Taking a Look at Measure BT

The City Attorney's Impartial Analysis:

Measure BT would adopt an Ordinance amending various sections of the El Segundo Municipal Code dealing with business license taxes ("BLTs"). Specifically, the Ordinance would:

Modify the BLT credit. Currently, businesses that generate sales tax receive a credit toward the BLT in an amount up to 40% of their last year's sales tax. The Ordinance would limit the BLT credit for such businesses to a three-year period and an overall cap of $25,000.

Change the tax method for apartment operators and hotels/motels. Currently, apartment complex owners are charged an annual BLT of $32.80 for up to the first three units and $11.30 for each additional unit. The Ordinance would increase the BLT to $150 for the first three units and $150 for each additional unit. Hotels/motels are currently charged a flat rate ranging from $111.30 to $432.60 annually, depending on the number of rooms. The Ordinance would increase the BLT to $150 for up to the first three rooms and $150 for each additional room.

Adjust the BLT rates for approximately 50 business types listed in the El Segundo Municipal Code. The Ordinance would set the base BLT for these business at $150 per year. Some of the classified businesses currently pay a BLT less than $150 and some pay more than $150. Therefore, the Ordinance would increase taxes for some businesses and decrease taxes for others.

Increase the rates for unclassified businesses (those not specifically listed in the El Segundo Municipal Code). Unclassified businesses are taxed based on the number of employees and the floor area occupied by the business. Currently, the rates are $111.30 per year for the first ten employees and $137.80 for each additional employee, plus $0.27 for each square foot of floor area over 5,000. The Ordinance would increase the BLT to $150 per year for the first five employees and $138 for each additional employee. The Ordinance would also transition to progressive tax rates on floor area, ranging from $0.26 per square foot for businesses between 2,001 and 5,000 square feet to $0.30 per square foot for businesses occupying more than 250,000 square feet.

Eliminate the exemption for nonprofit/charitable organizations and instead impose a flat BLT of $150 per year.

Modify the formula for calculating the annual consumer price index ("CPI") adjustment for all BLT rates. Currently, all BLT rates are adjusted each year based on the most recent ten-year average annual increase in the CPI for consumers in the greater Los Angeles region. The Ordinance would change the annual adjustment to a rate equivalent to the most recent five-year average annual increase in the CPI.

The tax rates set forth in the Ordinance are maximum rates. The El Segundo City Council may, by resolution, suspend or reduce any of the BLTs.

The BLT is a general tax, the proceeds of which are placed in the general fund to be used for any lawful City purpose.

The El Segundo City Council placed Measure BT on the ballot. It takes a simple majority of the votes cast to pass Measure BT.

The above statement is an impartial analysis of Measure BT. If you desire a copy of the ordinance or measure, please contact the City Clerk's office at (310) 524-2308 and a copy will be mailed at no cost to you, or you may access the text from the City's website at <https://www.elsegundo.org/government/departments/city-clerk/election>.

Did Councilmembers argue in favor or against Measure BT?

All five members of the El Segundo City Council are in favor of this measure.

Ed!toberfest Brought the Beer

The "Hills of El Segundo were alive with the sound of Ed!toberfest" on Saturday night. Ed!'s 2nd annual Ed!toberfest was a massive success with close to 700 people in attendance. "The community had fun while raising money for the students of El Segundo Unified School District," said Fundraising Chair Barbara Briney. On November 8th, El Segundo voters will decide who will fill the two available seats on the five-member El Segundo City Council. The five candidates running are Ryan Baldino, Michelle Keldorf, John Pickhaver, Robin Patch and incumbent Chris Pimentel.

Please note: We do not edit the candidate's answers.

1. The workforce return to office has been significantly thwarted such that we see a major uptick in office vacancies, how would you address?

Ryan Baldino: El Segundo is known as an amazing place to live, play, raise a family, and work. El Segundo is proud to have been nominated for the third time as the Most Business Friendly City in LA County.

However, vacant office spaces threaten the tax revenue needed to keep our town thriving for its residents. I recently met with members of El Segundo Economic Development Corporation who believe offering more amenities east of PCH would attract employees. For the short term, I propose the return of the downtown shuttle providing the perk of free transportation from businesses east of PCH to our vibrant downtown dining and shops. For the long term we should consider updating our Corporate Office Zone to allow for more coffee houses, restaurants, and other services east of PCH. Our town depends upon maintaining a thriving business community. We need to continue to earn our business-friendly reputation.

Michelle Keldorf: High vacancy is as much about outdated office space as it is a sluggish post-Covid return to work. On Planning Commission, I have reviewed several new commercial office projects and continue to seek clarity about the demand for additional square footage given vacancies above 20%. Commercial developers consistently respond that demand does exist, but specifically for newly designed space that functions like a campus. These buildings attract tenants and companies by providing considerable employee amenities and open space. Companies like L'Oréal and Haus Laboratories recently acquired creative office space like this in El Segundo. My belief is that people will return to offices but the layouts will be significantly changed. The city can help facilitate this transition by ensuring our zoning code and development standards support this type of office environment.

Robin Patch: The COVID-19 pandemic has undoubtedly changed the office workforce landscape, as many office workers continue to work from home. In my opinion this shift is beneficial to both workers and the City of El Segundo. Employees who are able to work from home no longer have the burden of a commute, and the City experiences less wear-and-tear on roads, and less environmental pollution from traffic. Furthermore, lower occupancy rates in high-density office buildings (mainly those East of PCH) reduces the burden on the City's police force, fire department, and emergency response teams. I prefer to focus attention on supporting local small businesses rather than large Fortune 500 Companies.

John Pickhaver: While we can look to incentivize businesses to return to the office, the reality is many employees enjoy working from home and employers enjoy the lack of tax liability made possible by remote work. This puts the City in a difficult position since much of our revenue derives from business activity. To address this, I would start by looking to attract businesses where remote work is less likely/not feasible for their employees. But we can only have so many

Top Golfs. What will be needed is a shift in our approach from workability in our City to livability. This is especially important with a looming deadline to meet state-mandated affordable housing requirements by 2029. Vacant office space provides a pathway to housing and mixed use properties. Additionally this allows us to spread density out, giving relief to neighborhoods in town regularly identified by developers for new projects.

Chris Pimentel: While this is a significant issue in many cities, El Segundo has some distinct advantages that have made us more resilient. We see our office rental rates remain strong, but the utilization of those offices is lower than we would like. That hurts our amenities and businesses built to support them. For the second consecutive year we are finalists for the region's "Most Business-Friendly City". Over the summer 555 S Aviation sold for more than $200 million and accommodates Belkin's headquarters. We have more than one million square feet of legacy buildings in differing stages of development. We intend to build on this success by modernizing and simplifying our regulations. While I cannot promise what the shape of the modern office will look like, I am confident that we will continue to offer businesses of all sizes the best place to succeed in southern California.

2. Rezoning on the east side of PCH could be a way to create more housing within the City. Would you, as a council member, be open to allowing residential zoning across PCH to the east side of the City?

Ryan Baldino: I'm always open to having conversations about more housing options for residents, but so far I'm not convinced housing east of PCH is the best path forward for our city. We depend on businesses to provide over 90% of our tax revenue, which is needed to support valuable City services such as our independent police and fire departments. El Segundo receives much less in residential property tax than neighboring cities. This means every business east of PCH that is replaced with a residence will result in substantially less tax revenue for our city. In addition, new homes east of PCH will require increased expenses for more police and fire services. Every section of our city is zoned for a purpose to maximize resources for our citizens, and my years on Planning Commission have taught me that what looks like an immediate win can often have long-term potential negative impacts.

Michelle Keldorf: I believe this is a decision that should be voted on by El Segundo residents rather than by City Council members. City Council's role is to study the benefits and corresponding costs of incorporating housing east of PCH and work diligently to present the community with that information. We must evaluate it as a business attraction and retention tool. Then we need See City Council Candidates, page 12

Yadranka Lucia Draskovic

1. What skill set can you bring to the school board that is unique?

Yadranka Lucia Draskovic: “I have experience both in the classroom and in the business arena. Finally I am a school parent and volunteer. I am currently the ESHS PTA Treasurer, and have been on the executive board for the last 5 years.

In terms of my teaching career, I started with 1st and 2nd grade. Later I taught 3rd, and the Middle School grades. I also co-taught a group of 4th and 5th graders. I believe this vast experience has given me an understanding of how curriculum is designed. One year builds on the previous year, emphasizing the importance of a strong academic foundation.

Having graduated with a degree in Business Administration, I worked in that field as well. I had different responsibilities, including monitoring accounts for high wealth clients, and frequently interacting with banks. I believe this has sharpened both my communication skills, as well as my knowledge of budgets and accounting.”

Frank Glynn: “My leadership roles on multinational, multi-disciplinary design teams, which require collaboration with businesses on the other side of the globe, give me the confidence to join the school board as an active participant in planning for our future. Working in the ever-changing and fast-paced construction industry, I understand the benefits of research and staying current with technology, and being open to new ideas and course changes. As a business owner, I understand that mutual respect between parties is the bedrock of progress. As an architect, my joy is to find innovative and creative solutions to complex issues – I am particularly excited to continue to share my knowledge and experience during the current Measure ES bond construction program. As a former Ed! Foundation Board Chair I bring the experience that open dialogue and regular communication are the best tools for success even when times are challenging.”

Meredith J. Beachly: “I believe that my decades of being in the classroom on a daily basis gives me awareness of the needs of our students and educators. I have worked on the district bargaining team for more than ten years where I learned about our school policies and finance. I served as a delegate on both the state and national stage advocating for legislation which affect our schools.”

Tracey I. Miller-Zarneke: "I bring four years of well-tested leadership experience on the school board, which includes an unprecedented two years of back-to-back service as Board President. I also bring an optimistic outlook, a collaborative temperament, a desire to create positive environments, and solid relationships that I have built throughout ESUSD and the greater El Segundo community. While the issues I dealt with during my first term in office were more sweeping and dramatic than anyone could have predicted in 2018—yes, I’m talking about the many levels of pandemic challenges—they have provided tremendous growth opportunities for me as an empathetic and engaged member of the El Segundo community, and they have proven that under great pressure, I continue to serve as an effective, fair, and balanced leader for ESUSD.”

Dawn Garrett: “One of my most significant contributions during 30+ years in industry was the ability to get large initiatives sold and major projects completed working across siloed organizations. This work required perseverance, the ability to understand others perspectives and create alignment around expected outcomes, timeframes and key measures of success. I was honored to be recognized by my company as a Bridge Builder. A key role of the School Board is ensuring the achievement of goals that have been established collaboratively by the teachers, administrators, parents and other advocates that are consistent with the vision and values of our community to ensure all our students succeed. I look forward to applying my collaborative bridge building skills to this important role.”

2. What do you see as the two most important issues facing the District, and why?

Yadranka Lucia Draskovic: “The long period of school closures brought about a significant challenge. Recent reports show that learning gaps exist in both Reading and Math. School closures also brought about emotional and social disruptions that are now seen in the classroom. Nationally, students are returning to school, albeit with new behaviors like anxiety. As a member on the board, I'd like to address this.

Another issue is faculty retention at ESUSD. In recent years we have seen a revolving door of principals at the High School. Last year we saw a large number of administrators/staff leave ESUSD. We also have a national shortage of teachers, which adds to the concern. However, the attrition of High School principals was apparent prior to the Pandemic. One of the 5 goals illustrated on the district website is recruiting and retaining high quality employees. As a member of the board I'd like to revisit that goal."

Frank Glynn: “The legal and moral duty of the school district is to protect the physical security and emotional safety of students on campus. Safety improvements to ESUSD campuses (e.g., creating safe entrances and secure perimeters) are matters addressed in the facilities improvement plan and continue to be evaluated. Today’s technology allows for unhealthy social interactions to persist beyond school hours, these interactions could lead to physical and/or emotional encounters on campus, thus all stakeholders – administrators, staff, parents, and community members must engage in collaborative support. See something, say something!

Ongoing funding insecurity continues to plague the State of California schools, this impact is widely felt within ESUSD, as the funding formula unjustly underfunds our

Measure BT

Argument in Favor of Business License Tax Measure BT

1971, 51 years ago, under Ordinance No. 776, was the last time the El Segundo Business License Tax (BLT) had a major update. The only other changes to the BLT were done 26 years ago in 1996 under Ordinance No. 1252. Today the business community looks very different from that of 1971. Though aerospace and light manufacturing businesses continue to thrive in El Segundo, the business community has become more diverse. Companies in bioscience, technology, financial, entertainment, toys, hospitality, and many other industries now call El Segundo home.

The El Segundo City Council is bringing to the voters an opportunity for residents to vote on a measure that would adopt an Ordinance amending various sections of the Municipal Code dealing with business license taxes ("BLTs"). The city developed the Ordinance to anticipate El Segundo's future business landscape to ensure it remains relevant for the next 10-20 years.

The Ordinance will modernize, simplify, and streamline the current outdated tax structure. Fundamental changes include:

- Adding a sunset provision to the current business attraction incentive.
- Setting the base BLT for all businesses at $150 per year.
- Align the apartment and hotels/motels businesses to the base BLT structure.
- Modifying the formula for calculating the annual consumer price index ("CPI") adjustment for all BLT rates.

The tax rates set forth in the Ordinance is maximum rates. The City Council may, by resolution, suspend or reduce any of the BLTs.

The BLT is a general tax, and the proceeds will go to the general fund to be used for any lawful City purpose. The BLT changes are anticipated to generate an additional $3M in General Fund revenues per year for the city of El Segundo.

To El Segundo Parents and Athletic Community

It was recently mentioned in an El Segundo Parent Group post that the Athletic Director was involved in getting the current school bond approved and that he supported removal of the tennis courts for new Band Building. I feel compelled to address the concerns about the misinformation that may be out there. Let me be very clear: I did not support this current bond in any way. I argued against the idea of removing green space that we use every day in PE and Athletics, for a new Band Building (as Band already had the newest band building on campus). I argued at that time this community has always supported “needs” vs “wants” and this was not a need as much as a bell and whistles “want” at the expense of athletics and PE. Furthermore, I did not support the idea of giving up green space at the Middle School for a Gymnasium, as we already have two gyms at the high school. As a teacher, Head football coach/ asst. baseball coach, and Athletic Director, my number one priority has always been to support athletics and its rich history and traditions of El Segundo. For anyone to think otherwise, does not know me, or is hearing misinformation which I must clarify.

– Steve Shevlin

Board Members of El Segundo Unified School District:

As a lifelong resident, and former teacher and coach, I was shocked to hear we are losing great academic teacher coaches due the lack of PE Sport Periods. Many of the greatest teachers in the history of El Segundo High School were great academic teachers with a PE Sport Period class for the athletic sport they coached. Teachers like Terry Crystal, Henry Stuart, John Stevenson, Steve Newall, Rick Sabosky, George Harris, were some of the most impactful academic leaders of our school and they all had teacher/sport section classes. It is very disturbing to hear the District has chosen not to budget for the people who give the very most to the school. Teacher coaches are the foundation of any successful comprehensive high school. To not remedy this, is a failure of leadership and vision.

– Craig Cousins,

Former Teacher and Coach, Class of ‘67 •

Local AYSO All-Star Team Wins Battle of the Beach Tournament

By Gregg McMullin

El Segundo’s Gundo FC girls nine and ten-year-old soccer team competed in the highly competitive Battle of the Beach Tournament. They came home with the championship after going undefeated and outscoring their opponents 11-0. The team, formed six months ago as part of our local AYSO Region 92, was put together to enable highly competitive soccer within the community-based organization. Gundo FC’s roster included Ella Freed, Leah Brooke, Frankie Althouse, Lauren Christenson, Zoe McDowell, Maya Graiff, Eliza Kneipp, Brynn Hill, Hannah Sparks, Corinne Kneipp, Heidi Johnson, Amalia Amaral, and head coach Jason McDowall and his assistant coach Amy Stillwell-Graiff.

The Battle of the Beach Tournament included AYSO EXTRA teams from across Southern California. AYSO EXTRA teams are formed from the best players in their in Long Beach United’s zone. The attacking midfielder was then confronted by multiple defenders. Gundo’s offense created enough space for a shot on goal that rocketed into the back of the net in the upper left corner. With a 1-0 lead, Gundo FC’s defense turned back Long Beach’s numerous shots on goal in the game’s final minutes.

While Gundo FC’s grit and perseverance kept them in the game, it was obvious that their teamwork was the ultimate factor in winning the championship. The team was awarded the ‘Battle at the Beach’ trophy, which is currently on a rotational journey at each player’s home until it ultimately ends up at the AYSO trophy house.

Water Polo Team Defeats West

The Eagles extended their Pioneer League winning streak to 14 straight over three seasons when they defeated West Torrance 18-6. The final score wasn’t that close since region and play against other EXTRA or Club teams throughout the year.

El Segundo started their championship run with a 3-0 win over Long Beach United-Team B. In the second game, the offense came alive with a 5-0 win over Culver City EXTRA. To advance to the finals, Gundo FC defeated Los Alamitos Afterburners 2-0. Advancing to the championship game on a Sunday afternoon in hot and humid conditions, the Gundo girls went into the game knowing it would be a challenge. Facing Long Beach United and players who were bigger and more aggressive gave El Segundo an extra incentive to prove they belonged in the championship game.

When the game got underway, Long Beach United came out strong with their attack and repeated scoring attempts in the first quarter. Gundo FC regained its identity and utilized crisp passing, communication, and relentless effort to regain possession and create several counterattacks.

The game was a defensive-minded game and scoreless through the first three periods. Midway through the fourth quarter, Gundo FC’s backfield caught a break. Gundo FC dribbled to midfield and found an open player the Eagles could have put up 25 goals. Head coach Nila Ward started clearing her bench in the second quarter with the score 12-0.

Max Hale and Nolan Barnett each scored two first-quarter goals, while Carter Williamson, Logan Fastman, and Vinny Baldino each scored a goal to give the Eagles a 7-0 first-period lead. Their attack and passing were too much for West to handle.

Hale scored two quick goals in the second period, and Tyler Thomas fed Vinny Baldino for another score. Cooper Albano closed inside and lobbed one in to make it 11-0. Nolan Barnett closed out the second period scoring with two goals, including one on an assist from Caeden Buhr.

In the third quarter, the Eagles used their big lead to continue using other players. Patrick Wang took advantage of a scoring opportunity to make it 14-2. Andre Lovelle scored a highlight reel goal and Albano’s backhand goal with 1:32 remaining in the period made it 17-4. In the final period, Buhr closed to lob one in to close the scoring.

The Eagles played in the brutally challenging America’s Finest Invitational Tournament that showcases some of California’s best high

Don't Worry Darling: A Massively Underwhelming Misfire Fueled by Gossipy Offscreen Drama

By Ryan Rojas, Cinemacy.com

If you keep up with news of the latest movies—or that of Harry Styles—chances are that you’ve also heard about the new movie Don't Worry Darling. And if you have, what you’ve also likely heard are the tabloid-worthy headlines detailing the alleged production woes that have accompanied it.

Controversy has followed Don't Worry Darling since the beginning. From high-profile casting shake-ups shortly before the film’s shooting, to a scandalous on-set romance between the film’s director and its leading male (global pop) star, even up until its cringe-worthy world premiere at Venice Film Festival (which set the internet ablaze (Florence Pugh), who enjoys her life of cleaning, shopping, cooking, and bedding her husband Jack (Harry Styles), which repeats every day.

It’s not long before inexplicable cracks start to appear in Alice’s life: flashes of nightmarish imagery break a perfectly manicured day; cracking an egg reveals nothing inside; and a house whose walls are slowly—literally—suffocating her. They’re all things that make Alice question not just her life, but that of the vision of Victory’s dangerously charismatic leader, Frank (Chris Pine). From there, the film takes predictable steps towards a simultaneously baffling and underwhelming ending.

with #spitgate), perhaps no other movie in recent memory has generated as much gossipy and salacious drama as this has.

And now, as the film finally hits theaters, the question becomes: is the film actually any good?

What general audiences seem to agree—and what this reviewer is personally confirming—is that no, Don't Worry Darling is not good enough to transcend its own self-generated scandalous fodder. In fact, I think that the film—which I found to be visually enjoyable, but ultimately under-written, poorly directed, narratively underwhelming, and overall, quite boring—will only be remembered as a misfire of a movie that once had a lot of supplemental controversy attached to it.

It doesn’t bring me any inner delight saying this. I anticipated the film’s release at the time of its announcement, as there is a ton of talent both in front of and behind the camera. Olivia Wilde had previously won over audiences (and myself) with her directorial debut, the fresh and fun high school buddy comedy Booksmart; so, the announcement that she would be following that film with one that’s best compared to The Stepford Wives and The Matrix was intriguing. But now, that choice just rings as confusing.

If you’re aware of its marketing, Don't Worry Darling teases a world of 1950s American utopia; one in which sharply dressed men return home from work every day in their flashy Cadillacs, all awaiting a martini, a pot roast, and a smile from their doting, subservient wives. It’s an intoxicating world to behold, this world of “Victory”: a Mid-Century Modern community of suburban paradise, where young couples and families live in marital bliss. Among them is Alice

Don't Worry Darling at least has the intention of being a high-concept film, aiming to excite and challenge adult movie-goers. But ultimately, the film’s empty story and confusing logic don’t give the film any reason to want to care while you watch. Florence Pugh—never one to give a false note in her performances, and who regularly steals every movie she’s in—continues to do the same here. But she, along with her co-stars Harry Styles and Chris Pine, are underserved by not having a clear vision for what this movie ultimately is (a social commentary? A silly satire? A sci-fi horror? Or, all of the above?).

I’ll admit that following the tabloid headlines around Don't Worry Darling was entertaining and enjoyably juicy while it lasted. Now that the film has debuted to disappointing results, there isn’t really much here to worry, much less care about.

Horse by Geraldine Brooks

By Mary Martes, El Segundo Public Library Assistant

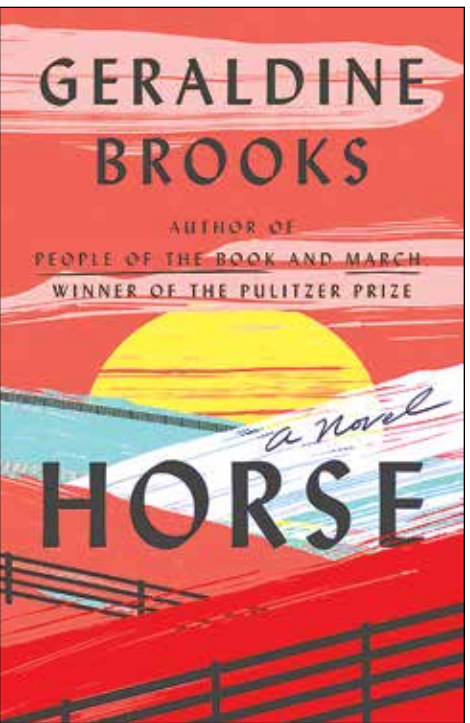

Geraldine Brooks is a Pulitzer Prize winner and always a good bet for an engrossing look at the world under a microscope. With this sprawling novel of interconnected lives from the Civil War era to present day, spanning the miles from Kentucky to New York and finally to Washington D.C, Brooks has penned another tour de force.

Based on real life, the story is centered around—you guessed it—a horse. Specifically, the brilliant racer and stud sire Lexington who became the leading stud sire for a record sixteen years, with four of his progeny winning the Belmont stakes and three winning the Preakness – Preakness himself being the offspring of the illustrious champion. For twenty years Lexington held the record as the fastest horse in the world. The thread that pulls the book together is the real-life livestock painter Thomas J. Scott, who painted Lexington and whose 1857 painting, found in a junk heap on the sidewalk, now hangs in the Smithsonian.

Brooks deftly weaves slavery and racism into the story with the fictitious slave Jarret, who foals Darley, as Lexington is originally named, and who cares for and trains him throughout his long and adventurous life. Jarret is a fully realized character who grows up alongside Darley/Lexington. Theo is a black PhD student who struggles through the microaggressions and outright racism of present-day life in Washington D.C. In the novel, it is Theo who finds the painting and brings it to the Smithsonian for restoration and search for provenance. Sandwiched between the two men is Martha Jackson, a prominent New York City art dealer and gallery owner in 1954 who happens upon the painting through her maid, whose family has passed it down through generations.

It is an engrossing, tumultuous and fascinating story in the hands of a prize-winning novelist. Do yourself a favor and check it out! •

Purrrfect Companions

Stormy is the cuddliest kitten around! He loves attention, affection, and pets. He enjoys playing with his littermates Cloudy and Sunny, as well playing with and chasing his tail. He is perfectly healthy, uses the litter box without issue, and has an adorably sweet personality. He likes to sleep alongside you, or on top of your pillows. Stormy is a perfect little gentleman who would be great with kids, other cats, and dogs. He wants a lot of attention, so please have a lot of love to give this boy.

Cloudy is a beautiful, sweet kitten. She has an even-keeled, balanced personality. Cloudy likes attention but isn't needy. She likes to play but isn't a crazy wild child. She is just a lovely, balanced kitten. She adores playing with her littermates Sunny and Stormy, does great with adult cats and would likely do well with dogs and children. Cloudy likes to sleep in bed with you, on the couch, or snuggled with one of her littermates. She will make a wonderful addition to your family!

Sunny is a stunning, healthy, and sweet kitten. She absolutely loves playing with her littermates Cloudy and Stormy and would love to be adopted with one of them. She does great with adult cats and has a submissive personality with other animals. Sunny likes attention and pets but has an independent streak as well. She uses the litter box and scratching post like a champ and loves to play with toys. Sunny will bring a ray of sunshine to your home.

Valencia is an affectionate lap cat with a very sweet personality. She will seek out your lap when she wants to cuddle but she is not pushy about it; she will wait politely if you're busy. In addition to her chill, gentle demeanor, Valencia has a playful side and enjoys playing with her foster siblings and her cat toys. She also likes to nap beside or on top of the other foster kittens. Valencia must be adopted together with one of her foster siblings or into a home with existing young, friendly cat who will play and nap with her when her humans are busy with life.

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations.
