that would be implemented throughout Wiseburn, provide teacher feedback--and not only be child-focused, but also allow teachers and administrators to mine available data.

Post the special presentation, Board member comments ensued, with several asking about the program as it moved forward into the 2017-18 school year. Nitsos said she would like to see the program expand, but that would entail "personnel." One of the limitations of intervention, she said, was the timeframe that current intervention personnel could devote to the program.

Said Superintendent Johnstone: "It is a huge blessing to us to have a principal quality person that really has an unbelievable knowledge of students from the classroom level up to the principal level to be focused 100 percent of the time on this topic."

Lynch lauded the work done by Nitsos. She noted how it was very important for the District to create and fund the intervention coordinator position, and how Nitros has "brought it to life" and "brought the conversation from teachers talking about 'my kids' to teachers talking about 'our kids.'" The next regularly scheduled Wiseburn Board meeting is on the docket for Thursday, July 20. •

Community Briefs SBWIB Receives $500,000 from EDD to Assist Veterans with Training and Jobs

The South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) has been awarded $500,000 to assist unemployed and underemployed veterans with barriers to employment find rewarding civilian jobs. The funding was made available through a Veterans' Employment-Related Assistance Program (VEAP) offered by the State of California Employment Development Department (EDD) under the Workforce Innovation Opportunity Act (WIOA).

The SBWIB/VEAP program will focus on training and placing veterans into the construction industry, a sector projecting thousands of new job openings in the next few years, in particular surrounding the construction of the new Inglewood football stadium. For veteran job seekers that may not fit within the construction sector, the SBWIB will assist them to find jobs in other industries.

The program will service transitioning and recently separated veterans, veterans with service connected disabilities, eligible spouses, women and minority veterans, homeless veterans, veterans recently released from incarceration, veterans lacking a high school diploma or equivalent certificate and other veterans with barriers to finding employment.

Outreach and recruitment will be supported by existing partnerships with local area employers, the Los Angeles Air Force Base, the EDD (JVSG) (DVOP) (LVER) and other community partners such as U.S. Vets.

The SBWIB previously established the Military Veterans to Civilian Career Pathways program to assist with resources needed to secure gainful employment for vets and over seventy percent of veterans enrolled in the program find employment. Bill to Streamline Construction of Assisted Living Facility Passes Senate Committee

Assemblymember Al Muratsuchi's (D-Torrance) Assembly Bill (AB) 994 unanimously passed the Senate Governance and Finance Committee last week. The bill will allow a much-needed upgrade of the Beach Cities Health District's (BCHD) campus to be built using a streamlined design-build construction method that will cut costs of construction by as much as 20 percent. The upgrades include much-needed maintenance on the original hospital facility, and construction of an assisted living center for the expanding senior population in the South Bay. The construction of the facility will also bring many well-paying, middle-class jobs to the South Bay. "The Beach Cities Health District campus is in urgent need of upgrades. This bill will enable campus construction of a much-needed assisted living facility for seniors to be completed utilizing a cost-effective construction method called design-build, that will save taxpayers up to $20 million on planned projects," said Muratsuchi. "This construction project will also create good, middle-class jobs for the South Bay."

4 Simple Ways To Stay Productive And Conquer Your To-Do List

(BPT) - Did you know that in an average week, 75 percent of Americans skip doing something for themselves because they didn't adequately plan or allow enough time for it? Does looking at your to-do list feel so daunting that it discourages you from making any progress at all?

You're not alone. A new Post-it Brand productivity study found that more than 1 in 4 Americans feel completing everything in their weekly to-do list is harder than running a marathon.

Juggling multiple tasks at one time, along with a never-ending to-do list, is a common challenge for everyone - even those at the top of their game. Two professionals in the culinary and fitness industries share some of their tips to help you take control of your to-do list and increase your productivity.

The 'Write' Way

You're 42 percent more likely to get something done if you write it down, according to research from the Dominican University of California. Creating a to-do list is an efficient way to visualize and prioritize your tasks, both short-term and long-term. Celebrity chef Russell Jackson is always looking for ways to be more productive and stay inspired. "Writing items down helps me feel that I've taken the first step in conquering the task," he says. "I like to think of lists as a roadmap to help me visualize what I need to achieve." Post-it Super Sticky Notes, 4 inches x 6 inches, are a perfect tool for jotting down tasks, goals and to-dos, and when paired with flags and tabs, it's easy to keep important information at your fingertips, stay organized and take your to-do list wherever you go!

actions, and goals into specific, manageable categories and tasks. This allows you to focus on handling each of these smaller objectives so you can transition some goals from to-do to done.

Toss Your Tech

"Technology isn't always the answer to checking things off your to-do list," says Jackson, adding that even a tech lover such as himself needs a tactile method to spark creativity. Without a screen limiting you to seeing only the small tasks at hand, take advantage of a large surface and use Easel Pads to move big ideas around so you can see everything you are trying to accomplish. Seeing how fluid tasks can be can relieve some stress.

Clear Your Mind

If you find your current strategy isn't working, don't be afraid to switch it up. Go for a walk or clear your head by taking 15 minutes to do something you enjoy. For world-renowned fitness artist and celebrity trainer Nicole Winhoffer, even a 10-minute jog can help bring fresh ideas. She uses Post-it List Notes to write down her post-workout inspirational thoughts. "When you come back to your task after that quick sweat session, write down the first things that come to mind - those can spark ideas that you might never have thought of."

Post-it Brand created a quiz to help you learn more about your list-making style and to find solutions and tools to help you be productive, tackle your to-do lists and achieve your goals. Visit www.post-it.com/ quiz to take the short quiz and find solutions tailored for you to boost your productivity. Survey details: The Post-it Brand Productivity Survey was conducted by Wakefield Research (www.wakefieldresearch. com) among 1,021 nationally representative U.S. adults ages 18+, between March 30 and April 5, 2017, using an email invitation and an online survey. •

PETSPETSPETSPETSPETSPETS Wowser Schnauzers

Dori

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs, which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Highway in Redondo Beach, from noon-3:30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoption fair or check out our website, www.msfr.org. Ig you have any questions about a particular dog's availability you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! Bet you can't adopt just one!

"I was named Dori, but I'm not to be confused with Dora the Explorer because I'm definitely geographically challenged. I thought it would be a great idea to show my daughter Tori what the world outside of our yard was like, so we went exploring and we became lost. That's how we ended up at an LA county shelter brought in as strays. Despite the fact that I'm only a four-yearold, female, purebred Miniature Schnauzer, no one was interested in a pair of street urchins. We were both filthy and in desperate need of a bath and a good grooming when the MSFR volunteers found and rescued us. Now everyone can see how stunning I am with my natural ears, docked tail and svelte 16-pound body. I even had a dental performed with no extractions required, so my teeth sparkle. Everyone says that I'm very sweet-natured and that I would do exceptionally well with another doggie pal to keep me company."

If you're interested in Dori, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"Hi there! They call me Tori and I'm an adorable little three-month old, female Miniature Schnauzer mix. My mother Dori and I ended up at an LA country shelter after getting lost while on an exploration adventure. While I'm embarrassed to admit we have no idea who my father is, I am very proud of the fact that I have inherited my mother's good looks. Currently, I'm a 12-pound ball of fluff with a most interesting coat that is silver with black tips and very elegant. Of course since it is my 'puppy coat,' the color might change, however, I haven't shed at all. It appears that whatever my coat will look like, I'll be a non-shedder. Everyone is speculating that when I'm fully grown I could be a medium-sized dog, weighing 25-30 pounds--but since I've a questionable pedigree, it's only a guess. What I do know for certain is that I'm cute as a button and it's a good thing because being a puppy means I need all kinds of training and someone who has the time to devote to working with me. I'll need to know everything about obedience, housebreaking, walking on a leash, manners and the whole nine yards. Right now I'm pretty dependent on my mom, so I would probably do best with another doggie pal to help me learn everything a puppy should know. I promise to work hard and learn quickly and I'll be the best thing that ever happened to you."

If you're interested in Tori, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"My name is Carter and I must tell you that in addition to being a stunning little guy I'm also 16 pounds of love and affection. I'm not quite sure how it happened, but I ended up living on the streets before I was finally picked up, labeled a stray and promptly deposited at an LA county shelter. If the folks that passed up the opportunity to adopt me could only see me now, they would be shocked. No one could even tell that I was a 1.5-year old male Miniature Schnauzer mix. Although I look very 'Schnauzery,' I have shorter legs, a wirier coat and would probably be considered a low-shedder rather than a non-shedder. I'm still very puppyish--which when translated means high-energy--so I would do well with a doggie pal to show me the ropes. I'm a playful, loving, personable, good-looking guy--the whole package who would be a great addition to any family."

If you're interested in Carter, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

Their new family, who lost their 17-year-old Miniature Schnauzer a little over a year ago, was ready to open their hearts to a new little gal. When they met these two, they decided to give it a chance. Bette, now named Georgia Mae, and Joan, who is called Piper Rose, live with their mom, their human brother and a grandmother in North Redondo Beach. With all of this love and attention to go around, there will be lots of cuddling in their future. Wishing everyone much happiness and many wonderful adventures!

Lakers Hand Franchise Keys to Lonzo Ball

By Adam Serrao

The Los Angeles Lakers have finally received what the team and its fans have been waiting ever so impatiently for. With the secnd overall pick in last Thursday's 2017 NBA Draft, Magic Johnson, new general manager Rob Pelinka and the rest of the Lakers organization selected Lonzo Ball in the first round to join the Purple and Gold. Any time the Lakers get a new piece to add to their otherwise depleted puzzle, the sports world goes crazy--and like a busy day on Wall Street, craziness ensues as opinions and conjecture begin to frantically fly around the room as if people's lives depended on it. The acquisition of Ball will certainly fuel that very same fire and as Lonzo takes the keys of what has been an old, rundown Ford Explorer, he'll immediately be expected to turn it into a Lamborghini Veneno. That being said, it has become increasingly evident that the pressure mounted on the 19-year-old's shoulders to deliver what the Lakers have been lacking is enormous, to say the least. The NBA Draft is a tricky place to try to build a team's future. Throughout the years, there have been many players who were set to come into the league with all of the hype in the world surrounding them, only to quickly fizzle out and leave the team that drafted them curious, angry and still sitting at the bottom of the standings once again at the end of the year. Anthony Bennett in 2013 may be the best example of a number one overall pick not panning out. There was also Michael Beasley at number two in 2008, Adam Morrison at three overall in 2006, Evan Turner at number two in 2010...and who could possibly forget Greg Oden with the first overall pick in the 2007 draft? Needless to say, now Lonzo must do everything he can to not be mentioned in the same paragraph as those, and other, first round draft day busts.

Lonzo may be the most NBA-ready player to enter the league from this year's draft. Not only did he improve his Chino Hills High School team drastically on the way to an undefeated record and a national championship in his senior season, but he also carried UCLA during his freshman year in college. Lonzo has the unique ability to share the ball, get his teammates involved, and assist his roster in playing better overall team basketball. He led the nation in assists his freshman year and broke the UCLA record for most assists in a season in the only year he was there. Ball has shown throughout high school and college that he is a leader whose only concern is winning. His goal as a player is to make the players around him better--not to fill up the stat line with 60-point nights like a previous Lakers legend did so effortlessly on occasion. Ball should be able to improve his team in every way possible, but must first get past the enormous amount of pressure that has already been placed upon his shoulders.

hanging up there one day, all right? Good."

Who could be mad at Magic, though, when he flashes those big pearly whites and the entire room smiles with him? "So, Lonzo," he continued. "Just leave me one or two records alright? Don't break all my records. "Even Pelinka got involved in the immediate praise heaped upon Ball before the latter had played even one minute of NBA basketball. "Those leadership qualities are what's going to take the Lakers to our ultimate destination, which of potential with players like Ball, Brandon Ingram and Julius Randle might look like, but potential is the key word in that sentence. Ball is facing sky-high expectations. With as much pressure that is on the 19-year-old, though, Magic and Pelinka should be feeling even more. Ball is just one piece in turning the Lakers around into a championship team. With the enormous target that has now been placed on his back, he's going to need a lot of help around him to secure any sort of team transformation. It's up to Magic and company to find that help in free agency before talk of a championship should even be uttered down the Staples Center hallways. "The tide has turned. People want to play here again," Magic related to a crowd of reporters. "It's exciting times for the L.A. Lakers." The Lakers will have an extreme amount of roster and salary cap flexibility come the 2018 offseason. That's when Magic plans to do most of his damage in free agency and most of his recruiting to get big-name players like Paul George, for instance, into the Purple and Gold. For now, Laker fans can throw conjecture across the walls and run around yelling at a frantic pace, hoping that their team is championship material. No one's beating the Golden State Warriors anytime soon, so let Lonzo play his first minute of NBA basketball and maybe then, the Lakers can begin what will still need to be an absolutely enormous transformation into becoming a playoff-ready basketball team. • - Asixlion@earthlink.net

Magic didn't hesitate to put that pressure squarely on Lonzo's shoulders immediately after he was drafted. "You look to your right, there's some jerseys hanging on the wall," Johnson said to Ball. "We expect a Ball jersey is winning an NBA championship," Pelinka said. One second overall draft pick and the Lakers, their front office and fans everywhere are already thinking about championship.

It wasn't long ago that D'Angelo Russell was supposed to be the savior for the Lakers. Russell, the number two overall pick in the 2015 Draft, just got shipped out of town with Timofey Mozgov for Brook Lopez and this year's 27th pick. Now that he's gone, it's easy to point out all of the point guard's flaws, but he was at one time considered to be the player who was going to turn the Lakers franchise around and had everyone acting like they were on Wall Street again. Russell may still reach his full potential in New Jersey with the Nets, but he alone showed that becoming the league's next big star is clearly not as easy as simply stepping foot on the basketball court-especially in Los Angeles.

To call someone a franchise player before they have even logged one minute of gametime action is a bit hasty, to say the least. Sure, it's fun to imagine what a roster full people are already inside."

Vargas reiterated that the issue was up to the residents of the city to support and vote on. "It's not something that we can do as a council--it has to go on the ballot," he said, adding that Police Chief Robert Fager has been made aware of the different pockets that have raised concern.

Another concern was brought up by Councilwoman Olivia Valentine regarding an increase in self-storage facilities in the city. Valentine stated that "since this is not a productive use of the City's land, I would like to make a directive for a zone text amendment for a moratorium on selfstorage facilities."

Planning Director Brian James confirmed that currently the City has five self-storage centers in operation with "two serious permits working their way through the system right now and there are a number of inquiries."

Vargas simplified the root reason for Valentine's request for the amendment to the facilities not having to pay sales tax and the loss of land that could potentially have been used to lure in restaurants or other commercial opportunities. "We need to create more jobs, we need to have more restaurants, we need to have more commercial aspects," Vargas said in closing out the discussion while thanking Valentine for bringing the topic up.

"Once the land is purchased by the owner, it just sits there," Valentine noted. "It doesn't really benefit the City-it just benefits the owner."

On a more positive note, the Council took time to present longtime resident and volunteer Darlene Love with a belated recognition award signed by Los Angeles County Supervisor Mark Ridley-Thomas. "I'm very appreciative and thank God that I have lived long enough to see this happen," Love said in her acceptance speech. "It's kind of scary when you think about what's going to happen in 2023 because I'll be nearing 100 years old. I think it's great to see that things have grown."

Valentine referred to Love as a "super citizen" for her boundless energy from the very first time they met. "Don't count what I've done. It's just that this is what makes our cities grow and become better cities-when you find people that are so willing to give their lives and their dedication," Love said after reliving some nostalgic moments when her husband volunteered with the police department more than two decades ago. •
