Police Chief Fager Gets New Contract, Councilman Michelin Butts Heads with Colleagues

By Derrick Deane

Hawthorne Police Chief Robert Fager was unanimously approved by the Hawthorne City Council for a new two-year term as police chief for the city in a lively first council meeting for September.

"No opposition, no discussion with regards to Chief Fager's contract," Mayor Alex Vargas stated after the unanimous vote to renew the contract was approved.

Each councilmember later thanked Fager for his service to the city and congratulated him on the contract during their closing remarks. Fager's new contract runs until the end of August 2018.

Not only did the chief get a new contract, but two new utility vehicles will be purchased for the police department at a total price tag of $103,000. The vehicles will be replacing older ones that have run up high mileage and repair costs.

"We try to replace them when they go over 100,000 miles, but in addition to that is the repair costs," City Manager Arnie Shadbehr said. "A lot of them also have idle running that doesn't register in the mileage so because of that we have a lot of repair costs when that happens."

The city puts up old vehicles to auction and gets back "a few thousand" dollars back in return.

The meeting didn't always take a high note. Throughout the three hour meeting, there were contentious discussions about parking in the city and a revisit on the topic of billboards near the 105 and 405 freeways from last meeting.

Councilman Nilo Michelin was at the center of much of the debate, first asking for a concrete number of billboards that would be allowed to go up near the freeways and later clashing with Councilmember Olivia Valentine in regards to decreasing parking in the Holly Park area.

"If we're concerned with the proliferation of signs, I understand what you're saying, but each sign is going to come before the City Council and we're going to give permission for every sign," Vargas said regarding the billboard signs. "Do we trust ourselves or not to be able to take care of the city and to prevent the overpopulation of the signs?"

Future council members having input on the number of signs seemed to be at the heart of Michelin's argument with the councilman saying, "I trust the council but two years ago there was a different council and two years before that there was a different one, so there is no way to predict the future. I would feel more comfortable if there was some kind of numerical limit on this."

Vargas reiterated his point from the previous meeting that the City Council should have enough common sense to know when there are too many signs going up.

"I don't think we should let this detract from a very good thing that is going to clean up Hawthorne Boulevard and clean up Inglewood Avenue from these old rickety signs that a lot of people have a problem with already," Vargas said. "We have the control, we have the ultimate say, let's trust in our common sense."

"Historically the council has changed and there's no way to predict what the council is going to be like and I'd rather have some numerical limit right now," Michelin said after Vargas told him that whether he decides to be on the Council or a part of the public opposition on the other side of the dias, he's welcome to voice his opinion on the billboards.

Shadbehr took a moment to clarify the matter saying that when his office was initially working on the ordinance, it was intended to not only clean up Inglewood Avenue, but also promote economic development in the city.

In terms of number of signs though, Shadbehr said that, "it's limited. We're talking about a handful. It's not like it's available with no limits. We're lucky if we get a handful."

There are also physical limitations with regards to the signs in that much of the property fronting the 105 Freeway is either state property controlled by CalTrans or are near a storm drain.

"That means you can't even plant a tree let alone foundation and a sign structure," Shadbehr said.

Shadbehr says that of the city's 3 mile stretch of the 105 Freeway, 40 percent is not available for sign installation.

"All in all, when you put them together, I can't imagine more than a handful of signs and that's if each one is approved by the council," Shadbehr said. "We may come up with a number tonight, but that number might exceed what is available. This is not a blanket permit and after a few approvals there won't be any more coming in."

With Councilman Haidar Awad excusing himself from the discussion once again due to a conflict of interest, Vargas along with Valentine and Mayor Pro Tem Angie Reyes English voted in favor of the signs with Michelin abstaining.

Michelin later clashed with Valentine in regards to parking around the Holly Park area. Valentine called for the city staff to meet with the Holly Park Homeowner's Association to come up with a long term solution for people parking in the area and then walking to the park. Michelin wanted the discussion opened up to the public.

"The home owners association can spearhead it, but we've got to know that this is for everybody," Michelin said.

Valentine replied numerous times that, "I am not excluding anyone. I am simply saying that the Holly Park Home Owners Association will lead the discussion and they can include whoever they want in the meeting," to which Michelin repeatedly answered back that the meeting should be open to the public.

Valentine said, "I think it should be up to the Holly Park Home Owners Association to decide who should be in the meeting with them," while Vargas muttered his frustration to himself as Michelin stubbornly replied back that it should be open to everyone.

The motion was approved with Michelin the only councilmember abstaining. •

Hawthorne Happenings

From City Clerk Norb Huber CHANGE

Ramona School Cafeteria. This is a FREE literacy program offered to every family in Hawthorne. You will learn about a free reading and literacy app that is being offered that is fun, engaging, and presented in both English and Spanish. It contains thousands of books, songs, games and activities. You can be old like me or young like my grandkids to take advantage of this app. It's never too late or early to learn to speak Spanish or English.

DRINKING AND DRIVING

With the recent fatality in our city due to a driver who was allegedly driving under the influence, we are once again reminded of the seriousness of alcohol consumption and getting behind the wheel of a motor vehicle. Besides taking a taxi, there are services that are easy to access like Uber or Lyft that will safely get you home. Many people just can't admit that they have had one too many. Our denial is similar to texting and cell phone use behind the wheel. We know it's not safe, but a high percentage of drivers think that it's worth the risk to communicate in their cars while navigating our busy streets. It's not safe. Distracted driving and impaired driving are just as dangerous. When I encourage my readers to have a cold one, I suggest this celebrative consumption be done after a long day of work in the comfort of their homes. Please consume your cold ones responsible.

ST. JOSEPH'S FAMILY FIESTA

Family fun, food and carnival rides are all set for the annual St. Joseph's Family Fiesta to be held the weekend of September 23-25. The activities open on Friday evening and conclude on Sunday afternoon. The parish is located at 119th Street and Acacia Street, just one block east of Hawthorne Blvd. •

CHANGE happens. If we are alive, then change happens throughout our lives. We can look at change in many different ways. We can get upset and throw in the towel. We can resist it. We can embrace it. We can look at it as an opportunity for bigger and better things to come in our future. Nothing can ever really remain the same. With the new development happening in our downtown section, change is happening in Hawthorne. With these positive changes happening, we would like to invite the public to celebrate the temporary closing of the Hawthorne Museum. We will be saying goodbye to the museum that was housed at the former Hawthorne city hall and police station. We are planning a closing event on Saturday, October 8 starting at 9 a.m. That day will also be moving day and we are looking for volunteers to help us move the museum to storage. We have not found a place to move to as of yet. We are thankful to the City for the five years that we had at the site across from the county library. This will be the last time that visitors will have an opportunity to see the historical displays that have been set up at that site. Come help us celebrate Change!

JOB FAIR

A Job Fair sponsored in part by the South Bay Work Investment Board will be held at the Memorial Center on Thursday, September 29 starting at 10 a.m. for all Hawthorne area residents looking for employment. In past years, many younger folks have been offered jobs right on the spot when attending this annual event.

Author Spotlight: Lisa Genova

El Segundo Library Staff Book Reviews and Recommendations

A researcher with a Ph.D. in Neuroscience from Harvard University, Lisa Genova's novels explore how patients and their families cope with and adapt to living with cognitive diseases or injuries. Her novels skillfully weave scientific information about the conditions characters have and how that personally affects them with the larger context of how those changes affects their family bonds, relationships with others and wider perspective of the world.

Genova's best known book, Still Alice, chronicles the initial onset, diagnosis and aftermath of a Linguistics professor with early onset Alzheimer's disease. Adapted into a movie starring Julianne Moore, the novel is mostly told from the perspective of Alice, and gives readers a unique perspective of how disorienting it is to slowly lose one's memories.

Similar to Still Alice, Genova's latest novel, Inside the O'Briens, also gives readers a glimpse of what it's like to live with another incurable, early onset disease, Parkinson's. Unlike Alzheimer's, Parkinson's patients slowly lose physical control of their movements, speech, etc. while their memories

I highly recommend any of Lisa's novels, all of which are available in various formats such as hardback, Large Type, eBooks and Books on CD from the El Segundo Public Library. Told from alternating perspectives of a close knit Irish family, the novel also honestly and heartwarmingly details how Joe's diagnosis and successive decline affect the relationships, expectations and perspectives of the various family members.

Film Review

Canadian-set 'Yoga Hosers' is 'Eh'-mazingly Absurd

By Morgan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

One of the more wildly talked about movies from this year's Sundance Film Festival that finally hit theaters earlier this month is the flamboyant comedy-meets-fantasy film, "Yoga Hosers," directed by Kevin Smith. Set in a small Canadian town where the accents are as thick as maple syrup, two 15-year-old best friends, both with extremely unhealthy cell phone addictions, discover that horrifying demons are taking over their workplace and threatening to ruin their late night plans. But what are these terrifying little creatures? Turns out that they're Nazi sympathizing sausages from Canada's past, appropriately called "Bratzis."

rewarded. Think "Bad Milo" meets "Sausage Party" in terms of the thematic guideline. However, one of my biggest critiques is how anti-climactic the ending is in comparison to the outlandish storyline. There is no stopping this crazy train and the ending could have followed through with the same emphasis.

Aside from the eccentric storyline, what really makes "Yoga Hosers" great is the familial full-circle connections off-screen. Firstly, and most obviously, director Kevin Smith cast his actors close to the vest with his daughter Harley Quinn as the lead character, Colleen M. Another fun connection is between Lily-Rose Depp, who not only acts alongside one, but both of her parents in the film. Her mother Vanessa Paradis plays Ms. Maurice, Harley Quinn Smith and Lily-Rose Depp in 'Yoga Hosers.' Courtesy of Invincible Pictures.

Colleen Collette (Lily-Rose Depp) and Colleen McKenzie (Harley Quinn Smith) are yoga enthusiasts by day and convenience store clerks by night. They work after school dead-end jobs at Eh-2-Zed, the local corner store that sells everything from toilet paper to "Pucky Charms" cereal. Their overall bratty attitude changes to excitement after senior heartthrob Hunter Calloway (Austin Butler) invites the girls to a totally awesome "Grade 12" party. However, things don't go according to plan when they get stuck working a late shift, and discover not only is Hunter not the sweet guy they thought he was, but that they have bigger fish to fry, or in this case, sausages. Enlisting help from legendary man-hunter Guy Lapointe (Johnny Depp), the girls are forced to defeat the meat that is threatening to kill them.

As one can safely assume by this point, "Yoga Hosers" is a wacky and wholly original moviegoing experience. The cheesiness factor is through the roof, but that is one of its biggest charms. Seeing a movie that is technically sophisticated with a top-notch cast (scene stealer Ralph Garman's insanely spot-on impressions of Sylvester Stallone and Adam West draw the biggest laughs), yet not take itself too seriously on screen, is a rare occurrence these days and should be the school's history teacher who tells the girls of the Nazi origins in Canada. Her father, Johnny Depp, brings his signature Mad Hatter/Inspector Clouseau-kookiness to his character Guy Lapointe, the legendary man-hunter from Montreal whose accent is as wacky as his bushy brows. Finally, a subtle but interesting connection comes from the air-headed yoga instructor Yogi Bayer, played by Justin Long. Not to venture into gossip magazine mode, but until recently, his longtime girlfriend was Amanda Seyfried, who also appears on the cover of the town's hottest magazine.

The biggest misfortune as an audience member would be to walk into "Yoga Hosers" unprepared; not in terms of knowing the plot twists and turns, but in being unable to appreciate this unusual cinematic presentation. It is a film that will provoke you to immediately either love it or hate it. Yet, despite its critics, there is no denying that "Yoga Hosers" is certainly one of the wildest films of the year. Here's a hint— you definitely want to stay through the end credits just to see Johnny Depp shred on the guitar during the closing song.

"Yoga Hosers" is rated PG-13 for crude humor, sexual references, comic violence, and brief drug material. 88 minutes. Coming soon to Video on Demand. •

Cougars Struggle On Offense In Loss To South

By Eric Ramos,
photos by Dirk Dewachter

Hawthorne struggled offensively and miscues on special teams led to a 14-6 nonconference road loss to South Torrance last Friday. Both teams played a sloppy first quarter. The Cougars took a 6-0 lead in the second quarter after a 12-play, 78 yard drive, capped by a 4-yard touchdown pass from Andrew Kalinowski to wide receiver Carlos Jacobo.

The Spartans got a spark on special teams when Patrick Patterson returned the kickoff 64 yards to the Cougars 27 yard line. With 32 seconds left in the half, South quarterback Anthony Bjazevich scored on a 4-yard keeper. South took a 7-6 lead at halftime.

Both teams went scoreless in the third quarter. Hawthorne's offense couldn't get on track and failed to gain momentum in the game. The Spartans' defense was stout and shut down the Kalinowski to Jacobo connection all game. The running game was held in check.

To win a close, sloppy game, turnovers and special teams are key. The South coaching staff preached playing all three phases of the game. South defensive tackle Jake Fejer broke loose and blocked a Cougars punt, which South recovered deep in Hawthorne territory.

Two plays later, Bjazevich scored on a 5-yard run, giving South a 14-6 lead in the fourth quarter. Hawthorne had a potential game-tying touchdown called back on a chop block penalty with 3:23 remaining in the game. The Cougars went for it on fourth and goal from the Spartans 17-yard line but the pass was broken up by a South defender.

South defensive lineman Nathaniel Kaopua (No. 58) tackles Hawthorne's Eric Foster (No. 25) in the backfield as Anthony Rugnetta (No. 4) closes in to tackle Foster for a loss.

South ran the clock out and first-year coach Matt Mishler notched his first win for the Spartans. Hawthorne (1-2) will look to bounce back when the travel to Banning Friday for a nonconference matchup. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Hawthorne has two more non-league games before conference play begins. Including the big rivalry game versus Leuzinger on Sept. 23. The Cougars hold a 36-35 record over the Olympians since 2004.

Banning has a three-game winning streak and is coming off a 50-18 win over Millikan last Friday. The Pilots have scored 108 points in three games. The Hawthorne defense will have its hands full.

Lawndale vs. Crespi

Lawndale opened the season with a win over South Torrance. The Cardinals defense struggled in a 49-23 nonconference loss to Crespi last Friday. Lawndale led 16-14 at halftime, however, the defense gave up 35 points in the second half. Lawndale's sophomore running back Jordan Wilmore had two touchdown runs while quarterback Jalen Hamler scored on a 5-yard touchdown run.

The Cardinals are back in action when they travel to Leuzinger for a nonconference matchup Friday. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. Leuzinger is coming off a 40-26 loss to Sherman Oaks Notre Dame.

Inglewood vs. Blair

The Sentinals running game was firing on all cylinders as it rolled up 279 yard rushing on its way to a 64-0 nonconference win over Blair last Friday. Inglewood jumped out to a 32-0 lead in the first quarter and never looked back. Junior running back Teshawn White rushed for 116 yards on nine carries while adding three touchdowns. Fellow junior running back Daniel Barnett added 73 yards on seven carries and a touchdown. Getting into the mix was another junior running back, Tyaire Dunlap, who finished with 70 yards on only three carries while adding two touchdowns.

Sophomore defensive end Michael Yates led the Sentinals' defense with eight tackles while adding a sack. Junior linebacker Shawntre Ratliff Jr. added five tackles. Inglewood (2-0) will host Los Angeles High School Friday at 7 p.m. The Romans come into the game after a 56-27 win over Dominguez. •

A couple of Hawthorne players tackle South's Evan Tookey (No. 7).

Hawthorne quarterback Andrew Kalinowski (No. 9) puts together a strong drive in the fourth quarter but fell short of scoring because of a personal foul.

Hawthorne wide receiver Carlos Jacobo (No. 6) catches a long pass from quarterback Andrew Kalinowski late in the fourth quarter.

South offensive lineman Christian Palomarez (No. 50) protects his quarterback as Hawthorne's Eric Foster (No.25) rushes in during the fourth quarter.

Eric Foster (No. 25) found the sideline for a large gain as South's Brandon Teraishi (No. 8) misses the tackle.

New Grandbaby? Learn How To Help Baby And Mom Thrive

(BPT) - Grandparents play a unique, important role in caring for family members of all ages. Here are some ways that you can help keep babies and moms safe and healthy.

Helping Babies Sleep Safely

Grandparents can help reduce the risk of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) and other sleep-related causes of infant death. To help your grandbaby sleep safely, make sure you:

- Always place your grandbaby on his or her back to sleep, for naps and at night.
- Use a firm sleep surface, such as a mattress in a safety-approved crib, covered by a fitted sheet.
- Keep loose bedding, blankets, quilts, crib bumpers, soft objects and toys out of your grandbaby's sleep area.

- Do not smoke or allow anyone to smoke around your grandbaby.

"Researchers have learned a lot in the past 20 years about how to keep infants safe while they sleep," said Dr. Catherine Y. Spong, Acting Director of the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD), which leads the Safe to Sleep(R) campaign to educate caregivers about ways to reduce the risk of SIDS and other sleep-related causes of infant death.

"Grandparents often help parents take care of infants, including during sleep times, but they may not know that the recommendations for safe infant sleep have changed since they had young children," said Dr. Spong. "It is important for grandparents and all caregivers to know how to create a safe sleep environment for baby."

For more information about safe infant sleep, visit <http://safetosleep.nichd.nih.gov>.

Supporting Moms And Moms-To-Be

In all the excitement over a new baby, sometimes a mother's health, including her mental health, can be overlooked. Research shows that as many as 1 in 10 women experience postpartum depression. However, mood changes and other symptoms of depression can take place anytime during pregnancy, not just after the baby is born. Because of their unique role in the family, grandparents may be among the first to notice that something is wrong.

Moms' Mental Health Matters, another NICHD initiative, describes the signs of depression and anxiety related to pregnancy and birth and offers ways to cope and seek help.

"New mothers may be hesitant to admit they're feeling depressed or anxious, but supportive family members can make all the difference in helping to identify symptoms and encouraging moms to reach out for help when they need it," said Dr. Spong.

For example, during pregnancy and after birth, a mother may:

- Seem to get extremely anxious, sad or angry without warning.
- Seem foggy and have trouble completing tasks.
- Show little interest in things she used to enjoy.
- Seem "robotic," like she is just going through the motions.
- Have trouble sleeping.
- Check things and performs tasks repeatedly.
- Have difficulty caring for herself or the baby.

If you notice any of these signs in a new mom, encourage her to talk with a health care provider - or offer to make an appointment for her. If you need to find a health care provider in her area, call the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration Treatment Locator at 1-800-662-HELP (4357). For support and resources in her area, contact Postpartum Support International at 1-800-944-4PPD (4773).

Purrrfect Companions

Amberle

Happy is the home with at least one cat. Add a little happiness when you adopt your purr-fect match.

Amberle was rescued with her brother, who was adopted, from East Valley shelter at only four weeks old. This little girl is a stunner from her bright blue eyes, to her cream coat with striking Siamese color points. She's almost fluffy feeling while still being short haired and is super soft. Amberle is looking for a loving home with another kitty who will romp and wrestle with her. She's a bit elegant, yet still loves to race around and play. She's more assuming than demanding of attention, waiting patiently for her turn for snuggle and love. Amberle is a very quiet little girl, not a chatty bone in her body. When she gets excited, she's more apt to spin in circles than cry at you. Amberle is a doll who can't wait to find her loving forever family.

Hope is quite honestly the best cat in the entire world. Her personality is above and beyond awesome, there aren't words to describe her adequately. Hope loves people - she greets strangers at the door, chirping and reaching her paws up for love and attention. She loves to play with toys, cuddle on the bed, sleep in your arms, burrow under the covers, follow you around, and generally desire all the attention you can lavish on her. She will chat with you, crying back if you meow at her, and had the funniest cry ever. Ask her if she's hungry at dinner time and she'll let you know her thoughts. Hope is permanently kitten sized, maxed out around 5 lbs 2.5oz and likely will never grow any larger. She is a pint-sized bundle of love with more heart than her tiny body can contain. She's good with other cats and loves to snuggle with them. Hope definitely wants other cats in her life to play and spoon with. Hope is considered a special needs cat though she currently is on no medication, no special diet or care, and may remain so for the rest of her life. She has had extensive tests done that all came back as either normal or inconclusive. We do know that she has a chronic high white blood cell count with no evidence of why, and a low red blood cell count that does regenerate. A specialist basically shrugged his shoulders and said he couldn't find anything specifically wrong despite the blood count being not normal. It's entirely possible she will never require any further medical care, though regular blood work is advisable.

Emerald and her sister were found by a Good Samaritan in a trash can at only 1-2 days old. The girls were bottle fed and thrived, making Emerald super people friendly and incredibly loving. Her spectacular tortoiseshell markings are incredibly cute and compliment her greenish eyes. Emerald loves to sleep on your lap and snuggle in your arms. She will groom your arms, hands, hair and legs when given the chance. She loves people food and will sneak a bite to ensure it has been properly prepared. Watch out with wrappers, Emerald has aspirations of being a garage man and will scoop them up. She also loves pens and articles of clothing, exercising her love of home decorating and adding accent pieces to various rooms. Emerald is a character and loves to play with toys. Super curious and always exploring the house, she is both active and more mellow now. It takes her time to adjust to new cats but she gets along with everyone in her foster home. Emerald would be an amazing new family member and will love you forever.

Are you a superhero in search of side-kick? Edith wants you to know that she is very qualified to fill that position for you. She's smart, funny, really fast and nimble, a super-good cuddler, and pretty sure she can see right into people's souls. At least, Edith likes to look deep into people's eyes and really try to understand who they are. Edith has the personality and look of a Russian Blue, with faint stripes like a tiger. She likes to hide under the blanket and then jump out suddenly. And, she gets so excited to see people that she runs right up to them and instantly start purring. Unless Edith has something really important to do, like play in the tunnel, or chase her siblings around the room, she'll purr while you pet her, and then rush off to her last activity. Because Edith is still young and learning, she likes to divide her duties between being your sidekick, and playing with one of her siblings: Elsie, Beryl, or Robin. At her young age, she will need to be adopted with one of sisters or brother or into a home with another kitty, so she will have someone to chase, wrestle, bite, and cuddle with when you're tending to your other duties.

Emerald

Robin

Beryl likes everything and everyone and is always happy to see you. Her amusing distinction is that she gets distracted by her tail. However if someone comes to play with her, Beryl is always excited to wrestle and chase with them too. She's very patient with kittens who are still learning to play nicely and she's relaxed around new friends. Beryl likes to sleep very soundly all stretched out on her back - even at the vet and in the cat carrier. She's floppy and chill when you hold her and instantly purrs. She is not very athletic and uses the kitty stairs to get up on the bed. Jumping down seems very scary. But she is great at getting up the kitty tower and likes to sleep right on the top. Beryl needs to be adopted with another kitten her age and would want one of her sisters Edith or Elsie or her brother Robin.

Robin is excited about everything and loves to celebrate life all the time. His eyes are a smoky color, giving him an air of mystery. It's impossible to be sad around him, he is just so, so happy. Robin likes to play and thank goodness he has his sisters. They have taught him good manners and he has learned to play gently, with no claws and only soft, play-bites. Robin will show you how happy he is to see you by batting your feet and jumping straight up in the air! After he's tired out, Robin likes to crash long and hard at the top of the kitten tower. If you pick him up, even in the middle of playing, he relaxes instantly and flops into your arms. He will usually start purring for you too. Robin extremely clever, curious, and energetic. Robin needs to be adopted with one of my sisters (Beryl, Elsie, or Edith) or another kitty my own age. He has too much kitten energy to be alone. Robin is pretty easy going and get along with new cats quickly as long as they are okay with a lot of wrestling.
