The Point Tenants Announced; Council Gets More Earfuls on Richmond Restripe

By Brian Simon

During Tuesday night's El Segundo City Council meeting, Planning and Building Safety Director Sam Lee revealed the names of the first group of high-end retail and restaurant tenants coming to Federal Realty's The Point shopping development at the hard corner of Sepulveda Boulevard and Rosecrans Avenue. The project is currently under construction with a slated mid-2015 grand opening. The merchant roster includes the stores Athleta, Lucky Brand, and No Rest for Bridget as well as the eateries Superba Food + Bread, True Food Kitchen, Mendocino Farms, ShopHouse, and North Italia. Lee reported that The Point will open with about two-thirds of its tenants in place. A second batch of future tenants will be announced in the near future.

On a related note, a public hearing took place on Tuesday to address Federal Realty's (which also owns the adjacent Plaza El Segundo) request to authorize minor increases in square footage allotments for health clubs and fitness centers as well as general office uses. The current agreement for the Plaza El Segundo development site allows up to two health clubs and fitness centers provided that no one use is larger than 6,500 square feet and the two combined don't exceed 10,000 square feet of floor area. The revision will uptick those numbers to 8,500 and 11,502 square feet respectively in order to accommodate the new SoulCycle fitness facility at The Point. Lee noted that staff favors the change, feeling SoulCycle will foster more patronage of shops and restaurants at the complex. Meanwhile, general office use will grow from the current 28,735 square feet to 30,072, paving the way for Federal Realty to relocate its corporate offices there—a move staff believes will improve management at Plaza El Segundo and The Point. Lee also stated that the revisions in question will not create additional traffic and parking impacts.

Also on Tuesday, more citizens spoke out against the recent restriping of Richmond Street—this time focusing on the 100 block. Speakers included Old Town Music Hall owner Bill Field plus volunteers and patrons of that venue who detailed various traffic safety hazards (with photo evidence provided of semi trucks clogging the street) from the angled parking configuration. They also lamented the adverse impacts on seniors and disabled people due to the loss of a long-time loading zone in front of the theatre (which is now a traffic lane) and relocation of a previous handicapped parking space.

City Manager Greg Carpenter reported that options for loading zones and wider/different-angled spaces will come before the Council at the December 16 session. Before that, the City and El Segundo Chamber of Commerce will co-host a Downtown business meeting on Wednesday, December 10 at 3 p.m. to get feedback on the parking situation for the 100 and 200 blocks of Richmond as well as the lunchtime shuttle, filming, and building/planning permit requirements. The meeting will take place in the Council Chambers and will be open to the public. Carpenter added that crews will repaint the 300 block of Richmond this Friday and Saturday to restore that particular section back to parallel parking in the wake of strong public and resident outcry.

In their quarterly report, City Treasurer Crista Binder and Deputy Treasurer II Dino Marsocci updated the Council on the City's portfolio and indicated that investments continue to perform to stated benchmarks. Among the key points mentioned, the City is in compliance with its investment policy for securities within the portfolio. The July 1-September 30 period included purchase of negotiable CDs to add yield to the portfolio and support a strategy of laddering (investing in several securities with different maturities to protect from interest rate risk). The City's short-term portfolio ($46.5 million) showed a stated yield of 0.27% while the long-term portfolio ($21.8 million) garnered 0.93%. Investments in Treasury bonds continue to reap low returns, with those in the zero to two-year range at just 0.03% and only rising notably at the five-year range (1.78%). Binder said she does not expect interest rates to move upward until at the end of 2015 at the earliest and perhaps later. General economic indicators affecting investment show measured growth with unemployment now below 6% nationwide and inflation of 1.7% running below the Federal Reserve's

ESHS Band Takes Fifth at State Championship

By: Cece Stewart, Sophomore at ESHS

If you have ever been to an El Segundo High School football game, you are definitely aware of our outstanding award-winning band that puts on a spectacular show at half time to the delight of the fans! Our band continues to impress many with its outstanding music, and this year, on November 22, at Huntington Beach High School the band participated in the "Southern California Judging Association" (SCJA) State Band Championship. In the state competition, the band placed fifth place in their division- outstanding! As well, the band did achieve viewer's choice award, which they also won last year!

At the competition, the judging was complex, and the judges split the scores my senior year. It was so rewarding having our best performance of the season right at the end. It was definitely worth all the hours every one of us put in, especially to see ASB and the football players cheer us there at the end. I will never regret these past 4 years in the ESHS marching band." It was wonderful to see how much the band means to students!

Thanks to the people who work tirelessly to make the student experience such a positive one, including kudos to Assistant Band Director Edie Rice and Band Director Steve Fox, who led our team of champions. Edie Rice was really pleased with the results and tells me, "The band was fabulous!! We placed fifth our division at finals. It was our best performance of the year! The students really poured their hearts into the into six categories which contributed to the overall score: Visual Performance, Visual Effect, Music Performance, Music Effect, Percussion, and Auxiliary (color guard). The first four categories were 20% of the total score, and the last two were 10%. ESHS is known to usually have very high Auxiliary and Visuals scores.

A senior who plays a huge role in band as Drum Major, Julia Marie Sison, says about the competition, "State championships really lived up to the greatness expected of the season and show." And Band Director Steve Fox says, "I am extremely proud of the hard work and dedication the band students showed this season. From the beginning to the end of the season they never backed off of reaching for their best. In my opinion they became true performers achieving greatness with a not so easy program to perform."

Like most ESHS fans, I enjoy how much the band brings energy and happiness to our school games, but in doing this interview it

Water/Sewer Protest Ballots
Due to an error by the Department of Pubic Works we taxpayers will have to foot-the-bill to have a new correct water/sewer protest ballots reprinted, remailed, reissued.
Correct reissued water/sewer protest ballots are to be mailed on December 3, 2014 and these corrected reissued ballots are to be returned to city hall by the end of the January 20, 2015, 7pm, Public Hearing at city hall.
In order for these proposed water/sewer rate hikes over the next 4 years to not happen, 50% plus 1 vote is required-50% plus 1 out of 2,572 water and 50% plus 1 out of 2572 sewer protest ballots.
Question, what about the original incorrect ballots, throw them out they are of no value, nada, zip, goose egg, if mailed already they too are of no value, nada, zip, goose egg. We are to start the protest ballot process all over again but this time with correct protest ballots.
This is a team effort, so go team!

Little Mayberry?
Not knowing my political persuasion, on Sunday November 1st an unwanted letter was left on my front door. The most vile I've ever encountered. A personal attack on an individual and certain organizations. What was insinuated was truly obvious, I would say homophobic and bigoted. I would suggest that this individual clean up their political rhetoric and their personal property. I looked at a dirt pile for many years. So this is our little Mayberry.

One Man’s Opinion

O’Slinkycare

By Gerry Chong

Two good ol’ country boys, Caleb and Jesse, sat around jawin’ and reminiscing ‘bout the old days. “Jesse, ‘member before all the young ‘uns had those cell phones and fast thumbs, all we played with were simple things like Slinkys? Simple coil of metal that a kid could push off the top of a staircase and watch it tumble from step to step? Us kids would all laugh and clap as it ended in a heap down at the bottom.”

“Yup, kind of reminds me of O’Slinkycare. We started out in April, at the top stair, laughing and clapping over 8 million claimed signups. But then we Slinky’ed down to 7.7 million because 300,000 didn’t pay their premiums. Then we Slinky’ed down again to 7.2 million because a whole bunch more didn’t qualify for subsidies. Then we found out that 400,000-500,000 more didn’t have heath care at all, but just had dental care, so we landed with a thud at the bottom of the stairs at 6.7 million. Down, down, down went the slinky.

“Now remember, 5 million signed up for the government program only because Obama cancelled their private insurance programs, claiming they didn’t meet his standards, so maybe only 1.7 million voluntarily signed up. Maybe, young ‘uns otta frown instead of clap and laugh at O’Slinkycare’s first year.”

“Yeah, Jesse, but they’ve put a second Slinky on the stop stair, starting another series of tumbles. The original projection for year two was 13 million signups. But just as we thought, Slinky tumbled to 9.9 million, and then tumbled again to 9.1 million, and the year has just begun.

“How we’ll get from 6.7 million at the end of year one, to 9.1 million in year two is a total mystery to me, so we’ll see if the government bean counters can make Slinkys climb up stairs and defy gravity.”

“Ahhh, Caleb, the government’s work is never done. Now they’ve put a third Slinky at the top of the stairs, but they’ve put off until 2016 pushing it off the cliff. Remember O’Slinkycare called for major companies to either provide full time employees with health insurance or pay a fine.

“So the corporations responded rationally, reducing the hours of full time employees and hiring more part-timers to fill the gap. The O’Slinky people call these new hires “job growth.” When slinky-three gets pushed off, millions of previously employer-insured full-timers will become part-timers; requiring a choice between inferior Medicaid coverage or the most expensive alternative, individual coverage. Down, down, down goes slinky-three.

“Bungled O’Slinkycare had cost tens of billions of dollars to create; its father called Americans “stupid” for approving it; and New York’s Democratic Senator says his party shouldn’t have done it in 2010, since only 5% of people didn’t have health insurance, and 85% were happy with their private insurance. Now O’Slinkycare is this President’s proudest achievement.”

“Jesse, maybe us country folk ain’t as smart as city folk, but watching O’Slinkycare’s follies is more fun than playing computer games.” •

Another Man’s Opinion

Time To Face This Evil Head On

By Cristian Vasquez

A lot of noise and speculation has been made with regards to the recent circus that the NFL has created due to its horrendous handling of the Ray Rice domestic violence incident. During the Thanksgiving Weekend Rice’s suspension was lifted and the man is once again employable within the NFL. I’m not here to rally behind Rice to be signed by any team, nor to ask for his livelihood to be forever taken away from him. I seek something more meaningful and which would help everyone who has ever been caught in the cycles of domestic violence.

asked to remain anonymous. While such phones calls might have prevented future harm or simply delayed the cowardly acts of one individual seeking to be emboldened by their dominance over another, I now wish we hadn’t remained anonymous.

In order to control and effectively eradicate an evil such as domestic violence, we must stare it in its face. Only then will the millions of victims that live in fear will be able to understand and accept that there are those of us who will help without fear of retaliation. Is it a lot to ask a victim of violence to step forward and face their aggressor alone. So

While I hope to be accurate in my assumption that not a person reading this would be okay with domestic violence; what I am not sure about is how willing we as a society are still to do more than talk about the evils of domestic violence and actually act to prevent such behavior. The NFL’s immediate response was a suspension and a series of PSAs with current and former players and commentators denouncing such acts of aggression. However, what we do when the spotlight is on us and when nobody is looking greatly affects our reaction to any scenario.

I was blessed to be raised in a household where violence was not an issue. We were raised to help anyone in need, without expecting anything in return. Yet, even with those values, I do recall domestic violence situations with neighbors in which we called the cops and for anyone that has to urge to use the “she/he choses to stay with them,” your mentality is part of the problem. Victims of domestic violence need more than an anonymous phone call to the local police department. They need support; they need a network of people who will help make sure that they never fall victims to another person’s aggression.

It doesn’t matter what Ray Rice and his wife do from this moment forward, nor how many PSAs the NFL airs. The only way we can prevent, and maybe one day end, domestic violence is if we all stand up to this demon together. It is heartbreaking to see people abused by the ones they love and are supposed to trust. It hurts even more to realize that in some cases good people stayed quiet and did little or nothing to help. Let’s show a little more courages stop hiding from domestic violence. •

Eagle Winter 14-15 Sports Preview

By Gregg McMullin
Photos by Gregg McMullin

With the heartbreaking CIF Southern Section Western Division playoff loss in football, it marked the end of the fall sports season. Now with Thanksgiving behind us and Christmas but a few weeks away, it's time to look forward to the high school winter sports. The boys' and girls' basketball teams will have new coaches while both soccer teams look forward to improving on last season's outcome and return to the post season.

Boys' Basketball

The boys' basketball team has their third head coach in a year. Though Jason Ito hasn't been a head boys' varsity coach, his resume is certainly impressive. He was an assistant coach under Fairfax's legendary head coach Harvey Kitani. While assisting at Fairfax for four years, Coach Ito helped the team win the City Section, be nationally ranked, and helped mentor and get players to the colligate level.

When the head coach's girls' position opened up a year ago Ito applied and was accepted. His team went 15-15, advanced to the finals of their own tournament and advanced to the second round of the CIF 4AA playoffs before losing to Bishop Montgomery the eventual CIF champions.

Coach Ito is realistic about the El Segundo program and he hopes to return the team to the playoffs after the Eagles missed out the past two seasons. "We're in an extremely challenging league. Lawndale and Santa Monica have three Division I players and Beverly Hills has a new player that's 6'10" who could be an NBA lottery pick one day," he said.

To prepare for a challenging Ocean League the Eagles will play one of the toughest schedules perhaps in the South Bay. They are hosting their own tournament that's underway through Saturday. They opened with El Camino Real the 2014 City Champions on Monday, faced Fairfax in the second game and Westminster. Next Monday they are entered in the University Tournament and face the host to open up and then Windward the 2014 CIF Division 4A runners-up.

The Eagles will have their work cut out for them. With just two starters returning and the bulk of the team promoted from the JV team, this could be a challenging season but one Coach Ito's team will be ready and prepared for. The Eagles will not want for size since their front line will average 6'6".

Junior guard James Martin and 6'6" junior power forward Wyatt Boyce return and both will lend their experience to help mentor what Coach Ito says is a very young team. Both Martin and Boyce showed signs of brilliance as sophomores and will be team leaders. Others to watch for are 6'5" sophomore forward Sean Emery, 6'6" junior Steven Moyer, guards Daniel Jerman and Sam Ernest.

Girls' Basketball

The girls' basketball team won 15 games last season for the third straight year and advanced to the CIF 4AA playoffs for the fifth consecutive year. The Eagles have their third coach in three years and Randy Kiehm is hopeful to keep the playoff appearance streak intact.

Coach Kiehm's coaching background was mostly as the head boys' varsity coach at Bell high school for ten years. He says he stepped away a few seasons for family reasons but returned last season to assist Coach Ito on the girls' team. He applied and was given the job when Ito took the boys' position.

He says the Eagles were playing really well and started out 7-2 before the opposition figured out how to stop the Eagles. Coach Kiehm would like his team to improve on its record and get a better seeding for the playoffs. "In our division its really top heavy where the top four or five teams really separate from the rest of the pack. If we can climb a few spots then we won't have to face teams like Bishop Montgomery in the second round."

With the experience the Eagles have this

Bruins Lose Their Roar

By Adam Serrao

All they had to do was win. After a remarkable rivalry week victory over their hated enemies from the University of Southern California, the UCLA Bruins had themselves in prime positioning to make a run at the Pac-12 championship and a surprise entry into this year's four-team College Football Playoff. With one win against Stanford last Friday night at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Jim Mora would have given his team a golden opportunity to be back in the national spotlight. Maybe it was the short week, playing on a Friday night instead of a Saturday. Maybe the team was simply out of energy after such an intense, performance together like that, it's shocking." If that's how Hundley feels, imagine how the fans who showed up at the Rose Bowl with playoff aspirations on their minds felt. What was shocking was Hundley's third-worst passing game of his 39-game college career. What was shocking was the Bruins' fourth straight loss to Stanford in just the last three years.

Not all of the blame can be put on Hundley's shoulders or even on his teammates', at that. After blowing out their rivals from USC less than a week earlier, the Bruins lacked the motivation and charisma that they were beaming with against the Trojans in every capacity. Taking into account a football team emotional win over USC. Whatever it was, the Bruins simply didn't come out to play and with a 31-10 loss to the Cardinal, blew their season away.

Jim Mora and the formerly No. 8 UCLA Bruins have been left seeing red. Not the red of the USC Trojans, but an angry red; or a Cardinal red some might say, after losing to Stanford yet again for what has now become the seventh consecutive time. The Cardinal were, after all, playing for fun. With nothing at all to lose after going 6-5 on the season and 3-4 in the Pac-12 leading up to this game, starting quarterback Kevin Hogan led the Cardinals on to the Rose Bowl field with the sole intention of enjoying their afternoon while tossing around the pigskin for a bit. Well, Hogan went 16-for-19 on the night for 234 yards and two touchdowns en-route to a 21-point victory. Enjoyment achieved. "We knew this meant a lot to them," Hogan said. "We wanted to come out and get a win for our seniors, for our team. We haven't lost to them since we've been here and we wanted to keep that streak going." The streak is alive and well, Kevin, and while your seniors joy and delight at their win, UCLA's are left to wallow in their own sorrow of losing to Stanford yet again.

While Hogan had what seemed to be an effortless night, Brett Hundley seemed to struggle all night long. In what was likely the quarterback's last home game of his somewhat illustrious college career, he totaled only 146 passing yards from scrimmage before injuring his hand late in the game, forcing him to watch from the sidelines as the woeful night came to a close. "We had higher expectations than that," Hundley stated bluntly. "To put a on a whole, it is the head coach's job to instill that confidence, passion, and will to defeat your opponent. Jim Mora simply didn't fit that bill and failed at preparing his team to take the field. "We have to figure out a way to close the gap," Mora said. "I thought we had closed the gap, but we still have work to do." The word "we" should be replaced with the word "I" in those sentences. As head coach of the Bruins, it is Mora's job to make sure that his team comes out ready to play and gets the victory, something that clearly they weren't prepared to do and failed to accomplish. Maybe Mora's eyes are too transfixed on getting back into the NFL at this point to help his team win at home in a game that was quite possibly their biggest of the season. The Bruins now have three losses on the season. All three of those losses have come at home in the confines of the Rose Bowl.

The Brett Hundley era has now come to a close. Although there are more games left to be played in this college football season, the end has still found a way to creep itself forward. Now UCLA fans will most likely have to begin to get used to rooting for their quarterback as he plays on Sunday's instead of Saturday's and in a different uniform at that. For all we know, it may be the end of an era for Jim Mora too. The head coach has constantly stated that he does not wish to make a return to the NFL, but as usual, the rumors will swirl this offseason. The UCLA Bruins will take on a much different look next year. After failing to win the Pac-12 championship game once again this year and losing in their biggest game of the season, maybe a fresh start is what the Bruins and all of their fans might need. •

- 1 medium Kabocha squash skin on, seeded and cut into 4 wedges
- Salt
- Pepper
- 1/2 tablespoon Ras el Hanout spice
- Orange zest
- 1 cup whole milk
- 1/2 clove of grated garlic

year they certainly could get more wins than last season and even challenge Culver City for an Ocean League title. The Centaurs are the defending league and CIF champions but play in the 2AA. “That’s the beauty of our league, that we’ll play some great teams but won’t have to face them in the playoffs,” Kiehm said.

Three-year starters Sarah Chang and Paige Endo will lead the Eagles. Look for juniors Hannah Nonoguchi and Quinn Adams to be in the starting lineup along with Ani Finau. Other returnees who will see a lot of playing time are Morgan Gee, Sydney Hongo, Jordan Swanier, and volleyball standout Melissa Euyoque. Makaela Borderi, just a freshman, has improved so much and will push to get into the lineup.

The Eagles are off to a 3-1 start having defeated Fullerton, Aliso Niguel and Valencia and losing their opener to Esperanza in the Fullerton Tournament. Next week the Eagle are entered in the Bell Tournament and Garden Grove Tournament after Christmas. They won’t play their first home game until Tuesday, January 6.

Girls’ Soccer

The Eagles started out last season like they were on a mission. They began the season 6-0-1 and defeated Marlborough 2-0 in the finals of their own tournament. Ashley Barden and Sydney Trump scored goals to lead the Eagles. Then the Eagles were overwhelmed by injuries and illnesses.

Third year coach Tony Hobbs remembers the start and the adversity his team ultimately dealt with. “We were disseminated with injuries and girls being sick.” He says that five starters went down and the team really never recovered. The team went into a tailspin and finished the season off, going 4-8-1 and finished fourth in the Pioneer League and out of the playoffs.

Coach Hobbs has high expectations for this year’s roster full of experienced talent. Senior midfielder Julia Freeman is the captain and showed her leadership by hosting a dinner for the team before the start of the season. Seniors Katherine Burner, Isabella Gutierrez, Sydney Trump, Kelsey Wood are the strength of the team and Rhianna Rich is so versatile she could play any position depending on the needs of the team and the strength of the opposition. Sophomore midfielder Antoinette Saldana has a bright future and senior goalkeeper Brenda Cervantes has improved so much she could be one of the area’s top goalkeepers.

Coach Hobbs is getting his team ready for an Ocean League schedule he believes his team can win. Instead of hosting their tournament, one they won a year ago, they have entered the prestigious South Torrance Tournament, perhaps one of the best high school tournaments in California

“We will be much more physical, faster and at the end of the game the other team will know they’ve been in a match,” Coach Hobbs said.

Boys’ Soccer

The Eagles will look to improve on their 2013-14 season. They were in the thick of a playoff berth but needed to win two of their final five matches to get a nod. Sadly, they lost some tight ones and were left out. This year’s roster is deep, experienced and should be vastly improved. The Eagles return nearly their entire roster that was led by Grant Bemis, Noah Stone, Joey Garza, Jackson Bacil, Jake Grundman and Lukas Frerichs. The Eagles host Crossroads today at 3pm and Gardena on Tuesday at 3pm. •

For more photos see Eagles, page 16

Paige Endo, just a junior, is a three-year starter for the Eagles.

Sam Ernest and Sean Emery, with his arms stretched out, will be counted on for their defense for the Eagles.

Holiday Shoppers Have More Money To Spend Than They Think

(BPT) - Having a happy holiday shouldn't mean stretching your finances paper thin. But many Americans already know they'll likely go over their holiday budgets this year, which can mean financial stress in the new year. Fortunately, a few unexpected tricks and shopping strategies can help make your holiday dollars go further - and you might even have a few bucks leftover for yourself. The average person is expected to spend $804 this holiday season, according to a 2014 National Retail Federation survey. Furthermore, 66 percent of Americans who according to the NRF survey. The best way to shop smart is to start early - not only does this give you time to hunt for deals, it also spreads out holiday spending. Look for BOGO sales (buy one, get one), shop Sunday ads, and download apps that make it easy to compare prices. Track free giveaways for early bird customers when shopping in stores. When shopping online, always seek out free-shipping options which are plentiful during the holiday season. To maximize your holiday funds, look for additional sources of money. Now is a great shop for winter holiday gifts report they typically go over their budgets, according to a Coinstar survey, spending an average of $116 more than they planned. To battle the bulk spending, people are cutting indulgences like eating out (53 percent) and entertainment (52 percent). “The holidays are meant to be a time of joy and celebration, but one thing is certain, we can all use a little extra cash this time of year - for gift giving, holiday meal planning or donating to charity,” said Jim Gaherity, president of Coinstar. “Fortunately for many consumers, extra money is hiding all around - whether it be in the form of coins or gift cards they may never use.” Finding unexpected money is a great start to boosting holiday budgets, but to make those dollars go as far as possible, watch sales closely. In fact, discounts remain the No. 1 factor influencing holiday purchases, time to go through your gift cards, too. Sitting on gift cards that you will never use? If so, consider exchanging them for cash. This is also a great option when the holidays are done and you have received gift cards you don't plan to use. Holiday shopping can quickly get overwhelming, so to control spending before it gets out of hand, determine a budget and stick to it. Start by making a list of gift recipients to ensure you remember everyone and there aren't any surprise additions at the last minute. Another budget savvy trick is to always pay with cash; it makes spending money feel tangible compared to paying with credit, plus you won't have a big bill to pay off in a month when it comes in the mail. There are a lot of ways for shoppers to stay under budget this holiday season; it's just a matter of getting creative and looking for unexpected ways to boost your budget. •

Looking Up

Best View Yet of Jupiter's Moon Europa

Based on press releases from NASA and ESO, provided by Bob Eklund Scientists have produced a new version of what is perhaps NASA's best view of Jupiter's ice-covered moon, Europa. The mosaic of color images was obtained in the late 1990s by NASA's Galileo spacecraft. This is the first time that NASA is publishing a version of the scene produced using modern image processing techniques. The image features many long, curving and linear fractures in the moon's bright ice shell. Scientists are eager to learn if the reddish-brown fractures, and other markings spattered across the surface, contain clues about the geological history of Europa and the chemistry of the global ocean that is thought to exist beneath the ice. In addition to the newly processed image, a new video (<http://youtu.be/kz9VhCQbPAk>) found that the rotation axes of these quasars tend to be aligned with the vast structures in the cosmic web in which they reside. Quasars are galaxies with very active supermassive black holes at their centers. These black holes are surrounded by spinning discs of extremely hot material that is often spewed out in long jets along their axes of rotation. Quasars can shine more brightly than all the stars in the rest of their host galaxies put together. A team led by Damien Hutsemekers from the University of Liège in Belgium used the VLT to study 93 quasars that were known to form huge groupings spread over billions of light-years, seen at a time when the universe was about one-third of its current age. “The first odd thing we noticed was that some of the quasars' rotation axes were aligned with each other—despite the fact that these quasars

NASA's Galileo Spacecraft took this new image of Europa, an icy moon that orbits Jupiter. This is the largest, clearest image yet of Europa's surface. Image credit: NASA/JPL-Caltech/SETI Institute details why this likely ocean world is a high priority for future exploration. Hidden beneath Europa's icy surface is perhaps the most promising place in our solar system beyond Earth to look for present-day environments that are suitable for life. The Galileo mission found strong evidence that a subsurface ocean of salty water is in contact with a rocky seafloor. The cycling of material between the ocean and ice shell could potentially provide sources of chemical energy that could sustain simple life forms. “Spooky” Alignment of Distant Quasars New observations with ESO's Very Large Telescope (VLT) in Chile have revealed alignments over the largest structures ever discovered in the universe. A European research team has found that the rotation axes of the central supermassive black holes in a sample of quasars are parallel to each other over distances of billions of light-years. The team has also are separated by billions of light-years,” said Hutsemekers. The team then went further and looked to see if the rotation axes were linked, not just to each other, but also to the structure of the universe on large scales at that time. When astronomers look at the distribution of galaxies on scales of billions of light-years they find that they are not evenly distributed. They form a cosmic web of filaments and clumps around huge voids where galaxies are scarce. This intriguing and beautiful arrangement of material is known as large-scale structure. The new VLT results indicate that the rotation axes of the quasars tend to be parallel to the large-scale structures in which they find themselves. So, if the quasars are in a long filament then the spins of the central black holes will point along the filament. The researchers estimate that the probability that these alignments are simply the result of chance is less than 1%. •

During presentations, the Council proclaimed the 1200 block of Acacia Street as Candy Cane Lane during the December 13-23 period as part of the annual tradition started by Ken Bailey in 1949 that has since turned into a major area attraction as residents transform their front yards to display elaborate lighting, trains, giant characters, movie screens, nativity scenes and more. Opening night is set for Saturday, December 13 when the lights go on upon Santa's arrival at 7 p.m. Kevin Mortesen, one of the residents on the block, announced that Candy Cane Lane now has its own Facebook page and Twitter account (@ESCandyCaneLane).

The Council also proclaimed Sunday, December 14 as the 51st annual Holiday

Parade. Presented by the Chamber, this year's festivities feature the theme "Holiday Beach Bash" and will take place between 1-3 p.m. along Main Street from Imperial Avenue down to El Segundo Boulevard. The parade will showcase marching bands, musical groups, floats and antique cars with appearances from Council members and other elected officials as well as Santa. Other related events include tonight's Chamber Holiday Mixer at Citizens Business Bank (5:30 to 7 p.m.) preceded by the Holiday Tree Lighting Celebration & Craft Boutique starting at 3 p.m. during the Farmers Market.

Due to the proximity of the holidays, the Council agreed to cancel its regularly scheduled January 6 meeting. • is wonderful to learn how much the band can influence the lives of so many students, and how much they love it. Next up, the band will enter the national marching band circuit, Bands of America (BOA). This is a much more difficult competition and the scoring is different than that of what our band is used to. BOA has regional competitions in many states. Just recently they started hosting them in Long Beach. Here the band has competed with bands from many areas, mainly NorCal, SoCal, and Texas. We look forward to the band reaching its full potential within the competitions for the times to come. Thank you to all the supporters, and to the band, and congratulations on your success. •

Santa's Sleigh

The El Segundo Police Officers Association is again assisting Santa Claus with his pre-Christmas visits to El Segundo this holiday season!

Santa is scheduled to visit El Segundo from December 8th through the 11th and again from December 15th through the 17th. Santa will begin his tour on the west side of El Segundo and work his way east toward Sepulveda Boulevard, which he'll reach by the 16th or 17th, depending on any rain delays. Police cars with lights, sirens and music playing will signal Santa's arrival on your block. He is expected to begin each night at 5:30 PM and end at 8:30 PM sharp!

Unfortunately, our police department staffing has been reduced by 12 police officers over the past several years and this has greatly impacted the number of volunteer officers available to help Santa. Therefore, we've had to slightly modify the routes from previous years in an effort to maintain the tradition we cherish so much. As always, we appreciate your support and understanding and we encourage you to like us on Facebook to get daily updates as to where Santa Claus can be found each night (facebook.com/elsegundopoa). We can also be found on Twitter @ElSegundoPOA.
