The Curious Case of Kilby v. CVS Pharmacy

By Rob McCarthy

The California Supreme Court stepped into a dispute between CVS and its cashiers and clerks over whether they should be allowed to sit at work, and the decision looks like a draw.

The state high court issued a ruling on April 4 in a case that hinged on two questions. Does a California wage rule dating back to 1919 for women in the mercantile industry also cover retail clerks and cashiers? If it does, should CVS be required to furnish the store with chairs for those times when employees may sit and work?

The case is curious because a reasonable person might assume that a "yes" to the first question would automatically answer the second one. However, it took a small army of attorneys for store cashiers, bank tellers, CVS Pharmacy and JPMorgan Chase Bank to argue for and against letting retail and bank employees to sit at work.

What the state Supreme Court decided was that in some instances, a clerk or teller should be allowed to sit. However, the decision of whether an employee sits or stands during a shift rests with the employer.

"If the tasks being performed at a given location reasonably permit sitting, and provision of a seat would not interfere with performance of any other tasks that may require standing, a seat is called for," the justices decided in Kilby v. CVS Pharmacy Inc. Because a similar case between Chase Bank and its tellers asked the same questions, the court combined them for judicial economy.

Chase and CVS employees asked federal courts to extend the identically worded wage orders, which state "all working employees shall be provided with suitable seats when the nature of the work reasonably permits the use of seats." The California Supreme Court heard the consolidated case at the request of the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The state justices unanimously decided in favor of the CVS and Chase employees, that the labor regulation about sitting to work applies to both of their professionals. The court stopped short of saying that all tellers and store cashiers must be provided a chair.

Both sides will claim victories in the decision, according to Los Angeles attorney Matthew Kaufman, who represents employees in civil disputes.

"The victory for the employees is they (justices) endorse this idea you have to look at all of the circumstances about whether an employee gets a seat," Kaufman said.

"I think it was in favor to the employers that the courts went to a middle ground ... accepting the totality of the circumstances test that looks at the expectations, the physical factors to decide whether a seat is needed."

A CVS spokesman told the Herald that the nation's second-largest drugstore chain is sticking by its interpretation of the law. The court's decision hasn't changed CVS management's mind.

"CVS Health's policies comply with the long-understood, reasonable interpretation of the law," said Mike DeAngelis, senior director of corporate communications for CVS. "The California Supreme Court's recent decision has not changed our interpretation of the law and there has been no change to our policies or practices at this time."

An email to JP Morgan Chase Bank's regional representative asking whether it had provided chairs to Chase Bank tellers since the state Supreme court ruling went unanswered.

L.A. labor attorney Kaufman said he expects retail stores and banks to challenge the state Supreme Court decision, and press their case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"They're not going to settle until the United States Supreme Court says so," he predicted. "You'd have to reconfigure every cash register in the state."

Justices left the decision to the employer on whether an employee's duties allow for sitting in a chair during a work shift. An employer's business judgment and the physical workplace are relevant, but limited under the new ruling. An employer must consider all of the employee's tasks and not decide based on a worker's characteristics, the court wrote.

Prolonged standing and sitting makes bank tellers prone to back problems, according to Social Security Disability Help, a non-governmental resource on the web.

The legal issues aside, the owner-operator of a physical-therapy and ergonomics practice in Los Angeles County said that standing eight hours a day contributes to circulatory problems of the legs. Being able to sit may help, but it can lead to tension and pain elsewhere, according to Tom Marshall of Hellerwork Structural Integration in Westlake Village.

"If your workstation has you slouching to reach a keyboard or to see a monitor that is too low these problems are compounded," he said. "When sitting the problems can be just as bad."

Banks and retail stores in the state must comply immediately with the wage order, Kaufman said. A state Supreme Court decision becomes law once the decision is handed down or overturned by a federal court, including the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kaufman, the Los Angeles attorney, sees numerous issues and details about the sitting order that weren't answered by the state Supreme Court. An employer's refusal to offer an employee a chair can't be judged as reasonable or unreasonable until a court issues a conclusive test, he said.

"It's not like a speeding ticket. The courts are going to have to come up with a rule of measurement," he said. "Even cash registers are different."

Maybe the only question settled by the state Supreme Court is the burden of proof. The retailer and banks have the legal responsibility to provide a chair to cashiers, clerks or bank tellers or show why they refused. The original class-action lawsuits by the CVS and Chase employees will move forward in the federal courts now that California jurists have clarified the wage law.

"The nature of the work aside, if an employer argues there is no suitable seat available, the burden is on the employer to prove unavailability," the justices admonished CVS and Chase Bank in their ruling. •

Papa: Hemingway in Cuba Shows Dark Days as a Genius in Crisis

By Morgan Rojas for Cinemacy.com

In literature, there is a term called the “Hemingway Hero,” which is essentially a set of noble traits and honorable qualities that the reader should aspire to, much like any character in an Ernest Hemingway novel. Every writer attempting to create this attribute will find that the qualities that make up a hero today compared to that of Hemingway’s day are consistent and timeless. This idea of what makes a man a man, and living a life of “honor, courage and endurance in a world that is sometimes chaotic, often stressful, and always painful” will forever ring true to those in search of a deeper meaning of life. The Bob of being able to shoot in the original locations including the bar El Floridito and Hemingway’s actually home in Finca Vigia, which is now preserved as a national museum, is a fascinating thing to see. Possibly the coolest memento of all, though, is that the typewriter used in the film is Hemingway’s original one.

Personally, a big fan of Hemingway myself, (I did name my dog Ernest after all), seeing this time period in his life is difficult as we all know the outcome of his losing battle with depression. It is a hard pill to swallow watching him stick a revolver in his mouth and beat his wife. For as beautiful the worlds

Yari-directed film Papa: Hemingway in Cuba, tells the true story of one man’s relationship with the legendary writer Ernest Hemingway, and essentially starting his journey to find his own, literal, “Hemingway Hero”.

“What do you say to the man who changed your life, and never even knew you?” Ed Myers (Giovanni Ribisi), a journalist at the Miami Herald in the 1950s, asks this question while struggling to find the words for a letter he plans to send to his idol, Ernest Hemingway (Adrian Sparks). Growing up an orphan during the depression, Myers’ voice-over explanation reveals that he had always wanted to be a writer and an adventurer. His lack of family ties created a longing for someone to look up to, someone to be a father figure. He writes all of this and more in his letter, spilling his soul onto the page. Then, one day, Myers gets a life-changing phone call from the man himself, telling him how much he appreciated the letter and then asking him to travel to Cuba to spend time with him.

While the first third of the film tends to drag a bit slowly, it really comes alive when we follow Myers to Cuba and get to meet Hemingway. The atmosphere of the city and live music are electrifying, a juxtaposition to the man Hemingway had become by that point in his life. Myers quickly develops a closeness to Hemingway and his wife Mary (Joely Richardson), considering them the family he never had. However, their blissful life erupts into chaos as they immediately find themselves in the middle of the Cuban revolution.

The fact that this is a true story alone is worth watching, but probably the biggest selling point is that this is the first Hollywood film to be shot in Cuba in over 50 years. The authenticity he created in his books, the man we see on screen is a tortured artist that is struggling to see the purpose of his own life. Adrian Sparks captures both Hemingway’s brilliance and demons in his performance, truly giving justice and respect to the late author.

As much as you become absorbed in Sparks’ performance, there are moments that can take you out of the film. At times Ribisi comes off somewhat flat, for example, getting that initial call from his idol, Hemingway himself, he barely seems to muster up any excitement. Instead, it feels as if that scene may have been rehearsed one too many times and, by that take, he was just going through the motions. Another head scratching moment is how quickly the film jumps into some scenes without much setup. One moment, Myers is on the beach in Cuba, the next he’s on the beach in Florida telling his girlfriend (Minka Kelly) about his trip to Cuba. It feels rushed, but at this point, we’ve become invested in these characters that we’re along for the ride so we don’t really care where we’re going or how we get there.

Papa: Hemingway in Cuba is a stunning portrait of one of the greatest authors and storytellers of the 20th century. Bob Yari takes the biopic and breathes life into the genre just by the sheer amount of authentic details (like the shooting locations alone), plus this inspiring and true story of one man’s search for the meaning of life is something we can all relate to. Bonus- Keep an eye out for a quick cameo from Ernest’s granddaughter Mariel Hemingway. Rated R for language, sexuality, some violence, and nudity. Papa: Hemingway in Cuba opens in select theaters on Friday, April 29th. •

Hawthorne, Beverly Hills Split One-Run Games

Hawthorne pitcher Charles Phelps prepares to throw to a Beverly Hills batter in last week's Ocean League baseball game. The Cougars host El Segundo in a key league game today at 3:15 p.m.

Article and Photos by Joe Snyder

Pitchers Andy Monarrez and Charles Phelps combined for a four-hit shutout as Hawthorne High's baseball team won its first Ocean League game with a 1-0 home win over Beverly Hills on April 19. Last Thursday, the Cougars traveled to La Cienega Park in Beverly Hills and fell on the short end of a 6-5 score.

Hawthorne got off to a good start in its opener against the Normans. In the bottom of the first inning, Andy Monarrez was hit by a pitch. He advanced to second base on a wild pitch. Brandon Brown, then, slashed a double to score Monarrez and the Cougars had the early lead. From there, the pitching took over. Monarrez went five innings, allowing three hits and striking out four batters. Phelps pitched the final two innings, limiting Beverly Hills to just one hit and striking out four. Norman pitcher Zach Guiller proved very tough. Guiller allowed just two hits, including Brown's run-scoring double, striking out five. He hit one batter, that to Monarrez in the first, and walked two. "It was a good win for our ball club," Hawthorne head coach J.C. Randolph said. "It was good for the kids to bounce back."

The Cougars, though, fell to 1-3 in league after losing at Beverly Hills. Hawthorne is 15-10 overall after splitting a doubleheader with Animo Leadership from Inglewood on Saturday.

In the first game, Hawthorne scored eight runs in the bottom of the fifth inning and added five in the sixth in the blowout. The Cougars scored twice in the first, one in the second and one in the fifth.

In the nightcap, the Cougars lost to the Aztec-Eagles, currently ranked sixth in the CIF-Southern Section Division VII, 5-1. Adam Miranda sparked Animo by going two-for-three with two runs batted in. Abel Rodriguez was one-for-two, drove in two runs and scored twice. Winning pitcher Cesar Rocha pitched a complete game three-hitter. He struck out eight batters and walked three.

Hawthorne has two Ocean games with El Segundo this week. After visiting the Eagles at Recreation Park's John Stevenson Field last Tuesday, the Cougars host El Segundo today at 3:15 p.m. Hawthorne, then, visits Animo Leadership at Darby Park in Inglewood in a non-league game Saturday at 10 a.m. The Cougars resume league at Culver City next Tuesday at 3:15 p.m.

LAWNDALE FALLS TWICE TO SAMO

Lawndale High's baseball team played Santa Monica, one of the favorites in the Ocean League, tough but lost two close games to the Vikings last week. At Santa Monica on April 19, the Cardinals, who are 0-4 in league, fell short of the Vikings 7-6. At Lawndale last Thursday, Santa Monica remained unbeaten at 4-0 in Ocean action with a 4-2 victory.

Lawndale has two league games against Beverly Hills this week. After hosting the Normans on Tuesday, Lawndale visits Beverly Hills at La Cienega Park today at 3:15 p.m. Lawndale hosts El Segundo in Ocean play next Tuesday at the same time.

TORRANCE OVERWHELMS LEUZINGER

Leuzinger High's baseball team is still struggling after lopsided shutout losses to always powerful Torrance last week. At Leuzinger on April 20, the Olympians were victims of a record performance by the Tartars' Konnor Smith in a 19-0 loss. At Torrance Park last Friday, the Tartars continued to dominate Leuzinger 14-0.

On April 20, Smith, a junior catcher, hit four home runs in four at-bats to tie a CIF-Southern Section record with 10 other players. He drove in 11 runs as Torrance had little trouble with the Olympians. Leuzinger has not had a winning season since 2002.

Leuzinger, which fell to 0-4 in the Pioneer League and 1-12 overall, has two league games against another top Pioneer contender, South Torrance, this week. After hosting the Spartans last Tuesday, the Olympians visit South Friday at 3:15 p.m. Leuzinger travels to North Torrance for another 3:15 p.m. Pioneer game next Wednesday.

LOCAL TRACKSTERS COMPETE IN SOUTH BAY MEET

Track and field athletes from Hawthorne, Inglewood and Lawndale High Schools vied in last Saturday's South Bay Championships last Saturday at West Torrance High. Some had strong showings.

Inglewood's girls did quite well, especially in the 400-meter run and the shot put. In the 400, the Sentinels' Timeera Lewis who won her heat at one minute and 2.51 seconds. In the more prestigious Invitational heat, The Sents had a fourth and fifth place finish from Tajanae Nettles (1:01.13) and Iyani Williams (1:01.33), in order. In Flight Two of the

Khloe

Not ready to adopt, but need your “kitty fix”? Are you a person who loves animals? Kitten Rescue, one of the largest and oldest rescue groups in the Los Angeles area, is currently recruiting volunteers to foster kittens and cats that are rescued in the South Bay area. We currently have more kitties that we need to rescue than we have foster homes, and in order to save these babies we need new foster families. You don’t need any special skills to be a foster parent, all you need is a loving heart and the commitment to help a kitten(s) or adult cat(s) until they get back on their feet and find a permanent loving forever home. Being a foster parent is a very rewarding experience! Kitten Rescue offers free foster training and once you are through training we will support you with expertise, vets, and adoption venues. We also post foster kitties ready for adoption on our website. You can find out more about Kitten Rescue at our website: www.kittenrescue.org

Khloe is a beautiful, sweet girl with a gentle soul and expressive face. She lived with a family who found her and took her as a kitten, but they never really considered her their cat and never had the time to get her fixed. Since they let her roam around outside unfixed, she got pregnant and had 5 beautiful baby kittens. It was too much for her humans to handle, so they requested help from Kitten Rescue and we took the feline family in. Khloe has been an excellent mama cat, taking wonderful care of her babies. She is very trusting of humans and loves to be around people, especially children. Khloe is one of the gentlest and loving cats you'll ever meet, and she very much wants to have a home of her own where she will be cared for and loved and given the attention she deserves and craves. She gets along with other cats after a brief introduction and would love to

Shorty has a special move where he will just flop down on the floor when you're about to pick him up. He'll roll over for some belly rubs and once you pick him up he'll let you carry him like a baby. He is a playful and sweet cat who will come greet you at the door when you come home. Shorty loves to carry little stuffed animals around in his mouth and chase toys that you throw across the floor. He loves his brother Stumper and would like to find a home together with him. Shorty was born to a stray cat and taken into a foster home as a kitten together with his brother, after their sister had unfortunately gotten hit by a car. He loves the cozy indoor life and all the comforts it provides.

Ziggy is a sweet little girl currently being fostered with her sister, Bowie. Ziggy loves to be held and cuddled, and needs a little help at first getting comfortable and relaxed with humans. Once Ziggy gets to know you, she is affectionate and playful. She would do great with another kitty, or can be adopted with her sister, Bowie. Ziggy loves belly rubs, and purrs loudly when you pet her.

Bowie is a little black and white tuxie girl.

Rosie is learning to be playful and learning to trust people again. She is friendly, but shy. Rosie was rescued off the streets, after being thrown out, and had to fight to stay alive by hiding and dodging traffic, dogs, etc. She wants to trust people again, and will warm up and become a loving kitty for the right gentle and patient family. Please give sweet little Rosie girl a chance. She promises to relax and trust her new humans right away!

These kitties are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All of our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. If you see a dog with a YELLOW RIBBON or something yellow on the leash, this is a dog who needs some space. Please do not approach this dog with your dog. Please maintain distance or give this dog and his/her person time to move out of your way.

There are many reasons why a dog may need space:

- HEALTH ISSUES
- IN TRAINING
- BEING REHABILITATED
- SCARED OR REACTIVE AROUND OTHER DOGS

THANK YOU!
Those of us who own these dogs appreciate your help and respect!
