Northrop Grumman Foundation Supports Cousteau’s EarthEcho Expedition

This year, thanks to support from the Northrop Grumman Foundation, EarthEcho will, for the first time, include U.S. based middle school teachers in an exploration of water scarcity in Southern California alongside Philippe Cousteau, Jr. and the EarthEcho Expeditions team. Since 2013, EarthEcho Expeditions have leveraged the rich Cousteau legacy of exploration and discovery to bring science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education alive for today’s 21st Century learners and their educators. ## Useful Outdoor Ants Can Become a Nuisance

By Rob McCarthy

Occupants of home and businesses should be on the lookout for an uninvited visitor that walks in announced, invades the kitchen and won’t get out of the bathroom. This public nuisance is well known to South Bay residents, but a call to 911 isn’t going to help. It’ll take a pest exterminator or a visit to the hardware store.

The South Bay is experiencing a summer ant invasion, with these beneficial insects heading inside dwellings, warehouses and anywhere that affords them food, water and cover from the beating sun. The July-through-September period is their busiest time of the year, pest control companies say. Ants live outdoors in colonies they build underground in garden planters or lawns, and all except biting ants are harmless to humans.

Ants are the most common insect found in homes, and there are 210 species of them in Southern California. The summer heat and dry soil conditions signal it’s time for the ants to find water and food, according to the University of California’s pest management experts. As long as they stay outside, these insects quietly go about their business keeping termites and flea populations under control, the UC bug experts tell us.

These beneficial insects become a nuisance when they head indoors looking for water and sugary food in the kitchen. Ants enter through open windows, doors or cracks in walls with exposure to the outdoors, according to pest professionals. An ant sighting, especially in the kitchen or bathroom, is the time to take preventative action. The UC bug experts say that indoor bug sprays aren’t necessary, while over-the-counter gels repel invading ants.

For immediate results, the UC pest management services recommends occupants of homes or residents first determine what is attracting the ants and remove the food source. Vacuum ant trails, wipe them with soapy water-or spray window sills, countertops, baseboards and floors with window cleaner. Put out bait stations or apply gel bait where the ants are entering the building, the experts advise. Baits don’t work immediately, so ant trails may be visible for a few days.

Ants will keep looking for alternative routes, the UC team warns. So, locate holes in exterior or interior walls where ants are entering, and caulk the openings or fill them with petroleum jelly to block access. Weather, especially hot and dry conditions in summer, trigger ant invasions and it will eventually stop on its own, the expert tell us. A professional charges between $100 and $250 for a one-time treatment of a structure, and they offer service contracts for about $50 per month that include regular treatment of ant nests and indoor inspections.

The Argentine ant is the most populous species in the area and is non-native to the state. It thrives in California and is believed to have killed off and replaced native ants “many of which are 10 times larger,” according to the website, Do Your Own Pest Control. Entomophobes (people with a fear of bugs) should be glad to learn that Argentine ants don’t stick around for long. They don’t nest in the walls of a structure, preferring to live outdoors. “They enter to forage and then exit, returning to the nest,” the website says about their lifestyle choice.

This Argentinian species prefers sweet foods, so bagging up fruit and cookies in the kitchen is recommended. They like to nest in moist soil near buildings and live near sidewalks and planters, according to information found at DoYourOwnPestControl.com. Ants typically enter a building looking for food and water in dry or wet weather, and the most effective pest control method is bait that the worker ants carry back to the nest.

There are two species of Southern California ants that attack wood and cause termite-like damage to structures. Carpenter ants and velvety tree ants invade residential and commercial buildings, and they hollow out wooden beams and plywood, according to the do-it-yourself pest site. Anybody creeped out by the thought of insects--you’re not alone. Bug phobia and a repulsive reaction to the sight of an insect ranks high on American’s list of fears, which is what keeps the pest control companies busy and bug treatments on hardware store shelves. •

Understanding The Link Between Salt And Health

(BPT) - The news lately is full of articles about salt and health. Everyone seems to be getting either too much salt or not enough. So which is it? Part of the problem is with how we study the connection. Fortunately, researchers on both sides of the issue are starting to agree on how best to proceed and may soon have a better answer for all of us. That answer may be that for most of us, there is no need to eat less salt than we do now. The European Heart Journal recently published a report by researchers from the World Heart Federation, the European Society of Hypertension and the European Public Health Association that clarified that eating more than 5 grams of sodium per day increases the risk of heart disease, but there was little evidence that eating less than 2 grams per day had any health benefits. They recommended a safe range of between 3 and 5 grams of daily sodium. The good news is that the average American eats about 3.4 grams of sodium per day, an amount that has stayed the same for the last 50 years. Of course more research is needed, but also better research. In the past, many studies only looked at the effect of salt on blood pressure. Today more doctors and scientists are looking at the effect salt has on your total health. The researchers agreed that your overall diet is more important to your health than a single nutrient. It's true that a low-salt diet can lower your blood pressure slightly, but it can also place stress on other parts of your body, and that can increase the risk of bad outcomes like diabetes. Another way research into salt and health is being improved is in the way the results are collected. In the past, people whose salt levels were being studied provided only one urine sample, but your salt levels vary throughout the day and from day to day. A much more accurate way to study salt in people is to collect multiple urine samples over many days, not an easy task, but one that the researchers recognized produces much more accurate results. Fortunately, there is a captive group of people that scientists are studying to measure their salt intake exactly: Russian cosmonauts living in a closed environment as part of the "Mars" project. This research is already yielding some surprising results, such as more salt makes you less thirsty. Everyone agrees that we need salt to live and that it is an essential nutrient, but getting the right amount is important. The fact is that a small percentage of people are salt sensitive and are affected by salt more than others. These individuals may benefit from less salt, but the rest of us may be put at risk from that same low-salt diet. Every person has different health needs and should follow the advice of their doctor. Placing the entire country on a low-salt diet, as some have suggested, may do more harm than good. •

Hawthorne Happenings

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

HERE WE GO!

If you have children then you know that school has started for your young ones. Labor Day used to be the end of summer vacation for families planning one last getaway before the daily school routines began. I started teaching this week. Every September for the past 40 years I have headed back to the classroom. The first day of classes is always exciting. Most kids are actually ready to come back. They get bored staying at home. They get to see their old friends. School is a great equalizer. Every child must attend. Regardless of your background or how much money your parents make, all must be enrolled in some type of schooling. I see the diversity. I see each student as a unique individual. A public school teacher really is carrying out what America stands for. Our country wants our people to be educated. We want to give people opportunities. We want to move forward with advances in technology and commerce. I really believe that every student has the chance to make something out of his or her life. There may be hurdles but there aren't any unsurmountable roadblocks to success. NOW, the biggest challenge I have is to motivate and convince my students that they can do it and that it is worth the effort to work hard to reach their goals. It's not easy work to get students to see their future. After a day of trying to motivate, teach, direct, communicate, and love the kids who don't really give a darn, I may need a cold one.

REMOVE ALL THE BAD FROM HISTORY AND WE LOSE

Statues are being removed, names of schools are being changed, and even mascot names are being questioned as to whether they have a negative impact on this generation of young people. There is a movement afoot to get rid of every bad that has been done in our nation's history. I thought that the study of our mistakes was a good thing. I thought we learned from them to never allow them to be committed again. If we erase all of the bad guys and all of their bad deeds from our history books, how can the next generation learn not to be bad? I like this quote from George Orwell: "The most effective way to destroy people is to deny and obliterate their own understanding of their history." Another one of George's quotes is: "Who controls the past controls the future; who controls the present controls the past" What the author is saying is that history is malleable. It is possible to shape it via education, indoctrination, and propaganda. A people's history is their guide, their reference point. Take it away, and they are fumbling in the dark, susceptible to other agendas and ideologies. That, according to the author, is a sure way to control (or destroy) them. Again, I look to God's Word for my source of strength. The Bible is full of history. God's relationship with his people teaches us to depend on Him alone. There were a lot bad people written about in the Bible. Sin is in the world. We all are sinful. It's actually good to remember our sins, our bad deeds, and turn to God for forgiveness. Our memory, our history is good for us. Our past is our past. We can't go back and rewrite it. We move on. Each day God gives us an opportunity to write some more good memories.

Cowboy

Cowboy is wacky young boy with very short, shiny, soft, black fur who along with his sister Sammy was rescued at three weeks old from the shelter. Shelters routinely euthanize unweaned kittens if a rescue group is unable to take them. Cowboy was a healthy kitten and thrived on his bottle. Even though he was weaned from his bottle at six weeks old, he still likes to nurse on his foster mom's hand. This super-playful kitten is full of energy and loves to race around playing chase with the other cats or his sister, or just bat his toys around. He will carry his toys around in his mouth and will even reach out with a paw to push any other cat away from his toys if they try to take them. Cowboy needs to be adopted with his sister Sammy. They are very bonded and became the very best of friends when the other kittens from the litter went to a different foster home. Many bottle babies just want to be together and are the most amazing pets.

Sammy is a very pretty little Siamese mix kitten with white mittens on all four feet and a little white spot next to her nose. She and her brother Cowboy are bottle babies and were saved from certain death at three weeks old from the shelter. Sammy is a sweet girl who loves to cuddle and nurse on her foster mom's hand when she's not busy racing through the house with her brother. Sammy and Cowboy are two peas in a pod--super-loving and very bonded to each other, so they will need to stay together. Sammy likes to climb the cat tree and carry her toys around in her mouth. She will even give Cowboy a smack if he tries to get her toy. Sammy has a very energetic personality

Sammy

Chester is a very joyful kitten and is as curious as they come. He loves to play with any kitty toy in sight. He has a very slight purr that is constant whether he is waking up, eating or playing. Chester is a rambunctious eater. The only time you'll hear him is around meal time. He also loves to groom himself as he is sunbathing. Chester can easily keep himself entertained as long as there are plenty toys around. His favorite toy is the Go Cat mouse wand. Hang it from a cat tree tower and he's constantly after it. His second favorite toy is the Bergan Turbo Cat Scratcher. It makes him spin right-round. Chester will be a great addition to your home, with or without additional critters.

Simba

Phoenix

Simba is a very adorable and playful little guy. At first his foster parent was going to name him Hallmark because he looks like he jumped right from a greeting card. He has the softest fur of any kitten ever. Simba purrs and makes biscuits continually. It's pretty hard to put him down. His first owner moved away, so he came into foster care and now he has a BFF named Jerry. Simba and Jerry are inseparable partners in crime. These are two special boys who adore each other. They play so well with each other, it would be wonderful for them to

Beamish

Blondie

Blondie is a very sweet kitten that loves affection and attention. He eagerly greets the new people he meets, hoping to charm them into making their laps available so he can get a belly rub. He loves to cuddle and is able to work his way into the hearts of everyone he meets with his loving personality. Blondie also has a playful side and will run from one corner of a room to the other, chasing a laser pointer and toys dangling from a cat wand. After a day of cuddling and playing, he likes to climb to the top tier of his cat tree and take a long nap. Whoever gives Blondie a forever home will be very lucky to have him join the family because he is one cool kitty! Because he is such a social kitten, he needs to be adopted together with another kitten or into a home with an existing cat.

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org.

Your tax-deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Boulevard, #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Boulevard, just south of Manchester Avenue, and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Avenue, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location. •

Mayweather/McGregor Melee Motivated by Money

By Adam Serrao

At the end of the day, what everyone in the world knew would happen, happened. The boxing match--or circus, if you prefer--between arguably the best boxer of all time and a fighter who had never boxed professionally for a day in his life ended in favor of the former rather than the latter. Floyd "Money" Mayweather, Jr. strategically allowed mixed martial arts star Conor McGregor to come at him early in the fight that took place last Saturday night at the T-Mobile Arena in Las Vegas. By the eighth round, McGregor was gassed. It didn't take long after that for the fight to end by TKO in favor of Mayweather, giving the two fighters what they had sought after all along--the biggest payday in the history of the sport of boxing.

Mayweather knew what he was doing throughout the entirety of the boxing match. That means purposefully letting McGregor waste his punches on him in order to make the fight more compelling and entertaining to the audience--which has been rare in Mayweather fights throughout the years. "I think we gave the fans what they wanted to see," Mayweather said in the ring after his victory. "I owed them for the Pacquiao fight. I had to come straight ahead and give the fans a show. That's what I gave them."

Mayweather was never in any jeopardy of losing the fight. He knew that he wouldn't be ever since the rivalry with McGregor was manufactured. Though passionate UFC fans won't like to admit it, even they knew that their star had no chance in a boxing match against one of the greatest to ever live. That--and the exorbitant ticket prices--was the reason why the T-Mobile arena didn't even sell out for the fight. Mayweather, however, was more than happy to end his retirement after two years to collect one final exorbitant paycheck for one hour of controlling what may have been the easiest boxing match of his entire career.

"Our game plan was to take our time, go to him, let him shoot his shots early and then take him out down the stretch," a calculated Mayweather explained post-fight. Throughout the first three rounds of the match, Mayweather landed a total of nine punches to his opponent. In the 10th and final round alone, Mayweather connected with nine shots to the face of McGregor, forcing the referee to jump between the two and end the fight within the final minute of the round.

The only controversy surfacing from the night was from McGregor and his fans claiming that the referee stepped in to stop the fight too soon. "Let the man put me down," McGregor stated after the fight with a plastic cup full of whiskey in his hand. "That's fatigue, that's not damage. Where was the final two rounds? Let me walk back to my corner and compose myself." McGregor is lucky that he got out of the ninth round, let alone the 10th, while still on his feet. Because of his self-proclaimed fatigue, he was unable to defend himself against Mayweather, let alone throw anything slightly resembling a punch back. The referee stepping in "early," as they do in boxing when someone is getting pummeled, did McGregor a favor. By allowing him to leave the fight while still (wobbling) on his own two feet, the ref not only saved McGregor from the embarrassment that would have surely happened two seconds later of being knocked out cold on the canvas, but also gave the first-time boxer an excuse for what was already an inevitable loss in the ring that night.

Despite the loss, McGregor is poised to quadruple his net worth, which of course was the plan from the outset for an event that could be said to have been more of a contest of promotional antics than anything resembling a professional boxing match. Mayweather, who knew that he would win from the start, will likely be walking away from the match with more than $300 million for his one hour of work. That being said, the fight was at least much more entertaining than Mayweather's previous bout against Manny Pacquiao. And despite McGregor never really having a chance at all, he still lasted 10 entire rounds in the ring with possibly the greatest boxer ever, showed a ton of heart, and landed 30 more punches (111) than Pacquiao (81) did in two fewer rounds. Mayweather out-landed McGregor 130-60 in rounds six through 10 once the former finally decided that it was time to box.

UFC fans are a pretty passionate bunch, there's no doubt about that. And despite how easy it is to hate Mayweather for things he has done out of the ring, this fight has made it easy to appreciate the boxer that he is inside of it because of his fighting IQ. A fighter, who is normally defensive by nature, won the match by attacking and formulating a game plan against a bigger, more aggressive opponent. In the end, the fight concluded in a way that everyone knew it would. Mayweather won, fans were entertained, and the two participants who were completely and solely motivated by money made enough of it to set themselves up for the rest of their collective lives. -- Asixlion@earthlink.net •
