City Council Seats, Sales Tax Measure to Go to Vote on November 6

By Brian Simon

On Tuesday, Nov. 6, local voters will decide which two of three candidates will fill two available seats on the Lawndale City Council. Incumbent Pat Kearney hopes to secure his second term. Bernadette Suarez, who won the City Clerk race in 2014 and was then appointed to a vacant a Council seat in 2016, will look to continue her service for the next four years. Small business owner Edgar Macias, throwing his hat in the ring for the first time, also seeks a spot on the dais. Meanwhile, Mayor Robert Pullen-Miles and City Clerk Rhonda Hofmann Gorman are running opposed for their respective offices.

Voters will also weigh in on whether or not to approve a proposed three-quarter-cent (0.75 percent) sales tax increase designed to bolster City of Lawndale annual revenues by an estimated $2.1 million annually. On Aug. 6, the Lawndale City Council voted 5-0 to place Measure L on the ballot with a stated goal to use the funds to help maintain the current level of public safety and quality of life services (e.g. parks programming).

According to the City's website, the Council placed the item on the ballot "in order to stop these historic state takeaways and fund key city services that help protect Lawndale's property values." The list of local services the City indicated the additional yearly funding will go towards includes maintaining 9-1-1 emergency services; ensuring safe drinking water supplies; fighting gangs and drugs; maintaining 9-1-1 emergency response times; and maintaining programs that attract businesses and create jobs.

"Response times for 9-1-1 calls are critical for stopping crime, protecting victims, and saving lives," the information on the City's website reads. "Measure L, if enacted, will maintain neighborhood patrols, keep deputies on the street, and maintain law enforcement emergency response times to all neighborhoods in our city. If the City is forced to cut basic services like pothole repair, graffiti removal, and open-space maintenance, the City of Lawndale will become a less desirable place to live and do business. Measure L, if enacted, will help local property values by making sure Lawndale has well-maintained streets and safe and clean neighborhoods and parks. Measure L includes strict accountability provisions, including public spending reports, annual independent audits, and oversight to make sure that every cent of Lawndale tax dollars are spent as promised. All funds are required by law to remain local and can only be used in the City of Lawndale."

The election information overview at www.lawndalecityorg additionally includes a link to frequently asked questions (FAQs) that address the particulars as to why the funds are necessary, the local services that will be specifically addressed and provisions for fiscal accountability. An additional link brings readers to an impartial analysis of the measure, which also explains the categories of items that would qualify for the additional tax amount. Specifically, as stated in the impartial analysis, the 0.75 percent additional tax "will apply to everyone who purchases retail goods within City limits. Food purchased as groceries and prescription medication will not be taxed under this measure. Visitors to Lawndale will bear part of the tax burden imposed by their local activities and thus contribute to the City's ability to maintain general public services that they use while visiting. Residents and other purchasers of goods in the City will also be subject to the tax."

The City website home page also includes details on voter information, including the ability for residents to check if they are registered to vote; a form to register to vote; and polling locations.

The following is a rundown on registration and vote-by-mail information, as provided by the City:

Those who wish to vote and are not yet registered may do so securely by visiting www.registertovote.ca.gov. The deadline to register in time to vote in next month's election is Oct. 22. Vote-by-mail pamphlets will go out to residents starting on Oct. 8. Those who do not receive their ballots by Oct. 15 can contact the Los Angeles County Elections Department at (800) 815-2666 to request another copy. Those who choose to vote by mail must have their ballots postmarked on or by Nov. 6 – and the ballots must be received by Nov. 9 in order to be counted. Completed mail ballots may be returned to any Los Angeles County Polling Place on Election Day from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Residents may request a vote-by-mail ballot by visiting <https://lavote.net/home/voting-elections/votingoptions/vote-by-mail/apply-to-vote-by-mail>. The request deadline is Oct. 30. For more information, call the Los Angeles County Elections Department at (800) 815-2666. Otherwise, registered voters may cast their ballots in person on Nov. 6 from the hours of 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at their prescribed local polling place. To find the correct polling place location or to view a sample ballot, visit the Los Angeles County Voter Registration at <https://lavote.net/vrstatus/> •

A Star is Born Review: An Emotional Musical Supernova

By Morgan Rojas
for www.cinemacy.com

Since making its debut at the Venice Film Festival a few short months ago, where it received an 8-minute-long standing ovation, the remake of the 1937 musical A Star Is Born has been feverishly anticipated by fans worldwide. Starring Lady Gaga like you've never seen her before, A Star is Born is a fantastically observant and delicate movie musical and a wonderful remake of the 1937 classic of a timeless love story but with a 2018 modern twist.

Jackson Maine (Cooper) is rock n roll's bad boy -- a swoon-worthy crooner on stage, but a heavy drinking and lonely man when off of it. During a spontaneous visit to a late-night bar, he meets the alluring Ally (Lady Gaga) and upon hearing her rendition of "La Vie En Rose," he immediately falls under her spell, seeing the potential in her music even though she doubts herself. As the supportive partner we all aspire to have in our lives, Jackson encourages Ally to live her dream and speak her truth -- not just as a singer, but also as a songwriter. Gaining notoriety very quickly from her undeniable talent, Ally skyrockets to fame but loses her authenticity as she bends to conventional pop star tropes while Jackson watches from the sidelines. Ally finds herself at the peak of her career at the very same moment Jackson is at rock bottom, and their personal circumstances prove to have heartbreaking consequences.

A star was born in 1986 and her name, or the name the entire world knows, is Lady Gaga. In a role made famous by Barbara Streisand, Lady Gaga -- born Stefani Joanne Angelina Germanotta -- is one of the only few artists who could successfully pull off the all-encompassing and demanding role of Ally by singing, dancing and acting so effortlessly that it makes one think this was the role she was born to play. This isn't Gaga's first foray into acting, as she won an Emmy in 2016 for her role in American Horror Story. But what surprised me most was how she completely transformed into Ally: Gaga gets lost in Ally's insecurities and body shaming, and it's hard to imagine her as a celebrity superstar at all. If A Star is Born proves anything, it's that it is time we take Lady Gaga seriously as an actor.

A Star is Born's conventional story is alluring to every generation, it being a classic fairytale and our protagonist a singing Cinderella. But with Bradley Cooper, assured and showing his directorial skills, along with one of today's biggest pop culture icons in the lead role, this emotionally charged, cinematic knockout proves that it can stand on its own and is sure to inspire the next generation of movie and music lovers.

A Star is Born is rated R for language throughout, some sexuality/nudity and substance abuse. 135 minutes, Now playing in theaters everywhere. •

Turning 15 on the Road to Freedom Is Relevant and Rousing

Reviewed by Tommy Vinh Bui, MLIS, Associate Librarian,
Inglewood Public Library

"Give me the ballot" and "a voteless people are a hopeless people" are the impassioned pleas of an empowered people. And that's the sentiment that this week's book strives to impart. Standing up and demanding to be heard. Turning 15 on the Road to Freedom: My Story of the 1965 Selma Voting Rights March by Elspeth Leacock, Susan Buckley and Lynda Blackmon Lowery is a book that delves into your belly and stokes the embers of social justice within. It's a book that's all too relevant today.

Turning 15 on the Road to Freedom: My Story of the 1965 Selma Voting Rights March by Elspeth Leacock, Susan Buckley and Lynda Blackmon Lowery

This memoir recounts the harrowing chutzpah of the youngest activist present during the voting rights march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama in 1965. Lynda Blackmon Lowery is steely proof that young adults can seize the day and be heroes. She marched side by side with the vanguard of the civil rights movement -- step by step and through rain, sleet and snow. Her personal struggle and resolve to be disenfranchised no longer was nothing short of herculean and page by page proves to be a call to action to young people everywhere.

Via narrative nonfiction, young Lynda Blackmon Lowery tells of the travails and violence she experienced along the trail. The hardships and discrimination that met the marchers every mile are conveyed here in primary-sourced detail. Courage was in no short supply as she defied expectations and fought valiantly for the civil rights of African-Americans. She stood tall at a pivotal crossroad in American history. In this narrative, she manages to convey the tumult and close-knit kinship of her fellow marchers during this fraught epoch of social change from a youthful perspective. Eras change and decades pass, but the enduring themes of harmony and peace withstand the turbulence of time.

Illuminating and clear-eyed in its depictions of events, this is a story that should strike resonant ripples of hope at the tensions and conflicts that dominate the headlines of today. It is a timely reminder of the capacity of the young to enact great social change. Lowery is a singular firebrand that is testament to the power of youthful mobilization and moral strength to overcome seemingly unconquerable racial prejudices and obstacles to the advancement of an increasingly marginalized population. This book ignites a desire to be involved. And that's a foremost mandate for the younger generation. The onus is on them to carry the torch further.

The book will also hold particular appeal to young girls. Lowery beautifully flaunts the gender conventions of the era and is front and center standing up for equality and what's right. It presents a picture of ostentatious egalitarian notions. She's a shining example of heroism and heroine all hewn together into one inspirational figure.

November will be here in a blink. Soon polling booths will be erected and the affray of elections will be upon us again. Let's spare a thought and take a moment to pay due reverence to the sacrifices made that allow us to cast our ballots freely today and fulfill our democratic duty. This is a right that was hard-fought and long-sought. We've come a long way, but there are still miles to go before we can rest. Miles to go.

So vote. It's imperative.
Vote, vote, vote. •

ELECTION 2018

Two El Segundo Residents Vie for West Basin Division IV Board

By Brian Simon

Though not part of a local municipal election, the race for the West Basin Municipal Water District's Division IV director position carries a great deal of interest in town. Not only does the agency have its water recycling facility in El Segundo, but the two candidates vying for the spot on the board are also residents here. That said, Division IV encompasses a wide geographical area that also includes Culver

City, West Hollywood and Malibu as well as the unincorporated communities of Topanga, Marina del Rey, North Ladera Heights, Windsor, Lennox, Del Aire and Wiseburn.

Incumbent Scott Houston hopes to garner a second term on Nov. 6, while challenger Joe Lococo looks to unseat his opponent. Both candidates spoke about their backgrounds, their views on key water issue and their priorities as they move towards Election Day. •

★ Candidate and Current Division IV Director Scott Houston ★

Born in Arizona, Scott Houston lived in several states across the country growing up with a father in the construction industry. A Chevron project brought the family to California in 1993 and he graduated from Torrance's West High School. Houston holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Michigan Technological University. He is an 18-year El Segundo resident.

Houston's professional experience includes public relations for technology companies as well as management in the manufacturing and printing industries. In addition to his service on the West Basin Board, he currently works in communications consulting.

Local community involvement included four years on the Capital Improvement Advisory Committee (CIPAC), a host/reporting role on El Segundo TV covering business and feature stores, and a 7-year stint on the Tree Musketeers board. Houston also volunteered for the Run for Education and The Friends of the El Segundo Public Library.

Herald: What led you into pursuing a director seat for West Basin? Why do you want to run?

SH: Serving on CIPAC introduced me to the infrastructure needs of a city -- the "non-glamorous" but vital services we rely on daily including streets, sewers, trees, parks and public facilities. This sparked my interest in water, particularly since West Basin's recycling plant is located in our community. I also had a strong interest in local government and public service having previously run for El Segundo City Council. When a Board seat opened after our former director's retirement, I jumped at the chance to run four years ago and am honored to represent West Basin's Division 4 that includes my adopted hometown of El Segundo.

Herald: What were your chief accomplishments during your term? Why should you be re-elected?

SH: I advocated for conservation and water use efficiency during the drought. I authorized expansion of our facility with a goal to nearly double production from 40 to 70 million gallons of recycled water daily. I distributed 1,500 free rain barrels to residents working with non-profits including the El Segundo Woman's Club. I've built working relationships with elected officials, business and environmental groups, homeowners, and other stakeholders to make informed decisions. I'm a proactive and energetic representative committed to results -- with a track record of good fiscal management and staff accountability to ensure safe, reliable and affordable water.

Herald: What decision/policy of the current board to you most agree with/disagree with?

SH: The issues facing the Board are complex and varied. I'm proud of several things including our robust capital improvement program, our conservation rebates and classes, and our improved community outreach efforts. But I do not want to say one is more important than another or this was more disappointing than that because each of the issues our board addresses, and we deal with many, is important and has real life impacts on our community. So for me to clarify any one issue as more important or more disappointing would be a disservice to any of the other issues we address.

Herald: What are the two most important water issues the District faces and how would you address those?

SH: The volatility of imported water supplies and increasing costs.

These are supplies we rely on from aqueducts providing water from the Colorado River and Northern California. Both sources are greatly stressed due to climate change and susceptible to major earthquakes that could interrupt our supply of fresh water into Southern California. Besides the erratic nature of these two sources, costs of imported water continue to escalate while we can no longer count on consistent year-over-year water deliveries to meet our needs. I continue to prioritize reducing West Basin's dependence on imported water through robust conservation efforts, rebates and education programs, and increasing recycled water production and infrastructure.

Herald: What other priority item would you bring to the Board should you be elected to a second term -- and why?

SH: Over my first term, I have successfully increased our community outreach efforts, including the use of social media to provide information to the public as well as championing a new website that is user-friendly and provides our agendas and minutes in a timely manner. I will continue to push for more transparency at the Board. I am currently advocating to televise our meetings so the public can witness first-hand the important items that come before us and our decision-making process as your public servants.

Herald: What is your stance on a desalination plant in El Segundo (or elsewhere)?

SH: As a Board member, I must remain neutral on the proposed desalination project West Basin is studying because the draft Environmental Impact Report will come before the Board for a vote on its certification at a future date. My role is to ensure the District has a safe and reliable supply of water, and to make an informed decision on this potential project.

The Board has only authorized preparation of an EIR. No decision has been made to build a desalination facility. A number of future determinations must be made before this project can move forward. As a Board member, it's imperative for me to understand how a desalination plant will impact the environment of our Santa Monica Bay and its costs to ratepayers while also weighing future water supply security for the South Bay. I look forward to reviewing the details of the EIR and public comments in the months ahead.

Herald: What is your position on dealing with rising water rates?

SH: Affordable water is paramount to me as a Board member representing Division 4. While we are asking you to use less, our costs continue to rise that pay for infrastructure and staff so water flows uninterrupted to your tap.

See Scott Houston, page 6

★ Candidate Joe Lococo ★

Born in Hawthorne and raised in the South Bay, Joe Lococo "played, worked and raised a family" in the area and is a long-time El Segundo resident. He retired after a 32-year career in the airline industry, working most recently as a supervisor for one of the major carriers. Lococo's community involvement includes 23 years of volunteer work with the Westchester/Playa del Rey girls' softball program as a president, board member and coach.

Herald: What led you into pursuing a director seat for West Basin? Why do you want to run?

JL: As a resident of El Segundo, I have had the opportunity to tour West Basin's recycling plant. I am impressed with their commitment to developing local water supplies. What really motivated me to run was when I saw the March 15, 2018 Daily Breeze article by Megan Barnes regarding the decisions the Board made to hire the current general manager. He is being paid more than most city managers, superintendents and police chiefs. I feel the West Basin Board lacks leadership. There are opportunities for better management staffing, reduced costs and increased water recycling.

Herald: Why should voters elect you and what do you bring to the table that is unique?

JL: I am not a politician, or water expert -- however, a regular Joe.... If you read about what this board is doing in terms of hiring practices, use of public funds and past history, I strongly believe I can help right this ship. I believe in keeping water rate increases low and having transparency and accountability.

Herald: What decision/policy of the current board to you most agree with/disagree with?

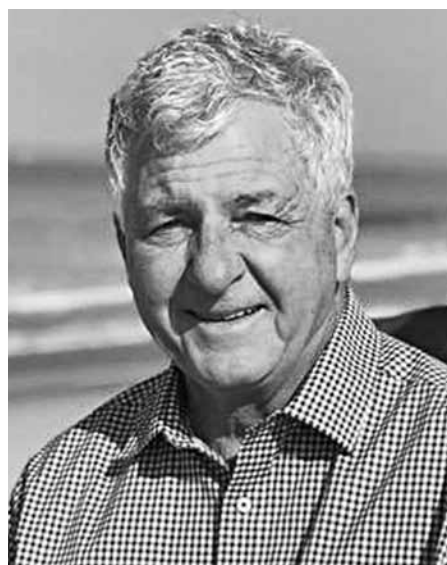

JL: Ocean desalination is important to be studied, but I would need to make that decision when the organization finalizes the environmental impacts. I disagree with the hiring practices and cronyism. I think the agency has shown tremendous potential, but can do more.

Herald: What are the two most important water issues the District faces and how would you address those?

JL: Maximizing water recycling and determining if ocean desalination is the right future for West Basin Municipal Water District.

Herald: What other priority item would you bring to the Board should you be elected -- and why?

JL: I would ask to look into the practices of the Board in regards to requesting RFPs (Request For Proposal) for contracts, outreach, travel and other expenditures. We have a responsibility to the public to be fiscally responsible and I am convinced there is a lot of waste.

Herald: What is your stance on a desalination plant in El Segundo (or elsewhere)?

JL: This is a very important issue and highly debatable. I feel as a coastal agency, it is important to tabulate this as a future supply. I do believe that there could be environmental impacts to the marine environment, as well as, high energy use. If these issues can be addressed, then it could be a viable source. We need the staff to conclude an analysis before a decision can be made. I believe it should be a science-based approach. I will not vote to move forward with the proposed facilities if the host city opposes. This is a local matter, and I would not overrule a two-thirds majority vote. I stand for and respect local control.

Herald: What is your position on dealing with rising water rates?

JL: Water rate increases are inevitable as is anything. It is the Board's job to make sure they rise appropriately and based on proper investment into the water systems. I am very against government waste and would ensure that doesn't happen should I get elected.

Herald: What is your position on dealing with water scarcity?

JL: I agree with the approach West Basin has taken. They have been a leader in conservation and water recycling for over two decades. They are literally creating new water supplies. I would like that to be maximized!

Herald: What are your thoughts on impacts specifically to El Segundo residents/businesses?

JL: El Segundo is fortunate to host the water recycling plant, as well as being right next to the Hyperion Water Reclamation Plant in Los Angeles. While we should be proud of hosting, we also have to ensure that our residents are not impacted significantly or carry the burden of construction or operation.

Herald: What water programs are most important and why?

JL: Conservation of water supplies and water recycling. We are fortunate that West Basin does both. I would push the staff to see how we can recycle more!

Herald: Is there anything else you can think of that we didn't ask that you feel is important?

JL: Yes... How would I respond to anyone who might think that I do not have experience? I would say that's not true. I possess integrity, ethics and morals that will far raise the bar of experience. •

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy Named Norb Huber

ROBERT CLARY TO SPEAK AT HAWTHORNE LIBRARY

A special event will be held on Saturday, October 13th from 2 – 4 p.m. The Hawthorne library invites everyone to spend an inspiring afternoon with Robert Clary, author of From the Holocaust to Hogan's Heroes: the autobiography of Robert Clary. He will discuss his multifaceted life as a Holocaust survivor, entertainer, artist and actor. The program and refreshments are sponsored by the Friends of the Hawthorne and Wiseburn Libraries. This program is for adults.

COMMUNITY DINNER THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18TH

The annual Hawthorne President's Council BBQ Dinner will be held this year on Thursday, October 18th starting at 5 p.m. at the Hawthorne Memorial Center on El Segundo Blvd. The dinner is only $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. There is a raffle each year and all of the proceeds go to the holiday assistance program of the Presidents Council. Each Thanksgiving and Christmas, the council gives away hundreds of food baskets and gifts. Come out and support a great cause. I'm not running for office, but I plan to be there. If you are a loyal reader, please come over and identify yourself. My readership has fluctuated recently, with several people coming out of the closet to tell me they love reading my column but another reader told me to drop him off of my email list. So, I figure there are still 18 to 22 of you who have hung with me through my post-Hawthorne adventure. This is like a long-distance romance that is slowly melting away. But, it is said that "absence makes the heart grow fonder". So, I will be returning next week to rekindle our readership relationship. I miss you all and I hope to catch up with a few of you soon.

VETERANS CELEBRATION

November is fast approaching and the holiday early in the month is Veterans Day. The Hawthorne Veterans Commission will be hosting their 4th Annual Veterans Day Celebration on Saturday, November 10th at 7 p.m. at the Hawthorne Memorial Center.

This year they will be recognizing all of the veterans who are employed by the City of Hawthorne and all the veterans who serve us in the Hawthorne Police Department. Each year this event has been a very popular and fun event. Music and refreshments will be part of the night's agenda. We really do owe our veterans a lot of recognition for serving us. This event is a great way to show our appreciation.

QUESTIONS?

Is this the year that the Dodgers finally do it? How good will the Lakers be? Can one player make all the difference? How far will the Rams go? Is climate change real? Should I vote for rent control? When will SpaceX send a human up in one of their rockets? Can they make it a soft return landing for the human like they do for their spent rockets? When can I put an elevator in my garage to lower my Tesla down to a tunnel and beat all the traffic? What should we do about all the homeless in California? How can we make housing affordable again in the Golden State? Will the bullet train actually run some day through Modesto? Will the Democrats take control and impeach everyone who they don't agree with? When will the economy and the housing market take a turn for the worse? Since my ol' lady turned 60 today, should I stop calling her my ol' lady? Why do baseball players waste all those good cold ones by pouring them on their heads after clinching a playoff series victory? When will the Hawthorne Mall property be ever used by humans again instead of stray cats, or skateboarders, or drone racers, or rats? Why does God love me even though I tell people to have cold ones and relax? Why are so many good things given to people like me who don't deserve them? The answer to all of these questions: God only knows. I put my trust in Him and I don't have to worry about a thing. He's in charge. If the big blue guy in the sky wants the Dodgers to finally win a world championship then it will happen. (All I know is that my Giants won THREE world championships in five years. So, good luck Dodger fans.) Life is good when we know who is in charge. Trust God, have a cold one, and watch the Dodgers win. How much better can it get? Enjoy!

Grilled Flank Steak with Southwest Corn and Grape Salad

Recipe provided by Brandpoint
Prep time: 25 minutes • Cook time: 15 minutes • Servings: 4

Ingredients

- 1 1/4 pounds trimmed flank steak
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt (divided)
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon ground coriander
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- 3/4 cup corn kernels, either freshly cut off the cob or thawed, frozen corn kernels
- 1/2 avocado, diced
- 3/4 cup red California grapes, halved
- 1/2 cup green California grapes, halved
- 1 tablespoon chopped shallot
- 2 teaspoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon lime zest
- 2 tablespoons chopped cilantro (optional)

Preparation

1. Pat the steak dry. In a small bowl, combine 1/4 teaspoon salt, the cumin, coriander and freshly ground pepper. Rub the mixture onto both sides of the steak; let stand for 15 minutes. Place the steak on a medium-high grill and cook it for 5 minutes on one side without moving it. Flip the steak and cook for another 4-5 minutes for medium-rare, or until desired doneness is achieved. Transfer the steak to a cutting board, cover loosely with aluminum foil and let rest for 5 minutes before slicing.
2. While the steak is resting, combine the corn, avocado, grapes, shallot, olive oil, lime juice, lime zest, the remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt, and pepper to taste; mix gently. Cut the steak diagonally across the grain into 1/4-inch thick slices. Arrange the steak slices on a serving platter or among four plates and top with corn and grape salad. Garnish with cilantro.

Origami Opens Up Smart Options for Architecture on the Moon and Mars

Based on a Press Release from the European Planetary Science Congress, Provided by Bob Eklund

Origami and high-performance textiles are transforming architecture plans for smart human habitats and research stations on the Moon and Mars. Initial field tests of the MoonMars project’s origami prototype have been presented at the European Planetary Science Congress (EPSC) 2018 in Berlin by Dr. Anna Sitnikova.

MoonMars is a collaboration between the International Lunar Exploration Working Group (ILEWG), ESA-ESTEC, research institutions and textile architect studio Samira Boon. The MoonMars team has incorporated origami structure into digital weaving processes to sculpt complex forms that are compact to transport and easy to deploy through inflatable, pop-up or robotic mechanisms in extraterrestrial environments.

“Origami structures made of textiles can be unfolded into a myriad of different shapes. They are lightweight. They can be easily deployed and re-used in different configurations and sizes for flexible spatial usage. Structures remain functional in changing circumstances, thereby extending their useable life-span,” said Sitnikova, who leads the MoonMars project on behalf of the ILEWG.

In the hostile environment of space, high-performance textiles and the flexible nature

The prototype was deployed and tested to extreme conditions on the 20th of April during the EuroMoonMars2018 simulation at ESA – ESTEC. The origami structure was designed as a gateway and sub-system between the exo-habitat, airlock system and exo-laboratory. Credit: Anna Sitnikova.

of origami can provide unique architectural advantages. The angled facets of origami structures mean that incoming micrometeorites are less likely hit surfaces at 90 degrees, dissipating the energy of potential impacts and the risks of penetration, thus protecting astronauts inside habitats. Solar panels embedded in shape-shifting textiles can follow the Sun to gather more energy through the day. Transparent and opaque facets can change direction to alter internal lighting and climate conditions.

Following initial tests of a prototype entrance tunnel during the EuroMoonMars simulation at the European Space Agency’s ESTEC facility in April 2018, the MoonMars team is now planning an ambitious series of trials for 2019. In June, the IGLUNA project, led by the Swiss Space Center, will include tests of an origami habitat in the glacier above Zermatt in Switzerland. In September 2019, the team will travel to Iceland to participate in a campaign inside a lava-tube cave system.

“We’ve just returned from a scouting trip and have selected the cave systems of Stefanshellir and Surtshellir, which has large galleries and a very elaborate tunnel system. We are provisionally looking at setting up a small habitat, implementing knowledge from previous demonstrations of our origami tunnel and woven domes,” said Sitnikova.

The next design milestone will be a self-deployable origami habitat. Origami, from ori meaning “folding” and kami meaning “paper” (kami changes to gami) is the art of paper folding, which is often associated with Japanese culture. In modern usage, the word “origami” is used as an inclusive term for all folding practices, regardless of their culture of origin. The goal is to transform a flat square sheet of paper into a finished sculpture through folding and sculpting techniques.

“Origami for space architecture promotes cross-disciplinary approaches and applications, providing state-of-the-art production and design methods,” said Sitnikova. “Habitats enhanced by such structures are temporal and alive as they are able to transform and redefine themselves in resonance with human and environmental factors.” •

“Exploring and colonizing Mars can bring us new scientific understanding of climate change, of how planet-wide processes can make a warm and wet world into a barren landscape. By exploring and understanding Mars, we may gain key insights into the past and future of our own world.”

My first priority is to ensure reliable, affordable water and do everything in my power to minimize rate increases while providing safe, reliable water to our customers.

Herald: What is your position on dealing with water scarcity?

SH: Water security and water scarcity are the issues of our time. As we experience the effects of a drying climate, we’re seeing longer periods of hot, dry conditions with less precipitation than our state’s infrastructure was designed for. We now often receive rain instead of precious snowpack that has traditionally met our water needs. Our communities must adapt to this new normal by conserving water and using it more efficiently. There will be greater emphasis on developing new water supply sources such as stormwater capture, recycled water and ocean water desalination to ensure we meet our region’s water supply needs.

Herald: What are your thoughts on impacts specifically to El Segundo residents/businesses?

SH: As a resident of El Segundo, I am very cognizant of the impacts of water scarcity to our community and appreciate that our residents and businesses have taken the drought seriously and stepped up to conserve. Our community is respected for its water efficiency that continues to improve and we are fortunate to have recycled water provided to many of our parks, businesses and retail centers because West Basin’s water recycling plant is located here. I will continue to advocate for more efficient use of water throughout our city and adding recycled water lines wherever we can.

Herald: What water programs are most important and why?

SH: Our education and rebate programs are the most important tools we have to improve water use efficiency. These include providing free field trips for our school students to the water recycling plant, as well as our public classes and tours that teach residents about California’s water supplies and West Basin’s leadership producing recycled water that benefits our region. In addition, providing free rain barrels, turf removal rebates, grants for water bottle filling stations, and other water savings incentives combine to help us meet our conservation goals and reduce our District’s water use while setting an example for others to follow.

Herald: Is there anything else you can think of that we didn’t ask that you feel is important?

SH: Our water supply challenges will only grow more difficult and require the experience, leadership and vision I bring to this position. I have a track record of success and I’m proud of my accomplishments during my first term. It’s truly an honor to represent the unique and diverse communities that make up Division 4 working on your behalf to ensure we have clean, safe and affordable water. El Segundo residents know my commitment to public service and have shared this journey with me. I look forward to continuing this critical work to ensure West Basin remains one of the leading water agencies in California. •

Order to Show Cause for Change of Name
Case No. LS030367

Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES
Petition of: KAREN MAIRE SARPOLUS for Change of Name
TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS:
Petitioner KAREN MAIRE SARPOLUS filed a petition with this court for a decree changing names as follows:
KAREN MAIRE SARPOLUS to KAREN MARIE

The Court orders that all persons interested in this matter appear before this court at the hearing indicated below to show cause, if any, why the petition for change of name should not be granted. Any person objecting to the name changes described above must file a written objection that includes the reasons for the objection at least two court days before the matter is scheduled to be heard and must appear at the hearing to show cause why the petition should not be granted. If no written objection is timely filed, the court may grant the petition without a hearing.

Notice of Hearing:
Date: 11/19/18, Time: 8:30 AM., Dept.: 0,
Room: 620
The address of the court is:
6230 SYLMAR AVE.
VAN NUYS, CA. 91401

A copy of this Order to Show Cause shall be published at least once each week for four successive weeks prior to the date set for hearing on the petition in the following newspaper of general circulation, printed in this county:

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
PAUL DAVID OWENS
CASE NO. 18STPB08829

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of
PAUL DAVID OWENS.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed
by ROSE HARDWICK AND ELMA JEAN SCOTT PALMER in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that ROSE HARDWICK AND ELMA JEAN SCOTT PALMER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate.
The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 10/23/18 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

THOUSANDS OF OUR PAPERS ARE DELIVERED WITHIN MILES OF YOUR HOME OR BUSINESS.

Give one of these kitties a second chance for a lifetime of love when you adopt a pet without a partner.

Ariel has a beauty spot, lovely gold eyes and a sweet personality to boot. This girl enjoys toys and playing with her siblings and the other kitties at the sanctuary. Ariel and her family were brought into rescue from one of the city shelters. She has fun following the caretakers around and helping them with their tasks. When she is not doing that, Ariel entertains everyone with her antics. Ariel's ideal home would be with one of her siblings or another friendly kitty, as she loves to snuggle and sleep with other kitties.

Sophie is a sweet young cat. She needs a home where she can be the only pet, as she is afraid of other animals. She takes a little while to warm up...but once she knows you, she's an absolute doll who loves to have her belly rubbed. It doesn't take long to fall in love with her. Sophie would be ideal with someone who is a big animal lover and will give her the love and patience she needs to feel safe and relaxed in her new home.

Looks? Check! Personality? Check! Casper is the total package. This darling boy offers you both tons of affection and entertainment. Casper is a very energetic and playful kitten. He can play-wrestle and chase for hours with his siblings and foster kitty friends. Casper would love to be adopted with his siblings Cocoa and Karla. If three kittens are too much for you, he also gets along well with Jenny is a kitten with a very sweet personality who loves to be pet and cuddled. She is a very easygoing kitten who will let everyone pet her. Jenny is also very curious and loves to explore her environment. She really likes other cats and would enjoy feline friends in her new home. At the end of the day, she likes to curl up next to you to take a nap and would be a happy lap cat. It would be ideal if Jenny was adopted into a home with another young cat to be her pal. She would be very lonely and mischievous by herself.

A black and white photograph of two Siamese kittens. They are both looking upwards and slightly to the left. The kitten on the left is slightly more in the foreground than the one on the right. They have light-colored fur with darker points on their ears, faces, and paws. Their eyes are large and dark. The background is out of focus.

These kitties are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org.

Your tax-deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Blvd. #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.
