Northrop Grumman Supports Cousteau's EarthEcho Expedition

This year, thanks to support from the Northrop Grumman Foundation, EarthEcho will, for the first time, include U.S. based middle school teachers in an exploration of water scarcity in Southern California alongside Philippe Cousteau, Jr. and the EarthEcho Expeditions team. Since 2013, EarthEcho Expeditions have leveraged the rich Cousteau legacy of exploration and discovery to bring science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education alive for today's 21st Century learners and their educators. City Continues to Monitor Performance as Year Rolls On

By Brian Simon

As part of long-term strategic planning and a commitment to achieve its major objectives, the City of El Segundo earlier this year began to provide regular reports to track its performance in various categories. Recently, staff released numbers for the second quarter covering April through June. When compared with the initial batch of results from the first quarter, the City now has an early measuring stick to see how it is doing—where there has been improvement as well as what areas might need some extra attention.

For instance, the average monthly number of building plan checks increased from 36.3 in the first quarter up to 46.3--and the average time to review those decreased from 12.9 days to just 8.1 days. But while overall plan checks (including electrical, mechanical, plumbing and grading) increased from 65 to 75 a month, those took 9.4 full time employee (FTE) hours per review as compared to 8.1 in the first quarter. Finance Manager Joseph Lillio attributed the extra time to receiving a number of especially complicated reviews.

The City only processed an average of two film permits a month in the second quarter after four in the first, but cut down turnaround time from 48 hours to 32 hours. Staff also processed City contracts in 5.6 days on monthly average as opposed to taking 7.1 days in the first quarter.

While the number of card holders, visitors and circulation of materials all dropped very slightly at the library during the second quarter, attendance at programs almost doubled from 440 to 857.

On the public safety side, the El Segundo Police Department reported a monthly average of 170 calls in the second quarter with an average response time of four minutes and 12 seconds. This versus the first quarter averages of 127 calls per month and four minutes and seven seconds to respond.

However in releasing crime numbers for June 2017, the ESPD reported some good news. Part 1 crimes were down in June by 10 percent compared to the previous year, with notable decreases in robberies and theft/larceny offenses. Burglaries and aggravated

Wiseburn School Board Meets Prior to Opening Day on Campuses

By Duane Plank

Last Wednesday's meeting of the Wiseburn School Board was bereft of special presentations---which is standard for the final meeting prior to start-up of a new school year. The first day of classes kicked off this week on Wednesday morning.

As the construction continues at the new high school facility on Douglas Street, Wiseburn Unified School District Superintendent Tom Johnstone, who will be retiring at the end of the school year, said, "If we maintain urgency, if we get in before the end of October, it isn't that big of a deal." Johnstone said he was "pushing more" to have the students inhabit the new site at the end of September, but added,

"I don't think that is going to happen."

Johnstone noted two key areas at the construction site that must be completed. "One of them is the atrium," he said. He mentioned welding issues that still needed to be dialed in, as well as the "cement treatment to the parking lot." Johnstone said that there were ongoing negotiations with the company scheduled to work on the parking lot treatment, noting that the contractor had initially proposed a square-foot cement treatment bid that was, in Johnstone's opinion, out of line. Negotiations are ongoing, he said.

The Superintendent said that most of the challenges at the construction site had

An Unforgettable Adventure Experiencing the Solar Eclipse

By Gregg McMullin
All Photos by Kyle McMullin

My son Kyle and I made plans to view what has been described as a once-in-a-lifetime event: the totality of an eclipse of the sun. There are two main solar eclipses--a total and an annular eclipse. An annular solar eclipse happens when the moon covers the sun's center, leaving the sun's visible outer edges to form a "ring of fire" or annulus around the sun. The total eclipse occurs when the moon passes between the sun and earth and when the moon fully or partially blocks the sun.

The totality of an eclipse happens periodically around the globe. The last total solar eclipse viewed from the contiguous United States was on February 26, 1979 with the path passing through the northwestern states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota. The next annular solar eclipse that can be seen in the Continental United States will be on October 14, 2023 and will be visible from Northern California to Florida. Following this, we will have a total solar eclipse on April 8, 2024 visible from Texas to Maine.

We flew to Medford, Oregon and rented a car the day before the big event. Since motels were sold out starting at $399 a night at Motel 6, we planned on car-camping in Madras, Oregon. Madras was one of the best places to view the eclipse in the nation. A friend

Police Briefs

El Segundo Police Department Arrests Theft Suspects

On August 17, El Segundo Police Department (ESPD) officers stopped a motorcycle traveling southbound in the area of 800 S. Sepulveda Boulevard. The male driver had a female passenger on the back of the motorcycle. During the officers’ investigation they located a wallet containing an out-of-state license, numerous credit cards, and cash belonging to another person. ESPD officers were able to locate the victim, who stated he recently had his wallet stolen from his vehicle in Marina Del Rey, and his credit cards had been fraudulently used at a retail store in El Segundo. Both suspects were arrested and the Los Angeles County District Attorney’s Office filed several felony counts of theft and identity theft related charges against Manchel and Poley.

Office Creeper Arrested for Multiple Burglaries

On August 17, Richard Hernandez was arrested for a warrant related to three ESPD burglary cases which occurred between October 2016 and May2017. Hernandez loitered inside commercial establishments in an effort to steal cell phones and wallets, then used the victims’ credit cards at retail stores. Anyone with further information please contact ESPD at 310-524-2200.

assaults rose slightly. El Segundo’s Part 1 crime total of 65 was slightly below that of Manhattan Beach (69) and Hermosa Beach, and significantly lower than Hawthorne (221) and Gardena (160) for the same period.

Fire Department dispatch for emergency medical services arrived on the scene in an average of exactly five minutes during the second quarter, after doing so in four minutes and 13 seconds previously. Fire call responses were up from five minutes and 17 seconds to five minutes and 40 seconds.

The Human Resources Department (HR) recruited 18 full-time employees with an average of 86 days per hire—compared to 11-full timers and 96 days in the first quarter. The City averaged 36 vacancies per month (up from 33).

In the infrastructure realm, crews filled 40.3 potholes per month, with 10 skim patches/overlays, 103 sidewalk grinds, hot mix, and three asphalt removals/replacements. The first quarter featured a large number of pothole fixes (243), while the second focused on sidewalks (after 23 related repairs in the prior quarter).

Online water bill payments continued to increase, with 530 monthly in the second quarter compared to 485 previously. This comes on the heels of a prior outreach program to residents.

The recent staff report also provided an update on the City’s 91 work plan items for the 2016/17 fiscal year. Of these, Lillio reported 59 as either completed and successfully implemented or on the way to realization. That represents nearly two-thirds of the entire list. Another 25 (27 percent) were on track to begin by the end of the current fiscal year or early in 2017/18 and slated for completion before next fall. Only seven items (eight percent) fell by the way-side and needed to be deferred to a future year—with the reasoning due to either a lack of budget resources or adequate staffing to handle the project.

Among the key successes reported included establishment of a citizens training academy by the El Segundo Police Department, with the first class set to graduate this evening; Recreation and Parks’ replacement of the worn-down synthetic turf at the Campus El Segundo Athletic Fields; HR’s initial research to develop an employee engagement survey that a selected vendor will soon implement; and a residential and business community satisfaction survey that will roll out this fall.

Lillio’s department recently completed an analysis of the City’s equipment replacement fund, with 200 items removed from the schedule leading to general fund savings of $300,000 for 2017/18. The reduction was due to a new threshold policy that moves any items under $5,000 out of the equipment replacement fund and into general operating budgets. Finance also instituted a paperless pay stub system that went live this past February and is working on a master user fee schedule that will go before the City Council later this year.

Additionally, Economic Development implemented an Economic Development Advisory Council strategic plan. And in early September, the City Council is scheduled to vote on a new software system for Recreation and Parks that will replace the current one that is near its end of life.

“The City departments strive to provide high-quality services, but we need to track, evaluate and share our performance data—and look for comparative data in order to know if we are achieving the performance and quality objectives,” said City Manager Greg Carpenter. “I would say the results so far are generally positive, but also indicate some areas for continued improvement. With just six months of data, it’s still early... but the further we go down this path, the more we will know and the more valuable the information will become. Eventually, we will be able to use the information to evaluate decisions related to process improvements, budgeting, staffing and technology.”

Staff will present a final update on this year’s work plan in late October and begin updating the 2017/18 plan based on Council direction on what items to prioritize along with any projects already in progress. •

Eagles Football: Offense Filled With Promise

By Gregg McMullin

The El Segundo Eagles football team’s past success with its high-scoring offense will be put to the test this season when the bulk of its stars on that side of the line graduated. Jake Palmer, Taz Tauaese, Ashton Saltz, Haamid Brooks and Billy Brasher led an offense that scored 312 points. Gone is the two-pronged quarterback approach that threw for over 2,000 yards and a running back that rushed for over 1,000 yards and accounted for 17 TDs.

Junior quarterback Matt Romero will lead the offense this season. He looked sharp in the scrimmage against West Torrance.

Yes, the Eagles will have a different look this season--but head coach Steve Shevlin, who is also the offensive coordinator, believes his offense will have plenty of promise. “We’ve had a productive summer and there’s plenty of potential for us,” he said.

Junior quarterback Matt Romero takes over a prolific offensive scheme. He saw limited time last season working behind Jake Palmer and Kobe Lagarde. He has given the coaching staff enough confidence with his leadership skills, athleticism and understanding of the playbook to give Romero the keys to the offense. “Matt has a big arm and has been running the offense all summer long. He looks confident and we’re confident in him,” says Coach Shevlin. When transfer Dariush Sayson becomes eligible, he too could see action at quarterback.

Romero will have plenty of receivers and options in the upcoming season. Senior tight end Taj Balogun should see plenty of passes coming his way. He has the speed and size to give opposing defenses fits. With his athletic ability, this three-year starter should draw double-team coverage.

With Balogun garnering so much attention,

#5 Danny McEntee is a duel-threat running back who will see plenty of passes coming his way.

the passing game should open up for Romero to find his other weapons. Scott Melton, Mike Gonzales, Chris Charles, Tyler Villalobos, Danny McEntee, Hunter Lynch and Kyle Freeman are all speedy receivers capable of stretching the field.

The running game that had one of the South Bay’s top backs the past two seasons will be tested with unknown adversity. Taz Tauaese was one of the premiere running backs for the past two seasons, rushing for 39 touchdowns in 20 games. So how will this year’s running game reset with experience that will be a challenged?

McEntee and Joey Gorte should see most of the carries. McEntee has matured into a slashing-type running back much like Tauaese was. Gorte filled in nicely when Tauaese went down with an injury last season and looks to build on that this year.

Kyle Freeman and James Amerault will see action at the fullback spot. Both have what you need in a fullback with good blocking skills as well as another option for Romero. Sayson is another possibility for fullback if he’s not at quarterback.

The strength of the offense could be the experience and talent on the line. Senior center Jess Caravello is a three-year starter and looks to lead the offensive line. In his two seasons under center, Caravello has had no fumbled snaps and was one of the team’s best blockers.

Caravello will be joined by other returning seniors Tim Flores and Mason Susich, as well as juniors Gunnar Rogers, Kaden Langlois and Ben Rojas. Sophomores Justin Delgado, Jose Aceves and Michael Romero have shown they

Mayweather/McGregor Melee Motivated by Money

By Adam Serrao

At the end of the day, what everyone in the world knew would happen, happened. The boxing match--or circus, if you prefer--between arguably the best boxer of all time and a fighter who had never boxed professionally for a day in his life ended in favor of the former rather than the latter. Floyd “Money” Mayweather, Jr. strategically allowed mixed martial arts star Conor McGregor to come at him early in the fight that took place last Saturday night at the T-Mobile Arena in Las Vegas. By the eighth round, McGregor was gassed. It didn’t take long after that for the fight to end by TKO in favor of Mayweather, giving the two fighters what they had sought after all along--the biggest payday in the history of the sport of boxing.

Mayweather knew what he was doing throughout the entirety of the boxing match. That means purposefully letting McGregor waste his punches on him in order to make the fight more compelling and entertaining to the audience--which has been rare in Mayweather fights throughout the years. “I think we gave the fans what they wanted to see,” Mayweather said in the ring after his victory. “I owed them for the Pacquiao fight. I had to come straight ahead and give the fans a show. That’s what I gave them.”

Mayweather was never in any jeopardy of losing the fight. He knew that he wouldn’t be ever since the rivalry with McGregor was manufactured. Though passionate UFC fans won’t like to admit it, even they knew that their star had no chance in a boxing match against one of the greatest to ever live. That--and the exorbitant ticket prices--was the reason why the T-Mobile arena didn’t even sell out for the fight. Mayweather, however, was more than happy to end his retirement after two years to collect one final exorbitant paycheck for one hour of controlling what may have been the easiest boxing match of his entire career.

“Our game plan was to take our time, go to him, let him shoot his shots early and then take him out down the stretch,” a calculated Mayweather explained post-fight. Throughout the first three rounds of the match, Mayweather landed a total of nine punches to his opponent. In the 10th and final round alone, Mayweather connected with nine shots to the face of McGregor, forcing the referee to jump between the two and end the fight within the final minute of the round.

The only controversy surfacing from the night was from McGregor and his fans claiming that the referee stepped in to stop the fight too soon. “Let the man put me down,” McGregor stated after the fight with a plastic cup full of whiskey in his hand. “That’s fatigue, that’s not damage. Where was the final two rounds? Let me walk back to my corner and compose myself.” McGregor is lucky that he got out of the ninth round, let alone the 10th, while still on his feet. Because of his self-proclaimed fatigue, he was unable to defend himself against Mayweather, let alone throw anything slightly resembling a punch back. The referee stepping in “early,” as they do in boxing when someone is getting pummeled, did McGregor a favor. By allowing him to leave the fight while still (wobbling) on his own two feet, the ref not only saved McGregor from the embarrassment that would have surely happened two seconds later of being knocked out cold on the canvas, but also gave the first-time boxer an excuse for what was already an inevitable loss in the ring that night.

Despite the loss, McGregor is poised to quadruple his net worth, which of course was the plan from the outset for an event that could be said to have been more of a contest of promotional antics than anything resembling a professional boxing match. Mayweather, who knew that he would win from the start, will likely be walking away from the match with more than $300 million for his one hour of work. That being said, the fight was at least much more entertaining than Mayweather’s previous bout against Manny Pacquiao. And despite McGregor never really having a chance at all, he still lasted 10 entire rounds in the ring with possibly the greatest boxer ever, showed a ton of heart, and landed 30 more punches (111) than Pacquiao (81) did in two fewer rounds. Mayweather out-landed McGregor 130-60 in rounds six through 10 once the former finally decided that it was time to box.

UFC fans are a pretty passionate bunch, there’s no doubt about that. And despite how easy it is to hate Mayweather for things he has done out of the ring, this fight has made it easy to appreciate the boxer that he is inside of it because of his fighting IQ. A fighter, who is normally defensive by nature, won the match by attacking and formulating a game plan against a bigger, more aggressive opponent. In the end, the fight concluded in a way that everyone knew it would. Mayweather won, fans were entertained, and the two participants who were completely and solely motivated by money made enough of it to set themselves up for the rest of their collective lives.

Hip-Hop Heart-Warmer Patti Cake$ Is Stylish and Sweet

By Ryan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

What if 8 Mile starred a girl? This is essentially Patti Cake$, a Cinderella story of an overweight underdog who tries to upend herself from a dead end life in her New Jersey hometown by following her dream of becoming a rap superstar. Premiering at this year's Sundance Film Festival and acquired by Fox Searchlight, the rap musical is now playing in theaters, including the Landmark and ArcLight Hollywood.

Patti Cake$ is a certain kind of wonderful—a refreshing breeze into your life that only indie cinema can offer. The movie is essentially another follow-your-dreams journey, but is made all the better and worthwhile by its stylish, street-savviness and fresh flair. Patti Cake$ will delight and reignite you to be your baddest self.

Our lead hero Danielle Macdonald is a beautiful new star to fill the screen. As Patricia Dombrowski, aka Patti, she smirks and stunts through the streets with her gangsta exterior, but balances her toughness with sensitivity, flinching when she's shamed by others over her appearance. Macdonald's star is one that alternates between shimmering and shining, and really owns this movie.

This is the work of the film's writer and director Jeremy Jasper (a music video director who wrote all of the rap lyrics to the film). And, oh boy, do these songs kick—especially when it comes time for Patti to do her thing. These well-written moments, whether it's a freestyle rap-off in a gas station or in the makeshift studio, give the lo-fi rap tracks a hard rock swagger of a Sleigh Bells metal meets the MC-queen authority style of Nicki Minaj. Half the reason I enjoyed Patti Cake$ so much is because the tunes transport you to this concert world. In fact, if you want to get a flavor of the music now, the Original Motion Picture Soundtrack is available to stream on Spotify. While "PBNJ" may be the film's single, "Hunger Gamez" is a real fun one as well.

Of course, you can't have a party without pathos—or in this case, some sort of story that fuels Patti to strive for this dream (which she takes seriously) without a few real motivating forces that try to inhibit her at every turn. For each brash in-your-face moment of riled energy, there are equal balances of tender and affecting human moments. These include watching her washed-up alcoholic mother sing a karaoke tune, an intimate moment with a mysterious anarchist, and being hospital-bound with her sickly but snappy grandmother. These are all instances that make Patti Cake$ more than just a fun time, but one of deeper insight and understanding.

While it ultimately follows a more conventional story arc than I thought it would, if you're looking for a movie to shake you out of your more familiar viewing patterns, Patti Cake$ will do just that. It offers music that rocks and moments that connect. It's a bad girl story that will reinspire audiences of all ages to follow their dreams no matter the odds.

Patti Cake$ is rated R for language throughout, crude sexual references, some drug use and a brief nude image. 108 min. Now playing at select ArcLight theaters. •

Survivors Club: The True Story of a Very Young Prisoner of Auschwitz

Survivors Club: the True Story of a Very Young Prisoner of Auschwitz by Michael Bornstein and Debbie Bornstein Holinstat.

book called Survivors Club: the True Story of a Very Young Prisoner of Auschwitz by Michael Bornstein and Debbie Bornstein Holinstat. The story focuses on the lives of Michael Bornstein and a few members of his extended family during one of the darkest times in history, the Holocaust. This book and miraculous story might never have been told if Michael had not seen an image of himself from the day Auschwitz was liberated on a Holocaust-denial website. He knew then that he needed to tell his story and he enlisted the help of his daughter, a TV journalist, to help him find the information that he needed to write this book. In the preface Michael explains that all of the event in this book are factual, but that there is an aspect of fiction. Michael was only four years old when Auschwitz was liberated in 1945, so the duo found documents, diaries and survivors' essays to supplement the memories of a very young child and keep the book as honest as possible. The result of all their hard work is a thought-provoking and personal look at terrible time in history.

The book is written as a first person narrative that begins before Michael's birth in September 1939 and goes on to explore the first 11 years of his life. You might think that the time in Auschwitz would be the main focus of the story, but it comprises only a few chapters and a small part of Michael's journey. Over the course of this book, we follow Michael as he moves from living in an open ghetto, to a forced-labor camp, to the extermination camp, and then back home and finally to the United States. The hardships and prejudices the Jews continued to face after their liberation from the death camps and the end of World War II are not often discussed, but Bornstein does an excellent job showing the continued struggles of the survivors. The experiences of the Bornstein family parallel those of many other survivors of the Holocaust. Even though this book is aimed at young readers ages 11-14, it will resonate with older readers as well. In today's world, it remains more important than ever to remember these survivors and learn from the mistakes of the past.

The El Segundo Public Library offers access to its collection of titles in a variety of formats, including traditional hardback, e-books and books on CD. Solar Eclipse in Shady Cove suggested we borrow their spare Astro van (yes, they're still around), so we gladly exchanged my 2017 midsize for his 1998 van.

Expecting extreme longer-than-normal traffic, we made the 215-mile drive in four hours and not the anticipated nine hours. Winding our way through Madras, we witnessed a number of pastures/turned campsites and signs that read, "Camping $60 per night." Then at Kyle's insistence, we drove a short way outside of the residential and business district and saw acres and acres of pastures turned into a mass of humanity campsites. It was estimated to be 50,000 to 60,000 cars in these pastures. The mass of humanity was supported by tents, RVs and a long line of blue port-a-potties.

Each of these pastures were sold out thankfully, so we drove down a dirt road next to a parachute school. There, off in the distance, was another family renting out space in their pasture. "One-hundred dollars a night," said a whimsical 10-year-old girl.

Her mother asked how many nights and I responded, "I'm driving an old Astro van, we have no camping gear, an ice chest with four bottles of water and a bag of Kettle corn for dinner." I guess she felt sorry for us and said, "Okay, don't tell anyone else... how about $60?" She knew she was the last place available to stop overnight for the eclipse that would occur the next morning.

We parked next to a Mercedes luxury RV owned by Deborah and Sam Appel. Actually it was a strategic ploy on my part since the only portable restroom was nearby. We made friends with the Appels instantly.

Kyle set up the cameras for the next morning and explained the process of the eclipse to our neighbors. Then the parachutist gave us a show by making continuous jumps before sundown. Finally nightfall engulfed our world and we found ourselves settling in for what would be a cold night. We had two pillows from Costco and two moving blankets to bundle up with and it wasn't enough.

Morning and the big day for us solar eclipse chasers were now upon us. What seemed like an eternity of sleeping on a cramped bench seat while Kyle was stretched out on the floor was a welcome sight when daybreak opened our eyes.

Sam and Deborah brought over a cornucopia platter of fruit and homemade cinnamon bread for breakfast. Deborah, being the iconic mother that she is, felt sorry for us under-equipped campers and wanted to make sure we were fed. In the meantime, Kyle continued to educate our neighbors on the dos and don'ts for viewing the eclipse.

It's hard to describe the anticipation leading up to one of God's truly beautiful moments. Then at precisely 9:06 a.m., it all started. Our world of sunlight was on the verge of being silenced by the passing of the moon. Kyle would announce different facts relating to the epic event. The entire eclipse process going through all its phases takes roughly two hours.

There are a few precious moments to capture the beauty of this event. Just prior to totality the Baily's beads, or Diamond ring effect, is prominent. Kyle reminded our neighbors it is not safe to view this without proper eye protection.

Then it happened at 10:18 a.m. PST--the totality of the sun being completely blocked by the moon. A roar of approval from the throngs and mass of humanity filled the air. The temperature dropped 15 degrees and a 360-degree sunset was seen. Perhaps the loudest and most vocal to voice his approval was Kyle, who was so excited.

The eclipse lasted two minutes and three seconds of totality and seemed to give everyone a sense of gratitude. When the sun started to peek around the moon as it passed by, a number of cows in a nearby pasture started mooing it up as if to say good morning.

As morning darkness became morning sunshine, a mass of vehicles hit the road in an attempt to beat the traffic. Traffic was at a standstill and stayed that way for four hours.

The beauty and uniqueness of a darkened world during the day made this experience all the more memorable. It may have been just two minutes and three seconds long, but the memory will last a lifetime. •

President Trump's Pardon of Sheriff Arpaio Is No Surprise

By Cristian Vasquez

The news that President Trump officially pardoned celebrity Arizona sheriff Joe Arpaio shouldn't come as a surprise to anyone. However it should serve as a reminder that when people in power misbehave, the punishments are rarely ever equal to those imposed on average citizens. Arpaio's conviction, which stemmed out of a 10-year-old lawsuit claiming that the sheriff's office was in violation of the rights of Latinos, was at best a slap on the wrist. The 85-year-old sheriff was vulnerable to a maximum jail sentence of six months, and the president pretty much prevented him the hassle of further court proceedings. While this pardon is a moral victory of sorts for the president's supporters, in reality it's a reminder that criminal behavior is not guaranteed to end in reprimand when in a position of power.

Whether you like the sheriff or not, the fact remains that he gave his department a green light to racially profile people in Arizona solely on the suspicion of their legal status in the country. Yes, there is an obligation to deport immigrants in the country without the legal documents--but that does not mean that I, an American citizen of Latino heritage, should be harassed by local law enforcement because Arpaio wants to be a modern-day hero. Nothing gives Arpaio the right to stop me if I haven't committed a crime. Still, this new-age cowboy felt he was above the law and harassed American citizens like myself under the guise of law and order. Ironically, the often-used argument by conservatives that "if you aren't doing anything wrong, you have nothing to worry about," didn't really apply in the jurisdiction of this disgraced sheriff. Yet, he seems to be a fan favorite among Trump supporters.

Even when a federal district judge ordered Arpaio to stop detaining people simply on the suspicion of their immigration status...even if there was no evidence that a law had been broken, he persisted. Why? Because enough people were in such reverence of his antics that he kept up the show. Did he really make Arizona safer? Doubt it, but I'm sure there are plenty in his fan base who are convinced he did. It's sad that a country that prides itself on law and order, due process and having the ability to check a leader's power has so many people falling over themselves for this sad, delusional man. Let's not forget that this is the same person who took pride in putting prisoners inside tents, out in a desert that can reach up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, during the day. I know...that'll teach them, right? Maybe it's worth the money the state saves on facilities to expose human lives to life-threatening heat.

This washed-up lawman has been nothing more than a sad display of power. Arpaio relied on showboating and fear tactics to gain support among Arizona's voters. His policies led to the harassment of American citizens with brown skin and Spanish surnames and when the courts slapped him on the wrist, his president pal came through to spare him that reprimand. It's not surprising that Arpaio was pardoned, but it is disgusting that his criminal behavior continues to be justified. •

Must Be Trump's Fault About Hurricane Harvey and the Devastation in Texas, Right? Or Left?

By Duane Plank

So as those unfortunate folks in the Texas state were being pummeled by Hurricane Harvey, this scribe was watching and feeling empathy for the folks caught in the eye of this devastating whirlwind. And... figuring there was no way that the lefties would somehow blame President Donald Trump for this.

Even a skow like Rachel Maddow is supposedly smart enough to realize that the Donald doesn't control the weather, right? Not sure what the lefty commentator spoke of this week. Had to file this tome on Sunday evening.

But minutes into the hurricane fray, the libs on CNN started bloviating about how could Trump have had his minions announce on Friday night the canning of one of his advisors nobody knew of--some Russian-sounding dude, Gorko...and strengthening the rules about transgenders in the military, and the pardoning of some yahoo law official in Arizona.

Back in the day, dropping White House news items on a Friday evening when we only had Walter Cronkite to trust ("And that's the way it is...") was a way for the administration to dispose of press releases when no one was paying attention during the weekend--because the political scribes were out-and-about, getting hammered, hoping to slog into work on Monday morning. I think nowadays it is called the "Friday Night Dump." On the great, great show back in the day, West Wing, it was termed, "Taking Out the Trash."

Well, at press time, which for me is Sunday evening, Texas Governor Abbott gave the Trump administration an A+ for the work that had been done to prepare for all the devastation that was going to consume certain portions of the great state of Texas. Trump and company were prepared to declare Texas a disaster zone prior to the devastation that was soon to hit the Lone Star State. Lessons were learned, apparently, after the bureaucratic bumbling, red-tape scrambling, and Bolshoi de jour that plagued the Bush administration back in 2005 when the ferocity of Hurricane Katrina slammed into the city known as the "Big Easy."

President Bush was apparently nodding off at the time, vacationing, having no clue apparently about what was happening to one of the 50 states under his watch. The response from Bush and his well-paid government vacationers was tardy and pathetic, and helped result in the deaths of, according to published reports, more than 1,000 people in Louisiana.

So Trump, and to be fair, his weather gurus, prepared for this cataclysmic inundation of parts of Texas when all the while he was wandering around at Camp David. Not sure if there is a golf course there. Quick aside, but it does appear like Mr. Trump has an aversion to spending weekends at the White House. Have Melania and the younger Trumpie even moved into their taxpayer-subsidized digs on Pennsylvania Avenue? Guess the Trumps wouldn't be the first married folks who occasionally like to keep their distance, eh?

Trump, with all his imperfections, won this week. •

are ready and could see plenty of playing time. This offensive line is talented and athletic-and with their experience, they should help the Eagles move the ball up and down the field. They may not have the size that some of their defensive opponents have, but their dedication and the coaching they’ve received should balance things out. The Eagles scrimmaged Pioneer League favorite West Torrance and did well. Shevlin was encouraged and optimistic about his team’s play. “Our defense looked solid and the offense was able to move the ball,” he said. Defensive backs Kyle Freeman and Tyler Villalobos led a secondary that will be tested this season. “Kyle and Tyler were great and they both disrupted West’s passing game,” Shevlin added. On the defensive line, junior defensive end Alex Ron showed plenty of promise. He’s a big athlete with good speed. Senior linebackers Tim Schartz and Jorge Montani demonstrated their leadership skills and played well. On offense, junior quarterback Matt Romero looks to be comfortable in the pocket. When he needed to scramble, his athletic ability took over. Arman Sayson, Danny McEntee and Freeman rushed the ball well behind an experienced offensive line led by Caravello and Rogers. Overall, the Eagles looked prepared and not a bit intimidated. “We’re young in terms of experience, but we showed some things against West that are really encouraging,” said defensive coordinator Dan Heck. The season kicks off today (August 31) with the JV team hosting Leuzinger at 3 p.m. and the freshman team traveling to Leuzinger to face the Olympians also at 3 p.m. The varsity travels to Leuzinger on Friday night for a 7 p.m. kickoff. The Eagles return home next Friday night to take on Oak Park. This season’s schedule looks to be a challenge and all games are slated for 7 p.m. Besides facing a much-improved Leuzinger team, the Eagles will face Mira Costa at home on September 15, Torrance and South Torrance on the road, Culver City on Friday, October 6 at home, and Beverly Hills and Lawndale on the road. The Eagles round out their regular season schedule with the Homecoming game on Friday, October 27 and Senior Night on November 3. The Eagles will be playing on a new and improved field this season. During the first part of the summer, the old turf field was removed and replaced with an updated field. The company (Field Turf) that installed the original field found that the turf was degrading on a more rapid pace than expected. It offered to install its top-of-the-line field and included a new eight-year warranty. The El Segundo School Board thought over the proposal approved it. The new field has additional lines for other sports that was overlooked with the original field and it has a much more cushioned feel. • been resolved, but “when you have that many workers in the building,” coordination between all the working parts becomes challenging. He added that the couple-month delay will be worth the wait and that when the students, faculty and administrators do relocate to Douglas Street, they will be “moving into a world-class high school that looks more like a college.”

During his comments Wednesday night, Johnstone lauded Aileen Harbeck, Director of Ed Services, one of the administrators who has been working with the two new District principals to get them “up-to-speed” in preparation for the new school year. Johnstone praised Harbeck, saying that both new principals would be able to start the year “at full speed, in terms of the operations, curriculum-wise.”

One of the two new elementary school principals, Lisa Baggio, taking over at Juan Cabrillo, said, “I am both honored and excited to begin the school year this Wednesday, It has been a busy two weeks that consisted of meeting with staff, completing kindergarten orientation and enrolling students into classes. I have enjoyed every moment of it. I cannot wait to meet the students and families.” Kim Jones is the other new elementary school principal, beginning her tenure this week at Peter Burnett Elementary.

Upcoming District events include Thursday’s welcome back barbecue. The first two days that the students headed to the classroom, what are termed “super-minimum days,” resulted in them being dismissed at 11:45, with the teachers and support personnel gearing up for the next nine months of instruction.

The 60-minute meeting, gavelled in by Board President Israel Mora, also included approval of multiple change orders for the new construction project. Board member report comments included Vice President JoAnne Kaneda commenting on how well the District maintenance field projects were progressing during the ramp-up to the first day of school. Also mentioned was the fact that the Galaxy youth soccer club team had seemingly taken over “all of the fields” in Wiseburn in the last couple of months. The Galaxy club soccer program had recently had their field time limited in the neighboring city of El Segundo because of concerns raised by the El Segundo-based Strikers club about field usage and residency requirements to use the limited field space in these South Bay communities.

Kaneda addressed the apparently new surge in field usage by the Galaxy group. “How does this happen, that nobody in this room knows about this?” she asked. Mora said, “Somebody needs to find out about this--let’s research this.” Field usage is an issue that tends to arise with limited space available in most South Bay cities.

Mora, in his comments, warned about traffic issues that will arise during the first week of school, as campuses that have been basically uninhabited for the past 75 or so days spring back to a beehive of activity. He also opined on the high school construction, saying that while it was “sad that it will be delayed, at the same time we want a nice, perfect finished product. It’s a beautiful building.”

Deputy Superintendent Chris Jones also made his comments, including that he was working closely with the new principals on their budgets, and that he was closing the books on the past school year, which he termed a positive campaign for Wiseburn.

Action items quickly addressed and passed by the Board included an agreement to continue a partnership with Loyola Marymount University and the District on the Mathematics Leadership Project, which Johnstone said was a “win-win” situation not only for the District, but for also for the LMU participants.

Prior to the open meeting session, which started a little after 7 p.m., the Board met in closed session with representatives from Balfour Beatty--the construction company charged with building the structure on Douglas Street. Those individuals answered inquiries from Board members about the progress being made as the construction and final touches take place on the property. Suffice to say that all parties are eager to wrap up the construction project, but the key is to make the edifice on Douglas Street safe for all and conducive to implementing prolific 21st Century learning.

Vince Madsen, District point man for the massive construction project, emailed that “based on the current construction activities still on going in and around the school building, I am hopeful that most of them should be completing by the first or second week of September--which will allow District consultants to finalize pre-function testing of all of our building equipment and fire life safety requirements, which could be a few more weeks of activity. We are very hopeful that we can get students and staff moved into the building sometime in October. We still have a lot of little detailed construction items to wrap up between now and then.”

The next regularly scheduled Wiseburn School Board meeting is on the docket for Thursday evening, September 14. •

We have kitties of every size and color. One is sure to be your perfect match. Look at this week's picks and check out their friends at www.kittenrescue.org.

Cowboy is wacky young boy with very short, shiny, soft, black fur who along with his sister Sammy was rescued at three weeks old from the shelter. Shelters routinely euthanize unweaned kittens if a rescue group is unable to take them. Cowboy was a healthy kitten and thrived on his bottle. Even though he was weaned from his bottle at six weeks old, he still likes to nurse on his foster mom's hand. This super-playful kitten is full of energy and loves to race around playing chase with the other cats or his sister, or just bat his toys around. He will carry his toys around in his mouth and will even reach out with a paw to push any other cat away from his toys if they try to take them. Cowboy needs to be adopted with his sister Sammy. They are very bonded and became the very best of friends when the other kittens from the litter went to a different foster home. Many bottle babies just want to be together and are the most amazing pets.

Sammy is a very pretty little Siamese mix kitten with white mittens on all four feet and a little white spot next to her nose. She and her brother Cowboy are bottle babies and were saved from certain death at three weeks old from the shelter. Sammy is a sweet girl who loves to cuddle and nurse on her foster mom's hand when she's not busy racing through the house with her brother. Sammy and Cowboy are two peas in a pod--super-loving and very bonded to each other, so they will need to stay together. Sammy likes to climb the cat tree and carry her toys around in her mouth. She will even give Cowboy a smack if he tries to get her toy. Sammy has a very energetic personality and is on the go off and on throughout the day. When it's sleepy time, she finds a soft place to curl up and recharges for the next round of play. She does need to stay with her brother Cowboy because after losing her other siblings to another foster home, she and Cowboy bonded and became inseparable.

Chester is a very joyful kitten and is as curious as they come. He loves to play with any kitty toy in sight. He has a very slight purr that is constant whether he is waking up, eating or playing. Chester is a rambunctious eater. The only time you'll hear him is around meal time. He also loves to groom himself as he is sunbathing. Chester can easily keep himself entertained as long as there are plenty toys around. His favorite toy is the Go Cat mouse wand. Hang it from a cat tree tower and he's constantly after it. His second favorite toy is the Bergan Turbo Cat Scratcher. It makes him spin right-round. Chester will be a great addition to your home, with or without additional critters.

Phoenix and his sibling were found on the street when they were newborns. Unfortunately Phoenix's sibling died, which is not uncommon for newborns with no mama cat. Phoenix currently lives in a foster home with several other kittens, knows his cat manners, snuggles and loves his foster sisters and brothers. He gets along well with adult cats and small dogs, and is super-affectionate with people. Sometimes he purrs if you just look at him! Because he is so young, he needs to be adopted with another kitten or be in a home with another playful cat.

Beamish is a truly wonderful kitty. He's a big, handsome, brown and white tabby. He loves to play with his toys! His favorites are his tunnel and turbo scratcher. Beam also loves to play with his kitty friends. He is a very funny kitty and sometimes likes to sleep on his back with his legs up in the air. He also likes to snuggle in bed and purr like a locomotive. He'll come when you call him and "Beam"! He also makes an adorable chirping sound. Beamish needs a little extra care with Miralax twice a day. His foster mom puts it his food in the morning and evening and Beamish thinks it's a treat!

Simba is a very adorable and playful little guy. At first his foster parent was going to name him Hallmark because he looks like he jumped right from a greeting card. He has the softest fur of any kitten ever. Simba purrs and makes biscuits continually. It's pretty hard to put him down. His first owner moved away, so he came into foster care and now he has a BFF named Jerry. Simba and Jerry are inseparable partners in crime. These are two special boys who adore each other. They play so well with each other, it would be wonderful for them to be adopted together.

Blondie is a very sweet kitten that loves affection and attention. He eagerly greets the new people he meets, hoping to charm them into making their laps available so he can get a belly rub. He loves to cuddle and is able to work his way into the hearts of everyone he meets with his loving personality. Blondie also has a playful side and will run from one corner of a room to the other, chasing a laser pointer and toys dangling from a cat wand. After a day of cuddling and playing, he likes to climb to the top tier of his cat tree and take a long nap. Whoever gives Blondie a forever home will be very lucky to have him join the family because he is one cool kitty! Because he is such a social kitten, he needs to be adopted together with another kitten or into a home with an existing cat.
