New City Clerk Susan Truax Embraces Her Role and the Challenges Ahead

By Brian Simon

When El Segundo's longtime City Clerk Tracy Weaver opted not to seek a fourth term, either voters could elect a potential write-in candidate, or the City Council would have to interview and appoint someone to fill the position. When local resident Tim Truax read about the vacancy in the Herald, he strongly encouraged his wife, Susan, to pursue the write-in route. After some additional goading, she decided to throw her hat in the ring. "I received calls about the open position from several friends and acquaintances, and when I ran into my former neighbor at the hair salon-and she pretty much insisted I pull papers-I went sense of humor in order to navigate the constant demands of her office, and to include a little bit of fun throughout the day to ease the stresses of the job. "My style is to lead by example," she said. "It's imperative to respect people, to listen to one another, to learn together, to collaborate with coworkers, and to own our errors. I recently led by example on that one. While our staff is reliably accurate, I've had to ask our City Council to approve corrected minutes a couple of times during their meetings-so that was a little embarrassing. I think I'm getting the hang of it now."

Truax previously ran for City Clerk in 2012, finishing second to Weaver, whose departure sparked her interest in the office again. This time, she emerged victorious over two challengers and assumed her duties in late December. In doing so, the cliche "hit the ground running" certainly applies-and then some. "One of the department directors described my on-boarding as drinking from a fire hose, and he couldn't have been more correct," she noted. "There is so much to learn, from big things like learning new software programs, the duties of my job and duties of the Clerk's office writ large... to how those things get done, to remembering the faces, names and positions of my new coworkers," she said. "It's also learning the little things, like how to run the time clock during Public Communications at Council meetings. That's been a work in progress."

Truax emphasized the importance of maintaining an upbeat, positive outlook with a good

Students Get an Education in AI Since 'It's Here to Stay'

By Rob McCarthy

El Segundo parents viewed a tutorial last week about artificial intelligence and its use in the classroom. The short answer is that AI prepares students to live and work in an increasingly digital society.

District officials began thinking in 2023 about how AI could be introduced into El Segundo classrooms in a manner that promotes "responsible and effective Al use, with an emphasis on digital citizenship and enhancing the learning experience," they announced in December of that year. ESUSD partnered with an AI educational safety alliance and developed policies and rules so teachers and students are in lockstep.

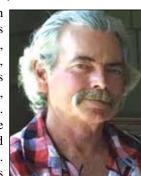

Generative AI, a narrow type of technology that can solve a specific problem and gain language skills, is now in use in El Segundo public schools, according to Phuong Uzoff, the El Segundo Unified District instructional technology coach. On an Aug. 16 Zoom session for district parents, she explained that the AI platform the district selected, called MagicSchool, acts like a tutor.

She added that teachers' jobs are safe, and MagicSchool aims to build criticalthinking skills, which is a question that comes up frequently from parents. Teachers bring creativity, humor, and empathy to a classroom-qualities that See AI, page 9

ONE DAY ONLY

Raymond Gen September 25, 1958 – April 17, 2025

Beloved teacher, writer, and educational leader Dr. Raymond Gen died unexpectedly on April 17, 2025. He was known by family, friends, and students as a dedicated and caring educator with sharp sense of humor and a love for good food.

Ray was born in Oakland, California in 1958, the first of four sons of Andrew and Corine

Gen, immigrants from the Guangdong Province of China. In 1968, the family moved to Turlock, California, where his parents started their restaurant, and the boys all worked and developed their cooking skills. Ray attended Turlock High School, where he played football and was by his own admission a mediocre student. Still, he graduated in 1976.

He found his academic identity while an undergraduate at California State University Stanislaus. At the same time, he began dating Joanne Swanson, who had been his classmate since junior high school. They married in 1979 and each continued their studies.

Ray's insatiable curiosity would eventually lead him to earn four degrees: a bachelor's degree in sociology from CSU Stanislaus, two master's degrees in theology and divinity from Fuller Theological Seminary, and a doctorate in education from Pepperdine University.

Ray and Joanne purchased their first home in Culver City, where they welcomed their son Andrew in 1991. Shortly afterwards, the family moved to El Segundo, where Ray and Joanne became a teacher and librarian, respectively, in the city's school district.

Ray was a tireless educator for over three decades. He taught thousands of students for 31 years in English, social studies, journalism, and computer science at El Segundo High School. He also served as the chair of the English department for 16 years and was the district's curriculum specialist in education technology for 20 years. On the side, he was an adjunct professor for 16 years in the education departments of Loyola Marymount University, Chapman University, Azusa Pacific University, and Pepperdine University. Additionally, Ray was elected to and served for 8 years on the Board of Trustees of El Camino Community College.

Ray retired in 2022 and devoted himself to his writing, which had already included published academic articles and resource books for teachers. Shortly before his death, he published his non-fiction book, The Golden Hour: Recipes and Stories from a Chinese American Restaurant, which includes memories from his childhood spent working in his parents' business. He had also completed three books of fiction, with another two in progress.

Ray is survived by his wife Joanne; his son Andrew and his fiancée Bronte Goessler; his brothers and their spouses Sherman (Bonnie) Holmes-Gen, Justin Gen, and Sheldon (Laine) Gen; Joanne's siblings Gary (Linda) Swanson and Diane (Keith) Landmeier; and ten nieces and nephews. •

Beach Side to The Big Apple - ESHS Orchestra Debuts at Carnegie Hall

After submitting an audition video to participate in the WorldStrides Instrumental Music Festival in New York City, Rosalind Darbeau Dowling, Director of ESUSD Strings, received an invitation just the following day, extending congratulations to the high school orchestra students for their acceptance. Excitement and cheers filled the air as students and families celebrated this remarkable opportunity. A select group of 8th graders from El Segundo Middle School (ESMS) were also invited to join the tour to enhance the orchestra.

The El Segundo High School Symphony Orchestra team traveled to New York City for their debut performance on March30th, 2025. Their performance captivated the prestigious Carnegie Hall audience with an eclectic mix of music featuring compositions from the Baroque, Romantic, and modern-day periods. The concert was highlighted by incredible solos from their principal players, including flute and brass, and a virtuosic performance by their concertmaster Caleb Tsai. The orchestra's exceptional performance was met with a standing ovation, a testament to their hard work and talent.

The students, parents, and our little town are incredibly proud of every student musician and where their journeys eventually take them. As for the orchestra, Mrs. Darbeau Dowling is excited to use this successful experience as a launching pad to take El Segundo's orchestras to even greater heights.

A Good Girl's Guide to Murder by Holly Jackson

By Dheekshana Kamalakannan

A school project. A closed murder case from five years ago. One determined teenager. What could go wrong, right? Well, readers find out as they follow seventeen-year-old Pippa Fitz-Amobi's deep dive into the neverending mysteries of the 2012 Andie Bell case. Author Holly Jackson paints a vivid and layered portrait of the unsettling disappearance and alleged death of Andie Bell, a beloved teenager, in her book A Good Girl's Guide To Murder. This book contains many secrets, and requires the reader to take the back seat and follow along as the characters navigate the tangled web of lies and buried secrets.

Set in Little Kilton, Buckinghamshire, Jackson's novel follows Pippa as she investigates the disappearance and possible murder of Andie Bell. The case itself was simple: Seventeen-year-old Sal Singh murdered his girlfriend, Andie Bell, then took his own life afterward. Pip had always thought something was off about this case from five years prior, so she chose it as her topic for her Capstone Project and teamed up with Sal's younger brother to uncover the truth or at least convince the police to reopen the case.

As the investigation goes deeper and deeper, Pip finds herself becoming obsessed and soon discovers that she's become so tangled in the case that her own life is now in danger. A Good Girl's Guide To Murder has an interesting aspect to it; the clues to solve the mystery are rooted in the secrets Little Kilton>s residents tried so hard to bury. Because of this, we as readers are more like the audience in the situation, forced to sit back and watch the chaos unfold. A good analogy for the readers> awareness is Pip>s Evidence Log. As she catalogs more information, so do we, and we are made to change our predictions at every other twist. The lengths Pip goes to to uncover the truth really encourages readers to question how far is too far, and how many lines crossed is too many. See Check It Out, page 4

Film Review TCM Fest 2025: The Lady Eve to Blade Runner, Our Highlights From This Year's Fest

By Morgan and Ryan Rojas for Cinemacy

The Turner Classic Movies Film Festival, better known as TCM Fest, celebrated its 16th year in style last weekend with an incredible lineup and a significant number of featured guests from the silver screen of yesteryear. Running for five days in the heart of Hollywood, TCM Fest brings classic movie lovers together to watch films of all decades and screening of Jaws on Saturday to a soldout theater. The event started with a Ben Mankiewicz-moderated Q&A with Lorraine Gray, who played Ellen Brody. After a humorous conversation, the lights dimmed, and we were transported to the beachside town of Amity Island, where John Williams' iconic score suspensefully sets the stage for a killer shark wreaking havoc on an entire town. Based on Peter Benchley's book of

ESHS Tennis Team Celebrates Its Seniors

By Gregg McMullin

The ESHS Boys Tennis Team has realized tremendous success over the last four years. After a year of rebuilding in 2022, the team finished the 2023 season as Pioneer League Champions finishing 11-1. The Eagles advanced to the CIF Southern Section semifinals, losing an extremely close match to the team that ended up winning CIF that year. That impressive result was the first time in the history of ESHS that a boy's tennis team had advanced to the CIF semifinals.

genres. From discovery gems to celebratory anniversaries, the camaraderie experienced at TCM Fest is unlike any other. Below are some of our highlights from the festival.

Ryan: Suspicion (1941)

The festival opened with a film I had never seen before: Suspicion (1941), Alfred Hitchcock's fourth feature. True to its title, the film delivered suspense in the director's signature style-a pulpy, romantic mystery starring Joan Fontaine and Cary Grant. The story follows a shy young heiress who marries a charming gentleman, only to suspect he may be plotting to kill her. Introduced by TCM's Jena Malone, the black-and-white print looked stunning on the big screen. Fontaine won the Oscar for Best Actress this year, too. While Hitchcock had previously collaborated with Fontaine on Rebecca, Suspicion marked his first of several collaborations with Grant, launching a partnership that would span four films together.

5 stars. Though I enjoyed the story while reading it and the twists and turns kept me on the edge of my seat for the entirety of the novel, the mystery itself was really only involved with the town of Little Kilton. The plot was made up of the secrets of the town and its residents, and the story simply didn't seem to go deeper than surface level. Regardless, I would definitely recommend this book to others because I did have a lot of fun reading it. •

Caleb Tsai helped lead the Eagles to consecutive league titles. top leagues. With the Eagles playing arguably some of California's top players, their record was down, but they managed to win two Bay League matches and defeat a reigning CIF champion in a nonleague match.

There were three Eagles that experienced the past four seasons that culminated with them being honored on Senior Appreciation Day. Caleb Tsai, Nicolas Rayburn and Thomas Cuzzocrea spent their last four years steering the tennis program and its success.

Caleb Tsai, known as an "all-heart" competitor, Caleb fiercely plays through every match with bloody knees and elbows throughout the season. He is incredibly proud of the achievements this team has fought for together.

Caleb leaves El Segundo's tennis program with a lasting mark. In the past four years, he has been named captain each year. He earned MVP in 2022, Captain and Coaching Award in 2023, and Team Spirit Award in 2024. He was named to the Pioneer League First Team singles player in 2022 and Daily Breeze All-Area doubles team player in 2023. He made it to the league finals match with partner Aarush Antil. Caleb plans on continuing to cheer on his teammates from Stanford University next year.

Nicolas Rayburn achieved tremendous success during his four years on the team. He actively recruited other players as a freshman when the high school was rebuilding the team. He played in multiple league finals. He was honored as a team captain and contributed to the team's impressive results, including his sophomore and junior seasons when the Eagles went 11-1 and won back-to-back Pioneer League championships.During his senior year, Nick and his teammates were competitive with some of the best players in the Southern Section playing in the Bay League. In league play, Nick had many hard-fought wins in doubles and singles. Having his freshman brother, Benni, on the team was another highlight of Nick's senior year.

Playing on the tennis team for the past four years Nick has met some of his best friends. He looks forward to staying connected with the University of Colorado Boulder next year.

Thomas Cuzzocrea joined the tennis team his freshman year without ever having picked up a racket. From the start, Thomas earned a reputation as a reliable doubles "sub in" due to his ability to adjust his game to complement a variety of playing styles. Over four years of playing doubles, Thomas' game evolved. He became a force at the net with his quick, instinctive, and relentless play.

Always keeping it fun, Thomas has maintained a terrific attitude, love of the game, and pride in his team. In the fall, Thomas will attend the University of Southern California to study Music Production at the Thornton School of Music.

Best of luck to these three seniors as they help carve out their niche in life, knowing that the tennis program will be better due to their contributions.

Softball Team Splits Pioneer League Games

The Eagles had won fourteen of their last fifteen games before facing the West Torrance Warriors in a key Pioneer League matchup. These two softball powers had faced each other twice earlier in the season and the Eagles prevailed in both. The Warriors came from behind to defeat the Eagles 7-4 and claim a share of the top spot in the Pioneer League with El Segundo.

El Segundo took a 2-0 lead in the first only to see their lead disappear in the fourth inning when the Warriors scored five runs to take a 6-2 lead. The Eagles cut into their deficit in the fifth inning. Charli Pages led the inning off with a single, followed by a two-run home run by Sienna Mayer to make it 6-4. The Warriors scored another run and then held off the Eagles for the win.

The Eagles took that loss personally and defeated the North Torrance Saxons 11-2. The game started uncharacteristically for the Eagles' defense. They committed infield errors that led to the Saxons scoring a run in the first and second innings to take a 2-0 lead.

with the team. The Eagles sent eleven hitters to the plate in the second inning, scoring six runs. The big inning was highlighted by Sienna Mayer's three-run homerun. Allie Stevenson blistered a fastball up the middle for her onehundredth base hit over her four-year career. Stevenson's milestone hit follows Sienna Mayer, who collected her one-hundredth hit earlier this season.

The Eagles would tag on four more sixthinning runs and come away with the 11-2 convincing win.

With workhorse pitcher Jacy Lindsay given the night off to rest Coach Mayer turned to Molly McAndrews. The sophomore was unnerved when she looked at the scoreboard and saw the two unearned runs staring at her. Over the next four innings, she scattered four hits while limiting the Saxons to two base runners to get to second base.

The Eagles host South Torrance on Friday at 3:30 p.m. and close out the regular season schedule on May 7 at 6:30 p.m. Prior to the game against the Valley Christian Defenders, the softball program will honor its nine seniors.

Baseball Team still in Command of Pioneer League

The Eagles dropped two nonleague games to the streaking Redondo Sea Hawks 5-2 and 7-4 before defeating the Da Vinci Wolves 9-4. The two losses came to a team that had been on a winning streak while the win over the Wolves cemented the Eagles' league championship aspirations.

With the Eagles shorthanded on the pitching front they promoted Caleb Kimm from the JV team. He threw six effective innings giving up four runs before he was pulled with no outs in the seventh inning. The Eagles offense staked Kimm to a 2-0 lead through the first two innings but the offense was essentially silenced the rest of the way. With the score tied 2-2 in the seventh inning the Sea Hawks scored three runs to win it 5-2.

In the second game against Redondo, the Eagles jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Logan Brooks' RBI single and Jayden

In the third inning, Ben Lee tripled and scored on Chase Mattoon's double to make it 4-0. But the lead disappeared in the bottom half of the inning when the Sea Hawks scored five runs. They tagged on two more fourth-inning runs and held on for a 7-4 win.

The 9-4 win over Da Vinci was an impressive one offensively. Chase Mattoon led the nine-hit attack with a couple of hits, including a first-inning solo home run. Sam Forthuber started on the mound and gave up three runs while scattering five hits in picking up his third win of the season. The win gives the Eagles an 8-2 Pioneer League record with two games remaining.

The Eagles host the Peninsula Panthers on Friday at 3:30 p.m. in the last home game of the year before the CIF playoffs. Before the game, the baseball program will honor its seniors on Senior Appreciation Day.

Beach Volleyball Advances while Lacrosse and Boys' Volleyball Teams Headed to CIF Playoffs

The girls' beach volleyball team, which won a league title, advanced to the CIF-SS Division 2 quarter-finals after defeating Newberry Park 5-0 in the first round and St Margaret's (San Juan Capistrano) 3-2 in the second round.

The girls' lacrosse team was 13-6 on the year and won the Ocean League. They garnered the top seed in the CIF Southern Section's Division 2 playoffs and had a first-round bye. They will host the winner of the West Ranch (Valencia)/ Santiago (Corona) game today at 5 p.m.

The boys' Lacrosse team was Ocean League champions and was 11-4 overall on the year. The Eagles opened up their CIF-SS Division 2 playoff run at home yesterday against Orange Lutheran. A win would send them to the second round on the road at top-seeded Dos Pueblos (Santa Barbara) on Friday at 5 p.m.

The boys' volleyball team drew a first-round CIF-SS Division 2 playoff match with the West Ranch Wild Cats. The Eagles were on the road to face the 30-4 Foothill champions yesterday. A win would send the Eagles into them as he studies Aerospace Engineering at team together, and whatever he said resonated Rico's two-run single highlighted the inning. the next round next Tuesday.

don't come across on a small screen in a computer lab.

"It will never replace humans. We're in control," Uzoff said, addressing a major concern that some people express about computers that can get smarter. AI's not perfect, but "It's here to stay," she added.

MagicSchool is used across all grade levels in the El Segundo district. However, children under 13 must get parental permission and be properly trained to use the site. Participation is encouraged but not mandatory.

According to Uzoff, the best practices for using AI in the classroom start with spotting bias and inaccurate information. Al literacy is the ability to recognize credible sources of information that can be shared in class or cited in a research or writing assignment. For students whose careers will require AI skills, MagicSchool is teaching another valuable lesson. It's only as good as its programming, so keep a guard up.

The district uses an 80-20 rule for students to follow when using AI on their writing and research assignments: Use AI for initial work, then for the last 20 percent, "add your final touch," which includes a review for bias and accuracy. Another rule, "Your Judgement Matters," advises students to use AI content as a starting point, not the final word on a topic.

Knowing that an AI-learning system has limits — back to its last training update means news articles and podcasts about recent events may be outdated. And finally, students are reminded never to include personal information, including their names, ages or home addresses, when interacting with the school's AI system. As a security feature, the district can take down any personal information that is shared accidentally.

Uzoff explained how the MagicSchool AI platform the district selected works. The program acts like a tutor, helping students to develop critical-thinking skills with their writing assignments and presentations. However, MagicSchool does not calculate math problems well, so it's not a part of the math curriculum.

Digital assistance isn't permitted on every school assignment, nor is it 100% trustworthy. "We're still learning it's ok to use it and when it's not," Uzoff said.

As anyone who uses the popular digital assistants Siri and Alexa knows, they can be a huge help. Yet they make mistakes and get confused about what they're being asked to do. Both phone apps were created using AI to teach a computer to mimic human behavior, including listening and speaking.

AI is new and tempting for students looking for a shortcut, so the district set rules that range from No AI use to full AI use with oversight. A Level 1 1 assignment allows students to generate ideas and structure an essay or paper with the computerized learning tool. Level 2 permits editing only with AI, while Level 3 allows AI but only on certain tasks that the teacher makes known. Level 4 is full use with human oversight.

MagicSchool allows teachers to track how much a student uses the program to disincentivize cheating. The AI platform says it has no age limit for users, unlike ChatGPT, which requires its users to be at least 13 years old.

With teachers and students now up to speed on using MagicSchool, the district plans to involve parents and families, too. "Part of our intent with the recent Parent Info Session was to begin including families in this learning process, with more resources planned for the future," said Marisa Janicek, assistant superintendent of educational services.

A 2024 study from the University of Southern California found that many parents couldn't say if their child's school was using AI. USC's Center for Applied Research in Education surveyed 1,800 U.S. households and found school districts that launched AI learning in classrooms hadn't communicated that fact to families. Almost 75 percent of the families were left in the dark; many learned about it from their kids, the authors said.

According to Janicek, assistant superintendent of educational services, the technology being used to improve writing and develop critical thinking has the potential to give El Segundo students a competitive advantage. She said 75 percent of employers ask for AI knowledge from their job candidates. "AI is really transforming the workforce," she added, and "we want to make our students successful and employable."

Uzoff pointed out that the public uses AI technology every day in cell phones, home electronics, self-driving cars, and face-recognition technology to access their online accounts. However, because AI is new to classrooms and education, parents naturally have questions and doubts about whether their kids need more screen time during the school day.

Maria Ott, a professor of clinical education at USC Rossier School of Education and a former superintendent, said the apprehension is normal. Like many academics in the AI field, she believes that AI will be around for a long time. Leaders should figure out how to use it to improve society.

Uzoff told parents last week that AI is loosely defined as the ability for a computer to learn and mimic human behavior. District teachers are using ChatGPT and MagicSchool for lesson planning, writing 30-40 student assessments per class at the high school, and drafting individualized educational plans for students who need them. The developer says its AI product saves teachers hours and can help them avoid burnout.

To learn more, visit https://www.magicschool.ai or call the school district at 310-615-2650. Janicek said future events are planned, and teachers are sending home information this week. •

Susan Truax

The City Clerk's office has its hand in many aspects of local government, and most people might not realize the breadth of its duties. Recognition of its vital contributions came recently when the Council issued a proclamation in honor of Professional Municipal Clerks Week. "It seems that much of what happens at City Hall works its way through the Clerk's office at some point in the process," Truax said. "In addition to Council agendas and minutes, we handle contracts and agreements, public records requests, resolutions, ordinances and codifying, records retention and destruction, bid openings, municipal elections, subpoena processing, swearing in members of El Segundo's Committees, Commissions, and Boards (CCBs), generating Council meeting cable tags for El Segundo Media, producing a mayor's script of meeting action items, and so paper and money, and I'm all for that," she said. "Tracy really lobbied for the city to adopt Civic Clerk—our agenda management software—which, in the past few years, has been a game-changer in saving time and resources."

A native of Tiburon, California, Truax graduated from San Jose State University with a bachelor's degree in Public Relations. She met her husband in college and the couple got married while he was in law school at USC. An El Segundo resident since 1991 with three children who all matriculated through the local school system, she wasn't initially happy with the move to Southern California. "I often tell people Tim dragged me away from Northern California kicking and screaming, but truth be told, I cannot think of any place I'd rather live than El Segundo," she noted. "That said, we did realize early on that in choosing to raise our family here, there was a strong chance our kids would grow up to be Dodgers fans, but it was a risk worth taking. Go, Giants." Career-wise, Truax represented technology clients handling media and analyst relations for the majority of her work life. "As anyone in tech will tell you, going to the Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas is always a highlight, as was successfully pitching a client's product or service to a national media outlet," she said. "I also served as the El Segundo Unified School District Public Information Officer for about seven years. For the past several years, I've been a dogwalker, which is amazing exercise with the best clients ever." Truax has a lengthy history of civic involvement, serving for more than 20 years on executive boards for three PTAs and PTA Council while also representing El Segundo on the El Camino College Redistricting Committee. She spent a decade on the Ed! Foundation board and was on the Downtown

El Segundo Task Force that pitched the idea of the now-iconic weekly Farmer's Market. She also served as the communications director for two successful school bonds, Measures C and E, and has been recognized by the PTAs with Honorary Service, Continuing Service, and Very Special Person awards, and by El Segundo Unified as Volunteer of the Year. The El Segundo Chamber presented her with the Dave Jones Award for Service and Dedication to Education.

Truax's community resume reflects her love of the town as an "amazing place to live, work, and visit." She remains impressed by the enthusiasm residents have in volunteering their time and expertise, from coaching teams to joining service organizations and serving on the City's CCBs. Testament to the spirit of giving back was the recent PTAs' announcement of its Honorary Service Award recipients culled from a list of about 100 nominees. "That dozens of people were considered for this recognition speaks volumes about the level of commitment to our schools," Truax said. "Because each of these volunteer opportunities serves as an effective springboard into public service, it's rare to find an elected official who didn't get their start as a local volunteer. El Segundo is so very fortunate to have a vibrant Chamber of Commerce that perfectly complements our active residential community. Our Chamber and the business community it represents have a positive impact on the quality of life we all have come to enjoy. It is so heartening to know we're all pulling together for the same cause." When not immersed in clerking and walking her canine pals, Truax enjoys reading and spending time with family-particularly her grandkids. "One of my favorite gifts was an e-bike, which Tim gave me a few Christmases ago," she added. "I have rescued many dogs and cats over the years and only ended up

foster-failing about half of them. We ended up adopting them ourselves."

Meanwhile, the Truax kids have made their own marks in various ways. Youngest son Dave, known as "Mr. Truax," when he's substitute teaching at the El Segundo middle and high schools, is on the way to earning a teaching credential at Cal State Long Beach. He hopes to become a history instructor in the ESUSD. Middle son John is a post-production video editor and sixyear homeowner in Ventura, where the surf is more consistent and real estate prices are more conducive to first-time buyers. The eldest, Daniel, is an LA County Lifeguard Captain, who oversaw the Junior Lifeguard program for the past two years. He and his wife Markayla, an El Segundo High grad and CPA, made Tim and Susan Truax grandparents in 2022-a very welcome life-changer for the couple. "Having playdates with West, almost three, and Liv, eight months old, and their cousin Waylon-our bonus grandson who is 18 months-is absolutely the best thing ever," she exclaimed, "Markayla's family also lives in town, so we've become a wonderful extended family. We love to spend time together and even vacation as a crew. This summer, all 13 of us are headed to Olympic National Park." Between city and family life, Truax has a full plate. She tries to bring a positive attitude everywhere she goes to create an effective environment at home-and in the office. "All the departments at City Hall work closely with one another, and there's an obvious camaraderie that I really think has an impact on the services we provide to each other, as well as to our residents, business owners, and others who have dealings with the city," she said. "El Segundo is a great place to work because of the people who work here and a wonderful place to live because of the people who reside here." • much more."

Looking at her vision for the office, Truax has an immediate goal to continue learning the facets of her job to become more of a "utility player" in the future. "Right now, I know what our Assistant City Clerk and our Records Tech do, but not how they do it," she admitted. "I look forward to learning more about the department's processes and workflow."

As is the case with all Clerk's office staff, continuing education is paramount. Truax plans to take classes offered by the California Municipal Clerks Association and the International Institute of Municipal Clerks with the goal of becoming a Certified Municipal Clerk. "These classes help clerks hone their craft and keep us informed about new laws and how they may impact how we do our jobs," she explained.

Truax was quick to praise the city's move to a near-paperless system to maximize efficiency. "The innovative use of technology really is something to behold and saves both residents during the 4th of July weekend, Jaws stars Roy Scheider as the town's new police chief, Richard Dreyfuss as an ichthyologist, and Robert Shaw as a shark-hunter. Personally, as a certified scuba diver and animal empath, I have my own opinions on the ethics of Jaws and how the story does a huge disservice to sharks. However, there is no denying the cultural impact of Steven Spielberg's masterpiece, which became the top-grossing film of 1975. This fact is even more impressive considering he was only 26 years old when he directed it.

Ryan: The Lady Eve (1941)

One of my favorite discoveries and firsttime watches at the festival was The Lady Eve, a hilarious screwball comedy starring Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, directed by Preston Sturges. Stanwyck plays a con artist who sets out to swindle a wealthy heir, only to unexpectedly fall in love with her mark. What stuck with me most—besides the rapid-fire dialogue and the incredible on-screen chemistry—is Henry Fonda's brilliant physical comedy. His endless pratfalls, delivered with perfect deadpan timing, are pure slapstick gold. The Lady Eve is exactly the kind of hidden gem you hope to stumble upon at a TCM festival.

Morgan: Blade Runner (1982, the 2007 Final Cut)

When Ridley Scott's Blade Runner premiered in 1982, the idea of a robot uprising was considered sci-fi. Watching the film now, with rapidly evolving AI and the like, Blade Runner feels much more like a horror film set in our current reality than it does imaginative fiction. Based on Philip K. Dick's novel Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep?, Harrison Ford plays the protagonist "Blade Runner" Rick Deckard. Deckard is a proven LAPD affiliate tasked with "retiring" four rogue replicants (bioengineered humanoids) who have infiltrated society. Rutger Hauer makes an unforgettable turn as replicant leader Roy Batty, as does Daryl Hannah as replicant Pris. Sean Young, who was in attendance, plays opposite Ford as Rachael, a replicant who believes she is human.

The two-time Oscar-nominated film blends neo-noir and cyberpunk genres to create a retro-futuristic Los Angeles that feels as palpable and energetic today as it did forty-three years ago. •
