“Poppa” Craig Parker was an El Segundo Legend

By Duane Plank

When I spoke with Patrick Bentley recently, one of the takeaways that seemed to sum up the life of El Segundo’s Craig Parker, who passed away from dementia on July 15 at the age of 76, was that Parker and wife Joan were, in his opinion, “Mr. and Mrs. El Segundo.”

Bentley said that he has lived “around here” since 1986, and “I have never experienced people who were so involved in the community.” Bentley said the Parkers got him immersed in the El Segundo scene, dragging him to Friday Night Lights high school football games, as well as encouraging his participation in the El Segundo Education Foundation.

Bentley knew Parker for 20 years, as he was coming to town in 2001 to take part in the building of a studio on Main Street for comedian Roseanne Barr. Bentley said that Parker, an electrician by trade, lived right behind the Barr building on Main Street, the soon-to-be christened Full Moon and High Tide Studios. “Roseanne loved her some Craig,” Bentley said. “Craig could crack her up, which is saying a lot.”

Parker “helped me to navigate the community,” Bentley said, helping me to “put the (Barr studio) together.” Bentley noted how the Parkers were instrumental in upgrading or establishing multiple El Segundo facilities, including the high school football field, the Military Entrance Test Site on Grand Avenue, and the Whole Foods establishment located on PCH.

Parker lived at 419 ½ Standard Street for 34 years and was always involved in El Segundo activities until his onset of dementia two years ago. One of Parker’s daughters, Jennifer Parker Fogg Lickteig, shared that she had gone through his garage recently and found “tons of photos,” including those of Parker hanging lights on Candy Cane Lane, painting handprints on “Handprint Alley” on the west side of Main Street. A trove of mementos was in the house, from “city accolades” to letters from prior El Segundo mayor’s.

Parker was considered a go-to guy by El Segundo civic leaders, who would often beseech him to lend a hand when the city had a need or a possible project in the works. “And Dad would do it,” Jennifer said, whether it be something needed by the city, or the fire department, or the police department. Parker would secure whatever was needed and then donate it to the city.

Jennifer said he helped set up the initial version of the Farmer’s Market. “Most notable for me,” she said, “was that when my Dad’s

Kimberly Bredberg Explores Alternative Learning Methods for El Segundo Students

By Kiersten Vannest

The public school system in El Segundo is notoriously renowned. El Segundo high school ranked in the top 5% of high schools in California for math proficiency and reading proficiency, and the graduation rate is top tier. But what if the traditional method of learning doesn’t work for your child? Standardized teaching methods have worked for decades, but what happens to the children who don’t work well under these methods? This is a question Kimberley Bredberg set out to explore for her own child in the form of a new K-12 micro-school called Waterhouse Guild.

A mother of four children, Bredberg’s present journey began with her oldest daughter in the first grade. “My daughter was a super curious and precocious first-grader,” says Bredberg. Her daughter was in a classroom of only eight students at a school Bredberg worked at in San Luis Obispo. Having a heavily pencil-and-paper policy at home, straying away from electronics, her daughter was already very versed and excited about reading and writing. The problem, she explains, was that her teacher would not let her read above the first-grade level.

“That made me so sad, because at the time she was reading at a high level, chapter books, and she would sit on the swing with a book in one hand and a slice of watermelon in the other,” she says. So, in the transition to second grade, she pulled her daughter out of her school and decided

Patricia Dorothy Cardone July 15, 1936 - July 28, 2021

On July 28, 2021, Patricia Dorothy Cardone, loving mother of two children and grandmother of five, went home to be with the Lord at the age of 85.

Pat was born on July 15, 1936 in Hartford, Connecticut, the middle child to John and Mary LaBrie. She received an AA from Hillyer College in 1956 and worked as a legal secretary for 40 years at Hughes Aircraft and Continental Development in Los Angeles, California. In June of 1957 she married Francis Samuel Cardone. They moved to California in 1957 where they raised two children, Frank and Cheryl.

Pat was a devoted lover and follower of God. She adored showing her love for her friends and family by baking for them, loved puzzles, was an avid reader and Jeopardy fan, and couldn't be defeated in Trivial Pursuit. She was the consummate mother and grandmother, extremely devoted to supporting her family in any way she could, including attending every event in which any of her grandchildren participated. Pat was uniquely selfless and focused her life on the needs of others. She was widely known for her sweet disposition, gentle kindness, and universal compassion, and instantly made a positive impression on anyone with whom she came in contact.

Pat is survived by her children Frank (Robyn) and Cheryl (Michael), and her grandchildren Kate, Michael, Benjamin, Vincent, and Giuliana. A Celebration of Life service will be held on Tuesday, August 10th, 2021 at 11:00 AM at South Hills Church in Manhattan Beach. In lieu of flowers, donations to The American Red Cross (a charity Pat supported often) are encouraged. •

Little Leaguers Win State Title and Babe Ruth All-Stars Fall in Regionals

By Gregg McMullin

The El Segundo Little League All-Stars traveled to Imperial Beach and won the Southern California 8-10 State Championships. The El Segundo Babe Ruth League's 13-15s, 14s, and 13-year-old All-Star teams traveled to their respective Pacific Southwest Regional tournaments in hopes of winning and advancing to their individual World Series'. The teams were treated like royalty, and each of the teams won their opening round games. They went through the winner's bracket before getting derailed, falling into the loser's bracket. It was an unfortunate coincidence, but each team was eliminated on the same day.

Little League All-Stars Celebrate their Historic Southern California Championship

A team of fourteen 8-10-year-old all-stars was El Segundo's surviving Little League all-star team after the 11s, and 11-12s were eliminated in their District tournaments. So after winning their District 36 and Section 4 tournaments, El Segundo traveled to Imperial Beach to play Southern California's best in this age group. El Segundo won their first two games against Sherman Oaks 5-4 and Park View 6-0.

In their third game, El Segundo jumped on Orcutt National Little League (Santa Maria) early. With one out Lucas Keldorf's two-run double and Declan McRoberts' fielder choice, which scored Jaxon Kalish, gave El Segundo a 3-0 first inning lead. El Segundo hung on to that lead until the sixth inning when Quinn Boehle's single to center scored Finley Green and Benny Baker to give his team a 5-0 lead. Max Baker and Finley Green combined to shutout high scoring Orcutt and gave up one hit, two walks, and together struck out six.

In the winner's bracket final, El Segundo took on East Hills Little League from Yorba Linda. Timely hitting by Benny Baker's bases loaded two-run single, and Quinn Boehle's bases clearing two-run triple gave El Segundo all the runs they needed in their 4-0 win. McRoberts and Green combined to shutout East Hills and looked dominating at times.

El Segundo faced Sherman Oaks in the championship final and fell 5-2 to the same team they had defeated earlier in the tournament. Sherman Oaks used two two-run home runs to help propel them into a championship game. El Segundo's Jaxon Kalish pitched well enough to win by giving up five hits; unfortunately, two mistake pitches cost him.

In the championship game, that was streamed live to the Standard Station, as was each of the other games El Segundo played. A large contingent from both El Segundo and Sherman Oaks showed their support for two of the finest teams in this age group in Southern California. Costly errors by Sherman Oaks and great pitching by El Segundo propelled El Segundo to their 2-1 win. According to manager Danny Boehle it was the league's first ever State championship.

Sherman Oaks took a 1-0 lead into the fifth inning. Logan Meyer reached on a throwing error, and with one out Brody Brooks reached on a fielding error. With two outs, Jaxon Kalish was intentionally walked to load the bases. Quinn Boehle worked an RBI walk to tie the game 1-1. With Declan McRoberts at the plate and Benny Baker on third base, Baker waited for his opportunity to score. When he saw the pitch bounce away from the catcher, he used his speed to score on a wild pitch on a close play at the plate to give El Segundo a 2-1 lead.

Finley Green started and tossed 4.1 great innings before Brody Brooks came in relief and shut down Sherman Oaks the rest of the way. Together they allowed just two hits to ensure El Segundo's historic win.

The State champions included Manager Danny Boehle and his assistants Tim Abrams, Edie Lee, and Rob Green and players Benny Baker, Brody Brooks, Colby Lee, Crew O'Connor, Declan McRoberts, Ethan Mooney, Finley Green, Jaxon Kalish, Lennon Salazar, Logan Meyer, Lucas Keldorf, Max Baker, Quinn Boehle, and Charlie Hedding.

13-15-Year-Old All-Stars Fall in Regional

El Segundo traveled to Bakersfield to play in blistering hot 100 plus degree conditions. Playing on a field with diminutive dimensions, the locals overcame an early deficit and then hung on for a 4-2 victory over Madera, the Central California champion. Dominik Kopecky started on the mound and gave up two first-inning runs. He was replaced by James Baldino, who came on in the third inning. He kept Madera scoreless until hard-throwing Max Martinez replaced him in the fifth inning with one out.

Enemies of the State Review: How a Teen Anarchist Became America’s Worst Nightmare

By Morgan Rojas for Cinemacy

Matt DeHart may not have the same name recognition as Julian Assange or Chelsea Manning, but his self-proclaimed capability to expose the U.S. government for what they truly are: emotionless, ruthless, international murderers is just as feared as the actions of the aforementioned WikiLeaks founder and US Army vet turned whistleblower. In the new

But Mr. DeHart, a current pastor, and Mrs. DeHart are in denial; instead of confronting the possibility that their son might be guilty, they come up with varied excuses. Parker Looks Up: An Extraordinary Moment by Parker Curry and Jessica Curry, Illustrated by Brittany Jackson

By Kristen Morell, Librarian, El Segundo Public Library

Parker is very excited about her visit to the Washington, DC’s National Portrait Gallery with her baby sister, her mother, her best friend Gia and Gia’s mother. The highlight of Parker’s visit is when she comes across and stops to look up at Amy Sherald’s transcendent portrait of First Lady Michelle Obama. To Parker Looks Up by Parker Curry and Jessica Curry.

Parker, this portrait not only represented the First Lady of the United States, Parker saw a queen, a beautiful and confident woman with whom she identified. Parker’s admiration of the portrait is noticed by a nearby museum-goer, who takes a photo of a mesmerized Parker as she gazes at the portrait. The photo of Parker later becomes her book’s cover art. Even at her young age, Parker recognizes the significance of the portrait and is filled with joy as she realizes her own hopes and dreams in this very meaningful portrait of First Lady Michelle Obama.

This books a great choice for children of all ages and backgrounds. Parker and Jessica have done an amazing job of capturing this very significant experience. The illustrations are also bold, beautiful and really draw the reader in.

to experiment with homeschooling.

Her methods appealed to many parents going through similar struggles with their children. So about twenty years ago, she began developing Waterhouse Guild, a micro-school program with roots in homeschooling based here in El Segundo. The idea was to individualize education while still requiring rigorous academics, all based around the humanities.

experts in their field, be it chemistry or art, or music. “I think one of the sad things happening in our culture is that we seem to think that children have short attention spans when they really don’t. I sometimes feel like two hours for science isn’t enough,” Bredberg laments, explaining her choice to go with longer learning periods.

Of Bredberg’s multiple degrees, she has a particular love of science, in which she

Though all academic fields are studied in the program, Bredberg specifically wanted to focus on reading, writing, and critical thinking. Along with her other business, a publishing company, Bredberg and her team developed their own language arts curriculum. Class periods are in longer blocks to encourage focus and allow subjects to be fully explored. Teachers are obtained a degree. Because of her experience in the field, she sought to find a way to make science more integrated and taught with context so that each subject wouldn’t be taught in a vacuum with no relation to other courses or real-world application. She uses the human body as an example, explaining that it isn’t only related to biology but also to chemistry, physics, and electricity. When a child comes out of school and into the working world, she says, science isn’t segmented and separate like it was in school. So to her, it’s important to teach children from a young age the way they’ll be interacting with subjects outside of school.

Parent Josette Murphy describes her child’s experience with math at Waterhouse Guild. Having gone to public school for a few years, her daughter was doing relatively okay in math but struggled to switch over to the Waterhouse method. Her teachers immediately saw the holes that needed to be repaired in her understanding of mathematics and asked that she stay an hour extra a week to work one on one with them. After going back and getting a firm understanding of past ideas and how they correlate with current lessons, her daughter felt comfortable moving on to the next level. This kind of individualized help to ensure a complete understanding before leveling up came from Bredberg’s own experience in math.

Despite having a background in science, Bredberg describes math as her “arch-enemy” all the way up into high school. In the traditional system, students are required to finish each math level, but this doesn’t always give them a firm grasp of all the concepts. Bredberg finally went to a teacher and just started crying because she couldn’t understand what she was missing. This teacher sat down with her and figured out where the holes were, and worked with her until she could not only finish but understand the work required to pass her current course. This experience led to extremely considerate math teaching in her program.

Another Waterhouse parent, Christa Engelskirch, also describes the soft skills side of the school. One of the things she loves about this alternative teaching style is the focus on practicing compassion and mastering empathy. “We can offer opportunities for children to problem-solve on their own, and not have to feel bad just because there is a squabble going on in the corner of a playground,” she says, “Whether it’s an error in judgment or their emotional maturity is just not quite there yet, it’s not a punishable offense. It’s a teaching situation.”

Bredberg built her school on a three-prong system: the spiritual (it’s a non-denominational Christian-based school), the intellectual, and the social-emotional. She wants every child learning under her program to be cognitively present and recognize their value as a human being. She leaves on a hopeful note: “If I have any goal for Waterhouse Guild, it’s that we can look at Waterhouse and we can change people’s minds about the potential of education for younger children. And I think that we can, because we’ve already been doing it.” •

Code § 9202) NOTICE OF INTENT TO CIRCULATE PETITION Notice is hereby given by the persons whose names appear hereon of their intention to circulate the petition within the City of El Segundo for the purpose of adopting an initiative that will enact provisions regarding the regulation of commercial cannabis activity in the City. A statement of the reasons of the proposed action as contemplated in said petition is as follows (up to 500 words): The purpose and intent of this Measure is to accommodate the needs of medically-ill persons in need of cannabis for medicinal purposes, as advised and recommended by their health care provider(s), and adults over the age of twenty-one (21), and to implement State of California ("State") law, which includes, but is not limited to the provisions of the Medicinal & Adult-Use Cannabis Regulation & Safety Act, as may be amended and augmented under State law, while imposing regulations on the conduct of business and use of land to protect the City of El Segundo's (the "City") neighborhoods, residents, and businesses from negative impacts. It is a further purpose and intent of this Measure to regulate the cultivation, manufacturing, processing, testing, distribution, and retail sale and delivery of cannabis and cannabis products in a manner which is responsible, which protects the health, safety, and welfare	of the residents of the City, and which enforces rules and regulations consistent with State law. In part to meet these objectives, a commercial cannabis business permit shall be required to own or to operate a cannabis business within the City. Further, this Measure's requirement for a cannabis business to possess a commercial cannabis business permit is in addition to any other permits, licenses, and approvals which may be required to conduct business in the City, and is in addition to any permits, licenses, and approvals required under State or County of Los Angeles law. Sandra Spiker NAME OF PROPONENT 624 Sheldon Street El Segundo, CA 90245 PROPONENT'S ADDRESS  PROPONENT'S SIGNATURE July 19, 2021 DATE TITLE AND SUMMARY PREPARED BY THE CITY ATTORNEY PURSUANT TO ELECTIONS CODE § 9203 AN INITIATIVE AMENDING THE EL SEGUNDO MUNICIPAL CODE TO REPEAL THE CURRENT PROHIBITION ON COMMERCIAL CANNABIS ACTIVITIES AND INSTEAD AUTHORIZE COMMERCIAL CANNABIS RETAILING IN SPECIFIED ZONES WITHIN THE CITY SUBJECT TO A REGULATORY PERMITTING PROCESS The purpose of this initiative is to place on the ballot a proposed ordinance that amends the El Segundo Municipal	Code to repeal the current prohibition on commercial cannabis activities in all areas of the city and instead authorize commercial cannabis retailing by right in the General Commercial (C-3) and Smoky Hollow West (SH-W) zones, subject to a city-issued cannabis business permit and any other license required by state law. A cannabis retail business would not be permitted within 1,000 feet of any school or day care center that is specifically listed in the proposed ordinance or within 600 feet of any youth center that is specifically listed in the proposed ordinance. The proposed ordinance would limit the total number of cannabis retailer permits in the city to two and would establish a commercial cannabis business permit application procedure along with a point-based ranking system pursuant to which each application would be evaluated. Each cannabis business would be required to implement specified security measures and to comply with specified operating and recordkeeping requirements. The delivery of cannabis and cannabis products within the city by city- permitted cannabis retailers would be allowed subject to specified operating requirements. The proposed ordinance would also authorize the commercial cultivation, manufacturing, distribution, and testing of cannabis within the city subject to a city- issued cannabis business permit, but would allow the city council, in its discretion, to determine the total number of cannabis business permits that may be issued for those types of businesses. Film Review watch. While Matt's parents are in the film playing themselves, Matt is played by actor Joel Widman (the reason for Matt's absence is explained in the film). Interviews with government officials, lawyers, and reporters are all real, including the sound recordings from Matt's court trial, but set to a fabricated recreation of those court scenes.

The aesthetic of Enemies of the State feels as sterile as the maximum-security prison cell Matt was kept in, stripped bare and unforgiving. It's a twisty story that I found myself rewinding a couple of times throughout my watch both out of fascination and confusion, the delivery here not being as strong or punchy as its cinematic counterparts like The Imposter or The Thin Blue Line. However, Enemies of the State is thrilling enough to satisfy that true crime craving.

Distributed by IFC Films. Now playing at select Laemmle Theaters and on VOD. • health was declining, a lot of people helped him. My sister and I both live out-of-state,” she said, so they could not lend a hand in caregiving as Parker’s health deteriorated. Neighbors would pitch in and help “bailing my Dad out of situations,” she said, as Parker’s dementia worsened.

“He was such a great guy to everyone, and then dementia got ahold of him and changed his personality,” Jennifer said. “He became angry and defiant, and kind of took it out on a lot of people, which was really hard to hear, because he was so giving,” but after about a year, he was “cussing people out,” yet the townspeople treated him with so much grace... he walked everywhere...then when he couldn’t walk, we got him a tricycle, which he rode all over the place...The fact that the city took care of him is really a big deal.” Over his final years, Jennifer said that her father “got into a fair amount of trouble. It was amazing that he was at one point recognized as Citizen of the Year!”

Parker went to work in Saudi Arabia in 1978, serving as a cost and scheduling engineer for the Fluor company. He returned to the states in 1982, and Joan, who he had met during his tenure in Saudi Arabia, followed him to America. The couple was married in 1985.

Parker moved to El Segundo on July 1, 1988. He loved the Fourth of July, Jennifer said, and he would stake out a spot at Rec Park to watch the iconic fireworks show. A member of the U.S.

Marine Corps from 1966-68, he never missed a Fourth of July show, always ensuring that he was in town on that special day.

As an electrician, Parker worked at Wise Electric until his retirement. He also served stints working in the television industry, toiling as a grip or key grip on a couple of television shows that you may have heard of, including M*A*S*H and the Mary Tyler Moore show.

Parker loved the Christmas holiday season, lights, festivities, and the December parade down Main Street. In days gone by, El Segundo featured a Santa’s Village in the area in front of City Hall. At that time, Candy Cane Lane had not been officially branded, but, Jennifer said, was “just a bunch of neighbors who did an excellent job with their lights.”

Jennifer said that, sometime in the ’90s, the city decided that the annual Candy Cane Lane extravaganza could benefit from a publicity push from the city. Talented electrician Parker was tasked with running the electrical gizmos that would make Candy Cane Lane a virtual power strip that the City of El Segundo could light up for a few weeks, drawing in non-residents to view the spectacle.

Parker didn’t stop his civic involvement there. One of the early organizers of the Main Street “circle stones.” Parker bought at least three of said stones. Two of which are located outside of his beloved Wendy’s Café, where he took breakfast as often as possible. The other circle stone embedded in the sidewalk on the west side of Main Street marked the spot that he and his family members would settle down to watch the annual Christmas Parade.

A tad bit to the north, Parker has his handprint memorialized in what might be termed “butterfly and handprint alley,” which is located between two Main Street buildings. Jennifer said that Parker took it upon himself to repaint the signatures on the wall periodically.

With a keen eye on his El Segundo neighborhood, Parker would venture across Main Street to do a little gardening, cutting the grass at what is now Library Park, if he thought the grass was growing a little too tall. He also spent a good amount of time tidying up Main Street, picking up trash, and pulling weeds the day before the Christmas Parade, manned with his trash bag. Jennifer said that her father termed his duties “spiffing-it-up.” Then when the family arrived, Parker would have their viewing spot set up, on their circle stone, with chairs. Over the 25 years or so, Parker would participate in the parade and drum up support for participation by others in the parade.

“He was Christmas,” Jennifer said, mentioning how Parker was “always buying Christmas décor, stringing things up,” and when the Santa’s Village started to need a refresh, was always a guy who you could count on to take the time to “paint something, make it look better.”

A Morningside High graduate in 1963, Parker was an accomplished pole vaulter. After settling in El Segundo, he took advantage of the blue waters of the Pacific Ocean, surfing and boogie-boarding. He also had a standing tee time at The Lakes Golf Course on senior day and was a member of the El Segundo senior tennis player group.

In his later years, Jennifer said that Parker “broke a lot of clubs” on the golf course and seemed to remember brilliant shots, like a hole-in-one, that nobody else in his group could remember happening. And she shared that, eventually, Parker was banned from the tennis courts for his John McEnroe-ish bombastic behavior. “Dementia sucks; it just changed him,” Jennifer said. “It is such an indignity to a strong man, with a strong spirit, like my Dad.”

Back to his visits to Wendy’s, “Most of all, Dad was a regular at Wendy’s,” wrote Jennifer. “He took breakfast there about three times a week for 33 years, as well as eating fish on Friday’s.” He met Wendy Wallace more than 30 years ago. It seems Wendy noticed Joan Parker’s British accent and came over to chat with the Parkers, with Wendy being a Brit ex-pat and all.

“The first time (my parents) went to Wendy’s,” Jennifer shared, “Wendy said she loved my Mom and tolerated my Dad.” Towards the end, “it seemed to be the only place that he could remember to get to. Wendy’s was his touchstone. Countless times he would show up, and they would serve him, even though he may not have been in any shape to be served. They brought him home dozens of times. I am convinced they kept him alive longer than he would have survived by feeding him a daily meal. One of the hardest things I had to do was place my Dad’s picture on the shelf above the cash register (where Wendy’s stalwart customers who have passed are memorialized). I can remember all of the faces on that shelf, remember all of them aging, too, sitting at that counter, probably for their one good meal of the day---slugging each other’s arms passing by, or just a nod as another ‘old guy’ sat down.”

Jennifer was emotional during our phone call when talking about how the staff at Wendy’s would always go far above and beyond to take care of her father. They took care of him when he suffered a bike injury, crashing across the street from Wendy’s. And didn’t create a ruckus when, in his final years, Parker would forget to pay his tab at Wendy’s.

April Shevlin is a long-time waitress at Wendy’s. She related that she, wink-wink, did not want to share certain, probably ribald, stories about Parker, but did text that “one of my biggest and fondest memories of him was when he played Santa at the tree-lighting ceremony. He was perfect for it (with his big belly and great laugh). I remember when he and Joan got Citizens of the Year,” Shevlin texted, calling the moments she spent with Parker “always a good time, that laugh was the best!!!”

Over breakfast at Wendy’s, one of Parker’s granddaughters, Sarah, who called Parker “Poppa,” related a story that sheds some light on the man. It seems she was 13-or-so, and Parker decided that it was time for her to learn to drive. Now, they were in Oklahoma at the time, which is where his daughter Jennifer lives. And the roads are a tad bit less congested than the mess that is our 405. Anyway, the barely aged teenager started barreling down the highway, with Parker riding shotgun, paying not-so-much attention to nascent driving skills, as he was more interested in sipping his Scotch and reading a book. However, he did glance over occasionally and advised Sarah of the necessity of gently tapping as opposed to stomping on the brakes when a stop or slow-down was required.

It all ended well. Sarah and Parker survived the erstwhile driving lesson. Sarah said that the driving excursion epitomized her grandfather, saying that he was “born with the fun button stuck in the on-position.”

He was the ultimate good-time Charlie,” Jennifer said. “He always made time for fun and lived at full throttle his whole life.”

Seems like a life well-lived, though cut too short. •
