Council Looks at Park Place Extension, Gets Business-Friendly Kudos

By Brian Simon

During its Tuesday night meeting, the El Segundo City Council took the next step in the long-desired extension of Park Place between Nash Street and Allied Way by authorizing City Manager Greg Carpenter to apply for a $6 million Call for Project construction grant from the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (Metro) to help fund a portion of the future work (with the total cost estimate ranging from $34 million to $43 million). Extending Park Place to close the current gap and address grade separation is expected to relieve traffic congestion along portions of Rosecrans Avenue and Sepulveda Boulevard and improve freeway access.

Using a 2008 federal earmark ($750,000 with a $150,000 private developer match), the City awarded a contract to NCM Engineering corporation last year to study design alternatives for the project. In a presentation to the Council, NCM Principal William Nascimento noted that his group considered multiple options before settling on five viable alternatives---with one (Alternative 1C) standing out as the preferred solution. This configuration entails relocating the BNSF rail tracks along the existing Union Pacific Railroad facilities (which would stay in place). The scenario allows for future extension to Village Way from the north to create even better circulation in the area, Nascimento explained. He added that the intersection is proposed as a roundabout, which he believes will be "much more efficient" and "safer" than a standard signal intersection. An upcoming environmental study will consider this option as well as the others before a final decision is made.

The funding application for the $6 million grant is due in January 2015, with potential approval by Metro's board in September of the same year. City Public Works Director Stephanie Katsouleas referred to these dollars as the "first drop in the bucket" in amassing the $30-$40 million in funding required to complete the project. "It's a long time coming, but a long time to go," said Katsouleas, who noted that with construction not expected to start until 2020, the City has time to accumulate the necessary monies—which could potentially come from federal, state and local sources, grants and developer contributions.

Also on Tuesday, representatives from the Los Angeles County Economic Development Corporation (LAEDC) honored the City for once again being named a finalist for the annual Most Business Friendly City (Eddy) award. This marks the third consecutive year that El Segundo has been among the top five recognized in the small cities (populations under 65,000) category. El Segundo won the first-ever Most Business-Friendly City

Chamber Hosts Salute to the Military

By Cristian Vasquez

In a room filled with employees from the aerospace industry, local nonprofits, military personnel and veterans, the El Segundo Chamber of Commerce hosted the Salute to the Military. The luncheon was hosted at the local Hacienda Hotel and featured Congressman Henry Waxman as well as Senior Vice President of the Aerospace Corporation Malissia Clinton.

"What we wanted to do was bring together our military, which we have a lot here in El Segundo, and the companies who take care of our national security like Northrop Grumman, Boeing and Raytheon to come together and honor our military service and our veterans," El Segundo Chamber of Commerce Director Marsha Hansen said. "We always invite some of the military support groups so they will come out and have tables set up. For instance, El Segundo Cares is a great group of El Segundo ladies that raise clothing to take to the VA hospital. Each of these organization are all here to support the military and veterans."

Along with El Segundo Cares, other military and veterans support groups present included Operation Gratitude, Mission K9 Rescue, Bob Hope Hollywood USO at LAX, Operation Homefront and El Camino College Veterans Center. The event started with each branch of the military being recognized as its fight song played and veterans along with current service people in that branch stood up.

"I am so pleased that this chamber of commerce is using this meeting to salute the military: We have to be thankful of our blessings in this country and we have many to be thankful for," Congressman Waxman said. "Those who have put their

“The Dean of El Segundo Female Runners”. Many El Segundo townspeople knew her because she was a 54+ year resident, who trained on the streets of El Segundo many years for her ultra-marathon runs. She began running at the ESHS Track by the prodding of her late husband Ben at the age of 43. This led to two decades of completing in the most difficult ultra marathons in the country; including “Ice Age 50” in Wisconsin, the “San Juan 5 0” in Cleveland National Forest, the “Western State 100”, the “14 -mile Ascent Race” up Colorado’s 14,000 ft Mt. Whitney and the 26 times she completed Pikes Peak up and back.

ES Mayor Jack Siadek honored her back in 1987 for running 70 miles around the city of El Segundo for its 70th anniversary of incorporation. All of her running paralleled with her love of nature and dedication to the animals. She is survived by her Daughters Vanessa and Francesca. An Open House Funeral Service will be held Thurs. Oct 30 from 12:30 to 4 at Pacific Crest Cemetery in Redondo Beach. •

On Tuesday, October 14, the El Segundo water polo team went on the road to meet a strong Culver City High School team at the Culver City Municipal Plunge. This was the third league game for both teams. The Centaurs started fast and drew first blood by scoring on an ejection of an Eagle player. El Segundo then settled down, tying the score, then proceeded to score twice more. El Segundo’s counterattacks and accurate cross-court passing provided shots for many Eagle players. The third period saw the Culver City team showing signs of fatigue, as they were unable to keep up with the El Segundo attackers. The Eagle bench picked up speed, adding five goals to Culver City’s one. The fourth quarter was more of the same, and the Eagles extended their lead by another 4 goals. The final score was 15 to 5.

Scoring for El Segundo: Paul Bibas (4), Nick Paz (3), Matt Marak (2), Kelly Reynolds (2), Joe Doucette (1), Wyatt Hogoboom (1), Tony Rotolo (1), Josh Palmer (1). Assists: Nick Paz (3), Tony Rotolo (2), Ryan Winkler (2), Kyle Crist (1). Drawing Ejections: Nick Paz (1), Lukas Frerichs (1), Wyatt Hogoboom (1).

On October 16, the long-awaited matchup between El Segundo and the Santa Monica Vikings saw the Eagles defeat the Vikings in a hard-fought contest. The last time El Segundo had beaten Santa Monica was in 2009, and as expected this was a close contest. El Segundo dominated Santa Monica in time of possession, and drew several ejections on the Viking players on their way to a four goal run. A series of offensive errors by the Eagles allowed Santa Monica to mount a comeback. The Eagles then came alive and put out the fire, taking the game, 7 to 6.

Scoring: Joe Doucette (2), Nick Paz (1), Paul

Building Brighter Futures, Careers For Our Children

Op-ed article by Suzanne Fuentes, Mayor of El Segundo, CA

It's no secret that many of the jobs of tomorrow – those in fields like science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) – require specialized training and education beginning at a young age. In our own backyard, a growing percentage of jobs at the community's largest employers, such as Raytheon, Northrop Grumman, Chevron and Boeing, are highly technical and require thorough training in STEM-related subjects.

In the South Bay community and across Los Angeles County, we strive to provide our students – tomorrow's leaders – with the skills needed to grow and sustain a workforce that is competitive both locally and globally. As an aerospace professional with more than 25 years of experience, I know firsthand about the importance of STEM education beginning in early childhood. And as an El Segundo native who spent all her educational years in local schools and as a member of several local education organizations, such as El Segundo Education Foundation Superintendent's Roundtable, the El Segundo City/School Affairs Subcommittee, and South Bay Cities Council of Government's So Cal ROC Working Group, I am personally invested in making this happen.

The Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS) – the most significant education reform in nearly 15 years – will integrate engineering and technology into science instruction in K-12 classrooms, but this will be a challenge as schools increasingly suffer from budget cuts. The state of California has reduced funding for public schools and El Segundo Unified School District (ESUSD) alone has lost more than $4 million in less than 5 years^[1]. As a result, students don't have the supplies to help them learn the building blocks for fields like technology and engineering, and it shows.

Teachers, who often struggle to pay bills, are digging into their pocketbooks to help. Public school teachers spent an average of $485 of their own money last year to pay for school supplies, instructional materials and classroom materials. Across the U.S., this adds up to $1.6 billion in out-of-pocket expenses^[2].

Teachers already give so much and simply can't be stretched further. Our teachers and schools in El Segundo and across Los Angeles County need our support. The upside is that the situation won't become dire if we start working together now to identify innovative funding solutions. With the proper education and tools, students can develop critical skills in problem solving, teamwork, time management, communication and leadership. Equipping students with these skills and providing the educational materials they need will help build a smart, adaptive workforce that can power economic growth.

We need to work together on creative funding answers to provide students with hands-on learning opportunities. Parents and others can support schools and students in a number of ways, such as volunteering and donating through organizations like the El Segundo Education Foundation (esedf.org) and DonorsChoose.org. DonorsChoose allows anyone to contribute any amount at any time to the school and classroom project they choose as posted online by local teachers. This enables donors to direct their money and see how those contributions are used in the classroom.

Businesses and corporations also play an important role in working directly with communities to build bridges to the future. There are many examples: here in select cities in and around the South Bay area of Los Angeles County, the Fuel Your School program (fuelyourschool.com), a collaboration between DonorsChoose.org and Chevron, has donated $500,000 to deliver needed materials and school supplies to classrooms since the program started in the area last year. The program is taking place again, right now. Chevron will donate $1, up to $500,000, to help support K-12 public schools when consumers fuel up with eight or more gallons at participating Chevron and Texaco stations during the month of October.

We'll all need to work together – educators, parents, residents and businesses – to help our students. Teachers can post projects on DonorsChoose.org. Community members can donate to charities and volunteer. And corporations and businesses can contribute to local schools to help prepare our students and ensure they are ready for college and their future careers.

We need to get busy. The NGSS standards – along with the community support in the South Bay – will strengthen our future workforce and build paths to promising futures. Let's give our students the building blocks they need for a better future.

Alternate Opinion on "Another Opinion"

Listened to tape of the Bill Maher debate with Ben Affleck again after reading your article. It's too bad you wrote the article on a fact that was not true. Time and again Bill Maher stated he was not talking about the entire group of Moslens [sic] but a significant number. Note: 10 % is approximately 100,000,000. There must have been at least 3 or 4 times on the tape that Mr. Maher stated he was only talking about some and not all. Yet, some is still a very large number.

A Team Effort

My family wants to publicly thank Coach Riley Brady and the ESHS Boys Varsity Water Polo Team for coming to our rescue to help us move! Our lease was running out on our home of 16 years where we raised our three boys. My husband Vinny is ill and on hospice care, so the team knew we needed extra muscle for this! What a blessing they were showing up at 9am on Saturday and forfeiting trips to the beach and staying until evening to get the job done. This is one of the many things that makes our town a true community and why we have lived here for 30 years...it's a place you will always find people helping people and we love it!

Way to go Eagles! So thankful for you!

Vote Against Scott Houston

Vote against scott Houston for West Basin Metropolitan Water District Board of Directors if you don't want additional unnecessary water rate increases. Two-time City Council loser Houston is the absolute worst of three "progressive" (ultra-liberal/leftist) Democrats running. Vote for Stephen Murray instead.

Houston supported Measure P, the firefighter union's initiative (4/10/12 ballot), which was defeated by 90% of El Segundo voters. It would have disbanded our local Fire Department and transferred our fire and paramedic services, and firefighters, to Los Angeles County for inferior services. It would have eliminated 31% of our on-duty firefighters, two paramedic squads, and all three paramedic transport ambulances, doubling hospital transport times.

Houston lobbied the City Council (2/15/11 meeting video) to enact Measure P directly into law without allowing the voters to vote on it!

Houston supported thirteen tax hikes, including eleven tax hikes in Measure A (4/8/14 ballot; 3/13/14 Herald letter).

Houston took endorsements and huge campaign contributions from the police officers' "association" (union). Police, firefighter, and other government unions support candidates and ballot measures that will give them the biggest pay and pension increases, and raise our taxes to pay for it. That's why our police and firefighters are paid $150,000 to $330,000 each in total annual compensation.

Houston campaigns claiming qualifications and positions he does not possess. He wants to use WBMWD as a stepping stone to higher office to promote Big Government tax-and-spend "progressive" politics.

Houston is a government union puppet, not a representative of the people. – Mike Robbins

One Man's Opinion

A Barking Dog Cannot Bite

By Gerry Chong

It's been a long, long time since I had to sit like a chastened schoolboy listening to an arrogant lecturer preach about the error of my ways. But I could only clench my fists under the table and nod my head in agreement.

Yesterday, I lunched with a revered Chinese doctor from Shanghai, ostensibly to learn about the differences between American medicine and Chinese medicine. But that discussion quickly evolved into a lecture on the foolishness of America, and the might of China.

Appropriately, last week China passed the U.S. as the largest economy in the world, so kudos to them. Moreover, as Obama boasts of a 2% growth rate, China grows at 7% so we'll eat crow and listen to stories of our own ineptitude.

The doctor reminded me that a confident China does not fear (or respect) the U.S. because a "barking dog cannot bite." Since we are so busy doing the former we cannot do the latter. We engage in a bombing program in the Middle East, a strategy no military person believes can succeed, using weapons the government has already ceased manufacturing. All the while IS continues its surge as Iraqi forces abandon the fight, and no Middle East country will materially contribute to the effort to save themselves.

We squander our riches as Gaza wails about the consequences of the war it started and Guatemala demands we rebuild Central America or face unrestrained illegal immigration. We send 3,000 of our military into harm's way in West Africa to build hospitals and clinics without knowing what causes the disease, and without staffing or supplies for those facilities. We allow 4,500 West African immigrants into the U.S. each month even as the World Health Organization predicts worldwide infection growth at the rate of 10,000 per week. We stare in wonderment as Chinese investors buy the Waldorf Astoria for $2 billion, not realizing that China has simply traded that amount of U.S. currency it has in its treasury for a piece of irreplaceable real estate.

The Chinese, in turn, stare in wonderment at our decision to import low-skilled laborers from poor countries even as we require highly skilled and highly educated workers to compete on the world stage. The former drags the economy while the latter propels the economy; so we have chosen the former. We create technical marvels like Apple iPhones, but manufacture them in China where the technology can be replicated.

In the search for worldwide market share, Boeing sells its most technologically sophisticated planes to China in exchange for having parts built there. Chinese manufactured planes will improve on Boeing's products and cost it market share instead. China took advantage of Russia's economic straits by executing a monster oil contract on favorable terms, using Chinese currency as the source of payment, and thus undermining the importance of the U.S. dollar.

Everywhere now, an arrogant China sees a rival that has lost its way, a pathetic shell of its former self, reduced to merely a barking dog. How tragic. •

Another Man's Opinion

Ebola Scare is Legit Concern, Not an Outbreak

By Cristian Vasquez

Without a doubt the recent cases of Ebola being reported by international, national and local media have caused some concern in my mind, especially when a report came out that a patient was being held at Centinela Hospital due to fears that they were carrying the virus. Fortunately that wasn't the case and Inglewood and the surrounding areas can relax and take a deep breath. While I am not suggesting the Ebola virus is not to be taken serious I am convinced that the ongoing media coverage is preying on people's fears.

So far, the majority of the coverage on the reported cases of Ebola that I have seen give minimal attention to how exactly it is that the virus is contracted, if any at all. To be clear: the virus is not airborne. The virus might be easy for a healthcare worker to catch, due to their exposure to the infected patient and said patient's bodily fluids. However, it is very difficult for the average person to become infected since they are not exposed to infected patients for the long periods of time that a healthcare worker would. So based on this simple math, why are the big media outlets teasing the Ebola news through fear tactics? Seems that the ratings are more important than informing the public.

I'm not a doctor but I can understand this much: as individuals we can help prevent/control any type of epidemic by visiting a doctor the moment we feel sick. A big mistake that 99 percent of us are guilty of is going to work, going to school or running our errands when we feel sick. We either don't have sick days at work, or we have a big test to take and we forgo medical attention. In some cases medical attention isn't an option due to a lack of medical insurance (that's a different conversation). Whatever the case, most of us have roughed it out and luckily we all survive and carry on. However, that is a dangerous move because if we were unfortunate enough to become infected with something as horrible as the Ebola virus, walking around is doing anyone any favors.

It's time for the big media outlets to focus on informing the public on how a person can become infected with the Ebola virus. Focusing on the catastrophe of an outbreak and having experts comment on how likely it is for an outbreak to occur does nothing but scare people. When people react to fear bad things can happen. We don't have to look too far back to find an example of a media-created fear. Who remembers the swine flu? The hype behind the "epidemic" was another ratings-fueling move. I accept that the swine flu then and the Ebola virus today are serious illnesses. We definitely need to be mindful of symptoms and seek medical attention when we begin to feel under the weather. While the issue at hand is serious, sometimes it's good to not believe the hype. •

Let the Banner Fly

By Adam Serrao

Being a sports fan in the city of Los Angeles has not necessarily been an easy thing to do over the past decade or so. Sure, the Galaxy have won a few championships, but let's get real. Nothing against soccer: just, not many people pay much attention to it out here in Los Angeles. The Dodgers have had their fun with us, getting to the brink of a World Series appearance in both the Manny Ramirez/Joe Torre era and in the recent Don Mattingly era, but always seem to fall apart in the games that matter the most. Then there are the Lakers. The Lakers made Los Angeles the place to be in the early 2000s. With a young Kobe and Shaq at the helm, they were raking in championships left and right. L.A. was happening. Look at the purple and gold now. Pinning this year's playoff hopes on one player who can't carry his own luggage without hurting himself and another who has one good leg to stand on. Literally. Alas, worry no more! Hockey season is back and the Los Angeles Kings have been the team to save us from our sorrows. Last Wednesday the Kings opened a brand new season and raised their championship banner to the ceiling, reminding sports fans all across Los Angeles that they do, indeed, have a team to be proud of here in L.A.

The Kings lost to the San Jose Sharks 4-0 on opening night this year. But never mind that! As a raucous crowd of more than 18,000 fans showed up to the Staples Center last Wednesday night, they roared with excitement as the black and white banner that read, "Stanley Cup Champions 2013-14" was raised to the rafters. Our championship team was back and the Sharks might have ruined the first game of the season but they did not ruin the celebration. "Los Angeles is the greatest hockey city in the world!" Kings Hall of Famer and president of business operations Luc Robitaille exclaimed. Leave it to Luc to put a little home-town cooking into his exclamations, but while Los Angeles is certainly no Montreal or even Detroit for that matter, it has grown tremendously in the last four years or so as a hockey city.

The thing that makes the Kings unique and has Los Angeles showing up to their games is not simply the fact that they are winning championships. Naturally, that doesn't hurt the cause, but unlike the Boys in Blue just to the south of Staples Center, the Kings don't buckle under pressure. This team is gritty. They'll hit back and hit back hard. They play their best game with their backs against the wall, don't buckle under pressure and meet the moment when the moment is at its highest point. That's what the Kings have come to be defined as over the past few years and that's why people love showing up to watch them put the blades to the ice. These Kings just haven't let their fans down.

Opening night didn't look pretty. Not only did the Kings lose, but they got shut out. Fans were left excited about the new season but empty about the fact that they couldn't even see their team score a goal. Three nights later, things weren't looking much better. The Kings finally scored their first goals of the season as both Tanner Pearson and Jeff Carter scored in the first period of play, but the Arizona Coyotes rallied to a 3-2 overtime victory sending our beloved Kings to an 0-2 start to the season. Call it a hangover. The Kings just four months ago won the championship, cut them a little slack. They've probably just been drinking champagne every day, basking in their own glory. Once the hangover wore off, the Kings then won against the Winnipeg Jets, the Edmonton Oilers and had an exciting and intense shootout victory over the St. Louis Blues here at the Staples Center. At least one L.A. team can beat St. Louis, right? Your Kings are back.

The season is just underway and we have until April until it is complete. Expect the Kings to be good this year, but don't expect them to be the best in the league. The losses will come along with the wins, but remember, this team plays its best hockey with their backs against the wall. Three seasons ago, they won it all as the eighth seed. Last season, they won it all as the sixth seed. They may not know what to do with themselves if they enter the playoffs as the one seed. So sit back and enjoy the ride. It's going to be a long season. For now, just be happy that hockey is back. Your World Champion, banner waiving Los Angeles Kings are back and L.A. is ready to be transformed, once again, into a hockey town. •

Eagles Spoil Homecoming for Culver City

By Gregg McMullin
Photos by Gregg McMullin and Marcy Dugan

It's been years since El Segundo and Culver City have faced each other on the gridiron. The fact that the Centaurs had dominated games against the Eagles in the past was evident by the last two games they played each other. The Centaurs' Darius Banks threw six touchdown passes in a 40-7 win over the Eagles nine years ago. Oh, how things have changed when the Eagles spoiled Culver City's Homecoming game with a 41-0 win last week.

The Eagles' offense started slowly with a quick three and out series to start the game. That only caused the Centaur faithful to chant, "Overrated, overrated" as Eagle's quarterback Lars Nootbaar jogged off the field. El Segundo's defense, which has given up a mere 19 points all season long, forced a turnover to give the Nootbaar a second chance. Mike Villa sacked Centaur quarterback Quintorius Truitt who fumbled the ball and Nick Palomo recovers the ball at the Eagle's 42 yard line.

"We heard those guys (Centaur student body) yelling 'overrated' at Lars (Nootbaar) and we wanted to get him the ball back," said Palomo. "We had his back." Nootbaar, an all-South Bay quarterback as a junior, completed back-to-back passes to Jackson Walz for 19 yards and Miguel Wagner-Bagues for 18 yards. Two plays later he found Taz Tauaese open on a 20-yard touchdown pass play. Nootbaar had silenced his critics on the far side of the field but in doing so he got caught up in the moment that cost his team a penalty. "That won't happen again; I just got a little silly," he said.

In most games there is a turning point in which the game will start to favor a team. In this case El Segundo's defensive energy on Culver City's ensuing possession may have been its most impressive effort of the season. It was also the most poignant part of the game. The Centaurs had moved to the El Segundo 10-yard line with the help of a few penalties on the Eagles. The Centaurs ran five plays from inside the 10-yard line. On fourth and less than a yard they came up empty when Tyler Stephens and Palomo stopped Anthony Polk inches away from the goal line.

The Eagles offense moved the ball well but the ten-play drive stalled out on the Centaur 35-yard line. The Eagles defense continued its dominating play and forced a punting situation. Tony Caiseros prepared to punt from his own 41, but a bad snap and fumble and Mike Villa recovered the ball at the Centaurs 10-yard line. Two plays later, Wagner-Bagues let the blocking of Ryan Kelly and Michael Rincon open a hole and he easily got into the end zone from two yards out.

On the Eagles' next possession Nootbaar looked for an open receiver, but when nobody was open he took off on a 54-yard pickup. Then Wagner-Bagues rushed the ball three times to get the ball to the Centaur 1-yard line where Nootbaar dove into the end zone to make it 21-0.

The Eagles got the ball back on the 50-yard line with just under two minutes remaining in the first half. With time winding down Nootbaar found Nick Karsseboom open on a 40-yard touchdown pass with six seconds remaining.

Eagle head coach Steve Shevlin said the key to the first half was the stop the defense had made twice inside the Eagle's two-yard line. "If they push it in the game might have gone in a completely different direction."

If there was one area of the game the Eagles were concerned about going into the game it was Culver City's speed. Defensive coordinator Dan Heck believed his unit could play with them if they could slow the game down and they did. "We weren't concerned with how they threw the ball, but how we could stay with them rushing the ball and we passed that test," he said.

Other than a 12-play drive that was stopped inside the El Segundo 1-yard line the Centaurs were forced to punt on every other possession. For the game Culver City gained just 21 yards rushing and up until the fourth quarter had 0 yards passing and ended with just seven total yards in the air.

With the Eagles leading 28-0, Nootbaar continued his magical ways. On third and long he found Ryan Kelly open for a first down. Jackson Walz picked up another 16 yards to move the chains and new set of downs. On third and 19 from the Centaur 23-yard line, Nootbaar found Karsseboom open for another touchdown pass to make it 35-0. Wagner-Bagues ended the scoring on the Eagle's next possession four consecutive runs of 1, 10, 18 yards and a 1-yard dive play into the end zone for a 41-0 lead.

El Segundo improved to 7-0 overall and 2-0 in the Ocean League. Of the Eagle's seven wins this season four of those games have been with a running clock sometime during the second half. Nootbaar completed 13 passes for 219 yards and three touchdowns and also rushed 74 yards. Wagner-Bagues led the Eagles 165 total yards, rushing attack with 78 yards on 15 carries including two TD runs. Nick Karsseboom had four catches for 88 yards and two touchdowns. Joey Garza, Jake Barone, Jackson Walz and Dwayne Polk dominated the defensive scheme for the Eagles

According to his facebook page: “With deep regrets, I was disqualified at the 50 mile mark by not making the cut-off time. I want to thank the 100 Mile Club Endurance Challenge for giving me the opportunity to be a part of this very challenging event. National Red Ribbon Week

El Segundo schools will be wearing red this week as their way of showing support for a drug-free America. This campaign began in 1985 when a DEA officer was murdered while fighting drug traffickers. Displaying red ribbons was a symbol of intolerance towards the use of drugs. There will be educational programs and activities, age appropriate, at each school. Wearing red is an ideal way for our community to unite and take a visible stand against drugs. The theme for this week is “Love Yourself – Be Drug Free.”

which came up with their second consecutive shutout and third of the year.

As the season has progressed along the Eagle’s opponents have gotten better each week. The win against a perennial power such where the winner would most likely win their first Ocean League football title.

“We aren’t looking into the future we’re concentrating on the present and that means getting prepared for Hawthorne,” said assistant coach Casey Gardner.

Both the JVs and frosh/soph football teams took it on the chin against Culver City. Both squads went into their games undefeated on the year but came away with losses. The JVs fell 26-8 while the frosh/soph team lost 21-10. The JVs will attempt to turn things around at home today at 3pm while the frosh/soph team travels to Hawthorne for a 3pm game. • as Culver City only bolsters the confidence of both the offense and defense. The Eagles will get another test Friday night when they travel to Hawthorne to play the Cougars. The Cougars, 3-4 overall and 1-1 in the Ocean League, are talented but young at the offensive skill positions with junior Kishawn Berry and sophomore Jesse Guerrero at receiver. A win would almost guarantee a playoff spot for the second ranked Eagles. Assuming both the Eagles and Lawndale prevail on Friday it would setup quite a matchup next Thursday night. lives on the line deserve everything that we can possibly do for them because they were willing to fight and even to die for our country and our national security.”

Congressman Waxman has been serving as an elected official for more than 40 years and has authored significant legislation in the areas of health and the environment. When redistricting occurred in 2012, the congressman began representing the South Bay.

“I have always supported a strong military. If you want to avoid a war we have to have a strong military: not to fight it but to prevent it and for our foreign policy to be able to speak with authority around the world,” Congressman Waxman said. “We are the only super power left and to save all of the values that we want others to know about: freedom, democracy, diversity and tolerance are things that we take for granted but they are in short supply around the world, particularly in the middle east. So we need to have a strong defense.”

The Chamber’s Salute to the Military stands out from other events designed at honoring the country’s servicemen and women because El Segundo recognizes the efforts of the aerospace industry, military personnel and the nonprofits committed to helping the men and women in uniform.

“It is interesting because I can look at a table and see a bunch of people only to realize that it is a Colonel from the local Air Force base sitting next to a volunteer from the community of El Segundo who is next to the director of a big defense corporation,” Hansen said. “In the end they are all just people and everyone is here because they care. How lucky are we to have this military? They volunteer and they are such awesome people.”

Already in its fourth year, the Salute to the Military used to be an aerospace outlook luncheon. Since the decision was made to make the event bigger and reach out to support military, the gathering had been growing.

“This year we have had one of the biggest crowds for it and we hope that it continues to grow,” Hansen said.

Congressman Waxman is serving out his last term but expressed his appreciation to the South Bay and its contributions to the aerospace industry. “I saw first hand when I came here how important the aerospace and defense industry is not just our economy but to our whole military strength,” Waxman said. “The military industry reached out to me to understand the important role that the South Bay plays in our economy and our defense.”

“We are blessed because of them (military personnel),” Senior Vice President The Aerospace Corporation Malissia R. Clinton said. “I thank the El Segundo Chamber for reminding us that we get a gift everyday: we get the gift of peace and we get that because of our servicemen. As the Senior Vice President of Aerospace workers I have the distinct appreciation for the important work that our military performs each day.” •

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF WILLIAM MCKINLEY MULLER aka WM. M. MULLER Case No. BP156437

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of WILLIAM MCKINLEY MULLER aka WM. M. MULLER

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Sharon Patrick in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Sharon Patrick be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Nov. 5, 2014 at 8:30AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

On October 17th and 18th games played at Redondo and Mira Costa saw the Eagles poloists play five games and emerge fourth out of twenty-two teams. In the early games at Redondo, El Segundo rolled over Palm Springs 14 to 2, then demolished West Torrance 20 to 0. This qualified the Eagles to move to the winner’s bracket at Mira Costa on Saturday, the 18th.

Due to the county-wide PSAT tests being given to all juniors in high school, El Segundo found that they would be missing five strong playing members of the Eagle squad for the early morning game with a powerful Arroyo Grande team. One critical absence was the Eagle goalkeeper, Justin Knoll. Freshman Brett Quesada of the J.V. team undertook that responsibility, and proved to be a capable replacement.

Coaches Riley and Blacksten demonstrated what effective coaching can do; Arroyo Grande was completely outcoached. The Eagle defense was working, and they countered, drew ejections and took the lead, eventually winning the game, 10 to 8. Scoring: Paul Bibas (3), Kyle Crist (2), Wyatt Hogoboom (2), Anthony Rotolo (2), Ryan Winkler (1). Assists: Ryan Winkler (2), Paul Bibas (1), Kelly Reynolds (1), Josh Palmer (1).

The next two games were losses for the Eagles, but the team regarded both as learning experiences. Montebello, highly ranked in CIF Division II, blitzed the Eagles and handed them a 14 to 7 loss, in a high-intensity, fast-moving game.

The last game against Palos Verdes, contending for 3rd place, saw the Eagles take the lead after the first period, 3 to 2. However, the Sea Kings had several veteran players capable of drawing ejections of El Segundo poloists, and Palos Verdes took the lead at half time, 6 to 8. From that point, the two teams traded goals, but the Eagles could not overcome the two-goal deficit established after halftime. Offensive fouls hurt the Eagles’ attack, and the score stood at 10 to 8 for Palos Verdes at close of the third period. Throughout most of the fourth quarter the score remained 11 to 9, then one formidable player for Palos Verdes, #5 McTavish scored the make the final talley, 12 to 9 for the Sea Kings. Scoring: Paul Bibas (3), Anthony Rotolo (3), Kyle Crist (1), Lukas Frerichs (1), Wyatt Hogoboom (1). Assists: Nick Paz (1), Paul Bibas (1), Lukas Frerichs (1), Kelly Reynolds (1). Drawing Ejections: Nick Paz (1). • award in 2006. Per policy, winners cannot submit entries for the subsequent five years—so El Segundo had to wait until 2012 until it could apply again for the honor. Other 2014 small city finalists include the cities of Artesia, Glendora, Pico Rivera and Vernon. This year's Eddy program will take place at The Beverly Hilton Hotel on November 13.

LAEDC South Bay Regional Manager Barbara Voss pointed out that El Segundo attracts companies of all sizes and has a good mix of industries, offers a skilled workforce, allows easy access to the airport and freeways, uniquely blends big industry with “idyllic, small town charm,” and has a proactive City staff that engages with businesses. Voss also revealed comments from the blue ribbon panel of judges impressed with El Segundo’s application. Remarks included that the City has a lower cost of doing business, with low utility user tax rates and a unique sales tax credit to offset business license taxes. The judges also singled out the City’s streamlined and expedited permit processing, low crime rate, State-recognized schools, commitment to customer satisfaction and focus on economic development, among other items.

When it took home that first Eddy, El Segundo bested four much larger cities—

Burbank, Lancaster, Long Beach and Santa Clarita—selected from the County’s pool of 88 cities. There are now two Most Business-Friendly City awards handed out annually, with the other going to municipalities with populations over 65,000.

During reports, Councilmember Marie Fellhauer urged citizens to vote against Proposition 47 in the upcoming election out of concern that it reduces penalties for certain crimes—in particular date rape drug possession and gun violations. Asked to speak on the potential impact on El Segundo if the measure passes, Police Chief Mitch Tavera said Prop 47 would allow “another population of disenfranchised people” to be out on the streets—as drug possession (as well as shoplifting, grand theft, receiving stolen property, forgery, fraud, and bad check writing up to $950 in each case) would now only be considered misdemeanors. Prop 47 purports to apply the criminal justice savings to support school truancy and dropout prevention, victim services, mental health and drug abuse treatment, and other programs designed to keep offenders out of jail. Tavera believes the measure will have the opposite effect and make matters worse. He added that the minimal prosecution for date rape drug possession is the “most egregious” potential issue and pointed out that most police agencies have come out against Prop 47.

During presentations, the Council issued a proclamation recognizing this Saturday as the second annual Make a Difference Day in El Segundo, urging all citizens to gather on Imperial Avenue at Main Street at 10 a.m. to care for Trees to the Sea and native plants. The event is part of a nationwide day of community service to encourage people to get involved with their favorite non-profit organization—in El Segundo’s case, the local youth environmental organization Tree Musketeers. Saturday’s festivities will also include a competition on a stretch of median on Imperial to determine who can fill the most bags with weeds and trash.

The Council also considered a request from a SpaceX engineer who asked for special permission to use Recreation Park overnight on November 21 in order to cook a whole cow to help celebrate NASA’s recent award of the space taxi contract to his company (along with Boeing). SpaceX originally started in El Segundo before outgrowing its facility and moving to Hawthorne. Current park regulations forbid use after 10 p.m. City Manager Greg Carpenter reported that Recreation and Parks Director Meredith Petit did not deem it appropriate to waive the restriction—feeling it may set a precedent for future use, and that the cow could be cooked somewhere else. Councilmember Dave Atkinson begged to differ. “Do you have any idea how heavy a cow is?” he asked. The Council agreed to bring Petit into a future discussion and will agendize the matter at its next meeting. •
