Council Votes Unanimously to Launch Pilot Program to Brownout Fire Engine 32

By Liz Spear

Finances loomed large at this week's El Segundo City Council meeting as its five members grappled with the "Brownout" of a city fire department engine, how much money to spend on and what to do with "The Plunge," and heard the fiscal year-end financial report. City Manager Darrell George also delivered updates on outdoor dining on Richmond Street and the Hyperion Water Reclamation Plant.

In a public hearing on the impasse between the El Segundo Firefighters' Association, which does not agree with removing Engine 32 from service in a pilot program of six months, and the city, each side was given about seven minutes to deliver its presentation, with the city's labor negotiator presenting the city's side and Geoff Gerny, the ESFA's president going over why the brownout is not a good idea. The potential temporary suspension of Engine 32 first surfaced during public hearings on the city's fiscal year 2021-2022 budget, a time before the installation of current city manager George. At the time, City Council directed staff to make "a reoccurring expenditure reduction from the Fire Department budget of $1 million." On November 2, 2021, city staff returned to the council with "an item outlining a recommendation to achieve the savings, which included the temporary suspension (brownout) of Engine Number 32 for the remainder of FY 2021-22." That recommendation sparked disagreement with the ESFA, which believes the brownout would imperil public safety. Beginning on November 22, 2021, city staff and ESFA "met and conferred 11 times over six months to discuss the impacts of the brownout of Engine 32 but were unable to reach an agreement, which led to the impasse being heard by a three-panel fact-finding panel. That panel, which was only charged with deciding if the city had the authority to proceed with the brownout, determined that the city could.

During the council meeting Tuesday night, Chief Lee, who has been with the city's fire department for 20 years and was promoted to chief last November, noted that normally Fire Station 1 has Engine 31 and Rescue 31 and a battalion chief. Fire Station 2, the city's only other fire station, has Engine 32, truck 32, and Rescue 32. When the first

Busy Week for El Segundo High School Eagles

By Gregg McMullin

The El Segundo Eagles had a busy week. The girls' volleyball team honored their seniors, the boys' water polo team did well in an Orange County tournament, cross country

Marly Smith stood out, leading her team in kills. In game one, Da Vinci kept the game close and held a 16-14 lead thanks to an ace serve by Peyton Veazie. But the Eagles rallied back behind Sara Allen and Marly Smith.

In game two, El Segundo raced out to a 9-3 lead before Da Vinci stormed back and tied the game at 13-13 on an ace by Maleah Faust. Kira Cullinan's putback and Smith's three consecutive points led to the block, but Katana Santiago's hit gave her team the 25-23 win. Game four was an epic one that showcased some highlight rallies. Neither team held more than a three-point lead. Marly hosted a night meet, and the football team nearly pulled off an upset.

Eagles Sweep Gives Them Second Place

The Eagles ended their regular season on a high note, winning their final three matches, including wins over Da Vinci and Lawndale. With the Eagles winning out, coupled with South Torrance's loss to league champion Torrance the Eagles finished second in the Pioneer League.

In their final home regular season match, the Eagles honored their 11 seniors before playing Da Vinci, including Sara Evans, Emily Anderson, Summer Brenneman, Nicole Caruso, Macy Cochran, Trinity Cofield, Kira Cullinan, Peyton Ernest, Sammie Kleiger, Tala McGill and Marly Smith. The Da Vinci Wolves played the Eagles close, but El Segundo survived to win the match 25-20, 25-20, 23-25, and 34-32.

El Segundo head coach Natasha Nguyen started and played her seniors throughout the match, demonstrating just how deep the Eagles are. But the four-year starting senior Lauren Neely's block after an extended rally gave the Eagles a 23-18 lead. Smith ended the game with an overpowering hit to give the Eagles the game-one win.

Smith's blocked her team a 24-23 lead, but the Wolves scored the next two points. Summer Brenneman's hit saved the Eagles and tied the game at 30-30. Smith scored three of the next four points, and the Eagles won the game 34-32 and the match.

With the win, El Segundo finished 9-3 in the Pioneer League and 13-5 overall. The Eagles open up their CIF Southern Section Division 3 playoffs at Corona Del Mar today and would most likely host the second-round match, should they win, on Saturday.

Boys' Water Polo Plays in Tournament

The Eagles faced some challenging teams in the Orange County tournament. They opened by taking on a team they'd defeated twice before this season, but Palisades stung the Eagles for an 11-5 victory. The Eagles then defeated Yorba Linda, San Marcos, and Capistrano Valley to finish the tournament.

The Eagles returned to league play last Tuesday and traveled to South Torrance today. They wrap up their Pioneer League

Luca Romero Leads
Cross Country Team

In a program and school first, the Eagles hosted the second Pioneer League cross country meet at the high school under the lights. It marked the first time the school had hosted a nighttime cross country meet. It was a well-organized event, and the course was fast on a brisk evening.

Luca Romero may be one of South Bay’s top cross country runners. He certainly showed

The Lady Eagles have just one senior in their starting six runners. The young Eagles were led by sophomore sensation Yuvia Bernauer, who finished fifth overall, and junior Katy Durand, who finished thirteenth. The Eagles ran a competitive race but were no match for CIF powers South Torrance and West Torrance, who finished first. Rounding out the squad were freshman Natalie Christensen, senior Makaela Fujimoto, junior Kate Elward and sophomore Sunny Gales.

gave in and made it a game. After West Torrance scored on a four-play drive, the Eagles nearly matched the Warrior’s touchdown. El Segundo quarterback Leo Menendez led his team to the Warrior’s 20-yard line. His pass, intended for Brett Abitante, was tipped at the goal line, picked off for an interception, and returned 30 yards by Dominick De La Torre. The Warriors capitalized on the turnover and scored three plays later to go up 14-0. The Warriors retook advantage after another El Segundo turnover to go up 21-0 with 9:32 remaining in the first half.

El Segundo responded when they had a favorable field position on their next possession. Leo Menendez found Alex Reis open for a 30-yard catch and a run-touchdown pass to cut the deficit to 21-7. West Torrance countered with a 25-yard touchdown pass play to Ryan McBride, and the lead was 28-7. With 3:18 remaining in the half, El Segundo showed their mettle with an 11-play drive capped by a 2-yard quarterback keeper by Menendez with 29 seconds remaining.

Trailing 28-14 to begin the second half El Segundo executed a successful on-sides kick that Brett Abitante recovered. The Eagles took advantage of the recovery and marched down the field, but after their drive was stalled, they settled for a 33-yard field goal to make it 28-17. On West Torrance’s ensuing possession, Warrior quarterback Jackson Sharman’s pass was picked off by Abitante, who raced 87 yards untouched for the pick-6 touchdown. With the score 28-24 and the Eagles threatening to make it a game, the Warriors quickly struck back. They picked up big yardage plays and capped their five-play drive with a short rushing touchdown. On the Eagles’ next possession, Menendez was stripped, sacked, and the Warriors took advantage of the turnover scoring three plays later to extend their lead to 42-24.

The Eagles, who finished second overall, had great efforts from Owen Frank, who finished fifth, Esteban Esperanza, who finished eighth, and Muhammad Mohamed Intiaaz, who finished eleventh. Adrian Neulander, Jackson Chartier, and Ryan Butcher rounded out a strong finish for the Eagles.

The Eagles were coming off a Homecoming loss to Torrance and, in the process, lost four starters to injuries or disqualification for the game against West Torrance. In the fourth quarter, El Segundo’s defense shut down the Warrior’s offense. With 8:15 remaining in the game, the Eagles went on a 12-play drive consuming nearly five minutes, ending with a touchdown pass to Vaughn Huey to make it 42-31. The Eagles had one more possession, but the clock ran out, and West Torrance came away with the win.

HOME

(BPT) - Home is where the heart is, and you strive to make it a welcoming place. Whether you're just moving in or you've been living in your house for decades, bugs can become a concern at any time. There are many pests that can damage property with one of the most common across the United States being roaches. In fact, 14 million of the approximately 124 million occupied U.S. housing units reported seeing roaches in their homes during the last 12 months, according to the 2019 U.S. Census Bureau American Housing Survey. Whether it's roaches, spiders, wasps or other insect species, having to hire an exterminator to handle a pest problem can be costly. According to 2022 HomeAdvisor estimates, the cost for a one-time pest control visit averages between $300 and $550. Depending on your specific pest problem, that figure could rise into the thousands. Taking a proactive approach to protecting your home and family by treating issues yourself can save you hundreds of dollars per year and is easy to do. Below are some of the most effective steps homeowners can take: Secure the perimeter: Inspect the perimeter of the home and cover up any cracks and openings to prevent bugs from entering your home. If you see any holes, caulk them or conduct repairs to cover them up. Seal doors: Cover unsealed gaps in doors that go outside and install a door sweep for added protection. Add weather stripping or door-seal kits to the frame to keep insects from entering along the sides or top of the door. Tidy the kitchen: The kitchen attracts a wide variety of insects. Open or improperly stored food can quickly turn the kitchen into a breeding ground for bugs. Make sure your food is stored in tightly sealed containers or bags. Make a habit of keeping your floors and counters clean and clear of food crumbs by sweeping, vacuuming and wiping down surfaces throughout the day. Tackle your pest problem: If you notice pests, treat the problem right away. The Raid brand offers a variety of products designed to help you control infestations as soon as you spot them - so small bugs don't become a big problem. Use screens: If you want to naturally ventilate your home, install screen mesh windows. A 20 mesh or finer screen will keep out most household pests. If your home already has screens, repair any holes or tears that would allow insect entry. Avoid standing water: Eliminate pooled water outside the home to prevent mosquitoes from laying eggs, and ensure that channels such as drains and gutters flow smoothly and aren't blocked by leaves and waste. Lastly, inspect the surroundings to ensure that rainwater doesn't collect in idle pots, tanks and tires. Clean surroundings: Insects are attracted to food sources including uncovered trash. Ensure that garbage, recycling bins and composting food matter are closed and tightly sealed. Also, clear up trash near and around the home as soon as possible. ## Ask The Experts About Alzheimer's

(BPT) - Alzheimer's is a progressive medical condition, and one of the deadliest diseases in the United States. That's why it is important to learn about the disease along with some simple steps that can help delay the potential onset, or help facilitate an early diagnosis.

Dr. Rhonda Randall, a board-certified family physician, geriatrician and chief medical officer for UnitedHealthcare, answered the following questions relating to Alzheimer's disease. What is Alzheimer's disease and how is it distinguished from other dementias?

While the terms are often used interchangeably, "dementia" is an umbrella term physician to perform a memory evaluation the next time you visit the doctor's office. It only takes a few minutes.

Eligible UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage members can take advantage of the HouseCalls program, which brings a yearly health and wellness visit to the convenience and privacy of home, at no additional cost. A HouseCalls licensed practitioner can conduct a memory screening and refer you to additional care, if needed.

One of the most noticeable symptoms is the inability to retain newly learned information, as Alzheimer's generally impacts for many types of diseases associated with cognitive decline and memory loss, whereas "Alzheimer's" references a specific diagnosis. Alzheimer's is referred to as a progressive disease, as the dementia symptoms generally worsen gradually over time.

Alzheimer's is the most common form of dementia. In fact, someone in the United States develops the disease every 65 seconds, according to the Alzheimer's Association. That means roughly 5.8 million people are living with the disease. However, Alzheimer's will only become more prevalent - around 14 million people are estimated to be living with Alzheimer's by 2050.

Alzheimer's disease is commonly diagnosed after conducting a memory screening and ruling out other reasons for cognitive decline. It is important to have a memory screening done each year, as having a historical record can increase your health care practitioner's ability to accurately diagnose memory disorders earlier.

Memory screenings can be performed during your annual wellness visit, which is free to anyone on Medicare. Make sure to ask your

the part of the brain that affects learning. That said, it is important to distinguish Alzheimer's from normal, fleeting memory loss, sometimes associated with aging - Alzheimer's is marked by serious memory loss and confusion.

Examples of serious memory loss might be having to ask for the same information repeatedly or requiring memory aids, such as notes, to remember basic information. If you feel like you or a loved one is suffering from serious memory loss, contact your health care provider.

Staying physically and mentally active is key, regardless of age. That may mean taking a brisk walk, playing online brain games or participating in other activities that can improve circulation and challenge your mind.

Additionally, it is important to keep your blood pressure, cholesterol and blood sugar levels in check. If you are a smoker, quitting is important, as it increases your chances of developing Alzheimer's.

Taking these steps to help prevent Alzheimer's is key, as there is currently no cure for the disease. •

Get Started with a DIY Financial Plan

Did you know that 78 percent of people with a financial plan pay their bills on time vs. only 38 percent of people who don't have a plan? Or that 68 percent of planners have an emergency fund while only 26 percent of non-planners are prepared to cover an unexpected cost?

Here's how to get started with a DIY plan.

- Write down your goals — Start by asking yourself what you want your money to accomplish. What are your short-term needs? What do you want to accomplish in the next 5 to 10 years?
- Create a net worth statement — Achieving your goals requires understanding where you stand today. So start by listing your assets — bank and investment accounts, real estate and valuable personal property. Now list all your debts: mortgage, credit cards, student loans — everything. Subtract your liabilities from your assets and you have your net worth. Use this number as a benchmark to measure your progress.
- Review your cash flow — Cash flow simply means money in (your income) and money out (your expenses). How much money do you earn each month? Be sure to include all sources of income. Now look at your expenses, including any that may only come up once or twice a year.
- Zero in on your budget — Your cash-flow analysis will let you know how much you're spending. Focusing on your budget will let you know where that money is going. Write down your essential expenses such as mortgage, insurance, food, transportation, utilities and loan payments. Don't forget periodic payments and be sure to include savings. Then write down nonessentials — restaurants, entertainment, even clothes.
- Focus on debt management — Debt can derail you, but not all debt is bad. It's high-interest consumer debt like credit cards that you want to avoid. Try to follow the 28/36 guideline that no more than 28 percent of pre-tax income goes toward home debt, no more than 36 percent toward all debt.

- Get your retirement savings on track — Whatever your age, retirement saving needs to be part of your financial plan. Calculate how much you will need to comfortably retire and contribute to a 401(k) or other employer-sponsored plan or an IRA. The earlier you start, the less you'll have to save each year.
- Review your insurance — Insurance is an important part of protecting your finances. Health insurance is a given, and most of us also need car and homeowner's or renter's insurance. While you're working, disability insurance is a smart move. Finally, you should consider life insurance, especially if you have dependents.
- Know your income tax situation — To make sure you're prepared, review your withholding and estimated taxes, and explore potential tax credits.
- Create or update your estate plan — At a minimum, have a will to name a guardian for minor children. Check that beneficiaries are up to date on all retirement accounts and insurance policies. Complete an advance healthcare directive and assign powers of attorney for both finances and healthcare.

A financial plan can be especially important if you don't have a lot of money because it can help you get on the path to greater financial strength. Whether you need to reduce spending and debt, up your savings, or just refine the details, once you have a plan you'll be on the road to success. • relationship between two grown men, but my premature assumptions were quickly proven to be wrong. What we have here is an unforgettably dazzling achievement – both onscreen and off – with some of the year’s most phenomenal performances, original dialogue, and affecting score. Colin Farrell channels a Larry David-type unawareness that gives this dark comedy a more contemporary feel. His sweet demeanor is at odds with Brendan Gleeson’s boorish ignorance and watching these two celebrated actors play out his dynamic on screen together is something special.

The tonal bait and switch from dark comedy to introspective, sensitive drama is what makes The Banshees of Inisherin such a powerful film. It hints at the meaning of life in a delicate way and leaves audiences with some food for thought as the credits roll. It’s also a film that I’m already looking forward to rewatching again, and again. •

Directions

- Step 1: Toast the almonds in a 4-quart saucepot over medium-high heat until lightly browned. Remove the almonds from the pot and set aside.
- Step 2: In the same saucepot, heat the oil over medium-high heat. Add the garlic, broccoli and crushed red pepper and cook for 2 minutes, stirring occasionally.

City Council

discussions on how to handle the brownout staffing, Chief Lee was concerned with the staffing level moving from 14 firefighters on duty at one time to 11. Adjustments were then made to move the engineer from Engine 32 to Truck 32 to make it a four-person vehicle while moving the Engine 32 firefighter to Engine 31 to make it a four-person vehicle. Council member Scot Nicol guided Chief Lee through questions that established that and explained that city firefighters may not enter a building to fight a fire unless they have four firefighters on scene, with the strategy of “two in, two out” being the appropriate way to launch firefighters into a response to a fire call. Chief Lee noted that the brownout and staffing changes also would remove three captains’ positions and that part of the budget cuts of the brown-out would include freezing the emergency management division. Mayor Pro Tem Chris Pimentel noted that ambulance service and staffing were not being discussed as potential cuts to meet the $1 million budget cut ask from the city council. Chief Lee answered a question from Nicol and said that Engine 32 had been subject to a previous brownout due to insufficient staffing, noting the times you brownout an engine are due to budget cuts or a lack of staff. Chief Lee explained that “it wasn’t really a true brownout” because engine 32 was still used, but personnel was cut to two on Engine 32 for a period of about five months, “and we were still able to give service to the community. We’ve looked at all the data, and I’m going to continue to analyze the data of if there are delays in response or if the information that Geoff Gerny gave is accurate as to the overlapping incidents and the numbers of calls of fires and so on and so forth. But we have looked at several staffing models over the last year, and I think that what we’re trying to do is come to a compromise to what would be the best service for the community.” Nicol pointed out that the city budgets $2.1 million per year to cover overtime costs in the fire department and the department has 40 staff members. He also called out that when the city used “light staff” for Engine 32 during that prior brownout 13 firefighters were on duty each day, and why wasn’t that considered last year when these decisions were being made. Chief Lee also explained that the city has “to have 14 firefighters in those seats 24/7. If people are sick, on vacation, or on longtime injury, or we have not promoted or hired, or recruited for firefighters, then it’s always overtime. One strategy is to over-hire, and then you just fill in” so that you reduce the overtime. “But if you want to have a constant staffing of 14 firefighters, that’s just how it happens.” She noted that the department currently has four vacancies in the paramedic rank, “so every day we’re hiring fire paramedics at time and a half to fill that spot.” Nicol asked if four firefighters showed up at his house to fight a fire, could they enter, which was confirmed by the chief. “So, if one engine with four firefighters shows up, then two guys can go in?” Said Chief Lee, “Yes, you can make entry, but we need 17 firefighters to put out one room on fire in a 2,500-square-foot house.” Nicol pointed out that the city fire department would need to use mutual aid firefighters from nearby jurisdictions to fight the fire even with the current city fire department staffing of 14. He also noted that Engine 32 isn’t “being sold, it’s not being decommissioned, put out to pasture at the yard. It’s still going to be in station 2.” Chief Lee agreed.

“I think the important thing is to realize that the engine is not going anywhere. We have the same amount of staff. A pilot program is put together so we can learn something from it,” said council member Lance Giroux. “And we’ve said from the beginning that if it’s determined that there is a problem, we can pull this pilot program at any minute, at any time. The reason why we didn’t permanently put this in is because we wanted to do the right thing. We wanted to study what is possible, what is acceptable, and what we can still maintain our level of service with. So, what this is about is basically learning what’s possible. But at any time, it can be pulled. That’s why I understand the feelings of the fire association. I get it. I really do. We do have budgetary issues that we need to address. This is a way to look at something without it being permanently put in place.” Said Chief Lee, “If I may, I take my job as a fire chief very seriously. It has been my pleasure to serve this community for 20 years, and I want to continue to deliver great service. Of course, I support the firefighters. They’re here day in and day out, and they’ll risk their lives for you, and they are there for you on your worst days. I also support the city council, and I will respect the decision that you make. This is a difficult place that we’re at here.” Said Pimentel, “Chief, we look to you to provide us subject matter expertise and fire-fighting and life safety. Leave the budgeting piece. That’s not your decision, right? You make recommendations.” He noted that the city budgets $170,000 in overtime per month for the fire department due to its unique staffing model but spends nearly double that at $300,000+ in overtime per month. “It’s incumbent on us as the fiduciaries of the city. We have to interrogate. Public safety is job one, but job two is doing it in a value-driven model.” Added Pimentel, “The potential staffing model that the FFA put out there is not in opposition to this. I think that’s something that warrants a significant amount of study, and I think that is a tremendous display of forward-thinking by them. So, I think that regardless of what we do here about this pilot program, that is something that warrants a great deal of investigation.” The FFA’s proposal would change from using paramedics to EMTs as a service model. In a 5-0 vote, the council approved the brownout of Engine 32. City Attorney Mark Hensley said the program’s six months would start the day it is implemented but that the chief and city staff need to work out scheduling. City Council also sent the latest design and plans for the city’s solo city-owned historic Urho Saari Swim Stadium, aka “The Plunge,” back for more fine-tuning and the prospect of reducing its cost. City Manager George elaborated on Richmond Street’s outdoor dining, noting it was brought forward during the pandemic, three restaurants applied for the permit to have outdoor dining in public right-of-way encroachments, and that no fees have been charged to the restaurants. It’s anticipated that outdoor dining, as it presently exists under the state of emergency due to COVID-19 and the city council’s action regarding it, may go into the middle of 2024, said City Attorney Hensley. •
