City Hires Joseph Lillio to Head Finance Department

By Brian Simon

After the departure of long-time Finance Director Deborah Cullen last May, the City of El Segundo brought on Misty Cheng in an interim capacity to help oversee the budget process and recruitment of an eventual full-time replacement. The search led to the hire of Joseph Lillio, who became the City's Finance Director on March 14.

Lillio's resume includes over 17 years of finance experience—11 of those in the government sector. Most recently, he served as Chief Financial Officer with the City of Oxnard, preceded by stints as Finance Manager with Las Virgenes Municipal Water District, Senior Accountant/Acting Finance Manager with the City of San Fernando, and Financial Analyst with the City of Santa Clarita. Earlier in his career, he was also a forensic auditor with the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) and handled financial management assignment with Princess Cruises for six years. "Joseph brings extensive experience in strategic planning, budgeting, financial management, and enhancing organizational efficiency and effectiveness through streamlining and improving processes, evaluating departmental policies and procedures, and implementing technology solutions," El Segundo City Manager Greg Carpenter noted.

Born in the West Los Angeles area and raised in the San Fernando Valley where he attended Catholic school from elementary through secondary, Lillio went on to earn a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration/Accounting at Cal State LA, followed by a Master's in Public Administration at Cal State Northridge. Lillio's father served in the Navy during the Korean War and his mother is registered nurse who tended to patients in the oncology unit, including youngsters with leukemia, for over 30 years. "The commitment to serve the community by my parents definitely influenced who I am today," Lillio said.

An accounting and budgeting class during high school sparked Lillio's interest in finance. "Along with honors math and history, it was one of the few classes I had a passion for and my mom did not have to 'remind' me to complete all assignments," he recalled. "In college, I took government accounting courses along with forensic accounting—which was a new course at the time—where I continued to foster my passion for accounting."

After beginning his career in the private sector with the aforementioned cruise line, Lillio transitioned to government finance. "It was because I recognized the important role that finance professionals play in maintaining the stewardship of public funds—and also because I enjoy the serving the public," he explained.

As a forensic auditor with the FTB's criminal investigations unit, Lillio was fascinated by the way his accounting knowledge could help put away criminals by holding them accountable for their fraudulent actions. "I participated in search warrants of financial records and arrest warrants," he said.

In Santa Clarita, Lillio was involved in budgeting, audits, general accounting, bond issuance to finance capital projects, and management of that city's $200 million-plus investment portfolio. "I am proud of being able to serve a community and provide transparency and accountability to city finances," he said.

El Segundo's unique attributes played a major role in coaxing Lillio to the South Bay. "The city's small town charm, friendly residents and business community, robust economic development as well as positive financial outlook were factors in my decision to apply for this position," he said. "My 17 years of broad finance experience, along with my commitment and passion to effectively serve the community through accountability, transparency, exercising prudence and integrity as well as an emphasis on providing excellent customer service are some of the unique skills I bring to the table."

While busy from day one to quickly get up to speed with City operations and meeting with his new colleagues, Lillio already has a game plan in mind. "My key goal for the short term is to continue building the Finance team and fill five vacant positions within our department that are critical to the ongoing operations of the City," he said. "I would also like to evaluate how to improve busi-

The Notorious Measure B

By now the USPS has brought us all a slick, full-color mailing which tells us to vote approval for the notorious Measure B. What a surprise: it is paid for by the cops' and firemen's PAC's. Once again I urge my fellow residents to vote "No" and reject the 50% increase in the obnoxious TOT. We don't need more taxes, we need fiscal responsibility.

See you at the polls.

An Easter Blessing

Last Friday, El Segundo Rotary Club hosted the annual Good Friday Breakfast, which was held at the Automotive Driving Museum. This year's featured speaker was Logan Hansen, 12-years-old, son of Marsha Hansen, Executive Director, El Segundo Chamber of Commerce. Logan Hansen was diagnosed with complex Congenital Heart Disease a few hours after birth. He discussed his many challenges since birth, which included three major surgeries, numerous procedures, doctor visits and "loads of medicine". It would be overwhelming for anyone, much less a young boy, however his speech was delivered in a matter-of-fact, inspirational and even humorous way. It was a great way to start the Easter weekend. Herald's Candidate Q & A

★ Carol Pirsztuk ★ Don Brann ★ Drew Boyles ★ Marie Fellhauer ★ Dave Atkinson ★

We do not edit or correct the candidates answers. All answers are limited to 100 words. Good luck to our candidates.

#1 What important issue affecting El Segundo has fallen under the radar and what would you do to address it?

Carol Pirsztuk: El Segundo has grown tremendously in recent years with the development of retail along the Sepulveda corridor, and business expansion in both the East Campus and Smokey Hollow areas. However, the city's strategic plan has not been updated since the year 2000, and as a result, the city's organizational structure and system infrastructure has not changed or been developed to accommodate the growth. The city needs to develop a new holistic strategic plan with clear long-term goals and attainable benchmarks, as well as ensure the city's capabilities are enhanced to accommodate future growth.

Don Brann: The many deteriorating buildings in our City need to be addressed. Before and through the Great Recession, deferred maintenance of projects has resulted in unacceptable conditions and will increase the cost to repair/replace facilities. Joslyn Center, Gordon Clubhouse, Saari Plunge, Library, Campus Fields all need attention as does the Recreation Park elevator. Council Members serve as stewards of Public Facilities and have the responsibility to prioritize upkeep of the City's infrastructure. There are several funding sources to support these renovations, so let's improve the quality of our daily lives by fixing the places we like to go.

Drew Boyles: While writing this late on a Sunday night, I hear the whining of turbine engines as well as thunderous takeoffs at LAX. LAX is a critical component of our city's value proposition, yet as such, we need strong leaders that will protect our interests as a city in that relationship. It is disappointing that the Residential Sound Insulation program was abruptly terminated, leaving many residents without adequate noise insulation, even after some had already been measured for their retrofits. I will work to reinstate these benefits for our residents, protect us from LAX encroachment, and increase monitoring/enforcing of noise violations.

Marie Fellhauer: Currently, El Segundo doesn't have an ordinance for parking recreational vehicles on our residential streets. These vehicles cause safety hazards for residents trying to back out of their driveways and in some cases become eye-sores for our community. We need to look at ways to address the issues, while protecting the rights of residents who own recreational vehicles. I believe the best solutions come from engaging our community members by way of town hall meetings, community based committees and surveys.

Dave Atkinson: The most pressing problem facing El Segundo is our infrastructure. Our sewers' drainage system is well past the recommended replacement time of approximately 50 years. Many of the city's buildings are long overdue for fixes and upgrades. Many don't meet current safety requirements, or the latest earthquake codes. The Elevator at the Joselyn Center needs to be totally replaced, it's stalls at times between floors and has no phone reception for emergencies. This is an unsafe and dangerous situation as most of the users are senior citizens. We can't wait any longer. Let's fix them now; vote Yes on Measure B.

#2 Is the City going in the right direction. If yes, why. If not, what would you do to change it?

Carol Pirsztuk: Businesses bring revenue to El Segundo, and the city is moving in the right direction by focusing on enticing new businesses to move to our town. However, the city needs to have the sophistication to support these new business partners and the changing needs of our city. From providing sufficient services to streamlining development projects, the city needs to ensure they have the appropriate resources available and processes in place to provide excellent customer service. My extensive experience in change management and business development will be a benefit to the city as we look toward the future.

Don Brann: With economic development, the City is thriving with new shopping venues and new firms. So, in this area, yes the City is moving in the right direction. When it comes to building relationships and trust between leadership and employee groups, the answer is clearly "no". Not only is there friction within the Council, but also between management and employee groups. This has resulted in low morale and vacancies. Consequently, it is now time for a change in leadership and a fresh start. A bridge must be built through mutual respect and viewing situations through others eyes.

Drew Boyles: Based on my conversations with hundreds of residents, feelings are mixed. Many residents appreciate that we are attracting more consumer-oriented businesses, led by the Economic Development Advisory Council I Chair. However, they are concerned about the lack of vision, communication and morale coming from City Hall. When the average resident is asked what the vision of the city is, they struggle to answer the question. In order to thrive as a city, we must provide a Voice for our residents and businesses. Finally, we need to create a unified organization that treats everyone with respect and dignity.

Marie Fellhauer: Yes & No. While the city is moving forward in a positive way with economic development, we need to focus on our aging and underdeveloped technological infrastructure and how we will pay for it. The importance of a satisfied workforce cannot be overstated. Despite the fact that we are addressing costs, it's imperative the top leadership (mayor) consistently expresses gratitude for the great things our employees do. This kind of messaging has been missing for a long time. Personal meetings with employee groups are invaluable to cultivate mutual understanding. I have done this and will continue to if re-elected.

Dave Atkinson: El Segundo is currently heading in the right direction. We are attracting many new businesses, which in turn drive up our revenues and visitors. This enables us to move forward with many improvements the city so desperately needs. El Segundo's businesses generate over 95% of the city's income. This enables many of the wonderful benefits we all enjoy. However, we need to streamline the process and become more efficient. I believe the city should have monthly updates for everyone about the progress of all that's happening, not only for businesses, but all other events. Everyone needs to be aware and involved.

#3 What current City policy or ordinance should be changed and why?

Carol Pirsztuk: City services refer to the essential services a resident of a city should expect in exchange for paying taxes. El Segundo prides itself on being a full-service city by providing residents with fire, safety and public services. In recent years, the city has decided to implement fees on some of these services, including hospital transportation, even though usage does not significantly impacted the cost of this service. A full cost-benefit analysis of fees associated with essential services should be done to determine if they are viable and the hospital transportation fee should be eliminated.

Don Brann: Currently residents who require ambulance transport to the hospital are invoiced for the emergency service. This policy should be changed. Receiving such an invoice is like "adding insult to injury." El Segundo emergency services are the best, but residents should not have to pay for them twice--first with taxes, then with an unwanted invoice. Another policy change that would help improve business for downtown restaurants is to prohibit visiting food vendors from participating in the Farmer's Market. It's unfair to local restaurant owner/operators to be asked to compete with vendors with no overhead selling food in the street.

Drew Boyles: We should develop a helpful, solution-based City Hall that is open at least five days a week and eager to assist its constituents. All too often, residents and businesses seem to be dissatisfied with the level of service and bureaucracy. We must create an empowered, productive and transparent culture that is equipped to serve our community's needs. We should begin to measure resident and business satisfaction, along with many other performance metrics: organizations cannot thrive without knowing such results relative to their goals and historical performance. We should also embrace policy that draws more retail and restaurants to Main Street.

Marie Fellhauer: The residential zone development codes were modified in 2006 to limit the size of homes and impact on neighboring properties. While I understand light issues needed to be addressed to protect neighboring properties, I believe the code goes too far by precluding certain styles from being developed. The second floor modulation requirement has caused many of our residents to incur inordinate expenses and/or not to build in El Segundo. Property setbacks are extremely important and they should not be reduced. However, the way the code is currently written is confusing and should be revisited for clarification and community input.

Dave Atkinson: We need to re-visit all of El Segundo's building standards and codes. Many of them date back over 50 years. They are very cumbersome and can be interpreted many ways, causing confusion and delays in our entire building and planning department. Our customers and residents feel this the hardest. We need to invest in new technology that will also speed up the process with clarity and greater understanding for everyone. The talented city staff needs to have the necessary tools for the many daily tasks they face. This will enhance the total working environment and customer satisfaction.

#4 What programs should the City provide for youth and seniors that we don't have now and what would you do to jumpstart those?

Carol Pirsztuk: El Segundo has expansive parks and recreation programs that provide enrichment classes for all ages including, sports, health, hobbies, travel and the arts. Given the speed at which technology is changing the workplace, I would like to see

Film Review

I Saw The Light From Hank Williams' Shadows

By Ryan Rojas for Cinemacy.com

Audiences are about to see American music icon Hank Williams in a whole new light. From director Marc Abraham (whose other feature film credit was 2008's Greg Kinnear-starrer Flash of Genius) comes I Saw the Light, a Hank Williams biopic that brings the singer's dark past of booze, infidelity, and generally being an all-around "sonuvabitch" to the big screen.

For our interview with Tom Hiddleston, Elizabeth Olsen, and director Marc Abraham, visit cinemacy.com.

Elizabeth Olsen as Audrey Williams and Tom Hiddleston as Hank Williams. Courtesy of Sony Pictures Classics.

The main problem with the film, which feels like it slogs with a tired morose from start to finish, is that the story of Williams as a drunk isn't a particularly interesting one—at least not when it isn't balanced out with any other redeeming parts of his life as an inspired artist, and one so culturally important to rock and roll on the whole. In choosing to focus on the darker and more unknown parts of the troubled star's life, we also get a heavy heaping of drunkenness and depression which, when assembled together in awkwardly edited fragments of the singer's life, fail to make the case that his life was movie-worthy.

Based on the book Hank Williams: The Biography, the film stitches together an assortment of moments from Williams' life—an early marriage to Southern Belle Audrey Williams (Elizabeth Olsen), recording sessions here and there, the arrival of a new child, one or two other scenes of Williams actually performing in concert—along with Williams' indulgences in drugs, alcohol, and women. While Abraham may have wished to tell a more honest story of the man under the 10-gallon cowboy hat by crafting scenes that feature one, two, or three people, the economy of the movie just feels too small to hold interest in. Noticeably, most scenes take place in small recording studios, bedrooms, and other tight spaces, which only ultimately expose how empty the story is; when you notice that Williams is wearing the same pajama pants in three separate bedroom scenes, it's probably clear that there should have been more diversity in scenes, or moments of his life, rather than continuing to beat the movie's central focus of dealing with depravity like a dead horse.

As biopics go, and as another rock biopic to profile a legendary American icon country singer, I Saw the Light won't be able to distance itself from the Johnny Cash movie Walk the Line, which continues to age and arguably stand as one of the finest biopics ever made. Where Cash's devil-may-care attitude was rebounded by his madly-crazy love for one Ms. June Carter (with completely inspired performances from Joaquin Phoenix and Reese Witherspoon), Williams is portrayed as a man troubled by his own demons and nothing more, which makes for an all-consuming character that comes off as just plain selfish.

Tom Hiddleston manages to give a graceful and connected performance, as the English actor embodies the tortured star in a collected manner with the twinkle in his eye for delinquency. However, something about the lean Brit never feels particularly, dare I say it, American, and with such a limiting script, we never feel like we learn much more about Williams than his more scandalous ways. Elizabeth Olsen is along for the ride as Williams' first wife, in what's a two-hander type role, until around the third act when she (and her overly twangy country drawl) fall into the background as her less than faithful husband finds courtship with two other women. What feels like a cliché device of Williams learning of a chronic back illness that slowly deteriorates his body and psyche, putters out to a less than satisfying ending to what was already a drag.

I Saw the Light fails to deliver what its title promises, as Williams fails to find enlightenment or meaning in a life of fast living. By the time the story caps at his youthful age of 29, we are only left to wonder what this story's fuller potential could have been if it didn't wish to live in the shadows the entire time.

Kershaw May Be Wasting His Prime?

By Adam Serrao

The best thing that the Dodgers have had going for them over the past eight years is Clayton Kershaw. Kershaw, currently the best pitcher on the Dodgers staff and in the league, is also the best pitcher that Los Angeles has seen since Sandy Koufax. The current Dodgers ace figures to surpass even him in Dodgers lore one day. While Kershaw continues to pitch lights-out, the team around him continues to dwindle. Ever since Andrew Friedman and Farhan Zaidi have taken over, L.A. has gone into a “look into the future” sort of mode. That being said, the front office and the management of the Dodgers are taking their time with some of the best prospects in the entire league that could be helping the Dodgers win big and win big today. With such a patient attitude, the Dodgers could see their World Series hopes disappear until well after Kershaw is gone and out of his prime.

Clayton Kershaw is widely considered to be the best pitcher that baseball has ever seen. As a left-handed starter, the eight-year veteran has the lowest career ERA among starters with a minimum of 1,000 innings pitched in the live-ball era. He's a three-time Cy Young Award winner, a 2014 MVP, a five-time All-Star and a Triple Crown winner, amongst his many other accolades. Yet still, Kershaw has never been to the World Series. That's a feat that looks as far away now than it ever has for Kershaw, who has been watching the team around him become less and less qualified to become a World Series favorite as each year of the calendar continues to flip on by.

Most people will point to the fact that since the Guggenheim group of Stan Kasten, Magic Johnson and others have purchased the team, they have done nothing but spend money. Since the front office's upheaval and the introduction of Friedman and Zaidi, however, the team has done exactly the opposite. Friedman and Zaidi have been given a team full of over-stuffed, explosive contracts, but what the two have done since demoting ex-GM Ned Colletti is let players with huge contract implications like Zack Greinke and even Matt Kemp walk away. With good cause. Kemp has sunk into an abyss and it remains to be seen what Greinke will do with his new seven year contract that should the Dodgers have signed him, would have cost an absurd amount in luxury tax. The fact remains, however, that the notion of the Dodgers being big spenders on the free-agency market is becoming a thing of the past. Friedman, one of the league's leading endorsers of 'moneyball', has made sure of that.

Now, Los Angeles' focus has turned to grooming their young players to be stars in the league one day. Players like Julio Urias, Corey Seager, Jose De Leon, and Frankie Montas are all among the best pro-prospects in the entire league, yet they are all being handled with kid-gloves. Opportunities at the Major League level present themselves, yet are now consistently being filled by the likes of Chase Utley, Howie Kendrick, Alex Wood, or Brett Anderson. The Dodgers have the best arm in the entire game. The best arm that maybe the game has ever seen. The fact that they have been unable to get Kershaw to a World Series says less about Kershaw's postseason mishaps and more about the talent that has been put around him. Players like Yasiel Puig, Carl Crawford and Andre Ethier unwaveringly hit a "deer in the headlights" stretch of play once the grand stage of the playoffs roll around. Kershaw is alone on an island, attempting to singlehandedly devise an escape plan to get back to civilization (which is the World Series) as his fellow castaways sit back and relax in the palm-tree-laden shade.

The Dodgers have been consistently putting a winner on the field since Frank McCourt bankrupted his way out of town. While the team winning 90 games a season and making it into the playoffs certainly gives the Dodgers faithful something to cheer about, there remains an overwhelming feeling every year that when it comes down to the nitty-gritty and the Dodgers need something - someone - to get them over the hump and toward a victory in a championship game, they are clearly lacking. The Dodgers have very well been winning, but that winning has been masking the fact that they have been nothing close to a World Series type of team. This year is no different. As we enter into the 2016 season, there is no doubt that Clayton Kershaw will once again put up numbers that will progress his cause to be the best pitcher baseball has ever seen. Another Triple Crown, another league-leading ERA and WHIP, another CY Young Award. They'll all have gone for naught once the Dodgers slip further down the standings this year than they have been in any of the four seasons since McCourt has left the team. Kershaw can opt out of his contract with the Dodgers in 2018. Let's all just hope that he doesn't get fed up by then and like Greinke, walk his way out of town. •

It became the fourth largest computer company in Europe, and a worldwide specialist in banking and point-of-sale systems.

This is the fifth year that Beach City has hosted the tournament and it will be the largest event they have sponsored yet. The first tournament evolved from the major earthquake in Tokyo five years ago. Originally a team from Beach City Baseball Academy had planned

Additionally, the city could provide career development classes for all residents and incentives to encourage internships for local students. The city also has an opportunity to connect residents with local businesses by hosting job fairs and networking opportunities, fostering a shop, play, work environment.

Don Brann: The City provides varied activities for both its youth and its seniors. The Recreation and Parks Department has a staff that cares and works hard to provide good customer service. For Youth, I would like to see a motivational speaker series combined with concerts. Ask the Teens to plan the presenters and music groups. For Seniors, we need to operate the out of town Dial-A-Ride service to doctor's every week day. Also, we need to study the feasibility of developing an El Segundo Village network to support seniors wanting to stay in their home or "age in place."

Drew Boyles: We need to establish advisory groups comprised of youth, parents, and seniors, listening to their Voice before determining the best allocation of funds and services. I envision a multi-generational group that seeks to maintain El Segundo's unique culture and small town charm while offering invaluable learning experiences through a mentoring program: this collaboration could shape future generations, reward the older generations for sharing their experience, and offer community service recognition across the board. For seniors and youth, the city should offer robust transportation services—be they shuttles to doctor appointments or to the sports fields—for little to no cost.

Marie Fellhauer: With the upcoming development of the new pool on the east side of town, and many of the high school programs moving to that location, more pool time will be available at the plunge for our community residents. The City should first remodel the interior of our plunge while maintaining the historical exterior façade and partner with ESUSD to provide every child in El Segundo the opportunity to learn to swim through a school program. Furthermore, we need to offer additional adult and senior swim programs at the plunge to encourage more healthy activities.

Dave Atkinson: El Segundo already has a great variety of activities and events for everyone; not just the youths and seniors. We are very fortunate to live here. There needs to be total community involvement with questions and suggestions. We can then sort through the information to help us decide the wants and needs for all of us. Offering outings and various get-a-ways could result in more community involvement. Picnics, fundraisers, and other general get-togethers are a great way for citizens to be involved in our city. The more we do together the greater our city and all of us become. • tax hike. The City lured hotels here with a Business Attraction Program and lower hotel Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT). Now after the hotels are built, the City is trying to raise their TOT tax by 50%, from 8% to 12%. This tax, paid by customers, will increase room prices and reduce sales. The TOT is only 10% in adjacent Manhattan Beach.

Measure B will destroy El Segundo's long-established reputation as a fair and stable business-friendly city. We may ultimately lose more tax revenue than we will gain, by discouraging businesses from coming and expanding here.

The hotel operators, Councilman Mike Dugan, and former Council Members Mike Robbins, Jane Friedkin and Dick Switz all oppose Measure B.

Government must learn to live within its means. This cycle of handing out big pay raises to the safety unions and management, and raising taxes to pay for it, has increased both the funded and unfunded CalPERS pension liabilities. It has got to stop. Each pay raise increases the pension liabilities. El Segundo's unfunded CalPERS pension liability – about $106,500,000 – must be paid over many years, as employees retire, over their remaining lifetime, which will average about 25 to 35 years per retiree.

Vote "No" on Measure B to stop this vicious cycle.

– Jerry Wellfonder

No more Tantrums and Disrespect

Voters, now is our chance to remove the two rude, mean-spirited Council members and get five professionals to represent us.

Imagine council meetings where Dave Atkinson doesn't storm off the dais using curse words when he doesn't get his way. Or a meeting where Marie Fellhauer and Dave don't roll their eyes and tell speakers they are wrong, or liars, during public comments. Seriously, would you let your kids behave that way?

Let's not forget the time Dave and Marie ambushed Mike Dugan during his campaign event at the Moose Lodge two years ago. This behavior wouldn't be accepted at El Segundo Middle School.

Time to be an example and tell our children why candidates' character counts.

I know who I won't be voting for.

– Sue Capo

Strange Election

The police and fire unions are endorsing and campaigning for the three challenger candidates because they want incumbents Marie Fellhauer and Dave Atkinson off the City Council. This makes for a strange election, because Fellhauer and Atkinson should be off the City Council, and challengers Carol Pirsztuk and Don Brann should be elected. The unions usually endorse the worst tax-and-spend candidates.

We must judge the incumbent City Council candidates by their voting record, especially when they had a majority with Bill Fisher and ran amok, not by their campaign rhetoric, false accomplishments, and campaign promises.

Fellhauer and Atkinson have been tax-and-spend politicians. They voted for at least a dozen tax hikes, on residents and businesses, and fee increases, to pay for excessive police and fire union raises handed out by their allies Eric Busch and Bill Fisher.

They played a financial shell game to claim they balanced the City budget. They spent down the City's Reserve Account, and borrowed large sums from the Equipment Replacement Fund, which is used to save up money over the years to pay for everything from new computers to new police cars and fire engines.

Fellhauer and Atkinson continued the Chevron Shakedown started by Busch and Fisher, and effectively extorted an additional $8.5 million average per year for 15 years from Chevron, without justification.

They are talking like conservatives, and padding their campaign literature, taking credit for accomplishments of the current fiscally conservative majority. Fellhauer is even quoting Ronald Reagan in this masquerade.

– Marianne Fong

We Care About El Segundo

Your El Segundo police officers and fire-fighters are supporting Measure B for one reason and one reason only: We love and care about this city! We support the El Segundo community by donating thousands of dollars to local charities each year. We sponsor several organizations such as El Segundo Little League, Tree Musketeers, the Ed! Foundation and C.A.S.E. (to name a few), as well as various El Segundo High School sports programs. That being said, we feel it's our duty to join our local leaders and support Measure B not only because it brings much needed revenue to the City's coffers, but because it's the right thing to do.

Please understand that the annual $3.2M brought in by Measure B is not earmarked for employee salaries! It will go straight to the general fund, where it will stabilize city revenue sources and aid in the many infrastructure projects that are long overdue. Measure B will bring the TOT to almost half of the Century Boulevard Corridor and almost 1% below the region average. We love El Segundo and we view supporting Measure B the same way we view supporting various community events, groups and organizations. It's just good for El Segundo.

As always, if you ever have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact us. Be safe everyone!

El Segundo Police Officers Association

Yes on B / Best Picks for Council

I was appointed to the Capital Improvement Advisory Committee (CIPAC) from 2012-2013. I know firsthand the critical infrastructure challenges that must be funded. I support Measure B. The city must spend Measure B revenue wisely and not waste the new revenue on public safety salaries, benefits, and pensions – once committed to salaries, etc., the benefit of Measure B revenue is eliminated forever. The vast majority of new revenue must be spent on one-time costs, city infrastructure, and supporting public safety with excellent equipment, technology, and resources. The public safety unions have hijacked the "Yes on Measure B" campaign as means to serve their selfish & greedy interests to boost their six-figure salaries and benefits. Our elected officials MUST show restraint, keeping CIPAC priorities in mind when setting future budgets.

My family and I met with Drew Boyles. We were impressed with Drew's experience, ideas, priorities, and vision for the newly elected council. David Atkinson deserves re-election because he has held the line on fiscal accountability and balanced budgeting. I support Carol Pirsztuk. Carol's background and future vision for El Segundo is solid. Marie Fellhauer does not deserve re-election; her past support, affiliation, and endorsements from convicted former Sheriff Lee Baca (one of the most corrupt law enforcement officials in LA County), represents extremely poor judgment – especially from a working police official. Don Brann's past council actions; mainly supporting a fire-service merge with LA County Fire, disqualify him.

The most qualified candidates are Drew Boyles, Carol Pirsztuk, and David Atkinson.

– David Burns

Eight Reasons to Vote Out the Incumbents

- 1.) Marie Fellhauer and Dave Atkinson voted for at least twelve tax hikes.
- 2.) They voted to charge residents more than $1,850 for each fire department paramedic ambulance transport to the hospital, even though taxes pay for that.
- 3.) They voted to lease out the driving range for up to 50 years, at CenterCal's option, without a competitive bid, for much less money than it's worth, to build a huge TopGolf sports bar with an enlarged driving range as an accessory. The lease will take land away from the golf course, restaurant, and pro-shop; eliminate hole #1; and reduce the yardage, difficulty, and possibly safety of the golf course.
- 4.) They used falsified financial data to misrepresent that the golf course is losing money to justify their sweetheart deal.
- 5.) They voted to remove more competent and honest Carl Jacobson from the Mayor's office and make Bill Fisher mayor, in the middle of Jacobson's term without justification.

6.) They and two police union members ambushed then City Council candidate Mike Dugan in 2014, rudely disrupting his Meet the Candidate night at the Moose Lodge. They kept interrupting him, made false accusations, and wouldn't let him talk.

7.) Fellhauer tried to eliminate City Council Member (but not City Clerk and Treasurer) benefits, to discourage candidates from running against her. She gets lavish benefits from LAPD.

8.) A Fellhauer camp political operative repeatedly pressured challenger Don Brann to stop running against her for City Council.

– Mike Robbins

Election Quiz

Name the council candidate(s) in the questions.

1. Which two council candidates removed a mayor without a legitimate reason?
2. Which two council candidates wanted senior citizens to pay for dial-a-ride, but not others using it?
3. Which council candidate walked out of the meeting because he couldn't work with other members?
4. Which council candidate attended a meet and greet of another candidate, causes problems by calling him a liar and other things, which caused people to leave?
5. Which council candidate interrupted a senior citizen during public communications and condemned her using of work "Mayberry" in describing El Segundo?
6. Which council candidate during a recent meet the candidates night by League of Women Voters, had to be warned twice by arbitrator regarding remarks about one of the others?

The answer to these questions is Dave Atkinson and Marie Fellhauer. Time for a change, Brann, Pirsztuk, and Boyles.

– Debbie Hayman

Too Big and Seriously Ugly

How pleased I was to read Mr. Fisher's letter to your editor! I have been wondering for years, if there were any rules at all, in this city, regarding the appearance of these humongous houses going up. Not only are they way too big for their lots, but many are seriously ugly. They stick out like sore thumbs in this city.

To claim we need more spec houses is outrageous. That we should not have any control over the appearance of a new house being built leaves me nearly speechless. Councilwoman Fellhauer certainly just lost my vote. Please read Drew Boyles' statement, which promises to protect El Segundo's small town charm. Now that is something a 50 year resident can get behind.

Termites should be Top-Of-Mind during Spring Real Estate Season

(BPT) - Spring is here, and it's the perfect time to sell or buy a home. Whether you're putting your home on the market, or shopping for a new house for your family, you have a lot to think about - and termites should be near the top of your list. Just as swarms of homebuyers will start circulating through neighborhoods with the arrival of spring, the warmer weather also brings out termite swarms. A termite infestation can quickly turn your dream home sale or purchase into a living nightmare.

"Termites cause about $5 billion in damage every year, and when you consider that they've been around since the days of the dinosaurs, it's probably safe to say they've done more damage to human homes than any other critter on earth," says Cindy Mannes, vice president of public affairs for the National Pest Management Association (NPMA). "Fortunately, we've come a long way in detecting and treating termite infestations over the millennia!"

Worldwide, about 2,000 termite species munch on wood, destroying walls, floors and wallpaper in homes, and also damaging forests. They are present in 70 percent of countries around the world, and they outnumber human beings by a ratio of 10 to one. The most common termite species in the U.S. are Formosan termites, dampwood termites, drywood termites and subterranean termites, the last of which are the most destructive because they eat non-stop.

A professional inspection is the best way to detect the presence of termites, but you can watch for warning signs as you are house hunting or getting yours ready to put on the market. Signs include:

- Mud tubes may appear around the outside of a house. Termites use these tubes to reach a food source. Typically, these tubes look like a thick line of dirt on the foundation of a home.

- Tap on wood near the floor, such as baseboards or even wood floors themselves. If the wood sounds hollow when tapped it could mean termites have softened the wood.

- Termites also leave a bit of themselves behind as evidence. You may see small piles of feces that resemble sawdust near a termite nest. Discarded wings near doors or on windowsills can indicate a swarm has occurred and the swarmers have entered the home.

Termites swarm to create new nests.

Winged "swarmers" leave the original nest and go in search of new digs where they can establish a colony. You may see swarmers on windowsills or near doors and think they're flying ants. You can tell the difference by their wings. While both flying ants and termite swarmers have front and back pairs of wings, on termites both pairs are the same length. On ants, the back wings will be much shorter than the front ones.

A professional termite inspection remains the best way to detect the presence of termites, yet 52 percent of American homeowners have never had their homes inspected, according to an NPMA survey. Termite detection, remediation and control isn't something you can do yourself.

"A termite inspection should be a part of any home buying or selling process, although not all states require one for the sale or purchase of a home," Mannes says. "However, when you consider the cost-benefit of having an inspection done, it's well worth the investment. Termites can cause thousands of dollars in damage to a home and more importantly can compromise the structure's stability and safety. So, it's best to act quickly if a problem is suspected." To learn more about termite prevention or to find a licensed pest professional in your area, visit www.pestworld.org, the education website of the NPMA.

PLACE: City Council Chambers

350 Main Street

El Segundo, California

TAKE NOTICE that the El Segundo PLANNING COMMISSION will hold a public hearing at the time and place indicated above on the following:

Environmental Assessment No. EA-1136 and Subdivision No. SUB 15-12 (Vesting Tentative Parcel Map No. 73879)

Address: 135-139 Virginia Street and 412 West Franklin Avenue

Applicant: Lyle Maul

Property Owner: Virginia ES10, LLC c/o Lyle Maul

The Planning and Building Safety Department received an application for an Environmental Assessment (EA-1136) and a Subdivision No. SUB 15-12 (Vesting Tentative Tract Map No. 73879) for two parcels to construct one 10-unit condominium development at 135-139 Virginia and 412 West Franklin Avenue. The subdivision is to reconfigure three lots into two parcels, and to subdivide the parcels into condominium air space rights. The proposed 10-unit residential condominium development is proposed on two lots, 8,136 square feet and 9,730 square feet respectively, with 5 units and 12 semi-subterranean parking spaces on each lot. The project site consists of three lots developed with two-family and multi-family uses. The site currently contains a total of six structures on the site ranging in size from 748 square feet to 1,664 square feet. The project site is located in the Multi-Family Residential (R-3) Zone on the block bounded by Franklin Avenue to the north, El Segundo Boulevard to the south, Whiting Street to the west, and Virginia Street to the east.

The proposed project is exempt from the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to 14 California Code of Regulations §15332 as a Class 32 categorical exemption (infill development). The project consists of constructing four buildings on two parcels in the Multi-Family Residential (R-3) Zone. The project will result in a net increase of one additional residential unit. The project is proposed to be built on a site of not more than five acres and is substantially surrounded by urban uses. Furthermore, the site has no value as a habitat for endangered, rare, or threatened species. There are adequate utilities and public services to serve the project. The project is consistent with the City's General Plan and Zoning Code, and is not anticipated to have any significant impacts with regard to traffic, noise, air quality, or water quality.

Files for the above-mentioned proposal are available for public review Monday through Thursdays between 7:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. in the Planning Division, Department of the Planning and Building Safety, located at 350 Main Street, El Segundo. Any person may give testimony at the public hearing at the time and place indicated above. Please contact Raneika Brooks, Assistant Planner, in the City Planning Division at (310) 524-2343, for further information.

Note that any appeal of a decision made following a public hearing may be limited to the issues raised by evidence submitted before or during that public hearing.

the north, Campus Drive to the south, Douglas Street to the east, and Campus Square West Nash to the west.

The proposed project is categorically exempt from the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to 14 California Code of Regulations § 15301 as a Class 1 categorical exemption (Existing Facilities). The project includes the approval of permits to allow the sale of general alcohol (beer, wine, and distilled spirits) at a proposed restaurant and for outdoor dining. The project is not anticipated to have any significant impacts with regard to traffic, noise, air quality, or water quality. to visit and play a series of games against the Kitasuna team. When the 2011 Tōhoku earthquake and tsunami struck the coast of Japan the magnitude 9.0 undersea quake caused devastation and essentially the canceling of the Beach City team's trip.

Beach City Academy owner, Richard Murad, brainstormed with others and decided to bring some relief to some very unfortunate people. He invited the Japan team to leave the devastation behind and free their minds of the turmoil that had wreaked havoc on their city and country. He invited the team and their supporters to El Segundo and play a tournament of games against local teams right here at Brett Field. Murad said, "It was the least we could do for all the suffering they had to overcome."

Over the past four years the tournament has gained local, regional and national attention not only because of the International teams playing but the local teams that participate in it as well. According to former El Segundo high school baseball standout Ryan Lopez this year's tournament will be the most competitive and have some of the best teams from Southern California entered.

The Beach Cities Academy has two teams entered and both are highly competitive. Lopez and Sean McNally, another former El Segundo high school baseball great, coach one of the teams. Their team is regarded as one of the top twenty travel ball teams, in this age group, in the country. Lopez's team consists of players from Pacific Palisades, Fullerton, Los Angeles, Manhattan Beach and Torrance. He says that this team, which has been together for three years, will be one to watch during the three day tournament.

Though Lopez's team doesn't have any El Segundo players on his team the other one that is coached by Sean Thompson does. Perennial El Segundo Little League all stars that play for Coach Thompson include Eddie Grant, Conrad Bernstein and Jack Stoker. All three were member of the 10 year old all star team that competed for a state championship.

The El Segundo Little League will have its own team that will be coached by former El Segundo high school baseball legends Travis McAndrews and Nick Coulter as well as Phil Stolnack. The team is comprised of 12 year olds who were on the first El Segundo 10 year old all star team that advanced to the state tournament. Coach McAndrews said, "As this tournament grows it definitely becomes more of an honor to be a part of it considering the Japanese and German teams are tops in their countries and the Kitasuna team is the defending Little League World Series champions."

The ESLL team looks impressive and could give any number of the travel club teams a close game. The roster includes Brendan McAndrews, Wyatt Coulter, Cooper Stolnack, James Pearson, Cameron Johnson, Jason McGowan, Tommy Tichy, Nelson Taback, Jack Fruchtman, Ben Hill, Ben Villa, Cooper Katskee, Sebastian Brockman, Owen Kirsten and Chance Vander Linden.

This tournament has become a popular one to enter and this weekend should provide a glimpse of tomorrow's stars both domestic and internationally. Teams from Riverside, Chino Hills, Anaheim, Torrance, Manhattan Beach, Torrance, Cheviot Hills and Redondo Beach are all entered. According to Coach Lopez, who oversees the tournament, there is a waiting list to enter and they've had to turn back a number of teams. As it is the three day event consumes both Brett Field and the softball field as well as a field at Marine Field in Manhattan Beach.

Come out and enjoy some of the most entertaining baseball and watch some of the top 11 and 12 year olds in Southern California. Come early and watch the discipline and crisp pre-game infield that both the Kitasuna and German National teams take. Don't forget to bring a pad and pen to get a souvenir autograph from these players who one day could be playing in the Major Leagues. There is a full snack bar at all fields to keep you satisfied and plenty of parking. Bring a blanket and sit in the outfield at Brett Field and catch some of the home runs that'll be hit. •

The Kitasuna team, that plays in this weekend's tournament, poses with the Beach City Academy banner before coming to El Segundo.
