Smoky Hollow District Gets Ready to Roll with Specific Plan Update

By Brian Simon

The community got a sneak peak at what the future may be for El Segundo's Smoky Hollow at a launch event last Thursday introducing the new specific plan for the industrial district -- the first update of the document since the 1980s. The program that took place at Big Door Studios included a 20-minute presentation (shown three separate times) followed by question and answer sessions. The City of El Segundo's goal is to "provide a framework and long-term strategy to guide public and private investment" in Smoky Hollow, which has already become a hub for creative media companies looking for prime space near the beach, adjacent freeway access, comparative low cost, small town charm, great building stock, eclectic uses and good schools. In the PowerPoint presentation, the City describes Smoky Hollow as "an eclectic incubator district of creative, innovative and dynamic businesses." Three of the guiding principles of the plan are to promote a vibrant area to transform it into a creative center for El Segundo and the region as a whole, support infrastructure improvements to attract and retain employee-intensive businesses, and preserve the mid-century industrial feel and small-town character. The plan also looks to encourage land uses that support the district's vision for commercial and industrial development that promotes new and existing businesses while also maintaining economic growth, incorporating sustainability elements, and protecting nearby residential neighborhoods. The City hopes to build Smoky Hollow's image as a walkable, pedestrianfriendly area with "intimate outdoor spaces" that provide a sense of community – with architecture that balances the historic industrial look with innovative sensibilities that suit today's creative firms. The plan also calls for seamless connectivity into adjacent Sepulveda (soon-to-be PCH) as well as into downtown El Segundo via accessible bike and walking paths.

The design vision pictures property sites with enhanced entry expression, lush landscaping with drought-tolerant plants, street furniture and easy access. Before and after images of streetscapes and mobility provide snapshots of Smoky Hollow's key arteries as they are today versus what the specific plan imagines. Among the proposed changes are on-street parking for El Segundo Boulevard with street trees and planters; one-way traffic with angled parking, artistic pedestrian crossings and parklets on the north/south streets; and street trees and parklets with resurfacing for shared roads welcoming all modes of travels (e.g. bicycles) on Franklin Street.

"The specific plan is important as a comprehensive, flexible and creative framework that will enable new and existing businesses to thrive and contribute to El Segundo's success," City Planning Manager Gregg McClain

El Segundo School Board Honors Top Personnel and Superintendent

By Duane Plank

Tuesday evening's meeting of the El Segundo School Board featured recognition of the educators of the year, classified employees of the year, School Resource Officer Scott Black, and Superintendent Melissa Moore.

Black received the first recognition. He has served El Segundo Unified School District (ESUSD) as the school resource officer since the fall of 2014. El Segundo High Principal Jennifer Tedford emailed, "We are so fortunate to have the support and guidance of Officer Black. Officer Black has been an outstanding resource in maximizing the safety and security of our campus." Moore added, "He has done an excellent job for our kids. We just want to say thank you." Police Chief Bill Whalen, in a prior Board meeting, had posited the possibility of adding a second resource officer, necessitated, he said, with the fall 2017 opening of Wiseburn High inside the El Segundo city limits. Moore said that District administration is advocating for ESUSD to have its own dedicated school resource officer.

Middle School Assistant Principal Ali Rabiei extolled the virtues of Black, who was then presented with an appreciation plaque from Board President Emilee Layne. Executive Director of Human Resources See School Board, page 13

said. "The plan will contribute to the Smoky Hollow district's evolution into an incubator hub and creative center by streamlining development regulations and processes, providing public infrastructure that modern creative and tech businesses need to succeed, investing in the streetscape to make Smoky Hollow more walkable and enhance the sense of place, and providing parking and mobility solutions for all modes of travel."

Among the key changes sought for Smoky Hollow is a floor area ratio (FAR) increase from the current 0.60 to 0.75 in the west portion that runs roughly from Standard to Lomita streets and tends to target smaller, single-parcel spaces; and 1.0 in the east section viewed as a transitional area leading into Sepulveda/PCH"s higher-intensity uses.

The City also seeks to establish a single parking ratio of one space per 400 gross square feet of floor area irrespective of type. Current parking regulations vary depending on the type and mix of uses.

Another component of the plan will be to allow exceptions from development standards (height, FAR, setbacks, etc.) if a community benefit is provided -- such as publicly accessible open space (pocket park) on a private property in exchange for permitting the building to exceed the 35-foot height limit. "Other public benefits could be providing parking in excess of the minimum requirement and making it available for use by the public, or dedicating a portion of the property for the purpose of widening the public sidewalk in front of the property," City Principal Planner Paul Samaras said.

Arguably the number one challenge for Smoky Hollow is lack of parking, which the City intends to first address by converting several north-south streets into one-way streets and replacing parallel spaces with angled ones. Samaras estimated an increase of 85 spaces from this move alone. "In addition, the City intends to add a parking lane on the north side of El Segundo Boulevard by narrowing down the existing travel lanes," he said. "The number of travel lanes will remain the same --two in each direction -- and the new parking lane may generate as many as 101 new parking spaces.

Funding for the project will potentially come from an in-lieu fee program in which a property owner who wishes to expand an existing building or construct a new one will pay a fee to the City instead of providing the actual parking spaces. The fee, currently the subject of a separate staff study to determine the appropriate amount, will cover the costs of various improvements such as landscaping and curb extensions at street intersections. Additional monies for improvements may come from grants and/or the City's general fund.

Thursday's event was the City's third community meeting regarding Smoky Hollow's specific plan. The environmental impact report (EIR) review and comment period closes on Monday, April 23, with a public hearing scheduled at the May 24 Planning Commission meeting before the item goes to the City Council on June 19 for another

El Segundo Moms Lead the Charge to Prevent Gun Violence

By Brian Simon

While the subject of gun control continues to be one of the most polarizing and divisive issues in the country, the question of how best to prevent gun violence in general remains at the forefront. With that in mind, three El Segundo moms recently took it upon themselves to, in their own words, "make their community a safer place for their children." Despite hectic schedules with kids and jobs, Joanna Bowe, Julia Cohen and Shannon Crouch agreed to become directors of the new South Bay Chapter of Moms Demand Action for Gun Sense in America. The branch falls under the umbrella of Everytown for Gun Safety, a non-partisan organization that describes itself as "pro-gun safety," but not "anti-gun." Indiana mother Shannon Watts founded Moms Demand Action as a grass roots organization soon after the December 2012 Sandy Hook school tragedy in Newtown, Connecticut. The message has since spread to all 50 states, with the South Bay Chapter among the fastest growing nationwide with over 3,000 members already.

"Our goal is to take collective volunteer action to keep our families and communities safe," Bowe said. Crouch elaborated on her colleague's comments. "This offered me one of the most clear-cut ways in which I could be involved, opportunities for training and education, and the chance to make an impact in my own community," she said. Speaking on behalf of parents in general, Cohen added, "I want my kids never to be afraid of being shot by a gun, but right now it seems like a reasonable thing to be afraid of."

The trio originally formed an El Segundobased chapter last fall, but saw the need to expand their reach after the Feb. 14 Parkland, Florida school shooting that resulted in 17 deaths and another 17 wounded. The South Bay Chapter of Moms Demand Action encompasses the area between LAX and Long Beach with all the coastal communities in between.

Among the group's stated goals are to make the South Bay community safer; focus on legislation for common sense gun reform; and create See El Segundo Moms, page 12

Community Briefs Updated Election Vote Totals Released: Same Winners

With 700-plus vote by mail and provisional ballots still left to address after last week's municipal election, the City Clerk's office verified the remaining ballots and then canvassed, inspected and counted them on April 19. ### Local Communities Help with Housing for AFB Personnel

In an effort to increase the supply of housing for military personnel assigned to Los Angeles AFB, a number of neighboring communities are pledging to encourage property owners to offer service members reasonable rental rates along with other benefits. Under the initiative - spearheaded by the Air Force Community Partnership Program, elected leaders from surrounding communities and the South Bay Aerospace Alliance — participating landlords would waive security deposits and application fees, and offer rates in line with military members' basic allowance for housing (BAH). Landlords also would include language in rental agreements allowing personnel to terminate leases early if they are issued orders to deploy, separate or relocate.

So far, the cities of Hawthorne, El Segundo and Redondo Beach have signed memorandums of understanding, with several additional communities expected to follow suit later this year. Participating communities would provide Los Angeles AFB's housing management office a list of landlords who have agreed to provide financial concessions to service members. A summary of the resolution adopted by the Hawthorne City Council states that the rise in housing costs in the Greater Los Angeles area in recent years has made it difficult for personnel to find housing that can be covered by their BAH. Many rentals also require high security deposits, the summary states.

Locals Excel in Run For Education

Story and Photos by Gregg McMullin

On a sundrenched morning this past Saturday, over 1,600 runners hit the streets of El Segundo to take part in the 27th Annual Big 5 Sporting Goods Run for Education. The 5K and 10K races are one of the biggest fundraisers put on by the El Segundo PTA Council. The successful event benefits El Segundo schools and draws runners from as far away as Bakersfield, Orange County and the Inland Empire. It was a perfect morning that was ripe for families to be together and get some exercise while at the same time helping out our schools.

El Segundo residents did well in the race. The 5K came down to the last 100 yards, but Phillip Gonzales held off El Segundo's Austin Van Biezen by a mere two seconds. William Seidel placed fourth, while three El Segundo High School cross country runners -- Ethan Liang, Ryan Massie and Arend Verfaille -- came in sixth through eighth. The first female runner to cross the line was former ES High standout Amy Reaser, while 11-year-old Ruihan Zhu was the youngest to cross the finish line first in 21:05.

Here are the top El Segundo male runners in each age division, with their placing in parentheses: 8U: Preston Milne-Castro (2), Will Collard (3), Luke Villavaso (4); 9-10: Declan Lister (1), Vinny Baldino (3) Til Lavelle (4); 11-12: Ruihan Zhu (1), Ethan Ayler (2); 15-17: Ryan Massie (1), Arend Verfaille (2) and Calvin Liang (3); 18-23: Ethan Liang (2) Brandon Yob (5), Ryan Porter (7); 30-34: Seidel (3) Garret Wong (4); 35-39: Adam Nicolai (2) Hass Sullivan (4); 45-49: Mike Zarneke (2), Patrick Dorr (4); 50-54: Douglas Carrigan (3) Vincent Marcias (4); 55-59: Richard Negrete (1); 60-64: John Stabile (2); 65-69: Paul Lavoi (2), Donald Brueck (3) Steve Wennerstrom (4); 70-74: John Telfair; and 80+: George Pelzman, who at 82 was the oldest male.

Top female runners from El Segundo were: 8U: Maribel Friel (1), Grace Dominick (2), Cailyn Fry (3); 9-10 Natalie Christenson (2); 11-12: Katy Durand (2), Sammie Kleiger (3); 13-14: Zane Sant, Morgan Villavaso (2), Sofia Wight (3); 15-17: Sophia Zago (1), Lauren Kleiger (2), Moira Gulden (3); 18-23: Aiyana Verfaille (1), Alicia Carr (3); 24-29: Amy Reaser (1), Casey Riorden; 30-34: Kelsey Robinson (1); 35-39: Sarah Townsend (1) Elaine Canchola (2), Heidi Schlagheck (4); 40-44: Jody Kleiger (1), Stacy Ward (3); 45-49: Mary Moy (1), Kelly Watson (2), Liz Davidson (4); 50-54: Lee Boyles (2), Sally Dail; 55-59: Angela Phillips (1); 60-64: Jeanne Nishime, Marie Loye and Meredith Beachly; 80+: Jeannie Pelzman and Sue Bartlett.

In the 10K race Steven Taylor was the first El Segundo resident to finish, with a time of 42:20 -- good for sixth overall. Elevenyear-old Erick Fallon finished 12th overall, while 10-year-old Xavier Friel was the youngest to the finish line first. Multi-time winner Valerie Voboril was the first female across the finish line. While Valerie won her age group, Steve Voboril won his own age and scored twice.

Quinn Kirsten went the distance in limiting the Normans to two runs on five hits, while striking out three. Kirsten improved to 2-0 in league play with a sparkling 1.25 ERA.

In the 5-0 win at home, Jaime Galicia was spectacular on the mound. Mixing up his fastball with his devastating breaking ball, he melted the Normans for nine strikeouts, scattered four hits and walked two while throwing 97 pitches. The closest Beverly Hills came to scoring was in the fifth inning when the Normans loaded the bases with one out, group division. Kevin Wright and his wife Kelly each medaled in their respective age group. Victoria Samia was the fourth overall female to finish and she is no stranger to the podium. Her winning time in her age bracket rewarded her with another medal.

Eagles Taking Care of Ocean League Foes

El Segundo faced Beverly Hills in a home and home set that saw the Eagles take care of the Normans 13-2 on the road and 5-0 at home. The Eagles made short order of the Normans in a mercy rule-shortened game. Matt Romero was 2-for-2 with a triple and five RBIs to pace the Eagles. Ryan Sullivan had a big day at the plate, going 3-for-3 with two doubles. He also scored twice and had an RBI. Cooper Sutherland went 3-for-4 with 4 RBIs, while Ian Bonham's bat has come alive as he collected two doubles but Galicia got a strikeout and a routine fly ball to end the inning.

Galicia also helped himself at the plate by driving in the winning run in the first inning. Ethan Burner walked to start the game and two batters later, Galicia's RBI single scored Burner. Romero followed with a three-run home run to give the Eagles a 4-0 lead after the first inning.

Offensively, the Eagles were stymied. After the first inning's single and homer, El Segundo had just three other hits the rest of the way. Though the Eagles scored one run in the second inning, they didn't threaten the rest of the way. Romero, who had two of his team's five hits, upped his batting average to .383 with a team-leading ninth extra base hit on the season.

Against Simi Valley in the third round of the Redondo Tournament, the Eagles ran into a buzz saw and fell 6-0. They never threatened in any inning and were limited to just three hits -- two by Ian Bonham. El Segundo kept the ball in play and hit the ball hard at times. The Eagles struck out just twice, but couldn't capitalize on two walks or two batters getting hit.

The Pioneers did the little things to win a baseball game. They capitalized by scoring on two walks and executed two sacrifice bunts, including a safety squeeze. They added two sacrifice fly balls. The Pioneers threatened in each of the first five innings, including the third inning when they loaded the bases with no outs. Copper Sutherland, who started for the Eagles, induced a force at the plate and a double play to end the inning.

The Eagles returned to Ocean League play on Tuesday at Lawndale and host the Cardinals today at 3:15 p.m. The Eagles host Hawthorne next Tuesday at 3:15 p.m.

Softball Team Throttles League Opponents

The Eagles improved to 3-1 in Ocean League play with their dominant performances over Beverly Hills and Lawndale. In the Eagles' 22-0 win over Beverly Hills, 11 players had hits --paced by Monique Benjamin and Adri Hebert who each had four hits. Hebert had a triple, four RBIs and four runs scored. Jade Johnson went 4-for-5 with three RBIs, Katie Croxall was 3-for-4 and scored three times, and Gabby Benjamin's big day included a home run and five RBIs. Johnson picked up her first win of the season by going the distance. She allowed two hits and one walk while striking out seven.

The Eagles continued their winning ways against Lawndale in their 20-1 win. Like they did against Beverly Hills, El Segundo scored in each of the five innings of the mercy rule-shortened game. Kat Kakuske and Mya Bennett each had perfect games at the plate. Kakuske was 3-for-3, while Bennett was 2-for-2 and scored three times. Rosalind Williams had three hits and three RBIs. Audrey Butler picked up her first win by tossing a two-hitter while striking out 10.

The Eagles played a key Ocean League game against Santa Monica on Tuesday and face Culver City today at 3:15 p.m. For the Eagles to stay in contention for a league title, they'd need to sweep both teams.

The Eagles split their first two games in the El Segundo Tournament, defeating Narbonne 11-3. However, they lost a heartbreaker to King-Drew 9-8. The tournament continues this Saturday.

Julia Chavez doubles in the tying run in the fourth inning against King/Drew.

Adri Hebert has great range, but couldn't come up with this ground ball.

Novel Is Comedic and Magical

Reviewed by Katrena Woodson, Teen and Young Reader Librarian, El Segundo Public Library

Phoebe and Her Unicorn is a wonderful graphic novel by Dana Simpson. This comic book has a very Calvin and Hobbes feel to it, only more modern and with female protagonists. The story is centered on the adventures of Phoebe, a likable fourth grader, and a unicorn named Marigold Heavenly Nostrils. The two cross paths when by chance Phoebe skips a rock and happens to hit Marigold the unicorn with it. Prior to this Marigold had been entranced by her own reflection, as unicorns are prone to, and trapped in a Narcissus-like state. By hitting Marigold with a rock, Phoebe accidentally set the unicorn free and as a result Marigold grants Phoebe a wish. As any fourth grade girl might do in this situation, Phoebe wishes that Marigold be her best friend. From that moment, on the two are inseparable and spend their free time on one adventure after another.

Simpson has given Phoebe a fantastic voice for a 9-year-old. Phoebe is not always the wisest and can often be prone to whimsy, whereas Marigold often comes across as the straight man. She takes things very literally, resulting in some very comedic situations indeed. These two are able to transform mundane things like piano lessons or encounters with a mean girl into giggleworthy situations that feel magical. This series is perfect for young readers ages 6-11. I would highly recommend this series to fans of Jennifer and Matthew Holm's Babymouse series.

Check It OutFilm ReviewPhoebe and Her Unicorn: GraphicBloodlight and Bami Shows Grace Jones Like Never Seen Before

By Morgan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

In 2015, Grace Jones released a memoir called I'll Never Write My Memoirs. In it, along with proving that she is not one to be labeled "predictable," Jones made the divisive claim that Beyonce, Miley Cyrus, Lady Gaga and other pop stars are guilty of copying her style. This, of course, caused a social media firestorm among the generation that was too young to know who this Grace Jones person was - how dare she insult Queen Bey! In the long-awaited and (apparently) much-needed reintroduction, director Sophie Fiennes gives audiences a rare look at this controversial, multi-hyphenated artist in the documentary-meets-art house film, Grace Jones: Bloodlight and Bami. The result is a product that may make millennials think twice before discrediting Jones as a selfproclaimed "original."

Filmed over a 10-year span and throughout various countries, Fiennes has created a with call girls as backup dancers) and follows an "art over money" philosophy that is inspiring to anyone pursuing creative dreams.

Much like Jones herself, Fiennes' filmmaking style is a reflection of her innovation. This type of filmmaking includes using film that looks dated, including glitches and lags. It switches between more intimate, fly-on-the-wall moments and energetic live performances.

For as inclusionary as the film's content tries to be, it seems like if one is not already a Grace Jones super fan or particularly interested in the '80s music scene, Bloodlight and Bami can feel exclusionary. No scene is particularly set up, leaving the audience to find themselves dropped into the middle of a moment without prior context, which can feel confusing and exacerbating during long takes. The takeaway is to go in without expecting this to be a straightforward documentary, as Bloodlight and Bami is not trying to be the next Amy. Approach this quintessential profile piece with Bloodlight and Bami that explores Grace Jones far beyond her controversial statements and tabloid headlines. Through hotel room conversations, intimate family dinners and private recording studio sessions, audiences see Jones as a mother, a churchgoer and a daughter, among other personal monikers. Most of the film takes place in Jamaica, Jones' birthplace, and audiences are thrust into the center of her family dynamic. Perhaps the most revelatory fact is Jones' admission of an abusive relationship with her stepfather, and the lasting effect it had on her. Yet she also film with an open mind and prepare for it to get blown away by the wildly wonderful Grace Jones.

Grace Jones: Bloodlight and Bami is not rated. 115 minutes. Now playing at the Nuart Theatre in Los Angeles. • credits the man, whom she calls Mas P, for inspiring her extremely masculine and "scary" onstage persona.

Watching Grace's creative process from early studio sessions to her live performances of "Slave to the Rhythm" and "Pull Up to the Bumper" are perhaps among the film's most fascinating scenes. Like a true artist, she performs without inhibition (except when she thinks she looks like a lady pimp

What is a CMA?

A comparative market analysis (CMA) is an evaluation of a home's value based on similar, recently sold homes (called comparables ) in the same neighborhood. A comparative market analysis is not the same as an appraisal, which is performed by a licensed appraiser. A CMA is prepared by a real estate agent. A comparative market analysis is an examination of the prices at which similar properties in the same area recently sold. Real estate agents perform a comparative market analysis for their clients to help them determine a price to list when selling a home or a price to offer when buying a home.

It is a good idea to periodically know the value of your home- even if you are not selling. A quick call to your local, knowledgeable agent is all you need to do. Your agent can then prepare a market analysis based on the most recent comps in the neighborhood that have similar bedrooms, baths and square footage. Location, lot size, and condition of property also carry weight when determining the price. The old cliche is true that "location, location, location" is a very important element of a CMA. This is a task that agents prepare for potential clients, buyers, sellers, neighbors or anyone free of charge.

If you are doing any estate planning or getting a Trust, it is a good idea to also know the value of your property or properties. I am happy to help in any way I can and am available seven days a week to help our El Segundo residents. I can be reached at Beach City Brokers at 431 Main Street or you can call at (310)261-0798. # Insider Tips And Tactics For Buying A Home In A Seller's Market

(BPT) - Whether you're a millennial looking to buy your first home or a boomer thinking about downsizing your empty nest, you're probably aware that it's a seller's market out there.

Homes are selling at lightning speed, bidding wars are commonplace, buyers often have little to no room for negotiation and the price of those homes keeps rising.

But don't worry! Just because it's a seller's market doesn't mean you can't get a good deal on the home of your dreams. Here are some insider tips and tactics from the pros at RE/MAX, LLC to help you get your slice of the American dream at a price you can afford.

Work with a full-time, experienced agent. This is critical, vital and non-negotiable. Things move so fast and offers are made within minutes of seeing a home. If you don't have a real estate agent, you can easily be overwhelmed by this thrill ride. Your agent can help you with negotiation, serve as your champion, and can guide you through this process as a pro.

Get pre-approved with a lender. When you're pre-approved, you've done all the paperwork upfront. The bank has decided what you can afford to spend. This tells the seller you mean business and are ready to roll.

Use technology. If you aren't using technology, you are missing out. Hop on remax.com and view homes within your price range or in your desired school zone or neighborhood. You can also get a sense of what's selling at your budget, and even calculate your estimated mortgage payment.

Don't wait to request a showing. If you're checking out houses online, ask your agent to request a showing as soon as you see one you like. Don't wait until the weekend. You know what they say about he who hesitates ...

Don't wait to make an offer. If you like it, jump on it. Make your offer clean (no contingencies such as the sale of another property), if possible, and consider offering favorable concessions to the seller such as a flexible closing date.

Think outside the box. You might have come into your home search wanting to live in a specific neighborhood. What if you expanded your horizons a bit? Cast your net wider into areas you hadn't considered. A lovely gem might be waiting out there for you.

Don't make a major purchase between offer and closing. If you do, it could upset your debt-to-income ratio. Your lender could run the numbers again, and you'd be sunk. Hold off buying furniture or ordering new appliances until after closing documents have been signed and the place is yours.

Following the advice of your agent is always critical, but it's even more important in a seller's market. He or she will guide you through the process, and you'll be unpacking boxes in your dream home in no time!

community awareness and involvement in the group's programs. Two initiatives are particularly front and center: the BeSMART for Kids campaign to reduce child gun deaths, and Mayors Against Illegal Guns. The group also monitors pending legislation, recently announcing its support of Assembly Bill 2103 that would require a minimum of eight hours of firing and safety training for conceal carry holders.

The South Bay Chapter kicked off with a meeting on March 25 at the Automobile Driving Museum where attendees learned about Moms Demand Action's mission, history, initiatives and successes. At one point during the gathering, 150 moms held up their lit cell phones and texted READY to 644-33 as an act of solidarity. Then a couple of days later, Crouch was one of three Moms Demand Action leaders invited by Sen. Diane Feinstein to participate in a panel at the Ronald Reagan UCLA Medical Center. "The purpose of the Gun Violence Roundtable was to gather gun violence survivors, gun control advocates and medical personnel who have experience treating people with gun-related injuries for a roundtable discussion on how to protect our communities," Crouch said, adding that Los Angeles City Attorney Mike Feuer was also in attendance.

Crouch went on to note that her chief objective is to normalize the conversation about guns. "When you are planning a play date, you want to be comfortable asking the questions, 'Do you have guns in the home?' and 'How are those guns secured?" she said. "And you want gun owners to feel comfortable volunteering that information."

Crouch added, "We can't give up until all people in this country - especially children are safer. Common sense gun legislation on both the federal and state level can do that."

Bowe spoke to those who might feel powerless in changing the status quo. "It's easy to feel like this is a hopeless situation, but it's really not," she said. "You can vote and make your voice heard. You can tell your representatives that this issue matters to you and your community. You can educate your neighbors about the importance of safe gun storage. You can find people who believe in this issue too and galvanize them to demand change in our country. That's what we're doing with Moms Demand Action." • and Facilities Dylan Farris next showcased the 2017/18 District "Educators of the Year," which included Lauren Turner (El Segundo High); Lori Preuss (El Segundo Middle School); Donna Scaltrito (Center Street School); and Michelle Varghese (Richmond Street School). "I think here in El Segundo," Moore said, "we are extremely fortunate to have a very talented team of professionals in the classroom. All four of these individuals are exemplary within their own grade level, or content area."

El Segundo High mathematics teacher Turner has worked in the education field for 15 years, 12 of those with ESUSD. She emailed prior to the meeting that she has been fortunate "to work with the math team at the high school." She then went on to mention the virtues of her collaboration working with different disciplines outside of the math department, summing up in her email: "When you are on this team, it is hard not to be inspired on a daily basis."

Farris revealed that Turner was also selected as the District's teacher of the year.

Varghese, a first grade teacher at Richmond since 2015, emailed that she is "so grateful to work with such amazing colleagues, administrators and students. I genuinely look forward to coming to work each and every day."

Farris spoke of the accomplishments of Center Street's Scaltrito, a third grade teacher who has spent three decades as a classroom teacher -- 20 years for ESUSD. She has two Master's degrees, Farris said, and revels when her ex-students come back to visit her to share their successes and thank her for being their teacher.

Middle School teacher Preuss has spent her entire career of 18 years with the District teaching myriad classes. Farris said that Preuss "enjoys adolescent humor and admits that she can often be found laughing uncontrollably" at her students' antics.

Farris also spearheaded the next presentation, which honored District classified employees, including Tomas Romo (student support services); Melissa Blanco-Gomez (instructional assistance); Walter Gomez (office and technical support); a nd Araceli Mora (maintenance, operations and facilities).

Romo, who works at El Segundo High, has also been selected for recognition at the county level, with his name also forwarded to the state level for possible further recognition.

Farris praised the job Romo, who has worked for ESUSD for 19 years, has done in doing "everything for the students," and pointing them in the right direction as they wind their way through the K-12 school years.

Blanco-Gomez has been a para-educator for ESUSD for 18 years. Working at Center Street, she is, Farris said, "deeply committed to working with the students who need the most support" in the district.

Walter Gomez has been employed in the IT department for the past five years. Farris called him "an invaluable resource," noting how Gomez has served as the "right-hand person" of District IT Director Danny Gauna, "keeping the District running whenever Danny is away." Farris added, "He is a hero in the district."

Mora, lead custodian at El Segundo Middle School, has worked for the District for five years, and, Farris said, quickly advanced to the lead custodian position after demonstrating her strong work ethic and attention to detail.

Superintendent Moore, wrapping up her fourth year at the helm of the District, was the next employee honored. She was recently selected as the California School Administrators (ACSA) Superintendent of the Year for Region 14. The District's administrative cabinet, in concert with the School Board, nominated Moore for the award in recognition of her "outstanding contributions to the students, staff and community," noting the "great strides in technology and innovation, staff development, facilities projects and continued community partnerships" that have occurred during her tenure.

Farris was again the presenter, and in his speech mentioned a recent Forbes magazine story that spoke of 10 tenets of leadership embodied by successful CEOs and how Moore has nailed them all.

"This award means a lot, because it is specifically coming from the [District] team," Moore said. "Certainly, I would not be here unless it was for the Board of Education." Not looking at her position as a stepping stone, Moore added, "I feel blessed to serve the students of the District and hope to be here for many years. I am the lucky one to serve with you. We are unstoppable. We are not El Segundo -- we are El Primero."

The Board next tackled multiple consent agenda items. Three items dealt with the District's issuance of "request for proposals" from interested vendors. These RFPs solicit bids from the "lowest possible, responsible" parties to provide waste management services; provide postage/mailing equipment; and procure District transportation services, as ESUSD continues to prudently spend available funds.

The action item agenda was dotted with standard-issue items, including a resolution designating the week of May 6-12 as "Certificated School Employee Week," and the formal approval of a new sign language class to be offered at El Segundo High.

Moore, giving kudos to the District's certificated employees, said, "Our entire teaching force is really exceptional. It's all about the teacher in the class and what gets accomplished. We are getting great feedback in the community about our teachers. It is a hard job."

Moore next highlighted upcoming events on the informational calendar, noting two upcoming town halls that will take place on May 10 and 17 and will allow members of the public to express their thoughts as the Board takes a fresh look at the District's Long-Range Facilities Master Plan and contemplates placing a school bond initiative on the November ballot.

Board member reports followed and Moore then wrapped up the 90-minute meeting with her report.

The next regularly scheduled El Segundo School Board meeting is set for Tuesday, May 8. •

Carrie

Give one of these kitties a second chance for a lifetime of love with you.

Lilo was discovered in some bushes, screaming her little head off for attention. Some kind folks snapped her up and she landed in Kitten Rescue's arms. A bit small for her age, she has grown in leaps and bounds and loves to play. Lilo is a busy girl. She pretty much is always on the go. She is attached to her human foster mom and enjoys taking hour-long naps on Mom's chest when she can. Lilo is a great hunter. She loves to carry her toys around and even likes to play fetch! She will bring her toys to you when she's ready to play. She needs to be in a home where she gets plenty of human attention. Lilo may take a little while to get used to her new home and other pets, so an experienced kitty lover is suggested for her. Carrie is a torbie, which is a mix between a tortoiseshell and a tabby coat pattern. Carrie has personality plus! Playful, friendly and affectionate, she has a little bit of that tortie-sass for good measure! She was rescued along with her litter of kittens from an LA County shelter, but now she is ready for a place of her own. She is okay with other cats and her current foster home has two large dogs.

Francisco

Oliver is a very sweet young cat. He is a calm cat, yet he does also like to play with toys. Sometimes he will come over and meow when he wants attention. His "special need" is actually a very minor thing -- he needs overthe-counter eyedrops in his left eye several times per week. That's it! He's a handsome orange muffin who would love to meet you.

Francisco was found in a feral cat colony, but is not feral at all. He was so glad to get out of the rain, the cement and the dirty environment and into soft beds with lots of love. He must have lived in a house at one time since he immediately used the litterbox appropriately. This big guy is super loving with everyone, affectionate and playful. Francisco respects the elderly cat who lives in the same room and is learning to play gently with the two females who visit him. He is very communicative with chirps, trills and meows. Francisco is ready for his own home and should have another cat to play with there.

Like her namesake, Zula is a thief who will steal your affection. She wants it all and when she gets it, she wiggles with happiness. She's smart, curious and loving. Zula was a bottle baby, so she is very attached to people and likes other cats. She's very playful and runs around the house at 100 miles per hour chasing her siblings. So she would not be a good candidate as an only kitty. Zula would love to share a home with one of her siblings Tribble, Sabrossa or Kitty Pride and would probably warm up to another playful kitty. One caveat with Zula: Somewhere in her infancy, she contracted a bacterial bug that occasionally affects her "poop." She gets bouts of diarrhea. There's no way to sell this as a feature -- it's definitely a bug. And despite numerous rounds of antibiotics and such, it hasn't been defeated. However, over time it has gotten much less frequent and she might grow out of it altogether. Plus, she always uses her box. It's a small flaw in such an amazing kitten.

Bella is a gentle, older feline (15 years) who is generally very quiet, yet seems to enjoy human company. She has spent her whole life in the same house and is accustomed to having other felines around. Bella is still healthy, but perhaps not as active as other younger cats. She loves to have her long fur brushed or petted. This beautiful little lady will become your close friend if you indulge her with that. She has an agreeable personality and is waiting to be part of your family.
