11th Annual Career Day at Environmental Charter School

On Friday, October 20, Environmental Charter High School welcomed over 80 business and community leaders to the 11th Annual Career Day. Students grades 9-12 gathered to hear from keynote speaker-TV Executive Endyia Kinney-Sterns, a former VP of Development and Programming of the OWN Network and one of Essence Magazine’s “Top Female Executives in Hollywood.” She inspired students to “Take Action” with her own story, and to be prepared for the opportunity and adversity they may face in their lifetimes. A Scary Thing Is Going to Happen on Halloween Night

By Rob McCarthy

Look for sinister clowns roaming the streets and driving around in cars on Halloween night, straight from the movie It. That’s the prediction from spirit stores that say Pennywise from the Stephen King novel and movie remake is hands-down the adult costume of the season. This clown doesn’t put a smile on the children’s faces.

Clowns appearing after dark and holding red balloons aren’t all that’s going to happen once the sun goes down on October 31. Gas stations must raise their prices at midnight when California’s gasoline and diesel excise tax jumps to begin paying to repair local roads and the state’s aging highway system and bridges.

Few things unnerve Southern California drivers like gas price increases, even if it’s just a few pennies.

Gasoline and diesel prices are headed higher on November 1, and motorists and truckers will pay the freight on a $53 billion, 10-year deal that Governor Jerry Brown and Sacramento lawmakers inked in April. The ambitious plan shares some of the new tax proceeds with local cities and the county to fix roads.

What’s in it for South Bay drivers, truckers and companies with fleets of delivery trucks? Lanes of the 405 freeway are supposed to be in good or fair condition when the tax ends in 2017. Five-hundred bridges must be fixed, the plan guarantees the taxpayers. All but 10 percent of drainage culverts in the state will be rehabbed.

To reach those goals, the state is collecting an additional 12 cents on a gallon of gas at the pump and in higher vehicle registration fees. Truck drivers and diesel motor operators have an even higher buy-in than commuters. A gallon of diesel ranged from 2.93 to $3.19 per gallon at Inglewood stations earlier in October.

Truckers and fleet owners will be paying between $3.13 and $3.39 on Wednesday with the new pump tax. That 20-cent jump in tax per gallon will hit the trucking and delivery services hardest, and it’s uncertain whether package delivery services like FedEx and UPS will raise their prices. Shipping on Amazon could be affected too.

The new pump tax comes as Southern California gasoline prices were leveling off after a spike caused by Hurricane Harvey, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. The club reported the average price of self-serve regular gasoline in the Los Angeles-Long Beach area was $3.06 per gallon on October 12. That was four cents lower than the previous week, and 14 cents below September’s price, according to the AAA.

The decline in gas prices—which were 23 cents higher for a gallon a year ago—led Brown and Sacramento officials to act now to rebuild roads and infrastructure rather than wait. The supporters of the road improvement plan said the repairs to streets, highways, freeways and bridges were overdue, and delays would inflate the cost.

Normally on November 1, drivers start using a winter blend of gasoline that costs them less at the pump. However, the stations won’t be lowering their prices after Halloween, says a AAA spokesman. “We are not expecting that switch to drive down prices this year because taxes on gasoline will also increase by 12 cents a gallon on November 1,” said spokesman Jeffrey Spring.

The station owners will have to hustle to have the pump prices reset at midnight, said

Ken Pellman with the Los Angeles Weights and Measures department. Changing the prices is almost a daily chore for Southern California stations, he said, and many of them have switched to electronic signs that advertise prices.

Fuel sold in California is taxed three ways: local sales tax, state excise tax, and a federal tax on each gallons sold. The tax rate change on Wednesday will look like this:

Gasoline: The state’s base excise tax increases to 30 cents per gallon on November 1. That doesn’t include local sale tax. That additional per-gallon tax is due to hit 47.3 cents by midyear 2019. The current rate is 18 cents/gallon.

Diesel: The state’s base diesel fuel excise tax jumps to 36 cents a gallon on November 1. The current rate is 16 cents. California also collects 8.4 percent in state and local sales tax on diesel, and levies an additional 1.75 percent diesel-fuel sales tax on suppliers. That tax will more than triple to 5.75 percent on November 1.

Starting next year, vehicle owners will pay a new “transportation improvement fee” ranging from $25 to $175, depending on the value of their vehicle. Electric vehicle owners must pay a $100 road improvement fee for their zero-emissions cars and trucks, but that fee won’t kick in until July 2020.

Pellman said inspectors with the Weights and Measures department won’t be out checking gas stations at midnight, however. Motorists usually call his office with complaints if a station’s price on the sign is lower than the actual price at the pump. When there is a discrepancy, he said the consumer is entitled to the lowest listed price. •

3 Activities To Help You Move Safely After Knee Surgery

(BPT) - Most patients undergoing knee surgery want to know when they'll be able to return to a pain-free, active lifestyle and do the things they once enjoyed before knee pain took over. For 58-year-old Kathleen Cohan, this meant a desire to return to mountain biking, hiking and skiing - activities she had always loved to do as a youth and continued to enjoy with her husband in their hometown of Golden, Colorado.

Cohan recently participated in a clinical trial to treat persistent knee pain caused by a meniscus tear. After receiving the NUsurface Meniscus Implant - the first "artificial meniscus" - she completed a six-week rehabilitation program and was ready to return to doing the things she loved.

"The NUsurface Meniscus Implant changed my life. It feels great to not have to worry before I choose an activity about how much pain I'll be in afterward," Cohan says. "My husband and I recently went on a 100-mile mountain bike trip, and I climbed a 14,000-foot peak last month and my knee didn't bother me at all. The implant gave me a chance to extend my activity level as long as I possibly can."

Three months after surgery, most patients have completely recovered and are able to return to many activities that were too painful or difficult previously. Once you've been cleared by your doctor, the safest way to restart activity after meniscus surgery is to find activities that avoid placing unnecessary stress on your knee joint. Here are three activities to help you move safely after knee surgery:

1. Walk (don't run!). Experts say walking outside your home three to five times each day is one of the best ways to regain your knee strength. While you may need to adjust the length of your step and speed, you will be able to spend more time walking for exercise once your muscle strength improves.

2. Dance. While you should avoid high-impact moves like jumping or lifts, ballroom dancing and gentle modern dancing are great ways to use leg muscles, engage in aerobic activity and have fun! Just be sure to avoid abrupt movements or twists that could potentially put your knee out of alignment.

3. Swim. Once the wound has healed, many people choose swimming as their exercise of choice as it's not a weight-bearing activity and therefore reduces stress to the joints. If your knee is still a bit tender, opt for water aerobics or pool walking.

Want to mix it up? You can feel safe doing many other recommended activities such as yoga, golf, boating, aerobics or rowing. If you have experience prior to your surgery doing more intense activities, like Cohan, your doctor may give you the go-ahead to resume cycling, hiking, cross-country skiing and doubles tennis. Whichever activity you choose, remember that rushing into activities before you've recovered sufficiently may put you at risk for complications, so be sure to check with your doctor first before resuming any activity after meniscus surgery.

To be eligible for the NUsurface Meniscus Implant clinical studies, you must be between the ages of 30 and 75, and have pain after medial (the inside of the knee) meniscus surgery at least six months ago. To find a study site near you, visit www.activeimplants.com/kneepaintrial. •

New Ways To Comparison Shop For Health Care

(BPT) - As our nation seeks solutions to help improve the health care system, there is at least one goal we can all agree on: the importance of making health care quality and cost information more accessible to all Americans.

This is an important effort that has the potential to help improve health outcomes and make care more affordable - laudable goals considering the nation's health care system ranks among the least efficient in the world, according to a recent Bloomberg analysis.

More widespread use of health quality and cost resources may be part of the solution. Providing health care prices to consumers, health care professionals and other stakeholders could reduce U.S. health care spending by more than $100 billion during the next decade, according to a 2014 and in some cases provide people with estimates based on actual contracted rates with physicians and hospitals, including likely out-of-pocket costs based on their current health plan benefits. Some resources also include quality information about specific physicians, as determined by independent standards.

There are many resources people can consider when shopping for health care. In addition to online and mobile resources, people can call their health plan to discuss quality and cost transparency information, as well as talk with their health care professional about alternative treatment settings, including urgent care and telehealth options. Public websites, such as www.uhc.com/transparency and www.guroo.com, also can help enable report by the Gary and Mary West Health Policy Center.

That is in part because there are significant price variations for health care services and procedures at hospitals and doctors' offices nationwide, yet a study by Families U.S.A. concluded that higher-priced care providers do not necessarily deliver higher-quality care or better health outcomes.

Fortunately, there are many new online and mobile resources that help enable people to access health care quality and cost information, helping them to comparison shop for health care as they would with other consumer products and services. And people are starting to take action: nearly one third of Americans have used the internet or mobile apps during the last year to comparison shop for health care, up from 14 percent in 2012, according to a recent UnitedHealthcare survey.

These resources are far more accurate and useful than those of past generations, access to market-average prices for hundreds of medical services in cities nationwide.

These resources can help people save money and select health care professionals based on objective information. A UnitedHealthcare analysis showed that people who use online or mobile transparency resources are more likely to select health care providers rated on quality and cost-efficiency across all specialties, including for primary care (7 percent more likely) and orthopedics (9 percent more likely). In addition, the analysis found that people who use the transparency resources before receiving health care services pay 36 percent less than non-users.

As people take greater responsibility for their health care decisions and the cost of medical treatments, transparency resources are becoming important tools to help consumers access quality care and avoid surprise medical bills. •

NEWS FOR THE CITY OF GOOD NEIGHBORS FROM AN OLD GUY NAMED NORB HUBER

VOTE YES ON HH

It's a no brainer. The City of Hawthorne is not bringing in enough revenue to meet the demands for city services. We are running a deficit. It is not due to mismanagement or corruption. It's due to the lack of tax revenue generated within our city. We do not have big corporations that sell products that generates tax revenue. So, what is Measure HH? It is simply a very small sales tax increase on non-food items. If you buy a big screen television at Costco-Hawthorne and pay $400 retail price, then the increase in sales tax would be simply $3. For every $100 you will pay 75 cents more. Most of our customers at Costco and Home Depot don't live in the City. So we, the residents, will only be paying for only 40% of the tax increase. There is no question that the added income will help our city. Use your brain, vote YES. Help Hawthorne move forward.

HAWTHORNE TRIVIA

While you watch the Dodgers win the world championship and as you sip on your cold ones to stay cool, here is some Hawthorne trivia to digest. (Email me your answers. The first person to get them all correct will have the opportunity to enjoy a cold one with the City Clerk. Special note: Family members are not eligible to win since I really don't care to share a cold one with my biggest critics.) What was the name of the street that Marilyn Monroe lived on when she lived in Hawthorne? What street did Jim Thorpe live on in Hawthorne? What family lived on 119th Street? What single family housing tract was built first Holly Glen or Holly Park? At what location in Hawthorne did Jack Northrop start his company? What year was the first graduating class from Hawthorne High School? Who came up with the name Hawthorne? When you drop the e from Hawthorne what do you spell and what does it refer to? What year was the current city hall built? What organization had a contest to come up with the city motto, City of Good Neighbors? What is a wig-wag and where in Hawthorne is one working? Good Luck! I will share the answers with all five of you next week.

HALLOWEEN CHAMBER MIXER

The Hawthorne Chamber of Commerce will host a mixer on Halloween night over at Chester Washington Golf Course, located at 120th and Western Avenue. The mixer is from 5 to 7 p.m.

and will include great food, games and costume contests.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO MEET

The Hawthorne Historical Society will conduct an open meeting on Monday, November 6 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the new Hawthorne Museum. Dr. Tom Johnstone, superintendent of Wiseburn School District will be our guest speaker. He will share stories of his life in Hawthorne and give a brief history of the Wiseburn School District that has been over on the westside of town forever.

VETERANS DAY AFTERPARTY

November 11th is Veterans Day and the Veteran's Commission for the City of Hawthorne is hosting a Veterans Day "AfterParty" at Dana Middle School located on 135th Street in Holly Glen. There will be a brief program and then the party will begin with a great rock band and dancing. Come celebrate our veterans on their day. The program will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, November 11.

PARKING

When I speak with neighbors and friends their number one complaint is parking or the lack there of on residential streets. I have spoken out several times at city council meetings. I have written a couple of articles on this problem. There really doesn't seem to be any real good solutions. Neighboring cities have similar parking problems. Some of these cities have permit parking or restricted zone parking. We have several residents come to the city council to speak about their individual parking problems. It gets to be a safety issue when people have to walk several blocks at night just to get home. If I had the answer I would certainly share it with you and the council. I feel your pain. I understand your frustration. It has become a "parking war" on many of our streets. Having a cold one will not solve this problem but it make you feel a little better about life in our city. •

Film Review

A Twisted Journey of Revenge from Visionary Yorgos Lanthimos

By Morgan Rojas for cinemacy.com

Yorgos Lanthimos set the bar high after the 2015 release of his dystopian romance/drama The Lobster that landed on multiple "Best Of" lists and was considered a worldwide phenomenon for its originality and satirical tones. The Greek-born director takes the audience down a darker path in The Killing of a Sacred Deer. Rejoining forces with Colin Farrell, Sacred Deer is a destructive psychological thriller born out of revenge. It shows just how easily one's life can turn upside down when put in a desperate situation.

The film opens on an extreme close-up of an open heart surgery and a slow zoom out reveals Dr. Steven Murphy (Farrell) dressed in full-body scrubs. The renowned cardiovascular surgeon is meticulous about his work, both professionally and in his suburban home life. He criticizes his son Bob (Sunny Suljic) about the length of his hair and sets social restrictions for his daughter Kim (Raffey Cassidy) while admiring the perfection of his ophthalmologist wife, Anna (Nicole Kidman). All in all, life is good for the Murphys.

It's no surprise then that with his clout and status, Steven is happy to mentor and befriend Martin (Barry Keoghan)--a teenager being raised by a single mother (Alicia Silverstone) who has shown interest in becoming a doctor. Martin's oddness comes across through awkward social skills, but his intentions seem pure. Martin soon begins to infiltrate Dr. Murphy's life--after showing up at his work unannounced, displaying interest in his daughter, and a string of questionable acts, Steven begins to have reservations about his relationship with Martin. Only by that point, it's too late.

Lanthimos has an artful way of examining complicated relationships in his films, and The Killing of a Sacred Deer pulls no punches when it comes to unnerving visuals. He subtly pushes the boundaries of reality until you realize the absurdity of the situation in which we find the characters. Adding to the eerie surrealism are sweeping one-takes and an observational style of filmmaking that his longtime collaborator, cinematographer Timios Bakatakis, has perfected.

Colin Farrell makes an exciting return to the big screen in Sacred Deer as Dr. Murphy. His levelheadedness as the protagonist living the picturesque American Dream does a complete 180 at the end of the film, and that transformation is mesmerizing. Acting opposite Farrell is Barry Keoghan, whose slow-boil performance as the brooding Martin is one of the most unsettling and villainous performances of the year. In true Lanthimos fashion, however, mystery provides a thick veil and situations are downplayed on the surface--resulting in a pulsating fear at the film's climax.

Winner of the Best Screenplay Award at this year's Cannes Film Festival, The Killing of a Sacred Deer is another twisted journey through the mind of modern-day visionary Yorgos Lanthimos. It is fantastical and darkly absurd--an uncomfortably hilarious and thoughtful look at relationships and the sacrifice one makes under impossible circumstances. While it may be difficult to overshadow the success of The Lobster, Sacred Deer will have no trouble solidifying itself as a successful entry in Lanthimos' expanding canon.

The Killing of a Sacred Deer is rated R for disturbing violent and sexual content, some graphic nudity and language. 116 minutes. Now playing at the ArcLight Hollywood and The Landmark. •

Make Ahead Breakfast Bowls

Recipe content provided by BPT

Ingredients

- 2 slices of Arnold, Brownberry or Oroweat Whole Grains Oatnut Bread, toasted
 - 2 teaspoons extra virgin olive oil
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon harissa
 - 1 tablespoon orange marmalade
 - 1/4 teaspoon each of ground coriander and ground cumin
 - 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 - 1 pinch each of salt and black pepper
- 3 medium assorted rainbow carrots, shaved into long ribbons with a vegetable peeler
 - 1/2 cup loosely packed arugula
 - 2 teaspoons fresh mint, chiffonade
 - 2 tablespoons golden raisins
 - 2 tablespoons chopped roasted pistachios
 - 3 tablespoons crumbled feta
 - 1/4 cup roasted garlic hummus

Preparation

1. Preheat oven to 425 degrees Fahrenheit.
2. On a large baking sheet, place potatoes, peppers and onions in a single layer. Drizzle with olive oil and sprinkle with seasoned salt and ground black pepper. Toss until evenly coated.
3. Roast for about 30-40 minutes or until potatoes are golden brown and tender, stirring and rotating pan halfway through cooking.
4. Meanwhile, crack Eggland's Best eggs into a large bowl, then season with salt and pepper and whisk until smooth.
5. Heat a large skillet over medium heat then spray with nonstick spray and add eggs.
6. Scramble until the eggs are just barely cooked through and still slightly glossy, then scoop onto a plate and set aside.
7. Divide the potatoes and scrambled eggs evenly between the containers then set aside to cool.
8. Once cool, sprinkle with cheese and green onions, then cover and refrigerate. Freeze any portions that aren't eaten within three days.
9. To reheat from frozen: microwave for 1 1/2 minutes then stir and continue microwaving until food is reheated, stirring between intervals. Top with optional toppings, then serve.
10. Tip: Store in individualized microwave-safe containers with lids to make these bowls ready to reheat and go. •

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: HERRAL PAULK AKA HERRAL VON PAULK CASE NO. 17STPB08360

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL, or estate, or both of HERRAL PAULK AKA HERRAL VON PAULK. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by ALICIA D. PAULK WRIGHT in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that ALICIA D. PAULK WRIGHT be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 11/14/17 at 8:30AM in Dept. 5 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012 IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. In Pro Per Petitioner ALICIA D. PAULK WRIGHT 1257 W. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. A New Era of Astronomy Begins with First Observation of Neutron Star Merger

Based on Press Release from The Carnegie Institution for Science, Provided by Bob Eklund

On August 17, a team of four Carnegie Institution for Science astronomers provided the first-ever glimpse of two neutron stars colliding, opening the door to a new era of astronomy.

Along with colleagues from UC Santa Cruz, the team used the Swope telescope at Las Campanas Observatory in Chile to discover the light produced by the merger, pinpointing the origin of a gravitational wave signal less than 11 hours after it was detected. They also obtained the earliest spectra of the collision, which may allow them to explain how many of the universe’s heavy elements were created—a decades-old question for astrophysicists.

Their discovery, named Swope Supernova Survey 2017a (or SSS17a), is published in a quartet of Science papers [http://science.sciencemag.org].

Neutron stars are the incredibly dense remnants left behind after supernova explosions. Theoretical astrophysicists have speculated for years about what happens when two of them merge, but until now the phenomenon had never been witnessed. “They are as close as you can get to a black hole without actually being a black hole,” explained Carnegie’s Tony Piro, the Carnegie team’s leader. “Just one teaspoon of a neutron star weighs as much as all the people on Earth combined,” he added.

Carnegie’s scientists were alerted to the event by the Laser Interferometer Gravitational-Wave Observatory (LIGO), which detects gravitational waves, ripples in space-time, caused by distant cosmic events. In February of last year, the LIGO project announced the first detection of gravitational waves caused by two black holes merging—a discovery that was awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics earlier this month.

While the LIGO black hole discovery marked an important milestone, black hole mergers do not emit light and are therefore invisible to telescopes. Neutron star mergers, however, have long been expected to produce both light and gravitational waves, so the detection of these events was eagerly anticipated.

“The ability to study the same event with both gravitational waves and light is a real revolution in astronomy,” Piro said. “We can now study the universe with two completely different probes, which teach us things we could never know with only one or the other.”

On August 17, LIGO sent alerts for a gravitational wave detection from colliding neutron stars to observatories around the world, firing a “starter’s pistol” in the race to spot the source of the space-time ripples.

Working with David Coulter, Charles Kilpatrick, and Ryan Foley of UC Santa Cruz, the team began combing the sky at nightfall for evidence of a never-before-seen collision of neutron stars. “We knew we only had about an hour at the beginning of the night to find the source before it set,” explained Carnegie-Dunlap Fellow Maria Drout, who helped guide the discovery, “So we had to act fast.”

Despite many large teams across the world working feverishly to find the event, it was the Carnegie and UC Santa Cruz astronomers—a small, young group of researchers—who made the first discovery of SSS17a. “We saw a bright blue source of light in a nearby galaxy—the first time the glowing debris from a neutron star merger had ever been observed,” recalled Josh Simon, another of the Carnegie team’s leaders on this discovery. “It was definitely a thrilling moment.”

Because they were the first to find the event, Simon and Carnegie-Hubble Fellow Ben Shappee had time for additional observations. They quickly set up spectrographs at the observatory’s two Magellan telescopes to obtain several spectra of the merger. No other observations in the world made comparable observations during that first night. •
