City Council Offers Reward For Information Leading To Arrest In Murder Of Local Man

By Cristian Vasquez

In a unanimous vote, members of the Inglewood City Council and Mayor James T. Butts approved a council initiative to adopt a resolution offering a $50,000 reward to any person that provides information that will lead to the "identification, apprehension and conviction of the person(s) responsible for the murder of Robert Hollis."

Hollis, a 75-year old Inglewood resident, was found murdered in his home on June 18, his body decapitated.

"Before we move forward I just want to make something very, very clear: rewards are a widely recognized investigative tool," Mayor Butts said. "While they are not as widely successful as we might hope, I am asking the councilmen's consensus due to the viciousness of this crime and the fact that it targeted a senior with limited ability to defend himself, in his home."

The victim, fondly known as "Mr. Bojangles," was nearly blind and had recently finished his first book in braille. Hollis was well-known in the community and spent time singing in church choirs. Concerned for his well-being police were dispatched to Hollis' apartment where his remains were found. With few leads in the investigation and due to the nature of the crime, the Inglewood Police Department and the City of Inglewood are reaching out to the community for any information leading to the apprehension of those responsible.

"Ordinarily, the city council responds to requests from the Police Department for reward authorization at the point that Detectives deem all reasonable leads and avenues of investigation have been exhausted," states the report presented at the council meeting. "The Mayor has always supported that protocol. In this case, however, there are factors that the Mayor feels demand an immediate statement by the City of Inglewood that these types of acts cannot and will not be tolerated."

Due to the victim's age, physical limitation which restricted his ability to defend himself and because the nature of the crime, Mayor Butts and the council acted out of the established "protocol" in order to send a stern messages regarding the city's intention to solve the crime.

"There is no conflict with this staff report," Mayor Butts said. "We intend to support the family; we intend to obtain justice in this case and we intend to let people know that this will not be tolerated."

Mayor Butts' request for a $50,000 reward is the largest monetary compensation offered by the city in its effort to solve a crime.

"Offering of a monetary reward to encourage individuals to provide information leading to the arrest of criminals is a widely recognized and effective investigative strategy," states the report. "In the absence of strong physical evidence or leads as to the identity of suspects, this strategy becomes even more beneficial to police investigators."

Anyone with information regarding the crime is asked to call the Inglewood Police Department at (310) 412-5246. For anyone who wishes to remain anonymous but provide information, the number to call is (888) 412-7463.

Council Approves City's Participation in Ocean Friendly Demonstration Gardens Program

All members of the Inglewood City Council and the Mayor approved a Memorandum of Understanding for the city to take part in the West Basin Municipal Water District [WBMWD] Ocean Friendly Demonstration Gardens Program.

Funding for the water-conservation program was made available to WBMWD from the California Department of Water Resources. WBMWD created the Ocean Friendly Demonstration Gardens Program in order to establish such gardens throughout the water district's coverage area in order to promote water conservation, while educating the community with regards to drought-tolerant plants and how to reduce water runoff.

"The City of Inglewood has been identified as an ideal site for a demonstration garden," states the staff report. "The proposed location is approximately 2,000 feet, located on the City Hall South Mall adjacent to the parking structure. The proposed garden will include grasses and flowering perennials, meadow grass and groundcovers, fragrance and color shrubs, new western rebud trees, decorative boulders, interpretive signage, and decomposed granite pathway."

The MOU states that the City of Inglewood agrees to provide soil analysis, site measurements costs of all permits needed, site preparation before construction and signage. The city will also maintain the Ocean Friendly Demonstration Gardens in compliance with program guidelines for at least five years.

However, the agreement also requires that WBMWD provide garden design, construction management services, garden installation, which includes labor and materials as well as the training for maintenance personnel.

The Ocean Friendly Demonstration Gardens Program has been implemented in the Cities of Hawthorne, Carson, Hermosa Beach and Inglewood Fires Station located on Regent and Fir Streets. •

Film Review

Elisabeth Moss, Mark Duplass Star in the Surreal Indie The One I Love.

By Morgan Rojas for CINEMACY

"I don't wanna be perfect, I wanna be us." I'm just going to come out and say it- after I heard that line, I knew that The One I Love of the film, creating a palpable tension that completely pays off in the ending. The One I Love touches on the cynical side of relationships that we have probably experienced at one would be one of my favorite films of the year. Wrapped up in what might typically be conflicting genres, the film succeeds in playing to both the "romantic comedy" and "sci-fi" audiences. As someone who can't help but root for the underdogs, I found inspiration from its "Little Engine That Could" film-making attitude. A truly independent film, director Charlie McDowell takes the simplicity of the script and creates a rich and colorful world that is sure to resonate with audiences long after the film is over.

Relationship pitfalls and insecurities in movies are some of the most commonly seen story lines, and making them seem believable should be considered an art. In that sense, McDowell is an artist by pairing up indie funny man Mark Duplass with Mad Men's Elisabeth Moss. This unlikely screen duo plays off of each other's energy and are sure to leave audiences mesmerized by their standout performances. They act alongside each other as husband and wife (almost) the entirety of the film, but not once does their presence feel dull or feel worn out.

Duplass plays Ethan, who is struggling to maintain his relationship with his wife Sophie, played by Moss. They seek counseling from their couples' therapist, played by Ted Danson, who recommends the pair take a retreat to a beautiful vacation house, the ideal place to work out problems and fall in love again. Heading this advice, Ethan and Sophie find themselves in paradise and soon begin to reconnect. However, not everything is as it seems- upon realizing suspicious activity from the guest house, Ethan and Sophie are forced into self-reflection, for the first time acknowledging whether or not they have been living as who they want to be, or who they actually are.

This meta-esque situation fuels the rest point, but couldn't find the words to express it. The feeling of being in a relationship, yet still feeling alone, seems to permeate this film. Every person who watches The One I Love will take away something different, but most would agree it feels extremely personal. Not only is this a well-executed film, it may be a therapy session you didn't know you needed.

I would be extremely humbled if I was McDowell; The One I Love is his directorial debut and from the very beginning, it has been met with positive momentum. His ability to take a light script and turn it into a heavy, philosophical, and extremely deep film is a reflection of his talent. It's evident that most of the script was left open to the actor's input, as McDowell and screenwriter Justin Lader encouraged Duplass and Moss to improvise most scenes. This creates natural and organic dialogue that produces vulnerability within the characters.

Part of the film's brilliance evolved after it wrapped, due to the reaction from its Sundance premiere. As journalists were responding with positive reviews, a truly unique thing happened- no one wanted to spoil the ending. Even when I attended the screening last year, I was under a strict embargo to not discuss the film or its plot. At first, I didn't understand why, or more importantly, how I was going to write a review about a film I couldn't freely discuss. However, after the screening, it became clear to me that the only way to get the best experience is going into it completely unaware. So for the sake of the filmmakers, the movie, and your own enjoyment, I can only strongly recommend you see and experience it for yourself.

For our interview with stars Mark Duplass, Elisabeth Moss, and director Charlie McDowell, check out www.cinemacy.com. The One I Love is now available to stream on Netflix. •

Roadmap to the Stars

A laser-powered wafer-thin spacecraft capable of reaching Alpha Centauri in 20 years may sound like the stuff of science fiction, but it's not. And while such a launch isn't imminent, the possibility of one in the future does exist, according to UC Santa Barbara physics professor Philip Lubin.

To further explore that possibility, Lubin and his team in UCSB's Experimental Cosmology Group will study photo-driven propulsion—the use of lasers as a means to power a spacecraft. The group has been awarded one of 15 proof-of-concept grants from NASA Innovative Advanced Concepts. The NASA program aims to turn what sounds like science fiction into science fact through the development of pioneering technologies.

"One of humanity's grand challenges is to explore other solar systems by sending probes—and eventually life," said Lubin. "We propose a system that will allow us to take the first step toward interstellar exploration using directed-energy propulsion combined with miniature probes. Along with recent work on wafer-scale photonics, we can now envision combining these technologies to enable a realistic approach to sending probes far outside our solar system."

The UCSB group's ultimate goal is to send small probes to supplement the current long-range remote sensing done by orbital and ground-based telescopes. The funding will enable Lubin's team to create a more complete roadmap for building a fully functional wafer-scale spacecraft complete with power, laser communications, and controllable photon thrusters. The project, Directed Energy Propulsion for Interstellar exploration (DEEP-IN), will also chart laser-driver elements that require technology development.

The key to a functioning system lies in the ability to build both the photon driver and the ultra-low-mass probes. While capable of propelling any spacecraft mass, lower-mass probes go the fastest and are most suitable for interstellar missions.

The DEEP-IN design keeps the main propulsion driver back in Earth's orbit (or nearby) yet still capable of propelling highly integrated spacecraft to speeds vastly higher than anything scientists can currently achieve. The laser photon driver would use photon pressure in the form of streamed energy to power the spacecraft as it travels away from Earth. With no intrinsic speed limit, this technology allows for the relativistic speeds necessary for interstellar flight.

"While not suitable for every spacecraft design, this approach opens up radically new possibilities," Lubin said. "The project is a step toward the first interstellar mission, but more importantly we are studying and designing the relevant technological base. This will give us the ability to build a single photon driver capable of sending out literally millions of low-mass probes.

"We've had to radically rethink our strategy in order not to give up our dreams of reaching the stars," Lubin added. "DEEP-IN posits a technological path forward that, while not simple, is within our technological reach to begin." •

News for the ‘City of Good Neighbors’

From City Clerk Norb Huber

THE 4TH

This year it is going to be the 3rd and the 4th since the 4th is on a Saturday. You know what I’m talking about, that holiday at the start of summer that everyone loves, except for the dog owners who have to keep their dogs tied up, or in the house because of the loud explosions occurring on a nightly basis. This holiday is loud. This holiday is filled with food, fun and family gathers. This holiday is red, white and blue. This holiday has a hot dog eating contest. Americans like to have fun. We like to celebrate holidays. Our nation’s birthday is one big party. Instead of just birthday cake with candles, we light big shooting candles that light up the sky. So, why not have some hot dogs and hamburgers? Have some chips and dip. Have some watermelon and ice cream. And of course have several “cold ones” to toast our nation as it turns 239 this 4th of July.

MOVIES IN THE PARK

The Holly Park Homeowners Association once again invites you to their annual “Movies in the Park” event to be held on Saturday, July 11 at Holly Park, which is located at 120th Street and Van Ness Blvd. on the east side of town. Go for the food and games prior to the feature movie that is shown on a big screen out on the baseball field. Bring a chair and/or blanket. Every year there is a large crowd of young and old folk like me.

HALL OF FAME BANQUET

The second annual Hawthorne Historical Hall of Fame Banquet will be held on Friday, July 17 starting with a social hour at 6 p.m. This year the banquet will be over at the Memorial Center’s Venus Room. Tickets are $30 per person and can be obtained by emailing hawthornehistorical@gmail.com or in person at the Hawthorne Museum. The banquet was a big hit last year and we look forward to the same being true this year. The 2015 Hall of Fame inductees include: The Hawthorne Beach Boys, Reese Walton, Jim Thorpe, Carl Boenish, and Seers Lumber. The Historical Society is offering a historical tour of Hawthorne prior to the banquet. At 3 p.m. on the 17th, we will depart on a ninety minute ride around Hawthorne to visit some of the sites that have made Hawthorne famous.

GOOD NEIGHBORS DAY

It’s hard to believe that this will be our 5th Annual Good Neighbors Day. It will be held on Saturday, July 18th in front of City Hall on 126th Street. The activities include a car show, three great bands performing on stage, vendors from a variety of organizations, and some food and games. Bring your lawn chair and sunscreen. Plan to make it a day with your Hawthorne good neighbors.

WATER

The City of Hawthorne and our local water companies have announced more strict guidelines for outside watering. These guidelines will be sent to you in your water bill this coming month. Even with an El Nino winter storm pattern predicted, the drought is here and is severe. We must conserve our precious resource.

CLARIFICATION

If you read last week’s Hawthorne Happenings, you probably noticed it was a little corny. That is because my nephew and brother-in-law wrote the column while sitting around the campfire having some cold ones. I apologize if any of you were offended by their content as they attempted to aspire to reach the level of my journalistic expertise. •

Six Ways To Make Your Business Better This Summer

(BPT) - Summer’s here so make sure to get out, enjoy the great weather and take a well-deserved break. And if you’re running a small business, this summer offers a great opportunity to take a deep breath before taking action to make your business even better as you head into the second half of the year. Here are some suggestions from small business expert and author Gene Marks on how to get started:

1. Do a productivity review. Now’s the time to find those expensive inefficiencies and make some changes. Do you really need to be doing your copies in-house? Are you spending too much time shipping products? Have you devoted hours to fixing tech problems? To save time and money, look for solutions outside your company, such as shipping at your local Staples store to help your staff streamline day-to-day activities and troubleshoot issues in advance.

2. Evaluate your employees. Mid-year is a great time to sit down with your employees, one-by-one, to discuss how things are going. Update their personnel files, medical records and personal information. This is also a great time to decide on a few goals for the remainder of the year.

3. Clean up your office. Did you miss your spring-cleaning opportunity? No worries, you still have time. Get rid of those old files. Replace your ancient office chairs. Wipe down those windows, clean out those closets, dispose of unused supplies and vacuum, mop and sweep. You and your employees will enjoy coming to work when the office is cleaner and brighter.

4. Revisit safety. When was the last time your fire extinguishers were replaced? Are your first-aid kits up to standards? Do you even have a first-aid kit? Do your employees know what to do in case of an emergency? Make a checklist of all the things you’ll need to do to make your company as safe as it can be.

5. Go green. You want to be more environmentally conscious, but you’ve always been too busy to do so. Now’s your chance, because summer is a perfect time to go green. Recycle your old technology. Start an ink and toner recycling program. Purchase environmentally friendly cleaning products and make a list of green products you’ll be buying going forward. Finally, make sure to tell the world what you’re doing. It’ll encourage others and reflect positively on your business.

6. Upgrade your tech. Hopefully as the economy has grown your business will have grown, too, and now’s the time for upgrades to your company technology needs. Work with Staples EasyTech associates to determine where investing in better technology will improve your profitability and productivity going forward.

There you have it. Summer’s not only a great, warm, chilled-out time to relax and spend time with the family, it’s also a great time to make some changes in your business so you can enjoy the benefits all year long. •

SOUTH BAY WORKFORCE INVESTMENT BOARD ASSISTS JOB SEEKERS, EMPLOYERS AND YOUTH THROUGH GOVERNMENT-FUNDED PROGRAMS

For more than 30 years, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) has administered employment and training programs for LA County’s South Bay Area.

Within the 11 cities serviced (Carson, El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Hermosa Beach, Inglewood, Lawndale, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, Lomita and Torrance), the SBWIB accomplishes its goals through partnerships with local committees handling business and economic development, One-Stop locations, performance and evaluation, as well as a Youth Development Council.

Through workforce investment funds, the SBWIB offers dislocated workers with free training programs and job-searching resources. Job-searching equipment, as well as seminars, workshops and job placement assistance are available at the four One-Stop Business & Career Centers (Gardena, Inglewood, Carson and Torrance – effective 7/14/15).

The SBWIB assists businesses through an innovative Rapid Response Program geared towards layoff aversion. Parker Hannifin Corporation’s Carson facility is a recent success story. An initial meeting revealed that nearly 60 employees lacked sufficient English skills and were facing potential layoff. A layoff aversion plan was formulated that resulted in the SBWIB approaching a local adult school partner to assess the employees’

English skill levels and set up on-site training. Since September, the affected employees have been attending Business English classes three days a week with several of those individuals now being considered for promotions.

Recruitment assistance, pre-screening of applicants, On-The-Job training and Transitional Subsidized Employment (TSE) are other programs available to local companies and small businesses.

The SBWIB also prepares youth for entry into the workforce by emphasizing education and services that promote relevant workplace skills and experiences leading to industry-recognized credentials and career pathway employment, including apprenticeships. Special emphasis is aimed at the reengagement of disconnected youth through intervention and prevention services.

The SBWIB is one of the highest performing Workforce Investment Boards (WIB) in the state and is often recognized by the California Workforce Investment Board (CWIB) for its achievements.

Continuous collaborations with business, economic development, education, government, labor and community organizations, helps the SBWIB provide a dynamic, efficient and effective workforce development system, ensuring a skilled workforce and vibrant economy in the South Bay Area.

Tri Park Pulls Away from Lennox for Senior Crown

By Joe Snyder
Photos by Joe Snyder

The Tri Park Senior Little League All-Star Baseball team came out slugging with six home runs en route to a 12-3 win over Lennox for the District 37 championship on June 23 at Jim Thorpe Park in Hawthorne. Tri Park led only 5-3 entering the bottom of the sixth inning before letting loose for seven runs that included three homers, one of those a grand slam by Dan Villa that virtually sealed the game and title. Tri Park also had solo shots by Saul Martinez and Vincent Rojas in that inning.

Taking advantage of the smaller field, with the center field at only about 250 feet, Tri Park tagged Lennox starting pitcher Jesus Sanchez, along with relievers Daniel Sanchez and Brian Rodriguez. Tri Park began with Jesus Sanchez for two solo homers from Anthony Payan and Martinez in the bottom of the first for a quick 2-0 lead.

Lennox got on the scoreboard in the top of the second on Salvador Mercado's home run, but Tri Park heated up more with Payan's second homer in the second, then adding two more runs in the third on a RBI (run batted in) double by Chris Villavenco and a run-scoring single by Rojas for a 5-1 advantage.

Lennox, which had both of its teams (including the champion Athletics and Titans) in the Carl Magee, Jr. District 37 Tournament of Champions finals on June 13 at Thorpe Park, rallied back for two runs to cut Tri Park's lead to two runs in the top of the fifth. After two out, Dan Sanchez, who completed his freshman season at Hawthorne High this past season, singled, then scored on a double by Jesus Sanchez. Jesus Sanchez scored on Victor Valdez's base hit. Tri Park, though, put an exclamation mark on Lennox in the bottom of the sixth.

"It was a good game," Tri Park manager Will Castellano said. "Lennox was a tough team. The boys hit the ball well."

Along with Payan, who plays his high school baseball at St. John Bosco in Bellflower, Martinez had two home runs. He went three-for-three with two RBIs and two runs scored. Villavenco was two-for-three with two doubles, one RBI and two runs. He also walked once. Rojas went two-for-four with two RBIs and one run. Manny Bornardo went two-for-three for Lennox.

Tri Park knows that hitting home runs will be a lot harder as it plays in the Section 4 Tournament at the spacious Marine Park in Manhattan Beach, with a professional type field that goes 395 feet to center field that began last Sunday against District 25 champion Santa Monica.

HOLLY PARK MAJORS ADVANCE

The Holly Park Major Little League All-Star Baseball team from Hawthorne advanced to the winner's bracket semifinal where it will face host Westchester next Sunday at 3 p.m. at Carl Nielsen Youth Sports Park. Holly Park remained unbeaten by routing crosstown rival Wiseburn 14-3 on June 24 at Nielsen Park.

Westchester continued to pour it on its opponents by rolling over Lennox 16-5 a day earlier. In all mercy rule games, Westchester needed a total of just 12 innings to outscore its three opponents (Del Aire Aviation, Del Rey and Lennox) by a total score of 70-6. Holly Park, meanwhile, just about matched up with Westchester outscoring its two opponents (Lawndale and Wiseburn) by a combined score of 36-3 in nine innings.

LENNOX WINS 50/70; TOPS HOLLY PARK MINORS

The Lennox 50/70 (ages 11-13) Little League All-Star Baseball team captured the District 37 Tournament by routing Tri Park 15-0 on June 22 at Jim Thorpe Park. Lennox moved on to the Section 4 Tournament that began last Saturday.

The Lennox Minor (ages 9-10) Little League All-Star Baseball team moved on to the winner's bracket semifinals of the District 37 Tournament by edging Holly Park 4-3 last Friday at Nielsen Park. Lennox will face Westchester on Sunday at noon at Nielsen Park. Holly Park took on Wiseburn in the elimination bracket last Sunday.

RAPTORS DRAFT WRIGHT

Former Leuzinger High boys' basketball and recent University of Utah star Delon Wright was taken in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft by the Toronto Raptors last Thursday in Brooklyn, N.Y. He was the 20th pick overall.

This past season, Wright keyed the Utes to a 26-9 overall record and the Sweet 16 of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I playoffs where it fell to eventual champion Duke. The Bluedevils topped University of Wisconsin for the crown.

Wright won the PAC 12 Conference Bob Cousy Award as the conference's Point Guard of the Year. He was only the second ever Utah player to have more than 1,000 points, 350 rebounds, 350 assists, 150 steals and 70 blocked shots as that was in only two years.

In the 2009-10 season, Wright was Bay League and CIF-Southern Section Division IA Player of the Year in keying the Olympians to their first ever Southern Section crown with a win over Santa Monica in the final at the Honda Center in Anaheim. Leuzinger advanced to the Southern California Regional Division I quarterfinals where it lost on a buzzer-beater to Woodland Hills Taft, the Los Angeles City Division I runner-up to Westchester. Wright also starred for City College of San Francisco, which won the Coast Conference Northern Division title in 2013, before moving on to Utah. •

The Hottest 'New' Health Remedy That's Been Around Forever

(BPT) - Do you love the snap that chili peppers give to your food? Are you a fan of the heat they impart to a variety of dishes? Even if you're not, you may want to take another look at the humble chili pepper. From migraine relief to weight control, researchers are verifying what some cultures have known for centuries: the chili pepper and its key constituents, like capsaicin, deliver a host of health benefits.

Here are just some of the ways chili peppers are helping to fight some of the country's most common health conditions:

Migraine Relief

The World Health Organization recognizes migraines as one of the most prevalent and debilitating conditions in the world. More than 36 million Americans live with migraines, and up to a third or more (approximately 12 million) of them are not receiving optimal treatment. Medications may cause side-effects, do not always work or work only partially for some patients, react badly with other medications, can be expensive or not covered by insurance. For any or all of these reasons, there remains a significant unmet need in the world of migraine relief - famine for some amid plenty.

Pharmaceutical companies are working on medicines that rely on capsaicin pathways to prevent migraines, Bloomberg News reports. A non-prescription, homeopathic remedy, Ausanil, is already commercially available. Formulated using the raw extract of the chili pepper, capsicum annuum, the remedy is used to rapidly relieve migraines and severe headaches such as cluster headaches and tension headaches. Because it acts locally in the nose, Ausanil doesn't interact with other medications and does not cause stomach or liver issues that are associated with commonly used OTC pain relievers.

"When you see a patient time and time again and nothing seems to give them relief, or they're limited on treatments due to drug-drug interactions or notable side effects, it can be a very frustrating and heartbreaking process," says Dr. Maria Alexianu, of the Atlantic

Neuroscience Institute at Overlook Medical Center in Summit, New Jersey. "It's vital to offer new options to patients who are still searching for pain relief and are continuously incapacitated in their daily life."

Weight Control

Obesity is also a worldwide issue, making effective weight-control remedies a priority for health advocates around the world. Science Daily reports that University of Wyoming researchers are investigating capsaicin as a weight-control supplement.

Researchers believe the chili pepper constituent may help boost metabolism by inhibiting cells that store fat and encouraging the type of cells that turn fat into energy.

Cancer Treatment

Multiple studies aim at exploring the effect of capsaicin on cancer cells. One notable investigation from Marshall University found evidence that the compound inhibited the growth of lung cancer tumors through an animal-based study, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research. In another study, researchers at Nottingham University in the United Kingdom also found that capsaicin killed cancer cells without harming healthy cells in cultures of human lung and pancreatic cancer cells.

Fighting Diabetes

About 30 million Americans live with diabetes, and the disease is the seventh-leading cause of death in the U.S., according to the American Diabetes Association. While multiple medicines are available to treat diabetes, many people still find it difficult to control the disease. A study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition found that eating chili peppers as part of a regular, healthy diet, could help control diabetes.

Natural Nutrition

Chili peppers also deliver health benefits beyond medicinal ones. The peppers are highly nutritious, delivering a punch of nutrients that are also associated with better health, including vitamins A, C and B-6, iron, copper and potassium.

If you're a fan of hot foods, the health benefits of chili peppers are icing on the cake when you dine on your favorite spicy fare. If you're not a fan of spicy foods, however, don't give up on the health benefits. Many of the natural remedies under development lack the heat associated with chili peppers. And even those that do pack some heat appear to be worth the minor discomfort; the vast majority of migraine sufferers who use Ausanil, for example, report the fast relief outweighs the temporary sting associated with the treatment. •

Inquiries and Clarifications. The Bidder is advised that all inquiries and clarifications about the Bid Documents, Drawings, Specifications, etc., shall be submitted to the District in writing at least seven (7) days before the bid opening date.
