Hawthorne Remembers Sept. 11th

Facing Deficit, City Cuts Back Expenses

By Derrick Deane

After months of debate and revisions, the Hawthorne City Council unanimously passed their budget for 2015-2016. While the passing of the budget clears one hurdle for the council, it raises another issue in that the city’s budget deficit rises while money for city employees and programs are drastically reduced. For the year 2015-2016, the city projects $58.4 million in revenue while proposed expenditures are expected to total $64.7 million. The city deficit will increase to $6.2 million.

To help curb the effects of the budget shortfall, the city is implementing departmental reduction which includes reversing promotions of employees as well as “elimination of positions.” Additionally, the city will be freezing holiday pay, sick pay, and vacation pay for city employees in a move to save $3.6 million.

“We are in the unhappy position of facing a financial crisis that requires we take drastic action to balance the budget,” Mayor Pro Tem Olivia Valentine said. “We regret that the salary expense reduction will result in the elimination of positions and the reversal of promotions and we regret the necessity to take this action.”

Valentine went on to ask Director of Finance Rickey Manbahal if it was absolutely necessary to enact such measures to preserve a balanced budget.

“Yes it is,” Manbahal replied, adding, “If it wasn’t necessary, we wouldn’t be here recommending it. The City Manager and I went through some serious discussions and we’ve turned every rock, we’ve looked in every corner to not go down this road but we just could not. It was not an easy budget to put together and by no means are we excited about it.”

Hawthorne police will suffer the biggest cutback of any department, losing nearly $1 million in funding ($771,211 to be exact) due to payment freezes. The police department will also concede an additional $200,000 that would have been spent on operational expenses.

When all employee and department concessions are factored into the budget, the city comes out with a $3,695 surplus.

“I guess the situation is really dire, it’s really bad,” councilman and mayoral candidate Alex Vargas said in response to the budget presentation. “It’s an awful situation to be in. Nobody’s going to be happy. It’s just really unfortunate and I really want to thank all the employee groups from the bottom of my heart that you’re going to work with us and try to turn things around immediately.”

Councilmember Angie Reyes English took it a step further in asking about forecasting the outlook of the city budget beyond 2015-2016.

“This is going to be another task that will be relegated to an independent auditor,” interim city manager Arnie Shadbehr said. “They are going to work on that after the approval of this budget and project a four-year look ahead of our situation and forecast the deficits.”

Shadbehr adds that when the forecasted audit results are presented, they will be used as a guideline in drafting upcoming budgets.

“There are going to be deficits,” Shadbehr said. “It is not going away. This is not a cure-all what we are doing with this current budget. Tonight we’re trying to safe guard our limited reserve.”

According to Shadbehr, the city’s operating cash fund is “extremely low.”

“The idea is that you want to be have roughly three months amount of your monthly expenses in reserve,” Shadbehr said. “Our monthly expenses are currently at $5.3 million. We are not there. We are not even at the minimum required which is two months worth of reserves.”

Additionally, the city has a pension obligation fund that requires a $30 million bond payment that was discovered by Shadbehr and Manbahal only two months ago.

“We are working with our bond consultants to refinance that because the payments are going to escalate tremendously,” Shadbehr said. “It is our focus after this budget to work on restructuring and refinancing that bond payment.”

Mayor Chris Brown was particularly interested in the bond payments and how it would affect the 2015-2016 budget. Shadbehr said the bond was originally passed around 2004 and was due to changing the retirement formula and making it retroactive.

“The way that it was structured, and we were not aware of it, is that it is costing us this fiscal year $2.7 million,” Shadbehr said. “It escalates by several hundred thousand every year to a point where four years from now, it will cost $5 million by itself.”

The cost for the bond next year will be $3.5 million, but Manbahal adds that, “the numbers we’re talking about are purely principle. There is also about $200,000 to $300,000 in interest payments.”

“Between our HUD repayment of last year of $761,000 and a bond obligation of another $500,000, we’re talking about $1.2 million dollars right out of our general fund from a previous administration?” Brown asked.

Shadbehr said that was correct but added, “if you want to add what we are really hurting from, you may want to add the dissolution of redevelopment agencies, because that could bring more than $3 million to our general fund every year, but we are sending millions of dollars to Sacramento every year. Unfortunately.”

When the subtle jabs and election grandstanding was concluded, the council voted to approve the budget.

“This is not a prefect budget, there is a lot are wrong with it, but at the same time, I have full faith in our City Manager to get us through this mess,” councilman Nilo Michelin said. •

Artfully Crafted Horror Film Goodnight Mommy Will Give You Major Chills

Morgan Rojas for CINEMACY

Equal parts cerebral and graphic, Goodnight Mommy (Ich Seh, Ich Seh) is an immediate cult favorite from Austrian filmmakers Severin Fiala & Veronika Franz. A contemporary setting with a mid-century modern aesthetic, the overall tone of the film is quiet, daring its audience to listen and watch more closely. With their glowing skin and bright blue eyes, the characters seem angelic and inviting, yet be prepared for this seemingly warm cinematic Together, the boys make a pact that they will get her to crack, and the torturous ways in which they go about getting their information is almost unbearable to watch.

There are some stereotypical thriller tropes that are sprinkled throughout the film; for example, you know it's a scary movie when the family doesn't have neighbors and live in a remote, yet beautiful, wooded oasis. A couple jump scares here and dream sequences there, this art film didn't necessarily need to stoop to experience to thoroughly turn your world upside down and possibly leave you with nightmares. You've been warned.

Twins Elias and Lukas (Elias Schwarz, Lukas Schwarz), nine year-old boys who find each other's presence company enough, are awaiting their mother's return from facial reconstructive surgery in the early scenes of the film. Bandaged and unrecognizable, she (Susanne Wuest) returns home and immediately something seems off to the boys. This is not the mother they knew.

Small incidents since their mother's return only further proves to the boys that the bandaged woman is impostor. She favors one son more than the other, vocalizes her frustrations with the twin's relationship as if wanting to break them up, and more significantly, is missing her signature mole on the right side of her face.

that level to achieve those "scary" moments.

Goodnight Mommy works because it is a very tight, solid film. There are three principal actors, one main location, and minimal dialogue. The horror builds from the twin boys' insecurities, which is perfectly conveyed by novice actors Elias and Lukas, who make their cinematic debut here. Their innocence is perfectly guided too, making it hard for the audience to confidently decide on who to sympathize with. It is a welcoming but unsettling feeling, is this really their mother? And if so, is she an innocent victim? Are the boys just misunderstood or are they terrorists? Being a genre film, we tend to throw guesses at every possible twist very early on, but keeping an open mind and enjoying the ride will give you the best experience. Goodnight Mommy is now playing at the Nuart Theatre. •

HSMA Students To Receive SLAM! Music Education

By Cristian Vasquez

All members of the Hawthorne School Board voted in favor of approving an agreement with community partner SLAM! to provide music enrichment to students at Hawthorne Math and Science Academy.

UCLA SLAM! will be responsible for sending volunteers that will engage and teach HSMA students how to play instruments. The interaction between students and volunteers is scheduled to take place once a week and will provide the students with a unique enrichment musical education experience where they can learn to play a variety of instruments.

Through the use of trained volunteers, SLAM! is an UCLA-based organization that is committed to fostering a musical community on school campuses. The volunteer instructors are scheduled to lead four different music lessons for students to pick from, for an hour-and-a-half long session. SLAM! will match students with a compatible instructor throughout the entirety of the afterschool enrichment program.

One or two volunteers will conduct each music lesson with no more than 10 students per lesson. The volunteer instructors will, along with an assistant instructor(s), will be responsible for implementing each week's curriculum. These enrichment music lessons fall in the beginning and intermediate level for guitar, beginning and intermediate for piano, percussion, rock band, songwriting and voice.

The district will pay SLAM! $6,000 and is expected to use its LCFF Supplemental Concentration Unspecified Funds. The enrichment program will take place from October 2015-May 2016. It is expected that 36 students engage in the afterschool program, breaking down the cost to $166.67 per student, at an average cost of $4.63 per hour.

From City Clerk Norb Huber

JOB FAIRE

The City of Hawthorne and the South Bay Work Investment Board will be hosting a job faire on Thursday, September 24 at the Memorial Center from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Employers from a broad spectrum of work fields will be present to receive resumes and take applications. If you know of someone looking for a job, please let them know about this opportunity.

LIST OF CANDIDATES AND UPCOMING FORUMS

There are several upcoming candidate forums scheduled for the November 3 city elections. The ones that I am aware of are: Wednesday, Sept. 23rd at Hawthorne High School sponsored by the Hawthorne Chamber of Commerce, October 1 at Atherton Baptist Church sponsored by the Holly Park Homeowners Association, and October 8 at Dana Middle School sponsored by the Holly Glen Homeowners Association. The following is a list of candidates: Running for mayor: Chris Brown, Alex Vargas, Angie Reyes English and Analilia Joya. Running for two seats on the city council: Haidar Awad, Katrina Manning, Osvaldo Ramirez, Olivia Valentine, Amie Shepard, Nilo Michelin, Frances Stiglich, and L. David Patterson.

NEXT HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING

The next meeting of the Hawthorne Historical Society will be held on Monday, September 28 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Hawthorne Museum. Our guest speaker will be Kenny Jue, long time resident of Hawthorne and former city manager. Come hungry, hot dogs are going to be grilled prior to the meeting. Plan to meet new people and learn a lot about the rich history of the City of Good Neighbors. I look forward to meeting you on the 28th.

VFW BBQ

The Hawthorne VFW is hosting an end of the summer BBQ this Saturday, September 19th. The public is invited to attend. Good food and music are planned for this community event. The VFW lodge is located on 131st just East of Ramona Avenue. It is at the highest elevation in Hawthorne. Their lodge was the old water tank for the city hence the water all ran down hill to the residences and businesses.

VISITORS

A cousin of mine works summers at a campground close to Glazier National Park in Montana. She brought a young lady from China who worked this summer at the camp along with her. They went to Disneyland and took in the sights of Hollywood/LA. “Sheen”, is in her second year of university in China studying to be an architect. She is an only child. You can only have one child according to government regulations. She wants to return to the USA to work on her Masters degree some day and is looking at attending Harvard or Yale. It was interesting to talk to someone coming from a totally different life. As for me, I will just return back to my garage/man cave and contemplate the simple life in Hawthorne, enjoying my freedom of having a cold one whenever I want one. Here’s one for you America!

Back to School Traffic Safety Reminders and Tips

By Paul Kranke, Torrance PD

As South Bay children head back to school, the Torrance Police Department is reminding motorists to take extra precaution when travelling in school zones. When schools are in session, many children will be walking or riding their bicycles to and from school – many of them during the busiest time of the day when motorists are travelling to work or home after a tiring day.

Reminders for Motorists:

Slow down. Observe the speed limit in school zones at all times. Be aware of all Stop signs in front of and around schools. Drivers must come to a complete Stop and proceed with caution, looking out for pedestrians and bicyclists. Be alert for children walking and biking as you back out of your driveway or leave your garage. Watch for children on bicycles, especially at intersections.

Be especially careful when driving on neighborhood streets and around school zones. Always expect the unexpected. Observe all traffic laws. Officers from the Torrance Police Department will be assigned to these areas to observe traffic violations and to enforce traffic laws.

Motorists and parents need to pay attention to parking regulations in and adjacent to school facilities. Be aware of the following “no parking” signs, red zones, fire hydrants, blocking or stopping in disabled stalls, crosswalks, driveways and double parking. Torrance Police will be citing for violations.

Stop your car when you see lights flashing on a school bus. Red flashing lights indicate that the bus is stopped and students are getting on or off. Don’t start driving until the red lights stop flashing. Be aware that a child may dash across the street.

Safety Tips for Pedestrians:

Always walk on the sidewalk. If there is no sidewalk and you have to walk in the road, always walk Facing traffic. Wear bright colored clothing to increase visibility. Cross only at corners or marked crosswalks. Stop at the curb, or the edge of the road. Walk in groups, there is safety in numbers. Groups are more likely to be seen by drivers.

Before crossing the street, stop and look left, then right, then left again. When vehicles are stopped, make eye contact with the driver to insure they know you are there before proceeding. If you see a car, wait until it goes by. Then look left, right and left again until traffic is clear and it is safe to cross.

Safety Tips for Bicyclists:

Wear a helmet, and be sure to have reflectors on your pedals, frame, and wheels. Be Seen – Be Aware – Be Predictable.

Follow the Rules of the Road - Ride on the right, with the traffic, in single file. Obey stop signs and traffic lights. Never cross a street without looking for cars. Give the right-of-way to pedestrians in crosswalks. When crossing the street, children should get off and walk their bikes using the marked crosswalk.

Let’s all keep SAFETY as our top priority to provide a safe and promising school year for our children! •

SBWIB Hiring in a Transitional Subsidized Employment Program

by Nancy Peters

The SBWIB (South Bay Workforce Investment Board) is a program for prospective employees to be hired and trained in jobs and careers by employers in the South Bay who participate in the SBWIB. When the SBWIB began more than 30 years ago, with the consortium of eight cities and a handful of employers, the recruiters of SBWIB matched employers with potential employees. The same basic model is still in existence today. Finding the employer’s matched employee who will best fit the job description is accomplished no cost to either party involved. The program operates under a subsidy from federal funds administered through the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors and coincides with the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 that allowed the programs to be developed statewide, as well as nationwide.

One of the latest programs to come to the forefront in the South Bay and available to the current 11 participating cities (Carson, El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Hermosa Beach, Inglewood, Lawndale, Lomita, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, and Torrance) in the Consortium is the Transitional Subsidized Employment Program. Fully funded by the LA County Board of Supervisors, this new program has hired more than 3,300 potential employees in the fiscal year just ended on June 30 (it began on July 1, 2014).

“We were requested to be the entity through which the Board of Supervisors would fulfill their promise to fill 10,000 jobs and hire qualified employees,” explained Jan Vogel, SBWIB CEO. “In the first year we are one-third of the way to the goal and we have happy employers and an even happier group of employees all over the South Bay.

“The program is an off-shoot of the Stimulus Program and has specific parameters. For instance, the eight-month program for nonprofit, governmental agencies, and/or cities places an employee, whose employer is the SBWIB for that specific period of time. The employer interviews and makes a choice between candidates that our recruiters find and placement begins. During the following eight months, the employee gains work experience, becomes trained in many facets of business, learning computer programs with which they were not previously familiar, providing a daily service to the employer and fulfilling the employer’s needs. After the time period, there is no obligation to retain the employee.

“Many do hire the employee directly, though, so it is a win-win. The employee who doesn’t get hired, though, now has work experience for their resume. Now, in the private sector there is a slight difference. The program is subsidized and for the first three months, the SBWIB is the employer of record. During the next five months, the employer receives a subsidized reimbursement, up to a percentage in the range of 50 percent. However, the employer must make a commitment to hire the SBWIB employee placed there in order for the reimbursement to be received. Again, the employer chooses the candidate at the outset of the hiring process, so the intent to commit to hire is usually not an issue,” Vogel continued.

“In either case, it is a transitional time for the employer and the employee and although the employee is not guaranteed a job at the end of the eight months in the public sector, the possibility remains. In the private sector, with the commitment upfront, it is just like a probationary period at any company. But, the SBWIB is absorbing costs. It’s a great program,” Vogel stated.

The Department of Social Services (DPSS) is one of the recipients of the Transitional Subsidized Employment Program. Their rosters include any number of men and women, especially single mothers, who are looking for employment and have specific needs to be accommodated. SBWIB participating employers are informed ahead of time of those needs and try to make concessions to hire a qualified candidate. The success rate of the DPSS placements led to a program currently being coordinated to place foster children, aged 16 to 18 years, and for the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) to find training and employment programs for that group and the 18- to 24-year-old group.

Within the DPSS and DCFS groups, the hiring and training program—Blueprint for Workplace Success—and its philosophy of “Get a Job-Keep a Job,” trains candidates for a career of their choice, counsels on how to develop skills, prepare for an interview, and get hired. Job fairs are a main source for the Blueprint program to serve each community and potential employees in the 16-24 year age bracket. At a recent event, in Inglewood, with more than 60 companies participating and more than 700 students who attended, 154 students were hired on the spot and 44 of them were Blueprint for Workplace Success certified participants. The Blueprint certified participants are guaranteed the onsite interviews.

“SBWIB offers the Blueprint for Workplace Success pre-employment preparation on many school campuses, but it is also available as an after-school extracurricular program through one of the four local One-Stop Centers in Carson, Gardena, Inglewood, and at the new center in Torrance. A really great sign of our success is when one of our previous candidates in the Blueprint program is in charge of a participating employer’s table at a job fair. Our programs find jobs for individuals, train them to do that job well, and teach them how to keep that job after they get it,” Jan Vogel stated.

The funding for the Transitional Subsidized Employment Program is available from the federal government through the state Workforce Investment Act. In turn, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board gives an opportunity to residents to be trained and hired, assisting local employers to find viable potential employees, with an investment only of time to specifically train employees in the individual job requirements, subsidizing the salaries, including all taxes, and Workers’ Compensation benefits.

For more information on the Transitional Subsidized Employment Program, interested employers can contact the SBWIB at (310) 970-7700. Potential employees can apply at one of the One-Stop Career Centers to set up an interview and career counseling session by linking to www.southbay1stop.org.

South Proves Too Much for Hawthorne

By Joe Snyder

Hawthorne High's football team was able to keep it close for the first quarter but South Torrance's balanced offensive attack proved too much for the Cougars in a 47-21 win last Friday at Hawthorne. The Spartans used their physicalness and speed to gun down the Cougars.

Hawthorne managed to take a 7-6 first quarter lead on a 10-yard touchdown run by Carlos Jacobo, followed by the point after touchdown from Hunter Marquez. On the pursuing kickoff, Carl Richardson sprinted 90 yards for the TD to give South, which improved to 2-0, the lead for good.

The Spartans broke the game open with three second period touchdowns. Fullback Cameron Dillon gave South a 19-7 lead with a five-yard run. Dillon, who rushed for 104 yards on 15 carries, added another TD on a three-yard run, followed by his two-point conversion run for a 27-7 South lead. With 1:15 left before halftime, the Spartans took a 34-7 lead on a 15-yard scoring pass from quarterback Gabe Zuniga to wide receiver Noah Harrison.

Hawthorne started the second half well and completed its drive when quarterback Marte Mapis tossed a 21-yard touchdown pass to Jacobo with 4:02 remaining in the third quarter. Marquez converted on his second of three extra points. Just three seconds before the end of the third period, Troy Bennett scored from five yards out as South took a 41-14 lead.

The Cougars scored their third TD on a two-yard run by Pencil Nernbhard with 8:17 to go. It was set up by a 51-yard pass from Mapis to Benjamin Delgado putting the ball at the Spartan four-yard line. Dillon scored his third touchdown on a two-yard run for the final score.

"South is a very good team," Hawthorne head coach Donald Paysinger said. "They were very disciplined."

Cougar assistant James Swain, a former Hawthorne head coach, notice that the Cougars had to gang tackle because of the strength of the Spartans' backs.

Hawthorne quarterback Marte Mapis prepares to throw in last Friday's non-league football game against South Torrance. The Cougars host Banning Friday at 7 p.m.

"We knew we had to gang tackle," Swain said. "We're moving steps forward. We got to keep making progress."

The Cougars (0-2) will attempt to pick up their first victory as they host CIF-Los Angeles City Section-Marine League team p.m. The Olympians (0-2) are coming off a 31-28 loss to Torrance Bishop Montgomery after blowing an early 20-0 lead.

Bishop Montgomery High's football team is off to a 3-0 start after rallying from a 20-0 deficit to top host Leuzinger 31-28 last Friday. The Knights scored the winning touchdown late in the fourth quarter when quarterback Brendan Marafino tossed a 19-yard pass to wide receiver Bernard Anofa. Leuzinger was led by running back Lionel Smith who rushed for two touchdowns.

MORNINGSIDE ROLLS OVER TORRANCE; WEST ROUTS INGLEWOOD

Adurrus Wilson continued to show his all-around skills in Morningside High's football team's 61-21 rout of host Torrance last Friday. He had four touchdowns, two of those on receptions from quarterback Jerome Roseborough. He also scored on a 60-yard interception return and a 70-yard punt return.

Roseborough also had a very good all-around game. He completed nine of 24 passes for 123 yards and three touchdowns. Roseborough, who transferred to Morningside from Inglewood, rushed for 125 yards and one TD. Jeremiah Aiono rushed for three touchdowns for the Tartars, who fell to 0-2. Morningside has a bye this week before hosting Gardena at Coleman Stadium on September 25 at 7 p.m.

Inglewood High's football team found West Torrance too much to handle in a 49-8 loss Friday at Coleman Stadium. The Sentinels will visit CIF-L.A. City Section school Bell High Friday at 7 p.m.

Hawthorne Youth Basketball: Four champions were crowned in the Hawthorne Parks and Recreation Summer Youth Basketball Championships on September 5.

The Skylanders began the series in winning the Division I (ages 6-7) title with a 16-12 victory over the Warriors. Dream Team slipped past the Scorpions 16-15 for the Division II (ages 8-9) crown. In the Division III (ages 10-11) Final, Game Time defeated the Generals 38-32. Game Time also won the Division IV championship with a 48-44 win over Hard Work. •

Finance

Find The Right Loan To Realize Your Financial Goals

(BPT) - When it comes to borrowing money, many loans offer benefits beyond simple financing. With that in mind, it's important to understand how one type of loan may be right for making home improvements, while another may be a better match for financing a wedding. The key is to research the various types of loans, know what services they're designed to provide and then choose the one that best fits your financial needs.

Credit card, personal and home equity loans are all great options to help finance purchases and achieve financial goals. Here's a rundown of how each type of loan works:

Credit card - Many people don't realize that credit cards are actually loans, and users can make those loans as short-term or long-term as they need. Some credit cards provide low- or no-interest, short-term financing as long as the monthly statement is paid in full and on time. Users also have the option to turn their credit card balance into a longer-term loan, which may result in higher interest rates. Some credit cards may also charge an annual fee. Credit card loans can be used for common household expenses like groceries, gas or even to make automated payments for items like a magazine subscription. And if the user's credit limit is high enough, credit cards can be used to fund larger expenses like furniture or electronics.

Personal loan - Having a balance on more than one credit card can be a burden, especially if the rates are high. To help manage their budget, many consumers opt to use a personal loan to consolidate their higher-interest loans. Using a personal loan to pay down debt may save borrowers on interest payments if the rate on the personal loan is lower than on the credit card. Additionally, personal loans can give people more control over the size and timing of monthly payments.

Personal loans can be used to pay for major events or expenses, such as a wedding, a big trip or those unexpected life moments such as a child's new braces or an emergency car repair. Additionally, approved borrowers can receive their money quickly.

There are also online resources, such as financial calculators, that can help borrowers visualize what their finances will look like when taking on a personal loan. Discover Personal Loans offers online debt consolidation and personal loan calculators to provide consumers with an idea of the repayment time frame as well as what potential loans payments could be on a monthly basis.

Home equity loan - Once a homeowner has earned equity in their home, she or he can use that as collateral to get a loan for large expenses. Many homeowners obtain a home equity loan to finance a very costly home repair or home renovation project. This allows them to use their equity to potentially help increase the home's value, and may increase resale profits. Other uses for home equity loans include consolidating large debt or paying for major expenses like medical bills. Typically, home equity loans have a fixed interest rate, terms and monthly payments. Interest on a home equity loan may be 100 percent tax deductible. Borrowers should consult their tax advisor about any benefits a loan may bring.

Loans can help borrowers regain control of their finances but are not "one size fits all." Different types of loans should be used for different types of expenses. The key is for borrowers to consider the type of expense they are looking to fund, the available loans and lender offerings, and determine which type of loan is most suitable for them. •
