Mychal’s Continues Expansion with a Digital Printing Operation

By Brian Simon

Seventeen years after it opened in a Hawthorne church with minimal staffing and just 16 students, Mychal’s Learning Place continues to grow both in size and scope. When last featured in these pages, the organization had just celebrated the launch of a new coffee and baked goods food truck. It didn’t take long for the “Mykie’s Coffee and Bakery Truck” to make a name for itself, providing tasty treats at Aviation Corridor business centers and appearing at high-profile events such as this month’s well attended Bite at the Beach festival in Manhattan Beach and El Segundo’s Main Street Car Show.

Not to rest on his laurels, Mychal’s Founder/Executive Director Ed Lynch recently announced another new business venture that (as with the food truck) provides job training and employment opportunities for young adults with developmental disabilities. Mychal’s Prints, a digital printing operation, produces custom-stamped, memorabilia-oriented items such as t-shirts (direct to garment) and mugs for companies, groups and events. “Our primary customer base will be Mychal’s corporate partners, other non-profits and community groups in the Los Angeles area,” Mychal’s Prints’ business plan notes. With nearly two decades of relationships built with both businesses and non-profits in the region, Lynch hopes to parlay all this good will into a thriving concern that will benefit companies large and small while also bolstering the career paths of those with developmental disabilities – who, according to studies, comprise a group with a shockingly high unemployment rate of 85 percent.

Mychal’s Prints currently operates out of Mychal’s primary site, a 10,000-square foot facility on Rosecrans that the organization purchased in 2015 to accommodate its rapid growth while also providing a base to foster programs for developmentally disabled youth and young adults. The objective is to help these individuals achieve independent, fulfilled and productive lives.

Mychal’s now well-documented back story continues to inspire. Lynch named the place after his daughter who passed away at the age of seven after suffering with an undiagnosed neurological disorder that left her wheelchair-bound and unable to communicate through language. Her doctors thought the malady would claim her even earlier, but she bravely persevered for a few more years. When unimpressed by the available options for his daughter’s care, Lynch envisioned a center dedicated to helping those with developmental disabilities. After Mychal’s death, he ran a Hawthorne-based special needs program that eventually shut down and prompted him to open his own learning facility in 2002. Since that time, it has grown to more than 130 students and over 145 volunteers.

Lynch hopes Mychal’s Prints will achieve similar successes to the coffee and bakery truck that held its grand opening this past January and has since been on the move throughout the South Bay at various schools, businesses and community events. The truck offers specialty espresso beverages, blended drinks, freshly brewed teas (including a chai latte crafted in house by Mychal’s students) and freshly baked pastries all made in the commercial kitchen in the Hawthorne facility. “Our goal with the Mykie’s truck is to promote inclusion and understanding of people with developmental disabilities, while providing quality products to the community,” Lynch explained. “We hope to soon have the Mykie’s coffee and bakery truck out in the South Bay and west side of Los Angeles every day of the week.”

Lynch added that Mykie’s currently has 25 trainees working as bakers, baristas, cashiers and in food services. While he noted that every individual on the team possesses unique talents and personalized vocational goals, he pointed to one particular woman who stands out from the pack. “Elena started at Mykie’s two years ago, first training as a barista, then branching out into the kitchen, and now the truck,” Lynch said. “She is personable, talented and just happens to be diagnosed with Down syndrome.”

Because she works in all departments of Mykie’s, Elena has a decided advantage in being well-versed in all the products ranging from the particulars of knowing all

Broken Things by Lauren Oliver

Reviewed by Kristina Kora-Beckman, Librarian, El Segundo Public Library

Lauren Oliver's latest, Broken Things, gives readers a dark look at how obsession and fantasy can twist relationships with deadly consequences. The story centers on Mia, Brynn and Summer, who bond over their shared love of the novel The Way into Lovelorn about friends who find their way to a magical world and have adventures. But as their exploration of the imagined world continues, their friendship begins to fray, dividing loyalties and exposing underlying cruelties. Then Summer is found viciously killed in the forest -- and due to conflicting secrets and damning circumstantial evidence, the town assumes Mia and Brynn are responsible.

Fast-forward five years and Mia and Brynn are pulled back into the mystery of Summer's death and their roles in the events leading up to that fateful day. Following previously unrealized clues while dealing with their own demons, Mia and Brynn discover the horrifying truth behind that summer and the imaginary world they thought was an escape. Gripping and at times graphic, Oliver's novel deals with difficult topics such as abuse, violence and ritual killing in an impactful way. She depicts flawed characters whose haunted pasts led to an inability to tell fiction from reality, and with tragic results.

The Amazing Johnathan Documentary Offers Tricks and Treats

By Morgan Rojas for Cinemacy

Can you ever really trust a person whose livelihood is based in fantasy? That is the question director Ben Berman faces after getting to know John Edward Szeles, aka The Amazing Johnathan. An American stand-up comedian and legendary magician, Johnathan's story follows in the footsteps of many troubled performers before him: on top of the world one minute, drugs and depression the next. Fascinated by Johnathan's history and rocked by his public health crisis, Ben sets out to document the final days of Johnathan's life -- but things don't go according to plan. Everything Ben thought he knew about the man he considered a friend begins to unravel and is captured in this thrilling feature, The Amazing Johnathan Documentary, now streaming on Hulu.

Johnathan is best described as a man with nothing to lose, a disruptive force in the entertainment industry akin to the likes of Mickey Rourke or Angelyne. We are first introduced to The Amazing Johnathan at his lavish home in Henderson, NV. Having been recently diagnosed with terminal heart disease and given one year to live, Jonathan ironically wears a "Legends Never Die" t-shirt while discussing his illness. Ben, his crew, Johnathan and his wife Anastasia Synn discuss his drug habit (cocaine, speed, meth) as they get ready to hit the road for one last comedy and magic tour. However, things take a turn when Ben discovers that Johnathan has allowed another documentary crew to film him as well. Two documentary crews making a movie about the same subject is understandably frustrating, but Ben does his best to stay true to their original story. In an attempt to put the unwelcome surprise behind them, Ben carries on with production -- that is, until they find out there is a third crew coming, as well as a fourth.

The Amazing Johnathan Documentary is one of the most fascinating portraits of the human condition and the power of manipulation. Along with the filmmaker, viewers begin losing sight of right vs. wrong and truth vs. illusion. This "straightforward" documentary eventually spirals into gonzo journalism when an unconventional proposition to smoke meth together on camera is made. Crazy? Absolutely...but given everything Ben and his team have been through, at this point in the film he considers it. That's the power, or at least the illusion of power, that The Amazing Johnathan has over Ben. This unsettling circumstance leaves Ben questioning the validity of Johnathan's condition: is he really dying? Or is this just an Andy Kaufman-esque prank? Can you ever trust a magician? •

Student ID Cards Carry Message That Talking About Suicide Helps

By Rob McCarthy

The new student identification cards for 2019-20 could prove to be a lifesaver at local campuses. Every ID card issued to seventh through 12th graders will carry a suicide prevention phone number. The helpline is so teen-friendly that it accepts text messages.

Suicide is now the second-leading cause of death for children ages 13 to 18. It's also become a more frequent tragedy affecting 10- to 12-year-olds, according to the California Department of Education. Suicide is very rare among children age nine years or younger, the department says, though research indicates thoughts about self-harm can begin early.

Starting this fall, all California campuses are now required to print suicide prevention information on student IDs. The National Suicide Prevention Hotline 1-800-273-8255 and the Crisis Text Line 741741 appear on the IDs issued by public, private and charter schools. The law, which lawmakers approved in 2018, also applies to college campuses.

Lawmakers gave schools until 2019 to issue the new student IDs. However, campuses have been active since 2017 in detecting at-risk students and intervening early. The state's education department credits parents, educators, mental health professionals and legislators with recent efforts to address "the critical need to prevent youth suicides in California." School districts that serve pupils in grades seven through 12 LEA must have in place a policy on pupil suicide prevention, intervention and postvention.

Those district policies shall specifically address the needs of high-risk groups and include consideration of suicide awareness and prevention training for teachers, according to the state education department. The 2017 law despair and disappointment are common reasons that drive young people who are impulsive and immature to consider suicide, according to the experts. People who see the signs can help by starting a conversation.

"Talking openly about suicidal thoughts and feelings can save a life. Talking about suicide won't give the person ideas about death. The opposite is true — bringing up the subject of suicide and discussing it openly is one of the most helpful things you can do," the California PTA says on its website.

Ask a child, relative, neighbor or friend is they're thinking seriously about suicide, and be a good listener. If they confide about feeling hopeless or considering suicide, take them seriously, the PTA says in its guide to suicide prevention and intervention.

Call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline anytime at 800-273-8255. In the event the person appears to be an immediate danger to themselves, call 911 or take the person to a nearby emergency room or crisis clinic for evaluation.

California Senate Bill 972 created the new requirement that students in middle and high schools carry with them the phone number of the 24-hour lifeline. Sacramento lawmakers and public health agencies have been addressing mental health issues and creating outreach programs since lawmakers approved a Suicide Prevention Act in 2000.

A website called stopbullying.gov offers parents and educators valuable resources about classmate bullying, which has been blamed for student suicides and sparked backlash against schools for not doing enough to stop the behavior. As many as one-fourth of U.S. students report being bullied at schooled, and 70 percent say they've seen it on campus.

Most bullying happens in middle school, according to researchers. The most common types are verbal and social bullying. Cyberbullying happens much less frequently, though it has gotten a greater amount of attention because it can lead to suicide by its young victims.

Data from schools suggests that bullying may be declining. It still remains a prevalent and serious problem in today's schools. However, the amount of media coverage given to the topic has created more awareness, according to information at stopbullying.gov. Young people who are perceived as different from their peers are often at risk for being bullied.

A valuable tip for children who feel intimidated by another student or are bullied, either physically or psychologically, is to speak up. That someone can be a trusted adult. And be sure to get help if the bullying is leading to thoughts of hurting yourself or someone else.

Call 911 if the bullying include physical violence or threats of violence. Contact the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline for someone to talk to about self-harm. If a child is being bullied at school, a parent should report it to a teacher, counselor or principal. •

POWER LINES – WILD FIRES

As we all saw last fall, wild fires are deadly. They can spring up in no time giving residents who live in high danger zones very little time to evacuate. The Camp Fire up in this area destroyed the entire town of Paradise, CA. There have been wild fires in almost all parts of California in the past five years. Investigators are always looking for the cause of each blaze. The mammoth utility company, Pacific Gas and Electric, PGE, filed bankruptcy this past winter after being sued by numerous groups and individuals for their role in several of the fires. Downed power lines or sparks generated from transformers are two of the main causes of ignition. The State of California is now mandating that PGE visually inspect their lines after a power outage. Millions of dollars are being spent on prevention. One of my brother-in-laws, Neils, recently retired from teaching and hooked on with a helicopter company who provides pilots and aircraft to the power company to go inspect the lines. Neils had many years of helicopter pilot experience from his Navy days. Starting recently, a PGE linemen rides along in the copter looking for any irregularity in the lines. They have to fly at low altitude, so they have many homeowners coming out of their homes wondering what is going on. I guess they even make more noise than the Hawthorne Police helicopter which we used to hear quite frequently at night searching for a suspect. We can only hope that the wild fire season of 2019 will be mild compared to the

did not apply to private schools or schools with students below grade seven, yet state officials strongly encourage all campuses statewide to adopt a suicide prevention policy "as a safety net for all of their students."

The California State Parents-Teachers Association advises parents, teachers and neighbors to trust their instincts when something seems wrong with a young person. Knowing what to look for is a first step toward preventing someone from injuring themselves or taking their lives, says the PTA. Almost always, there are warning signs.

Danger signs that can predict a suicide attempt include threats or comments about killing themselves. Aggressive behavior or social withdrawal from family and friends can indicate someone is reaching a danger point to themselves. Talking, writing or thinking about death is another warning sign that shouldn't be ignored, mental health experts say.

The National Alliance on Mental Health says another tipoff is when someone is giving away their possessions and putting their affairs in order. Saying goodbye to family and friends can indicate a person is thinking about suicide and needs professional help.

The new student IDs are designed to get teens talking about their inner thoughts, which might include taking their lives. Sadness,

NO QUITE READY

The suspense is killing me. I really want to share with you my big announcement. But it's not time. "They" always say, anything good or worthwhile takes time. Who's "they"? Come to think of it, my ol' lady has been waiting close to 40 years for something good to come from me. If she can wait that long, I'm sure my 14 + or – loyal readers can wait a few weeks. Some of us have been waiting a long time for God to answer our prayers. Sometimes it seems as though God don't hear us when we cry out for help. He DOES hear us. We just don't like his answer. He might say yes or no or maybe later. He knows what is best for us at all times. Read the 23rd Psalm and ask who is doing all the work. The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want. HE makes me lie down in green pastures, HE leads me beside still waters, HE restores my soul.

HE leads me in paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me. YOU prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies; YOU anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever. Wow! God does it all. I do nothing. When the Lord is our Shepherd, what is there to worry about? HE has it all under control. HE has our backs. HE makes us lie down and enjoy life. Our cups overflow! We better drink up! Wait upon the Lord, for in due season you will see that God has answered your prayer and his answer is always best. Be patient with me, have a cold one while you wait, good things take time.

the ingredients in a cookie to understanding the nuances of steaming milk.. At 32 years old, she is one of Mychal’s oldest students (the age range typically runs from 12 to 30) and lives independently in a group home in Lawndale. “Elena can use rideshare apps to get to and from work and navigates her community on her own,” Lynch said.

Most often, Elena can be found during mornings on the food truck handling cashier duties and assisting customers with pastries and drink orders. “She came to us with no work experience,” Lynch recalled. “In the beginning Elena was nervous, frequently saying she was scared to fail... but as she practiced her newly learned skills, her confidence grew.

The progress Elena has made is tremendous. Her dedication to the job and passion for life cannot go unnoticed. The pride she shows when making a cappuccino or baking a batch of sugar cookies independently is truly remarkable. She is no longer scared to fail and instead is always excited to learn.” For Lynch, Elena is a shining example of how Mychal’s Learning Place can bolster the lives of those with developmental disorders and give them the necessary tools to actively contribute to the local workforce.

In a similar vein, Mychal’s offers a paid internship program with partners such as Rock & Brews in El Segundo, South Bay Ford and Kinecta Federal Credit Union. “Through these amazing companies, we’ve been able to provide support to five students in our Path to Independence Adult Day Program that has only been running for six months,” Lynch said. “One major success is David at Rock & Brews, who has successfully transitioned to full employment, working at the restaurant five days a week. He loves what he does -- and even better, he also loves being independent.”

Meanwhile, Lynch was pleased to report that Mychal’s Prints has also hit the ground running, with multiple contracts already in place and more in the works. With a new website, full-scale marketing program and plans to move the operations into Inglewood to handle expanded production capacity, Mychal’s Prints hopes to secure outside funding for additional equipment and supplies. “While there are a number of print operations offering similar services in the market area, Mychal’s Prints is unique in its training mission thanks to our work and interaction with the community,” Lynch explained. “The success of our earlier training programs has attracted a large number of prospective trainees, with over 100 young people on a waiting list for our programs. The word is out that Mychal’s is the go-to place for these capable young people looking for the opportunity to show how they can make a positive difference in the community despite the challenges they face...” •

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of FRANCISCA BACALLA PRICE AKA FRANCISCA B. PRICE.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by STEVE SEBIAL in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that STEVE SEBIAL be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 09/05/19 at 8:30AM in Dept. 4 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Transformative Home Design Trends

(BPT) - The housing world is buzzing about the next transformative trend in home design and remodeling. It seems certain the growing trend of mixing and layering materials, something many designers and architects noticed was growing in popularity over the past few years, will dominate the remodeling and design scene.

When it comes to mixing materials, there's no rule book; all you should do is find a combination to match your personality. This might be one of the biggest reasons why people have taken to mixing materials, as it truly allows you to create a home that is uniquely yours.

The most immediate effect of mixing materials is that it opens new possibilities and new ways of expression. An example of this can be likened to how hard stone surfaces in a room can be complemented by soft carpet and furniture, or how the highly textured wood on a ceiling can stand in stark contrast to polished stone. Some of the hottest looks today, such as the blending of unfinished industrial materials with modern floors and cabinets, would have been considered outlandish only a few years ago. Mixing materials gives you greater freedom to create a space that represents your style.

Of all the rooms in a home, kitchens and bathrooms still get the most attention.

Unfortunately, getting that dream kitchen or perfect bathroom isn't always inexpensive.

For those who have uncompromising taste, but are on a budget, mixing materials is the ideal solution. For instance, say you had your heart set on a marble island and surrounding countertops, but just can't afford marble. Instead, you can choose from a variety of Wilsonart(R) Quartz for the island. Engineered to showcase the erratic veins and patterns prized in marble, quartz also has the advantage of being non-porous, so it won't stain and requires virtually no maintenance. A timeless look that continues to win the popularity contest are nature's neutrals in white, grey and black, offering flexibility to play with bold or demure colorful accents.

You can complement the quartz island by mixing in an even more affordable material like Wilsonart(R) Laminate for the perimeter countertops and vertical applications such as backsplashes and walls. With numerous styles to choose from, you'll be able to create a stunning contrast and dimensionality that will make your room pop. With today's innovation in laminate manufacturing and fabrication, adding affordable luxury to your kitchen or bath has never been easier.

Parents, in particular, face a constant dilemma: They want a home with rooms that can stand up to all the abuse toddlers and teenagers can throw at it, but still have it look good. The answer lies in Wilsonart(R) Solid Surface. This material is tough, non-porous, seamless and repairable without sacrificing beauty. With a wide variety of styles replicating stone, you can easily mix it with other material looks to make an intriguing statement.
