Inglewood Resident Turns 105!

Luke Dixon celebrated 105 years of life on Saturday, December 2 at a gala dinner at the Renaissance Hotel LAX. The former “Buffalo Bill” army veteran is surrounded by his children (L to R): Doris McCall, Shirley Dixon and Quincy Watts. Mr. Dixon has been a resident of Inglewood for 72 years.

City Council Ends Boom Year with Thanks, Bonuses and Cheer

By Haleemon Anderson

The Inglewood City Council focused on end-of-the-year business at its meeting this week, inviting the community to attend an extravagant tree lighting ceremony and with the announcement of bonuses for its executive team.

City Manager Artie Fields explained the staff report, recommending action for merit-based bonuses for the City of Inglewood’s executive team members. Councilmember Ralph L. Franklin asked that the action be amended to include the City Manager, City Attorney and Police Chief. Mayor James T. Butts recommended the one-time bonuses be at the 10 percent level. The action was approved unanimously, with Councilmember Eloy Morales, Jr., District 3, absent.

Closed sessions at the start of the meeting resulted in discussion of potential litigation, a status report to the Council and direction to the staff, according to General Counsel for the City Kenneth Campos.

In public comments, Resident Willie A.G. expressed support for the merit payments to staff. “You need a raise and I hope you’ll work a little harder next year,” he said.

Consent calendar items were approved in entirety, including an agreement for residential sound insulation at $742,000, and a lease agreement with Ford Motors for 15 vehicles for the Inglewood Police Department. The four-year agreement will cost $826,600, or $206,600 for each of the four years of the agreement.

In other public comments, a resident thanked the Council for “not following LA’s lead” in promoting marijuana dispensaries in the city. A recent amendment to Inglewood’s municipal code will retain an exemption for medical purposes, but will otherwise ban sales or cultivation of the substance in the community. The action was a preemptive measure, as statewide legalization of the substance takes effect in January with the issuing of new licenses.

Trena Lawson, Executive Director of Children of Promise Charter, presented the Council with a mural created by students from the school. Lawson said the children documented many local landmarks in the mapping activity. The Council roundly thanked the group, with Mayor Butts announcing that space would be allotted to display the mural in the City Hall lobby. “I applaud your efforts. You are why we built Inglewood,” said the Mayor.

Mr. Davis, a resident in the 2nd District, said he supported the Council’s decision to buy American-made cars. “I consider Ford the last American car company,” said Davis, noting many others are actually foreign-owned and operated.

Another resident noted the new FedEx location in Inglewood is “fully operational.” He thanked the Council and gave “kudos” to citizens who were able to find jobs there.

Councilmember George W. Dotson, District 1, reported on the grand reopening of the newly revamped Vons grocery store on Manchester. “It was a wonderful experience,” said Dotson, noting the store made a donation to Kelso School of $1,000. “You must go see this store,” he said. “It’s something special.” Dotson also thanked the community members who came out to help wrap toys last week at the toy drive in his district.

Councilmember Alex Padilla, District 2, attended a recent police academy graduation. He said the top two graduates were from the Inglewood Police Department. Padilla invited the community to come out to the Christmas tree lighting on Wednesday. He asked for volunteers to donate unwrapped toys on Saturday at the community center on Fairview and La Tijera.

Councilmember Ralph Franklin, District 4, announced the 13th consecutive year of his food and toy drive. The event will be held at the newly renovated Crenshaw Plaza at Imperial and Crenshaw boulevards, in the Citibank Building, Suite 508.

Butts thanked the Council members for their holiday spirit. “It looks like every child in Inglewood will have a toy this Christmas,” he said. He reported on the City’s Thanksgiving drive, noting that 1,500 families were provided turkeys and fixings for a full holiday dinner.

In concluding his report, Butts noted that the one-time merit payments to the Inglewood executive team are well-deserved. “Our director and executives are underpaid compared to comparable cities,” he said and added, “They have done so much more than we could have imagined.”

Butts gave a comprehensive list of notable achievements that have been accomplished through the efforts of staff—under the direction of Council. The City will host the Super Bowl in 2022 and the national college championship game in 2023. The ENA (exclusive negotiating agreement) with the Clippers is now in effect, as well as the ENA for the Youth Orchestra LA program sponsored by the LA Philharmonic. The LA Phil will install its fourth youth-focused program at the site of the old AMAN Inc., Building, on La Brea Avenue. Lauded architectural giant Frank Gehry will design the building.

Inglewood is set to host the 2028 Olympics. Los Angeles was officially awarded the games in September. Events will be held at existing venues, like the Coliseum and Staples Center, as well as at the Rams’ stadium, currently under construction in Inglewood. Finally, The Girl Scouts of America will move their headquarters from Marina Del Rey to Inglewood in 2018.

The Inglewood City Council meets every Tuesday, unless otherwise noted, at 2 p.m. in the Council chambers on the ninth floor, Inglewood City Hall. •

Hydrocarbon Haze Keeps Dwarf Planet Colder than Expected

Based on a Press Release from UC Santa Cruz, Provided by Bob Eklund

New analysis of Pluto’s atmosphere explains why New Horizons spacecraft measured temperatures much colder than predicted.

The gas composition of a planet’s atmosphere generally determines how much heat gets trapped in the atmosphere. For the dwarf planet Pluto, however, the predicted temperature based on the composition of its atmosphere was much higher than actual measurements taken by NASA’s New Horizons spacecraft in 2015.

A new study published November 16 in Nature proposes a novel cooling mechanism controlled by haze particles to account for Pluto’s frigid atmosphere.

“It’s been a mystery since we first got the temperature data from New Horizons,” said first author Xi Zhang, assistant professor of Earth and planetary sciences at UC Santa Cruz. “Pluto is the first planetary body we know of where the atmospheric energy budget is dominated by solid-phase haze particles instead of by gases.”

The cooling mechanism involves the absorption of heat by the haze particles, which then emit infrared radiation, cooling the atmosphere by radiating energy into space.

Pluto’s haze layer is blue in this image taken by the New Horizons Ralph/Multispectral Visible Imaging Camera and computer generated to replicate true color. Haze is produced by sunlight-initiated chemical reactions of nitrogen and methane, leading to small particles that grow and settle toward the surface. (Image credit: NASA/JHUAPL/SwRI)

The result is an atmospheric temperature of about 70 Kelvin (minus 203 degrees Celsius, or minus 333 degrees Fahrenheit), instead of the predicted 100 Kelvin (minus 173 Celsius, or minus 280 degrees Fahrenheit).

According to Zhang, the excess infrared radiation from haze particles in Pluto’s atmosphere should be detectable by the James Webb Space Telescope, allowing confirmation of his team’s hypothesis after the telescope’s planned launch in 2019.

Extensive layers of atmospheric haze can be seen in images of Pluto taken by New Horizons. The haze results from chemical reactions in the upper atmosphere, where ultraviolet radiation from the Sun ionizes nitrogen and methane, which react to form tiny hydrocarbon particles tens of nanometers in diameter. As these tiny particles sink down through the atmosphere, they stick together to form aggregates that grow larger as they descend, eventually settling onto the surface.

“We believe these hydrocarbon particles are related to the reddish and brownish stuff seen in images of Pluto’s surface,” Zhang said.

The researchers are interested in studying the effects of haze particles on the atmospheric energy balance of other planetary bodies, such as Neptune’s moon Triton and Saturn’s moon Titan. Their findings may also be relevant to investigations of exoplanets with hazy atmospheres.

New Horizons passed within 7,800 miles of Pluto, with this closest approach on July 14, 2015. New Horizons had a relative velocity of 30,800 mph at its closest approach, and came as close as 17,900 miles to Charon. Starting 3.2 days before the closest approach, long-range imaging included the mapping of Pluto and Charon to 25 miles resolution. Because of Pluto’s tilt, portions of the northern hemisphere were in shadow at all times.

Meanwhile, instruments on board New Horizons studied the atmosphere, both by emissions of atmospheric molecules (airglow), and by dimming of background stars as they pass behind Pluto (occultation). During and after closest approach, other instruments sampled the planet’s high atmosphere and its effects on the solar wind. They also searched for dust. A communications dish on Earth measured the disappearance and reappearance of the radio signal as the probe flew by behind Pluto. The results resolved Pluto’s diameter (by their timing) and atmospheric density and composition (by their weakening and strengthening pattern). •

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

WHAT DO YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS?

I ask my ol’ lady about this time of the year what she would like for a gift knowing full well that her standard reply will be “nothing”. Most of us Americans are so blessed with material things that we really truly “need nothing”. All of our basic needs are taken care of. We have food and cold ones in both refrigerators, one in the kitchen and one in our man caves. We have closets full of golf shirts, tee shirts and dress shirts. We have cars to park in our garages, driveways or crowded streets. Most of us have a roof over our heads. So, what is it that we want for Christmas? We have heard the old lines, “It’s better to give than to receive.”, “It’s the thought that counts.”, “Give from the heart”; all of those are great. There is a deep feeling inside of us that motivates us to give to others out of our love for them. We want them to be happy. We want to give to show that we care for them. So, what would an old man who tries to write a random column want this season? I really would like more time to relax and have a cold one once in a while. I look forward to that gift being opened on June 15th, 2018. That is the day that I will close the door to my classroom for the final time. Only 116 days left to teach, but who is counting? I just read where over 10,000 baby boomers are retiring every day now in America. It certainly would be nice to be one of them. My life will change, but one thing won’t change. My Christian faith will continue to motivate me to love and share my faith with others. The greatest gift that I can share with others is the truth found in God’s Word. The truth is that Jesus came to earth in a manger 2,000 years ago to save the world. Those who believe have life, eternal life. That gift is much better than a 100” wide screen HD TV. Like always, just chill, enjoy a cool drink and know that God loves you. •

5 Preparation Tips to Make Any Cruise Smooth Sailing

(BPT) - When it comes to a dream cruise, everyone has their own idea of the ideal vacation. The beautiful ocean waves breaking against the bow beneath you, the warm breeze blowing against your hair and the lure of new, unexplored destinations off in the distance. If you're lucky, maybe your dream vacation is already in the works and you're eagerly counting down the days until it's time to board. And if you're still in the dreaming phases of your perfect cruise, you realize that dreaming of your vacation is almost as much fun as living it... almost.

No matter where you are in the process, the perfect cruise is more than just picking your dream destination; there are plenty of other things to consider as well. Whether a minor or monumental task, these tips are your starting point. Satisfy each of these considerations and you'll be on your way to making your cruise everything you dreamed it could be.

• Always be on the lookout for the best deal. If you could enjoy the same amazing cruise at a fraction of the price, why wouldn't you? Deals are not hard to come by in the cruise industry and the key is to book early. Do your research, look for package offers and book your trip as soon as you can. The wait may be difficult but an early booking could save you hundreds of dollars.

• Pick the right cruise line. Your dream cruise rests on the right ship, so don't leave this choice to chance. MSC Seaside is a sun-lover's paradise with plenty of outdoor space to take in the Caribbean sunshine and stunning views, thanks to its unique outdoor, ocean level promenade. When you step inside for a bite to eat, you'll discover MSC Seaside is home to celebrity chef Roy Yamaguchi's first restaurant at sea.

• Pack smart and know what's included. Your cruise line is your home away from home for the duration of your trip, but that doesn't mean you have to bring home with you.

• Plan activities for the whole family. While the cruise itself is enjoyable, it's the activities you take part in while on the ship that truly make your vacation unforgettable. Look for a cruise that offers activities for your entire family. MSC Seaside, for example, features the most interactive water park at sea with slide boarding technology, two of the longest zip lines at sea, a 4D cinema and two Formula 1 racing simulators.

• Arrive early. Weeks and months of planning using the tips above could be all for naught if you don't heed this last piece of advice. After all, flights can be delayed or cars can break down and if such a thing should happen to you, planning a little extra time into your schedule ensures that when the ship does leave, you're on it, no matter what happened on the road to get there.

Your dream vacation is waiting for you. If you're in the planning stage for your cruise, applying the tips above can help you finalize your strategy and finally get on the ship.

To get started on planning your cruise, visit www.msccruises.com. •

Busting Myths and Misconceptions about Osteoporosis

(BPT) - One in two women over the age of 50 will suffer a fracture caused by osteoporosis in her remaining lifetime. Despite its prevalence, there are many myths and misconceptions about this "silent" disease. These myths may be a reason why osteoporosis is underdiagnosed and undertreated.

A fragility fracture (breaking a bone by falling from a standing height or lower) can impact day-to-day life, but it can also be an indicator for osteoporosis in postmenopausal women. When you have osteoporosis, even daily tasks such as taking your dog for a walk can put you at risk for a fragility fracture of the wrist, leg or even hip. But, a startling 82 percent of postmenopausal women did not identify such fractures as a possible risk factor for osteoporosis, according to results from a recent online survey of over 1,000 postmenopausal women conducted by Harris Poll on behalf of Radius Health, in partnership with HealthyWomen and the National Osteoporosis Foundation.

"It is critical that postmenopausal women do not dismiss seemingly insignificant fragility fractures as 'clumsiness,' but instead see them as an important indicator for bone fragility, disease progression and the need for intervention," says Dr. Andrea Singer, MD, FACP, CCD, clinical director and trustee of the National Osteoporosis Foundation.

This is just one myth about osteoporosis. There are many others, including:

Myth: Osteoporosis only affects the elderly.

Truth: Osteoporosis often affects women after menopause. Natural menopause can occur as early as age 50. The rate of bone loss after menopause is increased with the accompanying loss of estrogen. Osteoporosis is a progressive disease that lowers the density of bones over time, making them weaker and more likely to fracture.

Myth: Osteoporosis isn't very common.

Truth: Ten million Americans are estimated to have osteoporosis, and more than 8 million of those are women.

Myth: Osteoporosis isn't that serious.

Truth: More women over the age of 55 were hospitalized in the United States for osteoporosis-related fractures than for stroke, heart attack or breast cancer. Yet, according to the survey, postmenopausal women were more likely to be concerned with a diagnosis of stroke, heart attack and breast cancer than osteoporosis.

Myth: Health care providers will tell you when it's time to test for osteoporosis.

Truth: Research suggests only 2 in 10 older women in the United States who suffer a fracture are tested or treated for osteoporosis. Furthermore, according to the survey, 96 percent of postmenopausal women who have not yet been diagnosed with osteoporosis and who suffered a fragility fracture were not told by their health care provider it could be linked to osteoporosis.

Myth: Getting enough calcium and vitamin D is enough to treat osteoporosis.

Truth: About 3 in 10 postmenopausal women incorrectly believe that drinking milk or taking calcium supplements alone will prevent osteoporotic fractures/breaks, the survey found. While getting enough calcium and vitamin D is critical to keep bones strong, it may not be enough when it comes to treating osteoporosis in postmenopausal women, especially after a fracture.

Myth: There is no way to build new bone after menopause.

Truth: About one-quarter of postmenopausal women incorrectly believe there is no way to build new bone at their age, the survey found. The truth is that certain types of treatment for postmenopausal osteoporosis can help build new bone, while others help slow bone loss.

Separating the truths from the myths is an important step in pursuing appropriate care for bone health after menopause. ## Trojans Take Home Pac-12 Title

By Adam Serrao

With quarterback Sam Darnold under center, the USC Trojans won their first conference title since 2008. With a 31-28 victory over the Stanford Cardinal last Friday night in Santa Clara, the Trojans showed just how gritty they can be and how good they have become in such a short amount of time. Unfortunately for USC, its two losses on the year banished the team from College Football Playoff conversation and landed it in this year's Cotton Bowl. Even still, the Trojans not only showed that they have become a force to be reckoned with, but also proved that they have come a long way since their inconsistent play at the beginning of the regular season.

USC fans got everything that they could have possibly asked for out of the game against Stanford last week. Not only was it close and competitive throughout, but it came down to a gritty fourth down stand with seconds ticking off of the clock in the fourth quarter of play that would wind up determining the Trojans' fate. Uchenna Nwosu, the outside linebacker for USC, was the hero of the game this time around, gashing the Cardinal offensive line to fly through and make a game-saving stop on the one-yard line. "Probably the biggest stop of the year," Trojans running back Ronald Jones explained of the play.

USC came away with the slim three-point victory, but not before Jones rushed for 140 yards and two touchdowns while simultaneously moving into the top five on USC's career rushing list. Darnold, the star quarterback who will likely have just one game remaining in the Cardinal and Gold before taking off for the NFL, finished with 325 yards through the air and two touchdowns while also being named MVP of the title game played at Levi's Stadium in Northern California. "It's special to see how far we've come as a team," Darnold said with a smile on his face after his team had finally secured the win.

With the victory, the Trojans became the first team from the South Division to win the Pac-12 title. It wasn't easy, either. The defense had to put up with the prolific play of both opposing quarterback K.J. Costello and opposing running back Bryce Love. Costello only completed five passes in the first half of play, but came on strong in the third and fourth quarters to finish with a total of 192 yards through the air and two touchdowns. Love, on the other hand, had carried Stanford all year long and attempted to do so again in this game with a total of 125 yards and a touchdown on the ground.

Despite the good play of Stanford, the game still ended in USC's favor. Even with the win for USC, the team still found itself on the outside looking in on this year's four-team College Football Playoff. "Obviously, the reality is we'll need some help," USC coach Clay Helton said following his team's victory, before the playoff standings were announced. "But we deserve to be in the discussion, especially the way we finished the season. [We're] hot right now."

If only the season were two games longer, the Trojans may have had a better chance to prove themselves and their 11-2 overall record. Unfortunately for USC, those two losses were enough to keep the team behind the likes of Clemson, Oklahoma, Georgia and

Alabama in the end-of-year standings. "We're sitting here as champion," Helton continued. "That's important. We sit here with 11 wins. We sit here with an unbelievable strength of schedule. We had the opportunity to show on national TV who we are."

Although they did not finish in the final four, it can still be said that the Trojans had an excellent season and perhaps even overachieved in a year when they weren't expected to do much at all. With the amount of injuries suffered on the team and the amount of youth on the offensive side of the ball, the achievements of USC this season can certainly be considered impressive, to say the least. As it turns out, a 30-27 loss at Washington State in September could turn out to be the only thing that kept the Trojans out of the playoff. That slim, three-point loss, which could have realistically gone either way once all was said and done, may just turn out to be the one game that comes back to haunt USC and all of its fans once this year's season officially comes to an end.

Despite the Trojans' impressive win over Stanford, there simply wasn't a possible combination of championship game results last Saturday that could have vaulted the team into the College Football Playoff conversation. Even still, the team's first conference title since 2008 should be celebrated--and a matchup against Ohio State in this year's Goodyear Cotton Bowl Classic is certainly not something to be taken for granted. That game will take place on December 29 in Arlington, Texas and could provide the Trojans with the perfect pedestal to finish the season off strong with a statement win against an extremely elite opponent from the Big Ten. •

Notice To Potential Bidders: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Notice To Property Owner: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (877) 440-4460 or visit this Internet Web site www.mkconsultantsinc.com, using the file number assigned to this case 170817221. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. ## A black and white photograph of a tabby cat. The cat has a white patch on its chest and is looking directly at the camera with large, expressive eyes. The background is dark and out of focus.

Violet

Violet is a beautiful and soft brown/black tabby with a lovely face and matching personality. This young year-old girl is still learning how to directly come to people for affection, but she loves to flirt-meow and follow you around. Sweet and gentle, Violet loves to be petted, but she has lingering moments of shyness--so she would do best with other cats and maybe around very gentle dogs. She is very sweet with the cats in her foster home and gets along with other cats very well. As she might be wary of normal kid noise and play, she might not be best with small children.

Twix thinks whoever chooses her will be very lucky. She likes exploring new hiding places, playing with balls, running and taking long naps. Twix would love to have her brothers Sox and Panda join her--but if they can all find good and loving homes, then she will be happy.

Sox is a playful boy who is curious and very lovable. He likes eating fish and playing with noisy balls, feathers and toy mice. He is also very good at running, leaping and climbing.

Madeline, aka Maddy, is in love with
