Council Gets More Department Head Requests for Next Budget

By Brian Simon

The El Segundo City Council's second budget study session featured funding requests from the remaining eight department heads, as the five elected officials consider how to allocate a $6.84 million surplus for the upcoming fiscal year. The Council members will go over each line item and make final decisions on what to allocate at next week's meeting. The group will normally adopt the 2018/19 budget on Sept. 18. Capital improvements, an employee engagement program, payment to the Section 115 pension trust fund, and pay-down of CalPERS unfunded liability are other options for spending the surplus.

Personnel vacancies – up to 39 full-time positions from 34 just a month ago – are one of the key reasons for the hefty sum of additional dollars in the City of El Segundo's coffers. Though Finance Director Joe Lillio reported that there are “a lot of recruitments in the pipeline” to fill some of those openings, offsets will occur due to expected “fresh retirements” by the end of the calendar year.

Continuing from his presentation to the Council last month, Information Systems Department Director Charles Mallory asked for $241,850 to bring in consultants needed to complete 21 projects in the pipeline. Without this help, he explained, projects will have to be put on hold. Mallory also hopes to get funding to convert a current intern position to Administrative Specialist (costing an additional $66,290). Mayor Drew Boyles and Mayor Pro Tem Carol Pirsztuk were hesitant to approve the admin hire, as they thought it may be wise to wait for the project completions to see if eventual efficiencies achieved may end up shifting other people's roles.

Economic Development Manager Barbara Voss discussed a new citywide communications plan (price tag of $75,000 to be covered through salary savings) designed to “increase efficiency, enhance employee engagement and improve city experiences for residents, businesses and visitors.” She also hopes to upgrade her position to Deputy City Manager (compensation uptick of about $20,000 annually). Boyles described the proposed role as a “gatekeeper for in-bound and out-bound communication.”

Voss' wish list includes two new positions: Communications Management Analyst ($120,000 to $140,000 per year in total compensation) and Economic Development Coordinator ($90,000 to $120,000). Considering the large-dollar ask, Councilmember Scot Nicol wondered if goals could be accomplished with just “one of these two humans” and worried that they would be “the first to go” if the City has to cut salaries in the next recession. Others on the Council spoke of the need to have efficiencies in place before bringing on such hires. Voss contended that with just herself and a swamped intern in the office as of today, she could easily put two full-time personnel to work tomorrow and keep them very busy. Boyles suggested using one in a consultant capacity first before committing to a full employee scenario.

Fire Chief Chris Donovan would like $106,220 for a fire department accreditation program, $25,000 to digitalize fire prevention files, $55,000 for an enhanced wellness program, and $19,000 for a contract plan checker. However, his biggest asks won't require general fund monies: Replacement of a 25-year-old fire engine ($800,000 coming out of equipment replacement funds, developers' fees and state strike team reimbursements) and a new REMS vehicle ($140,000 out of brush fire responses with state reimbursement, equipment replacement funds,

El Segundo School Board Meets Prior to First Day on District Campuses

By Duane Plank

Tuesday evening's meeting of the El Segundo School Board, the first regularly scheduled meeting since July 10, featured a 15-minute presentation by Alex Parslow, principal at the firm AB Architects. Parslow gave the Board an overview of the state school facility program (SFP), a program that El Segundo Unified School District may be able to leverage to help defray costs as it seeks to implement components of the Long-Range Facilities Master Plan. (LRFMP).

On Jan. 23, the Board authorized the District to enter into an agreement to evaluate potential eligibility to receive state funds for modernizing school facilities and perform an initial assessment of the possibility of receiving additional funds to be applied towards modernization. Parslow shared her findings and advised the members of perceived next steps in the planning process as the Board ponders funding options, including this November's $92-million bond ask. Parslow, and PB Architects, will continue to act as the District's agent as the SFP application process moves forward. Parslow said the District should get its application paperwork in as soon as possible, mentioning a late spring 2019 timeframe to get the District in “queue” for available funding.

For more than 20 years, Parslow has advocated for school districts in helping them secure a gamut of services -- including master planning, asset management, funding programs and construction. She

Any Amount of Money

Why would El Segundo think that any amount of money could justify changing The Lakes into a commercial entertainment center/sports bar/arcade/nightclub that permanently impacts our parkland; changes its intent and culture; limits affordable use for El Segundo residents; loses established, treasured programs and services for our children and adults of all ages; and creates additional traffic, security and liability issues when new, viable options now exist to upgrade and maintain The Lakes and it's programs and amenities and guarantee income to not only make it self-sustaining, but to offer substantial annual revenue to the City while keeping El Segundo at its heart?

LA Kings to Hand out Safety Kits to Local Schools

The Los Angeles Kings and the Kings Care Foundation announced the club will use the proceeds from last Thursday's Taste of the South Bay event to purchase emergency safety kits to equip South Bay classrooms.

The announcement came as the Kings hosted the 10th annual Taste of the South Bay event in in Redondo Beach. The team revealed that all proceeds from that event will benefit children in local schools. The hockey club will work with the police chiefs and school superintendents in Redondo Beach, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach and El Segundo to equip South Bay Classrooms.

"We started this program last year in Redondo Beach and are thrilled to be able to bring these tools to the kids of El Segundo, Hermosa Beach and Manhattan Beach," said Kings President and Hockey Hall of Famer Luc Robitaille. "Our goal would be to make sure all of the kids and teachers in Los Angeles have access to such an important tool."

The event raised approximately $50,000. To date, Taste of the South Bay has raised nearly $400,000 since its inception. More than 15 South Bay restaurants participated in the event which featured more than 300 participants. Also in attendance were Kings players, alumni, broadcasters and staff members.

Wiseburn School Board Hears District Demographic Presentation

By Duane Plank

Last Thursday evening, the assembled members of the Wiseburn School Board were privy to a 20-minute presentation touting the analytic tools and experience of DecisionInsite, a company that works with school districts to “provide a unique fusion of technology, analytics and expertise.” The goal is to help Wiseburn Unified School District decision-makers effectively make informed, data-driven recommendations when dealing with enrollment issues – which in turn greatly impact California school district funding.

DecisionInsite Business Development Representative Kelly Stevens made the presentation. The Irvine-based company has been working with school districts since its inception in 2004, utilizing cloud-based platform and pinpointed analytics to aid districts as they master-plan for their future wants and needs.

Stevens demonstrated the system software capabilities for the Board members, using the compiled data of one of the DecisionInsite clients -- the La Habra Unified School District. Stevens compared La Habra to Wiseburn. She talked about the detailed reports and data that her company, if selected by the Board, can supply to help drill-down future decisions and challenges that will face the current as well as future members. In wrapping up her presentation, Stevens noted that if DecisionInsite is selected as Wiseburn’s “demographer,” it would train District IT professionals on implementing the new system.

Board member questions included those involving safety and security of the supplied information. Stevens said that her company’s site had never been hacked. “It’s our business,” she said, “to make sure that we are safe.”

Prior to the meeting, new Wiseburn Superintendent Dr. Blake Silvers said that the District is looking to upgrade and repair current facilities and bolster ongoing programs at school sites. He spoke of the desire to “involve the community” in creating the District’s master plan, and that, hopefully, a demographer will be involved in that plan’s development.

The demographer, Silvers said, would help forecast enrollment numbers in the upcoming years, utilizing advanced metrics and analytics. These forecasts would be very useful to the District as decisions are made to evaluate school sites, possibly change boundaries and grade configurations, plan for staffing needs, prepare budgets, and maximize facility utilization. “We want the [master] plan,” Silvers said, “to be a multi-year plan.

The Board members and administrators then made their informational reports with all embracing the new school year. Vice President/Clerk Roger Banuelos spoke of positive developments with the new Da Vinci High meal program -- implemented by Chartwells -- for the first-time at the campuses, and thanked all who have supported the program.” President JoAnne Kaneda added that she was “glad to be working with Blake,” and that she was looking forward to the opening of the aquatics center. Deputy Superintendent Dr. Chris Jones mentioned attending a recent active shooter training event involving Palos Verdes’ school district, reiterated the support and success of the new Da Vinci High meal program, and gave an update on sports at the Da Vinci schools, which held their first day of classes on Aug. 12.

Of the partnership with food provider Chartwells, which began in Wiseburn lower-level schools three years ago, Jones emailed that when the District first contracted with the company, “there was a significant improvement in food quality, and participation nearly doubled. The students seem very happy!”

During his report, Director of Facilities Planning Vince Madsen noted that remaining Wiseburn High site “construction is moving along, [though] we are still having some challenges.” One challenge is figuring out whether the new soccer field surface will consist of synthetic turf or grass. Madsen and his team are facing challenges with the dirt base of the field.

Madsen added that Sept. 29 will be the aquatics center ribbon-cutting, with the official grand opening still to be decided. He spoke about Phase II change orders that were brought to the Board for approval and mentioned long-term facility planning. He said work is ongoing on the gymnasium construction, with a firm opening date not specified at this time. He also talked about the progress being made on clearing the staging area that is the soon-to-be soccer field.

Silvers then made his report, talking about a District “fire issue” that had taken place earlier in the day and was successfully dealt with in a timely manner. He talked of attending a recent Wiseburn Educational Foundation (WEF) meeting, and how that group’s support was much appreciated. New teachers started work on Aug. 15, he noted. Silvers also spoke of the new teachers’ enthusiasm and “engagement.” He lauded the administrators and teachers who worked hard over the summer, utilizing professional opportunities made available since the final school bell chimed back in June.

Monday, Aug. 27 was a professional development day for District teachers, with 12 new instructors and elementary and middle school students returning to the classroom the following day. “We are excited,” Silvers said, “about the new additions to our team.” On Wednesday, Silvers and his team put together a barbecue for the staff, and he gave his initial “State of the District” address at Dana Middle School -- where he announced the selections of teacher and classified employee of the last school year.

Silvers called this “a real optimistic time” for Wiseburn. “It has been amazing to watch the teachers work in their professional development sessions,” he said. He labeled it “a blessing” to work with “teachers so committed to their craft.”

Next on the Thursday evening agenda were the action items, which included facilities updates as the work continues on Phase II of the new Wiseburn High project. Silvers said things continue to move along as construction continues on the aquatics center, gymnasium and soccer field. “We are still looking good,” Silvers said, alluding to the work on the northwest quadrant of the Douglas Street facility. “It’s looking nice over there...very clean.”

One of the fiscal action items passed by the Board included funding and a continuing partnership with WEF, which, Silvers noted, provided the District with more than $170,000 during the past school year. The STEM and Arts programs especially benefited. “It’s a wonderful partnership,” Silvers said.

Silvers added that the WEF, currently helmed by Executive Director Carolyn Niman and President Debbie Felt, has a “very savvy and committed board,” calling the members “really good people who engage in our community in a positive way. Just a blessing.”

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Wiseburn School Board is slated to commence at 7 p.m. on Thursday evening, Sept. 13, and will take place on the first floor of the new Wiseburn High School. •

Eagles Mourn the Loss of Chuck

By Gregg McMullin

In everyone’s life, someone unforgettable makes a lasting impact on us. It could be a teacher, a coach or a true friend. When Chuck Shaffer -- known to his family as Charles -- entered our lives in 1981, he became all three to hundreds and hundreds of athletes and thousands of students at El Segundo High School and our community. Chuck Shaffer was so beloved and adored over the past 36 years that his passing, after a long illness, has sent shockwaves through our community. Chuck was so popular and liked that if there were a Mount Rushmore of El Segundo High icons, you can bet his face would be chiseled alongside John Stevenson, Urho Saari, Keith Erickson and Kemer Brett... so you get the idea what Chuck meant and how important he was to our community.

There aren’t many people we know that if you just say their first name, you’ll instantly recognize who they are. Everyone knew who Chuck was -- school administrators, the student body, the players at each level, our community and especially the coaches. He touched us with his dedication, his knowledge and most of all his friendship. Helping us with his passion, we were part of his family and he was certainly a part of ours. Chuck was named as the grand marshal of the Homecoming Parade, had the high school yearbook dedicated to him, was presented with a letterman’s jacket with seven CIF championship patches on it, and was the “Dude Be Nice Project” recipient.

So how did Chuck arrive at El Segundo High School to volunteer for the football, basketball and baseball programs that spanned 36 volunteer years? It started, of all places, at Beverly Hills High School helping out with the football team that Jack Reilly was coaching. Reilly was Beverly’s football coach when Chuck showed up one day at practice and asked if he could help out in any way. Chuck would spend the next three years doing the behind-the-scenes things for the football program. When Coach Riley was hired by El Camino College to head the football program, Chuck followed. “One of the duties that Chuck had during games was to watch my young son on the sidelines so he wouldn’t get hit by a player going out of bounds. Chuck would say, ‘I’ll take care of him,’” Reilly said. Chuck’s loyalty, unselfishness, honesty and love to be just part of the team meant so much to Reilly and the players. “He never asked for anything in return but just to be around the team,” Reilly added. Chuck would continue helping out for the next 35 years at El Camino.

Reilly and Steve Newell, the legendary El Segundo High School football coach, knew each other from their teams playing against each other. The two became close friends. Reilly called Newell and said Chuck wanted to help out at a high school program and wanted to assist at El Segundo doing the same things he did at Beverly Hills and El Camino College. Newell gladly said yes.

When Chuck showed up at an El Segundo football practice in the summer of 1982, he spoke to Newell (who is now retired and lives in the state of Washington). “Chuck asked me after practice if he could bring sodas for each of the players,” Newell said. “I said, ‘Yes, but there are over 40 players. Are you sure?’” Newell said that Chuck didn’t hesitate and returned with enough sodas for everyone. He added that Chuck continued to bring after-practice refreshments leading up to the first game of the season. Prior to the first game, Chuck sponsored a barbecue for the entire team, coaches, cheerleaders and some parents. He was officially an Eagle.

The bond between Newell and Chuck grew into a special friendship. They talked about movies and players on the team. The bond was evident when Newell entrusted Chuck with game-day footballs and management of the balls during the games. “Chuck was part of the program and he attended all the coaches’ meetings,” Newell recalled. “He was so methodical and detailed, especially with the footballs. He made sure the pressure of the balls benefited our quarterbacks and made sure the kicking balls had enough air in them.”

Eventually Newell stepped down as head coach, but Chuck kept in constant contact with him when he relocated to Seattle. “Chuck would send me the end-of-the-year football program along with critiques on movies,” Newell said. “I’ll miss his Friday night football score update calls and the gentle spirit of a truly good human being.”

Chuck continued his duties as the team’s manager with Craig Cousins, who took over the head coaching position in 1992-1993. Coach Cousins, who was also the assistant baseball coach at the time, had already befriended Chuck when the latter was helping out with the baseball team.

Cousins remembers meeting Chuck in 1984 at a home baseball game. Coach John Stevenson and Cousins knew Chuck had been helping the football team. When Chuck showed up at a game and started arranging the bats and helmets, each one of them thought the other had asked Chuck to join the team. It wasn’t until some 10 games into the season that they asked each other if they had brought Chuck aboard. By then, it didn’t matter. Chuck had cemented his position with the baseball team. It was years later that Chuck would start a longstanding tradition of bringing large bags of peanuts to the games for the players.

Cousins and Chuck worked together for over 30 years with the baseball program. They became close friends and would often go to movies when the baseball team was on a road trip. Those road trips during the high school season meant going to San Luis Obispo, or to Spokane or Montana during the summer. “We’d often go to movies and of course Chuck would be the movie critic,” Cousins said.

Cousins said of Chuck, “He was a kind and caring man who put the players and coaches above his own needs. His honesty and generosity knew no bounds and the only things he sought from us was to be respected and part of the team.”

Steve Shevlin, who has been the football coach for the past 25 years, had Chuck on the sidelines with him managing balls and helping out from day one. Shevlin said that Chuck was so meticulous about having the footballs dry that the latter made sure there was a ball dryer on the field and lots of towels if there was even a hint of rain in the forecast.

Over the years, Chuck made lasting friendships with players and coaches as well as another sector -- the officials. On more than on one occasion during the start of a football game, an official would ask, "Where's Chuck? He's the only one we'll authorize getting us the ball." Of course when an official made a bad call or a call that went against the Eagles, Chuck would let them know in no uncertain terms how they fouled up.

Another local legend that Chuck worked with was head basketball coach Rick Sabosky. In 1987, with Chuck solidly entrenched as an Eagle helping out with the football and baseball programs, Coach Stevenson asked Coach Sabosky if he could use Chuck on game days to help out. Sabosky jumped at the idea because he knew all that Chuck had done so far.

Sabosky said Chuck was at his side during games for over 25 years. "Chuck got so nervous and excited during games and oftentimes screaming at players or referees louder than me during the excitement of a close game," Sabosky said. He also remembered often hearing Chuck have a running conversation with himself that might go something like this: "That's a foul! Oh geez, don't shoot that. Can we get a call? Pass the ball, please."

Sabosky shared that the players loved Chuck and respected him as if he were another coach. On one occasion, Chuck had had enough of the team's antics. He was pressed into driving one of the vans to transport seven players to a game. If you knew Chuck, he was a perfectionist and a little nervous at driving. The players were being loud and Chuck got more and more frustrated as the players got so loud that it reached a fever pitch. Finally with one scream from a player, Chuck almost lost control of the van. He nearly flipped the vehicle and pulled to the side of the road. All he needed to do was turn around and stare at the mischievous players. The players felt the nerves and tension and behaved quietly the rest of the trip to the game.

What was a common theme with each coach and player interviewed was Chuck's love for older movies and museums. He would entertain players and coaches with his brilliant knowledge of films, older movie stars and museums. He would recite lines from different movies from long ago and say how much better and wonderful the older ones were.

Players from over the years expressed their sorrow. Nigel Nootbaar was especially affected by Chuck's loss. "I knew who Chuck was long before he knew who I was," he said. "I remember going to varsity baseball games as a kid and he was at every single game I went to. He seemed to be everywhere -- grabbing bats, bringing balls to the umpire, talking to guys in the dugout. When I finally got my chance to play on the varsity team, I got to meet Chuck. It was at that moment that I knew he was a special person. I was intimidated to be playing for Coach Stevenson, but Chuck made that transition easy for me because of how nice of a guy he was. He always found a way to lighten up the mood with a subtle joke, a new nickname, or a smile."

One memory that stood out for Nootbaar was remembering when Chuck told him that he had a "Hoover Pocket." Nootbaar said, "It meant that one of my back pockets was sticking out. To this day, and for the rest of my life, I will use that phrase. I'll never forget what he meant to me, my family and the El Segundo community. Chuck will always have a place in my heart."

Another former player and current head baseball coach Billy Traber remembers Chuck as a player. "Chuck was just so valuable to the team and we all respected him," he said. "He was a homer and always had the coaches' backs when they were challenging an umpire's call whether they were right or wrong." Traber also echoed what others said, referring to Chuck's love of movies. "He would be surprised if we hadn't seen a particular movie."

Chuck was close to all the players over the years and gave out many nicknames. Mike Bundy's nickname was Boss. The former standout Eagle quarterback and third baseman was saddened to hear that Chuck had passed away. Bundy's favorite memory wasn't a specific moment, but overall how Chuck treated others. "Chuck had a genuine kindness that oozed out all of the time," Bundy said. "He always had a nickname for everyone...and no matter the circumstance, he would make it a point to say hello to all of us and our parents."

Chuck was so much an Eagle. He enjoyed seeing the team succeed and felt the players' sorrow in defeat. The Eagles were playing in the 1999 CIF championship baseball game at Anaheim Stadium and lost a heartbreaker in the final inning. While the team was having a meeting in short right field, Chuck was in the dugout cleaning up the bats, helmets and baseballs. When I approached him to ask if I could help, I could see he had tears in his eyes. When I asked what was wrong, his response was, "I'm not sad we lost. I'm devastated for the team." That was Chuck always thinking of others.

Charles Dickens once wrote, "No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of another."

That defines our friend Chuck. No matter the task at hand, he was always there to help and lighten the burden of the coaches and players. Now he's helping another team and smiling down upon us and thinking of a way he could make it rain. Yes, that's Chuck still thinking of others...

A HUGE DECISION FOR EL SEGUNDO

On Tuesday, September 4th, the El Segundo City Council will begin determining whether to protect The Lakes at El Segundo and the recreational hopes Chevron had for it when it gifted the property to the City some 25 years ago or abandon those hopes in favor of a risky entertainment scheme that chases dollars at the expense of the neighborhood values that caused most of us to settle our families here in the first place. Do we start down the slippery slope of transforming other treasured city assets and amenities into commercial ventures? Do we make quality of life decisions about city-provided programs and services that El Segundo citizens hold dear like other park facilities and fields, local fire/police/ambulance control, services to seniors, and shuttle/dial-a-ride on purely financial grounds or the grounds that make communities safe and great places to live?

Due to the RFP process that is coming to a vote, this is no longer a debate about whether to choose TopGolf or to do absolutely nothing with the current facility. There are now options on the table that honor providing both valuable "quality of life" amenities to our community members while also achieving a positive financial outcome for the City. The City has received several proposals from large golf management companies that will invest the necessary capital to bring The Lakes up to market standards, create a capital reserve fund to keep it up to market standards, assume ALL financial risk, and remit rental payments over and above all of that so that The Lakes can repay its bonded debt over time.

This is not just about a golf course. It also applies to each of the various services and facilities that our City provides to enhance the lives of our citizens. It is about achieving financial sustainability while providing valuable "quality of life" amenities to our community instead of attempting to maximize revenue at the expense of those very same values.

And it's about you, your preferences and your passions whether you care about golf or not. This is a watershed moment for the future of our City. If you feel that El Segundo has an identity and values that are worth preserving, contact your elected officials to share your perspective on the subject. Our City Council needs to hear the opinions of our community.

began her presentation with an overview of the SFP, which was first implemented in 1998 to give school districts greater independence and flexibility. Any state funds granted to school districts emanate from California Statewide General Obligation Bonds and developer fees, among other sources.

Parslow delineated the application for eligibility and application for the funding process, and that the District would need to demonstrate that the existing seating capacity is insufficient to receive new construction SFP funds. El Segundo Unified does not currently meet the criteria for new construction funds, though districts that do receive SFP funding for new construction provide their own buy-in or “match” a 50-50 split with state funds. She also spoke of “modernization eligibility,” which the District is eligible for, and is judged on a site-by-site basis depending on the age of the buildings. It features a 60-40 funding split, with the state responsible for the larger portion.

Parslow showed Board members a graph that noted estimates for modernization work at each District campus, with Center Street Elementary School in need of $2,168,155, Richmond Street Elementary School $1,548,697, El Segundo High School, $1,367,415, and Arena High School $673,906. According to her presentation, El Segundo Middle School does not have any modernization needs that would qualify for grant funding.

The next steps, Parslow said, involve the Board approving a resolution authorizing filing documents under the SFP; submitting the required forms updating the District’s modernization eligibility; developing Division of the State Architect Plans; obtaining the California Department of Education approval of said plans; and preparing the funding documents that will be filed with the Office of Public School Construction.

Superintendent Melissa Moore said that by filling out the required documentation, the District will be “getting in line” to receive any possible upcoming state funds. However, she reiterated that it is “very unlikely” that any funding from the SFP program would be received in the near future. She added that the Board will do all it can to “turn over every stone so that if there is money out there, we will go after it.” Moore called Parslow the “expert in this area,” as the latter fielded Board member questions on the specifics of the timing of filing the paperwork, disbursement of state funds, and “hoops to jump through” to secure the funding.

Prior to Parslow’s presentation, the new student representative to the Board -- 16-year-old senior Mathew Tritasavit -- received his oath of office and made his first comments.

Action items requiring Board member consent were next on the agenda and passed quickly. Those included personnel matters; approval of the July 10 meeting minutes; a contract to supply a music class to all preschool students; garden-ing agreements at both elementary schools; the annual contract with the Los Angeles County of Education that leads to another edition of El Segundo Middle School’s Outdoor Science Camp; an independent contractor agreement with Zum Transportation to provide transport services; an agreement with Adams Investigation to provide assistance with a personnel inves-tigation; an agreement with WARE disposal to provide the District with integrated waste management services; a request for proposals for architectural/engineering services for future projects associated with the LRFMP; and a consultancy agreement providing counseling/ mental health services at Arena High School.

“We feel a responsibility to all students,” Moore said of the Arena High consultancy agreement, “and we want to do a better job.”

The acceptance of gifts was the first item on the action agenda, with El Segundo Middle School PTSA gifting the school $2,775. Also approved were an agreement starting the demolition process of the old Madsen House TLC building located on the Richmond Street Elementary property; and an agreement with El Camino Community College to partner with the District to offer “clear pathways” represent-ing course requirements for students pursuing an AA degree, a certificate in career/technical education, or a potential transfer to a University of California or California State University school. The Board also approved the resolution authorizing document filing under the SFP, which Parslow had spoken about earlier. Dis-trict agenda notes mentioned that El Segundo Unified may be eligible for up to $3,454,904 in state funds, but that, if it qualifies, “the release of the funds may be years away.”

Board President Emilee Layne expressed her approval that finally replacing the aging TLC facility at Richmond Street Elementary is being actively addressed.

The information pending action agenda, items which may be brought back to the Board for approval at a future meeting, included consideration of the adoption on an American Government textbook at El Segundo High School at a cost of a tick-under $14,000.

Moore then previewed the September in-formational calendar, which is dotted with back-to-school nights (El Segundo Middle School on Sept. 6, El Segundo High on Sept. 12, and both elementary schools on the 13th) and PTA meetings. With school now back in session as of yesterday, the regularly scheduled Board meetings will once again take place on the second and fourth Tuesday of most months.

Reports followed, with the members men-tioning events they had participated in over the summer, including recent back-to-school gatherings. Moore, beginning her fifth year as superintendent, noted that the 2018/19 school year is themed “Building a Better Future To-gether.” She said the District looks towards the bond ask on Nov. 6, as well as a School Board election on the same date that will fill three open seats.

The next regularly scheduled El Segundo School Board meeting is calendared to com-mence at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 11. • the solid waste contract as those services prepare to go to bid in the upcoming months. Berkman also summarized the $2.2 million in capital improvement program projects previously funded that will roll over to 2018/19. From the overall list, he highlighted the hockey rink replacement (with a possible partnership with the LA Kings in the works) and Downtown El Segundo upgrades and beautification. Proposed capital projects for next year include various water main/valve replacements/improvements; sewer infrastructure improvements; ADA ramp installation; pump station rehabilitation; street rehab and residential slurry sealing; and annual curb, gutter and sidewalk repair. Total cost: $5 million. On top of those, Berkman recapped the top priority projects ranked by the City’s Capital Improvement Program Advisory Committee (CIPAC). Number one on that list is city-wide facilities repair, with a “guess-timate” placeholder of $1 million, though the amount won’t be known until staff returns with a draft report at the end of the year/early 2019. Other projects that made the CIPAC cut were The Plunge replacement scope assessment, Acacia Park construction, Washington Park playground replacement, Main and Imperial entryway beautification, softball field bleacher replacement, 500 block of E. Walnut Avenue drainage improvement, 800 block of McCarthy Court street improvement, Richmond Field renovation with ADA accessibility, Class III bike route improvement project, and California Street storm drain improvement. Members of the Council had additional thoughts on potential projects. Boyles hoped to see a revamp of the skate park on Grand (which Berkman said received a lower CIPAC score compared to the other items on the list). Pirsztuk agreed with her colleague, stating that she would opt for the skate park over the Main and Imperial entryway. Nicol suggested that an outside group (e.g. church/non-profit) might volunteer to handle the beautification work. Councilmember Don Brann, a proponent of reducing the City’s reserves from the current 19 percent in order to free up funds to subsidize additional services, said he wants to see monies set aside for two items not listed. He suggested “a couple million bucks” will be needed for potential litigation to fight LAX expansion. The budget currently has $150,000 for consulting/lobbying, which Brann deemed “not a serious amount.” He added that the City should also help out Richard Lundquist -- the head of Continental Development Corporation as well as CEO of the South Bay Sports,

Health and Recreation group that spearheaded the campaign to raise the remaining dollars for the El Segundo Aquatics Facility. Brann spoke of Lundquist’s generosity and that the latter has contributed funds out of pocket. Addressing the prospect of a future lawsuit against Los Angeles World Airports, Lillio said continued vacancies could provide additional mid-year monies to allocate towards legal fees. Carpenter added that the Council could also later apply reserves towards the cause. Looking at the aquatics center, Carpenter explained that the prior Council’s direction was to use $1.8 million in City money, $6 million from Wiseburn and the balance from Lundquist’s group to cover the project costs. Councilmember Chris Pimentel added that community input showed a preference for future City aquatics dollars to go towards revamping The Plunge. •

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT if the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse.
