Gregg McMullin: Herald Legend in it for More Than Just Sport

By Brian Simon

His byline first appeared in the El Segundo Herald way back in 1993 covering local sports and the name Gregg McMullin continues to grace these pages all these years later. As a 60-year community resident who has played, coached, officiated, reported on, and (just for the sheer fun of it) watched sports in town, McMullin is one of those people of which the following is actually true: He has probably forgotten more about El Segundo sports than you and I will ever know.

For McMullin, writing provides an endless source of pride and fulfillment. “Over the years, I have had the opportunity to put smiles on parents’ faces when they see their little boy’s or girl’s name or photo in the paper,” he said. “That’s the most gratifying of all that I do. Helping to create memories that are cemented for history to remember in our tiny publication is the best thing we can do as writers. I get stopped by people in the community all the time—literally—complimenting me on my writing. I sometimes have to go reread it and all I can say is, ‘Did I really write that?’ It helps to have a great editor looking over things.” McMullin added that it’s now much easier to go back and look at old articles now that more than 10 decades of past Herald editions can be found in digital form on the library website. “It’s also a way to chart where we have all come from and where we’re at as writers today.”

Writing is just one component of a life almost entirely spent in El Segundo. Born in Colorado, McMullin moved here in the mid-’50s and attended Richmond Street School where he was student body president during fifth and sixth grades. He recalled a time at recess when a twin-engine plane that had taken off from then-Los Angeles Airport began to nose-dive before crash-landing between Imperial Highway and Imperial Avenue. The incident sparked recurring dreams of plane crashes that stay with him to this day.

McMullin was also a member of the last seventh grade class at the old Junior High campus and part of the first graduating class of what is now El Segundo Middle School. Immersed in sports from an early age, he joined Little League and played games at Lil Candlestick—now a group of tract homes on Hillcrest Street.

McMullin descends from a sports bloodline. His father played baseball in the Pittsburgh Pirates’ organization and tried out with the New York Giants in football—losing his two front teeth during camp. His grandfather actually made it to the Majors, playing in two World Series with the Chicago White Sox in 1917 and 1919. An uncle also pitched for the White Sox during the 1920s.

While he himself didn’t venture into pro sports, McMullin got into coaching at a young age—starting in 1971 at the Babe Ruth League level. “I started coaching with the El Segundo American Legion team in 1976 and the high school team two years later with John Stevenson and Craig Cousins,” he said. He continued to coach with them until Stevenson’s death in 2009 and then stayed on with Cousins for three more years. “They were so important in my life that they were both in my wedding,” McMullin finally wrapped up his coaching career last year with the JV team. He was a part of 19 league championships, three CIF titles and five runner-up finishes. “Most of all,” he added, “I made friends with these players for life. I have been to former player weddings and funerals and even named one of my sons after one of my former players.” McMullin also found time to officiate basketball at the high school and collegiate levels. He called games in four CIF finals and presided over the first contest ever played at the Long Beach State Pyramid.

McMullin’s path to the Herald came as a culmination of his community sports background and his ability to effectively put pen to paper during his long career as a police officer. He got into law enforcement after a nine-year stint in sales and public relations for Anheuser-Busch. He was a reserve police officer in El Segundo for three years before being hired full-time by the Manhattan Beach Police Department in 1981. He remained there until 2008, finally retiring due to injuries sustained on the job. Over the course of his career, he worked general and beach patrol, the DUI team (which still holds the record for most arrests in one year), public information, South Bay platoon, and CSI. He also hosted the long-time cable show called Beach Beat. For his life-saving efforts,

Dorothy Prete

On December 25, 2015, Christmas Day, Dorothy May Prete at 9:50 p.m. left this human world after 97 years, nine months and 22 days, which began on April 3, 1918. She was surrounded by her loving family. She was preceded in death by her wonderful parents, Charlie and Bessie Hurt and her younger brother, Chuck Hurt. She leaves behind her devoted husband, Santo Prete, four children ~ Ron Dransfeldt, Simi Valley, CA, Judy Barry, Kingman, AZ, Vern Dransfeldt, Camarillo, CA, Mary Margaret Prete, Simi Valley, CA, and their spouses. She also leaves 10 grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren, two great-great grandchildren, as well as many nieces, nephews, great nieces and nephews, brother and sister in-laws.

Her life was that of a strong willed woman who loved people and traveling all over the world. After years of teaching in LA Junta, CO, Corona, CA, and Manhattan Beach, CA, as well as tutoring kids of all ages, and after the retirement of her beloved husband, Santo, they began a travel odyssey, which included every continent but Africa and Antarctica. As she began getting weaker and unable to travel, she and Dad could talk for hours, reminiscing about their travels. For the last several years Dad never left her side.

To be taken away on Christmas Day has a certain magic about it. To leave this world on a day of friends and family and celebration, and move on to the next phase of your life in the hands of Jesus Christ on His birthday is quite a tribute to her. She passed away at 9:50 at night, so there must have been quite a crowd awaiting her arrival in heaven.

Thank you Mama, Mom, Grandma and Aunt. You made the world a better place.

A Memorial Mass will be held on January 23, 2016, at 11:00 a.m. at St. Peter Claver Church ~ 2380 Stow St., Simi Valley, CA (Corner of Cochran St. & Stow St.). A gathering of friends and family will be held at the home of Santo & Dorothy, following Mass at 3456 Wichita Falls, Simi Valley, CA. •

Appreciates What El Segundo Offers

My family just returned from overseas; a fantastic family experience. But as I sit here in the bright December sunlight, I am reminded how lucky we are to live in such a special community. The New Year seems a good time to thank some of those who make our small city what it is. First, thanks to the Police Officers and Firefighters who keep our families safe. Also to all the other city employees who keep El Segundo running but seldom get any recognition. Our water flows and our streets are paved thanks to dedicated municipal workers. Thanks to my son's great teachers. Thanks to retired Fire Chief Kevin Smith for his career of service to El Segundo. Thanks to Gail Church and Bob Motta and Nate Chittick, regular people who work everyday to make our community a better place. You guys inspire me. Thanks to the volunteers on our city's boards and commissions; thankless work that keeps city programs running. Thanks to the Ed Foundation. These are just a few of the names that came to mind off the top of my head, obviously a drop in the bucket. The point is that most days we take for granted living in a great little city. If we all try to give back in some small way, we can make it even better. If you can, get involved. If you can't, thank someone who is. But most of all, enjoy this great town and have a Happy New Year. — Jim Boulgarides

Film Review

Michael Moore's Where To Invade Next Attempts to Reinvigorate the American Dream

H. Nelson Tracey for www.CINEMACY.com

Let's start with Michael Moore's divisive title: it's a complete bait and switch. There is an indication from this title and from the movie's opening that this is a movie about the US Military and their dominance worldwide. You'd never guess it, but this movie has almost nothing to do with this, a breath of relief as you can imagine there are only so many times we can fathom all the negative elements of the trillion-dollar US war business.

Instead, Moore's latest film, Where To Invade Next, is actually an optimistic documentary, a bit of a paradox in the world of news related docs. The film is a series of vignettes showing Moore traveling to, or 'invading', different countries on a hunt for what they are doing well and for ideas to take back to the United States. While his choice of countries is unfortunately very Euro-centric, the results are surprisingly effective. In every country, Moore chooses a specific topic to dive into. In France, it's food in schools. In Italy, it's work vacations. With each country, Moore is trying to show how systematically horrible our current system is and what it has the potential to be. The food in our school cafeterias is what is nourishing young people but is treated as an afterthought and the results are pretty gross. In France, food is seen as part of their education, so eating lunch is given major a level of respect as a way to teach kids how they'll eat well for the rest of their lives. This is one of the many fantastic examples that Moore finds in each country.

Moore isn't focused on shaming America though: he's interested in showing how fantastic these other countries are when in action.

The root of all of these problems comes from the mismanagement of money, the greed of for-profit schools and public buildings such as prisons, and more that many moderately-educated viewers will know about. Moore isn't focused on shaming America though: he's interested in showing how fantastic these other countries are when in action. Of course, any documentary has the tendency to be biased and with Where To Invade Next running at only 110 minutes, Moore must paint countries with broader strokes. However, he does a great job of making sure any skepticism is answered. For example, after highlighting one particular

Eagles Play in Faraway Places

By Adam Serrao

When it's Kobe Bryant's last season in the league, one might think that there really isn't ever a wrong time to win, per say. Sending the future Hall of Famer off with as many glorious moments to remember in his last year would clearly be the right thing to do. Problem is, this year hasn't provided many of those glorious moments at all. Aside from some pre-game and off court celebrations put on by opposing team's and their front office's for Bryant, this season has been an utter and isn't it? The situation becomes particularly interesting when factoring in what's at stake. Louisiana State freshman phenom Ben Simmons is being touted as the next LeBron James or Kevin Durant. To put it simply, the Lakers want him. They want him badly. So, in order to attain someone with as much talent at the NBA draft lottery held on May 17 in New York, they need to lose and lose as much as possible. At the time being, the Lakers are on pace to break the record for worst season

"All Laker fans, naturally, would like to see their team win. With a young core in place, it becomes even more rewarding to see the guys hustle their way to victories throughout the season."

complete failure. After last Sunday's matchup with the Phoenix Suns, the Lakers had won three games in a row and four of their last eight. If you're rooting for Steph Curry and the Warriors that may not sound like much, but when you have a top-three protected draft pick on the line, every loss matters. Last Friday night the NBA gave us all a New Year's Day present by matching up the two worst teams in the NBA against one another. The 6-27 Lakers were taking on the 3-31 Philadelphia 76ers in a game that had much more on the line than what initially met the eye. In a game that was particularly hard to watch because of the simply horrendous field goal shooting, the Lakers eventually and painstakingly walked away with a 93-84 victory to bring their win total on the year up to seven games. The win did a couple of things. It marked the first time that the Lakers have won consecutive games all season long (they also beat the Celtics in Boston two nights earlier). In fact, it was the first time that the Lakers had won back-to-back games in nearly a year. The win also pushed the team further behind the 76ers in the race for the league's worst record and pushed them one step closer to the Brooklyn Nets (9-23 at the time) in the race for one of the league's worst records. If all of this sounds like gibberish to you, here's the deal. This offseason, when the NBA draft rolls around, the Lakers will only get a pick in the draft if their record is one of the three worst records in the league. Still paying for their stake in the Steve Nash trade years ago, if the Lakers finish anywhere from fourth-worst to 30th-worst, then their pick goes to the 76'ers. In other words, Laker fans have to root for their team to lose in order to get another great draft pick. Crazy, in franchise history. That record was made just one year ago when the team finished 21-61 on the year. That means that following their win against Phoenix to bring their record to 8-27, the Lakers had 47 games left to win 13 more in order to not have their worst season ever. The problem is, it looks as if head coach Byron Scott is getting smarter, and the young guys on the team are getting better. Scott, finally realizing that it is a season lost, is doing what he should have done a long time ago - play the young guys on the team. With more time on the court and more reps at their positions, it is becoming more and more clear that D'angelo Russell, Julius Randle, Larry Nance Jr., Jordan Clarkson, and even Anthony Brown are all getting better and better as the season progresses. That means you can expect a slight uptick in wins as well, and a major uptick in quality of play, as Laker fans saw on display vs. the Suns. All Laker fans, naturally, would like to see their team win. With a young core in place, it becomes even more rewarding to see the guys hustle their way to victories throughout the season. With Kobe Bryant officially gone next year, the training wheels will be taken off and the youngsters will be on their own. This year has already shown its share of good fortune and, even through all of the losses, optimism toward the future. Imagine what one more giant piece to the puzzle like Ben Simmons (and hopefully a big free-agent signing) would do for a Lakers team that has seemingly forgotten what it's like to have a winning season. The season is not over yet and the players on the team are only getting better, but let's hope for everyone involved that the Lakers don't win too many more games.

The El Segundo high school boys' and girls' basketball teams did some traveling during the Holiday break. The Lady Eagles traveled to Henderson, Nevada to play in the Green Valley Invitational while the boys' flew to Hawaii to play in the Punahou Invitational. It was an experience for each of the players on his/her teams that will be remembered for future reunions to come. It's not often that the Eagle's basketball program has traveled to play out of state. You has continued to get more and more stingy. They forced the Colts to turnover the ball and took advantage of breakaway baskets. Chase Ali-Watkins had two consecutive assists to Justin Ostler for easy reverse layups. Saleia Ahloo and Jamal Howard had assists on fast breaks that led to a 22-11 lead in the second quarter. In the third quarter Ali-Watkins block on a layup attempt by Mark Baytec was a crowd pleaser in a quarter that was dominated by defensive plays. Still the Eagles couldn't put the Colts away and the lead soured to six points before order was restored. In the fourth period might expect that from teams such as Mater Dei or Fairfax but El Segundo? When head coach Jason Ito took over the program he vowed to take the team to another level and part of that master plan included playing top rated programs such as Fairfax, Loyola, Harvard Westlake and playing in Hawaii. To get ready for their trip to the nation's fiftieth state the Eagles played host to Carson a perennial City Section powerhouse and came away with a well earned 63-44 win. The Eagles made great use of a defense that

Eli Chaney's break away layup put the Eagles up by 14 points. Later with the defense shutting down the Colts, Ahloo gave the Eagles a 54-35 lead with a short range jumper and the Eagles went on for what resulted in an easy win. On Christmas night Coach Ito and his team made the rip to Hawaii for what would be a first for the program. Playing in the Punahou Invitational meant the opportunity of facing teams from Hawaii, Oregon and China. The Eagles would to face the top ranked and fourth

Banana Mango Smoothie and Almond Twirl Bread

Ingredients

- SMOOTHIE
- 1 cup Reduced Fat Lactaid Milk
  - 1/2 cup sliced bananas, frozen
  - 3/4 cup cubed mango, frozen
  - 1/4 cup cooked white beans, rinsed
  - 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts
  - 1/8 teaspoon vanilla extract
  - Dash cinnamon
- ALMOND TWIRL BREAD
- Bread:
- 4 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
  - 1 package active dry yeast
  - 1 cup Lactaid Reduced Fat Milk
  - 1/3 cup granulated sugar
  - 1/3 cup butter
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 2 eggs
- Almond Filling:
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
  - 2 tablespoons butter, softened
  - 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom or cinnamon
  - 1/2 cup ground almonds
- Icing:
- 1 cup sifted powdered sugar
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
  - 3 teaspoons Lactaid Reduced Fat Milk
  - 2 tablespoons sliced almonds, toasted

Preparation

- SMOOTHIE
Place all ingredients into a blender. Blend on high until smooth (about 1 minute).
- BREAD
1. In a large mixing bowl combine 2 cups of the flour and the yeast. In a small saucepan heat and stir 1 cup Lactaid Reduced Fat Milk, 1/3 cup granulated sugar, butter and salt just until warm (120 to 130 degrees F) and butter almost melts. Add to flour mixture; add eggs. Beat with an electric mixer on low speed for 30 seconds, scraping the side of the bowl constantly. Beat on high speed for three minutes. Using a wooden spoon, stir in as much of the remaining flour as you can. Turn the dough out onto a lightly floured surface. Knead in enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately soft dough that is smooth and elastic (three to five minutes total). Shape dough into a ball. Place dough in a lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface of dough. Cover; let rise in a warm place until double in size (about one hour).
  2. Sprinkle with Almond Filling, spreading evenly. Roll up into a spiral, starting from a long side. Pinch seam to seal. Place seam side down, on prepared baking sheet. Shape into a ring; press ends together to seal. Using kitchen scissors, snip at 1-inch intervals, making each cut two-thirds of the way to center. Gently turn each section slightly to a side. Cover and let rise in warm place until nearly double in size (about 30 minutes).
  3. Bake in a 350-degree oven about 25 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when lightly tapped and top is golden brown. Transfer to a wire rack and let cool.

ALMOND FILLING
In a small bowl stir together 1/3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, softened, and 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom or cinnamon with a wooden spoon until well combined. Stir in 1/2 cup ground almonds.

ICING
In a small bowl combine the powdered sugar, vanilla, and enough of the 3 teaspoons Lactaid to make of drizzling consistency. Drizzle over bread. Top with sliced almonds. •

Why 2016 will be another GREAT YEAR for Real Estate in El Segundo

5 Trends that will dominate 2016

2015 was a record setting year for California and certainly for our local areas, in particular the beach cities where we had double digit appreciation up to 30% for the past several years.

1. The biggest home price gain will continue to be in the West

In September of 2015 the S&P/Case Skills Price Index revealed that three cities with the largest cumulative price increases since January 2000 are all in California.

Los Angeles (138%) San Francisco (116%) and San Diego (115%).

443 Whiting St.
List Price: $1,099,000 Sold: $1,255,000 11 Offers
Brand New Construction coming

612 Arena St.
Sold Off Market: $1,300,000
Brand New Construction coming

610 Sierra St.
List Price: $799,000 55 Offers
Pending at well over the list price

2. Home prices will continue to rise but at a slightly slower rate of appreciation

Housing prices nationwide are projected to increase by 4.7% compared to the 6% for 2015 according to the report by the CoreLogic HPI forecast. However if we continue to suffer from a shortage of homes for sale (relative to demand) this could continue to push prices north in 2016.

3. Job gains will bring more buyers into the market

This year we are on track to add another two million jobs nationwide according to Doug Duncan, Chief Economist at Freddi Mac.

With regards to El Segundo, we have added 56 new companies since September 2014 and are poised to add an additional 20 new companies for 2016. Couple this with the expansion of what has now become the Silicon Beach boom with companies such as Google, YouTube, Yahoo, Facebook, Konami, belkin and Core digital media just to name a few. Most of these are high-tech, high paying jobs and many of them will be joining the buying pool making it more competitive in the already imbalanced supply and demand market.

4. That which is desirable becomes valuable and that which is valuable becomes desirable

Today El Segundo's desirability is at an all-time high for several reasons. Based on my own personal survey as to why someone wants to move here, the top answer is always "the schools". Buyers will pay top dollar and above market value just so their kids can have access to a very high quality of education. Education plays an essential part of a family's overall lifestyle. Second, individuals want to live where they feel safe and El Segundo has had a long and well established reputation for being a very safe community. These are two major factors that contribute to the desirability of the town, let's make sure we keep improving both of them.

In addition, El Segundo remains one of the most affordable beach towns west of Sepulveda Blvd. but this may not last very much longer because coastal living, walking distance to pristine beaches, restaurants and workplaces, is the ideal town to create a wonderful lifestyle. El Segundo is definitely "the place to buy now". That which is desirable becomes valuable and potentially even more expensive. Which leads me into the next trend...timing.

5. In Real Estate timing matters

Many buyers a year ago with concerns of overpaying for a property found themselves priced out of the market by the end of the year for a similar home. Buyers who do not have a sense of urgency to get in the market now should plan to pay more for a lesser product in the same area. A rate increase in 2015 and another one planned in 2016 will add challenges to an already affordability crisis. Don't hesitate to jump in!

For sellers 2016 will be another great year to capitalize on the large buying pool and a positive trend in the market. However, be prepared to expect longer days on the market 30, 45 and 60 days could be the new normal. Expect modest gains relative to last year. Timing matters, so do it while the market is still strong.

quote for the week

*"It's Not a House. It's a Feeling. Under the cover of roof we sink into the sweet sentiment of home. Cassini Closes in on Enceladus, One Last Time

Based on press release from NASA/JPL, provided by Bob Eklund

A thrilling chapter in the exploration of the solar system will soon conclude, as NASA’s Saturn-orbiting Cassini spacecraft makes its final close flyby of the ocean-bearing moon Enceladus. Cassini is scheduled to fly past Enceladus at a distance of 3,106 miles on Saturday, Dec. 19, at 9:49 a.m. PST.

Although the spacecraft will continue to observe Enceladus during the remainder of its mission (through September 2017), it will be from much greater distances -- at closest, more than four times farther away than the Dec. 19 encounter.

The upcoming flyby will focus on measuring how much heat is coming through the ice from the moon’s interior -- an important consideration for understanding what is driving the plume of gas and icy particles that sprays continuously from an ocean below the surface.

“Understanding how much warmth Enceladus has in its heart provides insight into its remarkable geologic activity, and that makes this last close flyby a fantastic scientific opportunity,” said Linda Spilker, Cassini project scientist at NASA’s Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, California.

By design, the encounter will not be Cassini’s closest. The flyby was designed to allow Cassini’s Composite Infrared Spectrometer (CIRS) instrument to observe heat flow across Enceladus’ south polar terrain.

NASA'S Cassini spacecraft makes its final close flyby of Saturn's active, ocean-bearing moon Enceladus.

“The distance of this flyby is in the sweet spot for us to map the heat coming from within Enceladus -- not too close, and not too far away. It allows us to map a good portion of the intriguing south polar region at good resolution,” said Mike Flasar, CIRS team lead at NASA’s Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Maryland.

The south polar region of Enceladus, while well lit for observing observations by Cassini’s visible light cameras when the spacecraft arrived at Saturn in mid-2004, is presently in the darkness of the years-long Saturnian winter. The absence of heat from the Sun makes it easier for Cassini to observe the warmth from Enceladus itself. By the time the mission concludes, Cassini will have obtained observations over six years of winter darkness in the moon’s southern hemisphere.

Cassini completed a daring dive through the moon’s erupting plume on Oct. 28, passing just 30 miles (49 kilometers) above the surface. Scientists are still analyzing data collected during that encounter to better understand the nature of the plume, its particles and whether hydrogen gas is present -- the latter would be an independent line of evidence for active hydrothermal systems in the seafloor.

This moderately close flyby will be the 22nd of Cassini’s long mission. The spacecraft’s surprising discovery of geologic activity on Enceladus, not long after arriving at Saturn, prompted changes to the mission’s flight plan in order to maximize the number and quality of encounters with the icy moon. Cassini made its closest Enceladus flyby on Oct. 9, 2008, at an altitude of 16 miles.

The unfolding story of Enceladus has been one of the great triumphs of Cassini’s historic mission at Saturn. Scientists first detected signs of the moon’s icy plume in early 2005, followed by a series of discoveries about the material gushing from warm fractures near its south pole. They announced strong evidence for a regional subsurface sea in 2014, revising their understanding in 2015 to confirm that the moon hosts a global ocean beneath its icy crust. •

school or prison, he often will show a second more extreme example that confirms the point he is making. Moore is a polarizing character, but he’s a master of the craft. He knows how to make his points, funny or serious, using the tools at his disposal.

It’s been a fantastic year for documentary, in large part due to the number of working documentary filmmakers who have new material this year: Alex Gibney (Going Clear and Steve Jobs), Kirby Dick (The Hunting Ground), Davis Guggenheim (Malala) and Moore, among others. Each of these prolific directors has a signature style which they don’t stray far from, but in every case it works to their personality and subject matter. All are in contention for the Best Documentary Oscar. While Michael Moore’s latest isn’t particularly topical compared to some of his other work, it invites Americans to recognize that perhaps we need to look at other countries as models for how to improve our current system. His final revelation not only is fascinating but ties the whole film together. For any American interested in the future of our country, look to this film as a guide to some positive possible directions.

Where To Invade Next opened at ArcLight Hollywood on December 23rd with a national release February 12, 2016. Rated R for language, some violent images, drug use and brief graphic nudity. •

NOTICE OF URGENCY ORDINANCE
ADOPTION AND NON-URGENCY
ORDINANCE ADOPTION
CITY OF EL SEGUNDO
ORDINANCE NOS. 1514 AND 1515

AN URGENCY ORDINANCE AND A NON-URGENCY ORDINANCE ENACTING WATER CONSERVATION MEASURES AND REQUIREMENTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH EMERGENCY REGULATIONS PROMULGATED BY THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES. SUMMARY OF ADOPTED ORDINANCE AND ADOPTED URGENCY ORDINANCE: An Urgency Ordinance and a non-urgency Ordinance to amend "Water Conservation in Landscaping" provisions established in Ordinance No. 1437 as codified in Title 10, Chapter 2 of the El Segundo Municipal Code ("ESMC") to comply with the California Department of Water Resources (DWR) as a result of the statewide drought. The Urgency Ordinance and non-urgency Ordinance deletes ESMC Chapter 10-2 "Water Conservation in Landscaping"; adds ESMC Chapter 15-15A "Water Conservation in Landscaping" regarding the applicability of Water Conservation in Landscaping; amends ESMC Section 15-1-6 "Definitions" to add definitions of hardscape, softscape, synthetic grass and xeriscaping, including clarify the use of artificial turf; amends ESMC Section 15-2-14 regarding the requirements for landscaping; and amends certain landscaping sections in certain zoning districts in ESMC Title 15. The Urgency Ordinance and non-urgency Ordinance addresses the requirements in Governor Brown's Drought Executive Order (EO B-29-15) of April 1, 2015, which directed the California Department of Water Resources (DWR) to update the State's

Model Water Efficient Landscape Ordinance ("MWLO"). The DWR prepared an updated MWLO to serve as a template for cities, which was approved by the California Water Commission on July 15, 2015. Cities within the State of California must adopt the updated MWLO. The MWLO requires all cities to monitor the water that is used in the irrigation of grass, shrubs, trees, and other plants in landscaped areas. The Urgency Ordinance and non-urgency Ordinance is applicable to all new landscaping projects equal to or greater than 500 square feet and to all rehabilitated landscaped areas equal to or greater than 2,500 square feet. The Urgency Ordinance and non-urgency Ordinance meets the requirements described and defined by the DWR. ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW The project is categorically exempt from the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to 14 California Code of Regulations § 15307 as a Class 7 exemption (Actions by Regulatory Agencies for Protection of Natural Resources), because the Ordinance consists of an action taken by the City to assure maintenance, restoration, enhancement, or protection of water resources in the City, and § 15308 as a Class 8 exemption (Actions by Regulatory Agencies for the Protection of the Environment) because the Ordinance consists of regulations and procedures which aim to protect the environment. Eagles ranked teams in Hawaii.

For the Eagles this was a bonding and business trip. For most of them, and their parents who went, this was the first time to paradise. There wasn't much time to sightsee but during the time they were there they made the most of it. They did go to Waikiki Beach and Germaine's Luau and created some memories they won't soon forget.

In the opening game the Eagles played McKinley of Honolulu. The Tigers and Eagles play the same tempo, are not very big and rely on setting up an opportunistic shot attempt. The Eagles behind the hot hand of Josh Hessing defeated McKinley 43-31. Hessing led all scorers with 14 points while Ali-Watkins had eight points and seven assists.

Coach Ito knew facing Punahou in the second game would be a challenge. The second ranked Buff n' Blue boast a front line that averages 6'5 while the Eagles tallest player is 6'4. The Eagles fell behind early and lost 57-40 to the host team in front of a large home crowd. Still, it was the first time the Buff n' Blue had been held to under 60 points all season. Though the Eagles didn't win the game it was a definite moral booster knowing they had held one of the top teams to their lowest point total all season.

Poor shooting due to a stifling defense haunted the Eagles where they fell behind by as many as 16 points in the first half. Ali-Watkins led the Eagles with 11 points while Mike Lynch had seven points.

The Eagles faced Moanalua, another top tier team from the Islands in the third game and came away with 49-40 win. Ali-Watkins' 12 points led all scorers but it was his defensive efforts along with Chaney and Ahloo that keyed the win. Sebastian Hebert had eight points while Justin Ostler had some key defensive rebounds.

The Maryknoll Spartans are the fourth ranked team in Hawaii and for good reason. With five players 6'5 or better on the roster and a program that has a history of a deep playoff run most thought the Eagles would get run out of the gym. But Coach Ito's squad played inspired basketball but fell in the closing minutes 37-32. Josh Hessing led the Eagles with 10 points while Chase Ali-Watkins scored eight points.

According to Coach Ito the trip was more than a success it was creating a connection and union for a team he hopes will get into the CIF-Southern Section playoffs next month. "It was a great bonding trip which will be beneficial as we head into league and finish out our last two non-league games (Torrance at home and Rolling Hills Prep at the Fairfax State Preview)."

The Eagles played Torrance last night. They return home next Friday night at 7:30pm to host Beverly Hills and 6'7 junior forward Ron Artest III the son of former Los Angeles Laker Ron Artest.

The Lady Eagles traveled to the second largest city in Nevada. Henderson is a sprawling metropolis that spans the entire Las Vegas Valley. There are six public high schools in Henderson with an average enrollment of 2600 students. The host for the tournament was Green Valley the ninth ranked team in Nevada.

El Segundo advanced to the second round after a default win over Cheyenne. The Eagles faced Henderson and were challenged from the start from an up-tempo team that has a rich tradition for being successful. The Gators have advanced to the Nevada Girls Basketball playoffs in the NIAA D-I Region for twelve consecutive years. El Segundo made it a game and stayed close before falling 77-63.

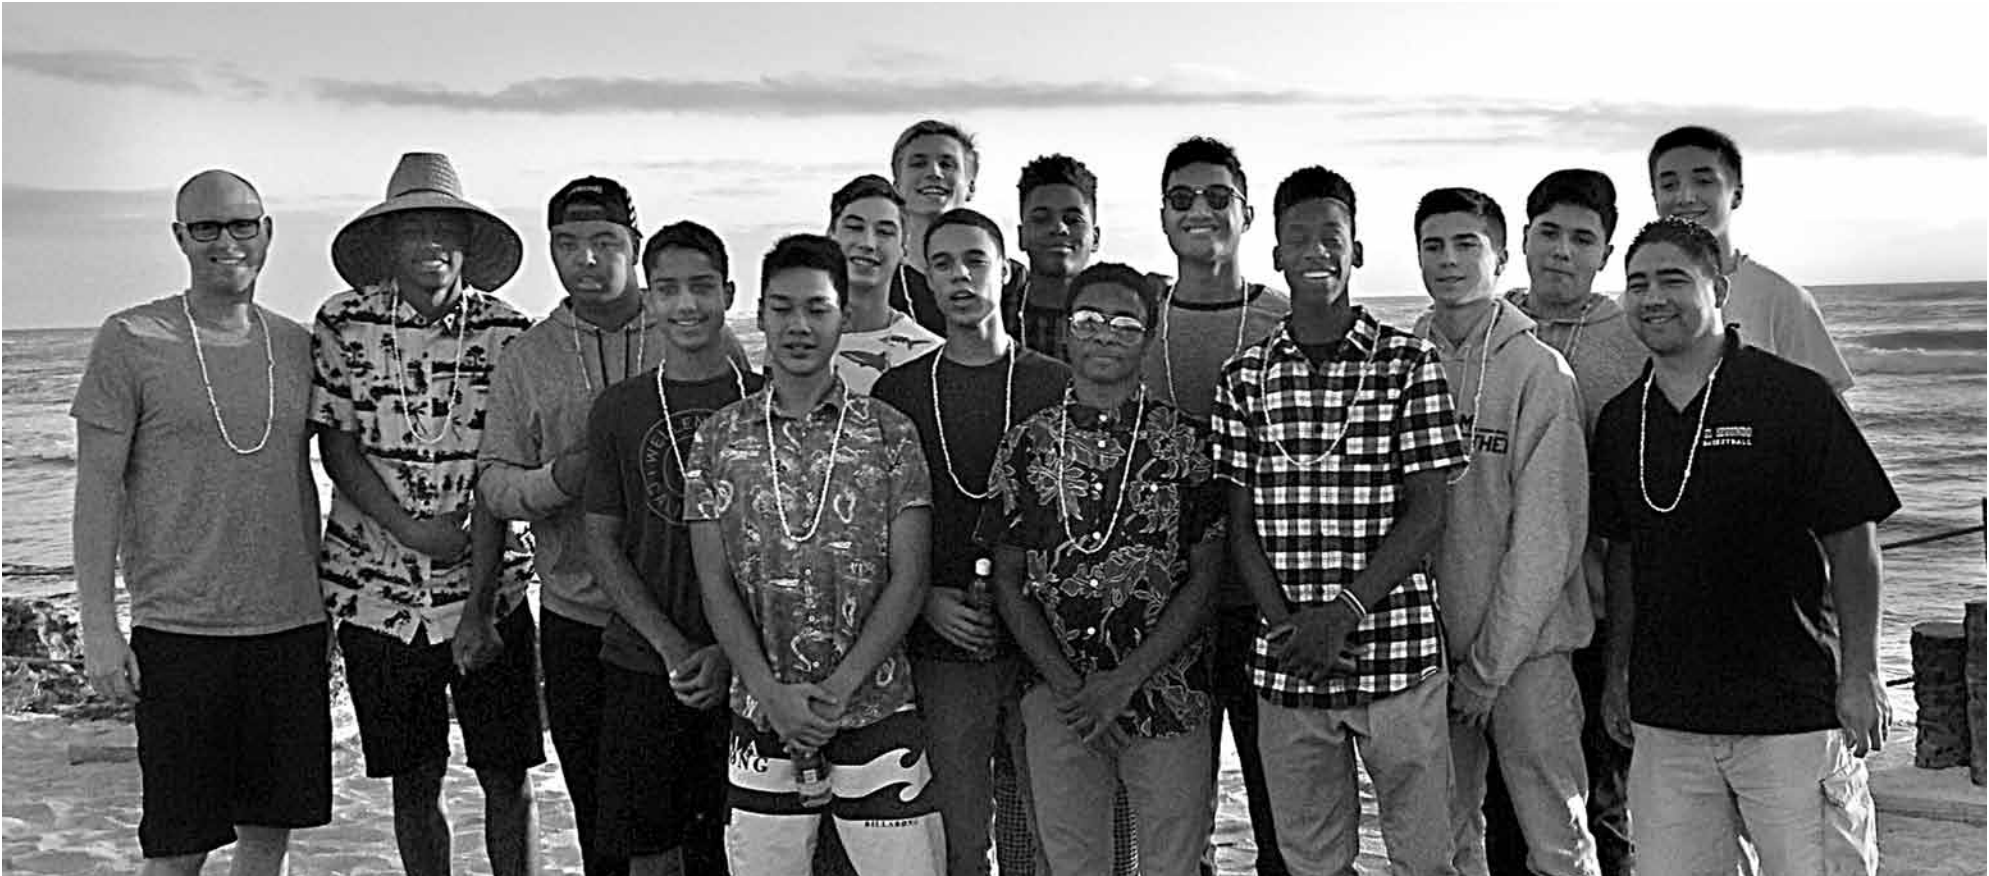

Each team ran their offenses to perfection and the Eagles had no answer for the high scoring Gators who took a 42-33 lead at halftime. With Paige Endo running the offense and showing off her ball-handling skills the Eagles pulled to within six points before the Gators went on a scoring binge. In the fourth quarter the Eagles tried playing catch up but the Gators held off any type of comeback attempt.

In another game El Segundo faced Moapa Valley a very different type of team than Green Valley. The pace was decidedly different which threw the Eagles off their game. Still, they came away with a 32-19 win over the Pirates.

The Lady Eagles went 2-2 in the tournament including one by forfeit. It was a challenge playing three games in two days but the experience of playing some top teams should benefit the Eagles as they begin Ocean League play next week.

Paige Endo was once again named to the All-Tournament team making it a perfect record for the senior guard. Endo has been selected to each All-Tournament team that she has played in over the course of her four year high school career.

The Eagles, who are 9-5 on the season, faced second ranked Mira Costa on Tuesday before hosting Bellflower tonight at 7pm. They'll return home next Friday to host Beverly Hills at 6pm in the second game of the Ocean League schedule. •

The Eagles pose on the beaches of Hawaii before the Punahou Invitational. For many it was their first time to our fiftieth state.

Purrrfect Companions

Rahmah
Start the New Year out and celebrate by making a purr-fect match when you adopt a new feline friend.

Rahmah is incredibly cuddly and sweet, loving to just lounge around in your arms and be held. He loves to play with toys as well and is a master at re-finding them when they escape. Just get him a toy with some sound to it and Rahmah is all over it. He loves to play with other kitties on his terms, and especially snuggle with them! Since Rahmah has an underdeveloped eye and is 90% blind in his other eye, he definitely needs a forever buddy to be his “seeing eye cat” or really, just double as a pillow for him. Being blind, Rahmah needs a home where things are relatively consistent and tidy. Once he knows the layout, he can get around like every other cat, but reducing the obstacles is very helpful for him. He has no issue finding the litter box, or his food, or anything else - after all, cats have a marvelous sense of smell! He doesn’t need any special treatment or care, just don’t drop things in his path or constantly rearrange the furniture on him. Rahmah, like any other cat, is just looking for the “purrfect” place in a loving home.

Speckled with Tortoiseshell colors and boasting proud tabby stripping, Elektra is a visual bouquet of color and fun! She is super soft and loves to be petted, dancing around your feet chirping for attention and pets. Elektra is lithe, her streamline form perfect for zipping around.

Elektra loves other kittens, and once she adjusts to them, she is fine with other adults as well. She is definitely an alpha female, claiming her right to rule from the word go, so she would do best with another kitty who will let her be the queen bee. Elektra is also independent and happy to entertain herself. She would do best in a home where either her person is around a lot or with a kitty buddy to hang out with. She loves her buddy Merlin and would adore getting a home with him.

Merlin is absolutely adorable with his eye liner and tabby patches. Pin him down with some pets and he turns on the charm, purring away and even asking for belly rubs! He loves to kiss your fingers when getting pets too! Merlin would do best in a calmer environment, away from loud sudden noises that might remind him of those terrifying days of fireworks when he was found after the Fourth of July. He would do best in a home with adults or mature children as sudden noises and movements are still a bit scary for this sweet boy. He loves other cats to pieces and takes comfort from their presence. Get out a wand toy and he will play all over your lap trying to get it. Couch time is his favorite, he turns into a total snuggle bug and always wants to be touching some part of you. He loves his buddy Elektra, but can be adopted to a home with any kitty. Merlin can also be adopted as a single to someone who is home a lot, so he doesn’t get lonely.

Merlin

Ariel was separated from her mother when she was only 3 weeks old. She’s always been rather petite and a little bit shy. A family who will give Ariel a chance to feel comfy with her surroundings will help her to blossom. Once Ariel has settled in, she loves chasing a laser light; she’s confident that one of these days she’s going to catch it! Little Ariel is very affectionate and loves snuggling and purring. With her very expressive eyes, she’ll let you see into her soul. There is a big dog at Ariel’s foster home that she mostly ignores and he does the same with her. Ariel is totally ready for her forever home. She promises to show you and your family unconditional love while purring her little heart out.

Tulia is the Miss Congeniality of her household. She loves to make eye contact with you, really wants to communicate, and will usually begin to peep out little greetings when she does. She also does fabulous “floomp” – she’ll just drop from a standing position to a lying-down position very dramatically, in a way that should have a sound effect – and we imagine “floomp” would be the sound. Usually when she does this, if you’re not close enough to reach out and pet her, she’ll then slither toward you on her side, purring and purring. Tulia also seems to have a sense of gentleness and empathy when it’s called for. One of elderly kitties in her foster home is 16 year-old boy who has a lot of health challenges; he loves kittens for snuggling. Unlike some of the other youngsters in the household, Tullia seems to sense this, and is very gentle to this sweet old guy, and snuggles up next to him without annoying him. She even will try to give him little baths sometimes, and he returns the favor to her. Tulia is very social, so she needs to be adopted either along with another kitten (ideally a sibling, although that is certainly not a requirement) or to a home where there is already another animal (kitten, adult cat, or cat-loving puppy or adult dog) that would be her full-time playmate. It would be especially cool to see her adopted with her little twin brother, Festus.

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All of our kitties are spayed/neutered, micro-chipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see our other kitties, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org. Your tax deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Blvd. #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Blvd. just south of Manchester Ave. and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Ave, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location.

Saving one animal won’t change the world, but the world will surely change for that animal.•
