Blue Butterfly Gives Wings to El Segundo’s Night Life

By Chase Maser

It’s Sunday morning, and across from the Civic Center on Main St., Blue Butterfly Coffee Co. has a line out the door.

On the weekends, it’s not an uncommon sight. Whether it’s churchgoers leaving service or college kids trying to cram for Monday’s exam, the venue hosts a true community of customers giving them a vibrant, cozy place to visit.

According to BBCC’s operations manager, Roy Langford, extending that same comfort and safety to the evening was a huge priority.

“It’s for community reasons, really,” says Langford. “We used to be open until 7 PM, but right away, we realized that people still needed a place to go and get work done. Especially college and high school students. A lot of the time, they work on school stuff and projects long after 7 PM, so staying open ‘till 10 PM means we can welcome more customers and help them feel like they have a save place to go.”

Coming from a background of working at the airport, Langford has been working at the coffee shop for the past eight months. Aside from community reasons, he feels that BBCC “is the perfect environment” not only because it has the best coffee, but it also gives patrons a variety in their coffee shop experience.

For instance, BBCC also owns Smokey Hollow Roasters on 118 Sierra St., which offers a mellow vibe compared to the bustling Main St. mania.

Jon Hanks—a barista at the Main. St. location—explains that “Blue Butterfly is like a coffee house/diner whereas Smokey Hollow is a straight up coffee shop.”

“People can go there and do their work. The pace is much slower—it’s a lot more quiet and chill. On the weekends, they close at 5 PM, and weekdays, they’re open until 6 PM. But here, we stay open much later. We serve a full menu, there’s more action on the street and there’s nothing else open in town that runs late. It’s a good thing for the area.”

And the customers agree. On any given night, you can find entrepreneurs taking business calls, writers burning the semi-midnight oil on a screenplay, and of course, the anxious student writing an essay under the wire.

“I think the coolest thing about this shop, specifically, is the vibe,” says Eric Ward, a consultant from Manhattan Beach. “It’s trendy and has an upbeat atmosphere that you just don’t find at other coffee shops in the South Bay. I come by myself to get work done on certain nights. I bring my wife here, and we just had a child, so now I bring my family here, too. It really captures the emerging presence in El Segundo—it’s a family place.”

Courtney Ciotch, a student at LMU, usually comes on the weekends, but whenever she comes in for a reading or study session, she shares that “it’s always easy to get work done.”

“I read, I journal, I study—there’s a lot going on all the time, which I like. No matter what time of day it is, I feel safe and that helps me stay focused.”

Building an atmosphere of relaxation and ease is always something that BBCC owner, Dale Ingraham, tries to instill.

“Coffee is his hobby,” says Langford. “He’s a creative guy—he does voiceovers and stays busy, and wants to give people a place where they can express their work and lives.”

Ingraham and his wife launched BBCC around 2013 and have cemented themselves as a community partner ever since.

Along with multiple locations and extended hours on Main St., Melvin Oliver—shift lead—shares how BBCC also donates product to local events and gatherings to let people know they’re supported.

“Every Sunday, we donate two gallons of dark roast and light roast coffee to The Bridge church service at the high school. We also give them an assortment of pastries and bagels. We donate to lots of places because you have to give back when you can—that’s how people know you care.”

It’s a refreshing feeling. Nowadays, it’s easy to head into a local cafe and feel isolated amidst open laptops and smartphones, but the patio and inside of BBCC provides connection.

At 8 PM on weekdays, you’ll find students playing chess. Before a high school football game on Fridays, families crowd in for a snack and hot beverage before cheering on the home team.

If you don’t want to deal with 5 PM traffic heading into Long Beach or you’re looking to kill some time before driving to Hollywood, stop in for a coffee.

Blue Butterfly Coffee Co. is open from 6 AM to 10 PM every day of the week. You can find them at 351 Main St. •

Film Review

Elijah Wood’s Come to Daddy is a Wild, Twisty Thriller

By Ryan Rojas for cinemacy.com

Now playing in select theaters, the Elijah Wood-starring Come to Daddy is absolutely one of the wildest thrillers of this year. Making it’s premiere at last year’s Tribeca Film Festival as part of the festival’s midnight category, the film blew me away for its blend of humor and crazy, surprising twists and turns.

After receiving a letter from his long estranged father (Stephen McHattie) asking to reunite, young electronic artist Norval (Elijah Wood) agrees to reconnect despite having been abandoned by him as a child. But when Norval arrives at a secluded beachside cabin with the intention of impressing his father with stories of his LA successes, he finds his father – grizzled and gruff – curiously unwilling to reunite. After a few questionably unsafe moments arise, it feels to Norval that his dad is actively trying to inflict danger to him. And that’s when things go from weird, to outright insane.

Come to Daddy.

At this point, explaining anything further would ruin nearly all of the fun of the film, so all I’ll say is that if you’re a fan of Parasite-level surprises and horror, then Come To Daddy should definitely be sought out. Elijah Wood brings a level of wry, dry humor and darkness to the project, and a good amount of comedic violence makes this an unconventionally fun time. We can expect that Wood is always going to involve himself in these types of darkly comedic movies, which we here at Cinemacy fully stand behind.

If you’re ready to laugh by way of shockingly-gratuitous yet still comically-minded violence, you will find yourself entertained by this playfully twisted yet uniquely-envisioned film that is more than a major accomplishment from first-time feature filmmaker Ant Timpson.

93 minutes. Rated R. In Select Theaters Nationwide + Available on Digital & VOD on February 7, 2020. •

DULCE'S THOUGHTS- THANK YOU

The day has come, this is the final article I will be writing the Hawthorne Press Tribune. I don't want to be too emotional, but I also can't help but emphasize the impact writing the Hawthorne Hotspot had on my life. As you may well know, I have just recently turned eighteen and had almost no idea what I wanted to do in my life. I knew I loved writing, reading, and poetry; yet, had no clear direction of what I should do with my passion. When I was first presented with the opportunity to write for the Hawthorne Press Tribune, I believed I was too inexperienced to successfully complete the job; that all changed when I wrote my first article in October, 2019. I was challenged yet excited with what I planned to write and create that over time, I just kept planning for the future articles. Now here I am, writing my final article and I am so full of content and pleasure. If it wasn't for my parents, or the wise guidance from Hawthorne's City Clerk, Dr. Jimenez, my co-interns - Sara and Juan, or the City Clerk staff - Diana and Lisa, I truly wouldn't be where I am today. As cliché as it sounds, they all changed me for the better. I had the opportunity to continue to grow alongside my work and still am. I'm eternally grateful for all I have learned and have created for the City of Hawthorne. Thank you to all of you as well as Herald Publications, and to the person who recommended me from the start, Ruben Sanchez. This was the Hawthorne Hotspot, thank you all. •

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy Named Norb Huber

BACK AGAIN FOR MORE

I know some of you keep hoping that I stop writing these things. Me and my ol' lady went to Hawaii for eight days so you were spared the last couple of weeks of this self-inflicted torture. Let me remind you that you don't have to read this crap. There is a delete button on your computer, or for you old school people just look at the cats in the hard copy newspaper edition. It strikes me that the more I tell you not to read my meanderings, the more interest you have in reading them. If I bring stupidity, it seems like my loyal readership ticks up by one or two. I'm like an old sitcom, the more ridiculous I am the better. Now I ask the questions, "am I stupid enough?", "what is stupid?", "is stupid in the eye of the beholder?". Let's just move on. I am back and we had a great time. I hope and pray that all is well with you and your family.

AGE

They say that age is relative. You only are as old as you feel. Time marches on. We are all getting older and there is absolutely nothing we can do about it. How old is old? A dear friend passed away recently. For those of us who lived in Hawthorne and attended City Council meetings we will always remember Frances Stiglich for her feisty speeches directed at the City Council

Lawndale Students Turn 100 Years Old

The 100th day of school! Lawndale students celebrated by dressing up as one-hundred year olds. I wonder what they will look like on the 180th day. Photo Lawndale Elementary School District.

Your Neighborhood Therapist

You've no doubt been seeing them for weeks now: the red and pink heart-shaped boxes that line the "seasonal" aisles of the drug store. The roses at the supermarket. The wedding ring commercials on TV. Valentine's Day usually provokes a reaction somewhere between delight and despair. If you fall on the delighted end of the spectrum, you're covered. A lot of people are working very hard to make your night wonderful, so go out and celebrate!

If (please pardon me for this, Rolling Stones) you see the red hearts and you want to paint them black, then perhaps this column is for you. Our culture celebrates and elevates romantic love above other types of love, and Valentine's Day is the apotheosis of this.

We all experience love differently. Even romantic love comes in many varieties, always influenced by culture and personality and our own life experiences. Sometimes romantic love burns hot and intense. Sometimes it is more like a walk through a meadow. And sometimes, love just isn't that strong. There's nothing wrong or right about this. But not everyone gets the opportunity to experience the kind of love that Valentine's Day celebrates. Just as importantly, not everyone wishes to.

The barrage of romantic love stories and imagery we are exposed to for weeks every year has the power to leave the millions of people not currently in a happy romantic relationship feeling lonely, inadequate, unloved and desperate.

On this day that celebrates one kind of love, why not take a moment to consider how you experience love and then how others around you might experience it differently? I also invite everyone to think of those around you for whom this might be a particularly difficult day. Is it crazy to consider reaching out, and even including them in Valentine's Day plans?

What if we think about Valentine's Day in broader terms? Instead of celebrating merely one kind of love, what about taking a moment to consider the role love plays in our life? What kind of love are we experiencing, and what kind of love do we want? Whether we experience love with a partner, or a parent, or a child, or a friend, or a pet, or a place, or an idea, are any of these relationships more or less worth celebrating than the others?

In an age where it seems that an app is often the easiest place to go looking for love, we might do well to remember that people loved well before apps existed, and will continue to do so long after apps are gone. In order to do that, they had to look around at the people who were already in their lives and in their community. Perhaps we would do well to consider this as we think about love on Valentine's Day. Perhaps we would do well to consider that romantic love is not the only kind of love that is worthy, and worthy of celebration.

NEWS RELEASE For Immediate Release Contact: Guido Fernandez Hawthorne Municipal Airport (310) 349-1637 City of Hawthorne Hosts Public Workshop for Airport Noise Study Update HAWTHORNE – February 11, 2020 – On Thursday, February 20, 2020 the public is invited to attend the second of three community workshops on the federal 14 CFR Part 150 Noise Exposure Map (NEM) Update that the City of Hawthorne is conducting at Hawthorne Municipal Airport. Funding for the NEM Update is provided by the Federal Aviation Administration and the City of Hawthorne. The workshop will run from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at the Polaris Room at the Hawthorne Memorial Center, 3901 W. El Segundo Blvd, Hawthorne, CA 90250. The workshop will be conducted in an open house format and include a variety of displays that explain and summarize the Noise Exposure Map Update process, the project schedule, the inventory phase and noise modeling assumptions that will be used to run the noise contours. "This workshop will allow citizens to talk with the consultants and airport staff to express their concerns, provide input, and learn more about the process. There will be information available about the technical aspects and requirements of noise modeling related to the development of the Noise Exposure Map for Hawthorne Municipal Airport," said Alan Leung, Public Works Director. The federal NEM Update, which when finalized, will be submitted to the FAA for approval, is an element of a "Part 150" study after the section of the Federal code under which it is authorized. The NEM will consider the noise situation at Hawthorne Municipal Airport and detail the operation of aircraft-related noise exposure and land uses around the airport and surrounding communities. While 14 CFR Part 150 of the Federal code does not specify the types of public outreach required, in addition to three public workshops, the Hawthorne Municipal Airport staff and consultants have reached out to a broad base of stakeholders to form a Planning Advisory Committee (PAC) to provide input and feedback to the study process and technical study material. The PAC is expected to meet three times throughout the study and is comprised of local residents, homeowner associations, local planning agencies, airport users, representatives from the aviation and business community, as well as state and federal agencies. A project website, www.hawthornenoise.airportstudy.com is available for the community to stay informed and download project documentation and meeting notices. The Polaris Room at the Hawthorne Memorial Center is an accessible facility. For special accommodations at any meeting associated with this project, please contact the City at (310) 349-1640 at least 72 hours prior to the meeting. For more information, visit the project website or call Guido Fernandez, Airport Supervisor, Hawthorne Municipal Airport at 310-349-1637 or email him at GFernandez@cityofhawthorne.org. fitting place for my ashes. You see, we are simply dust. Our lives do have meaning, but none of us are capable of escaping the inevitable. No matter how much money or fame we have, our lives will end. Then what? What happens to us after we die? This question has been raised by many scholars, wise philosophers, scientists, fortune tellers and all of them type for many eons. What happens to us after death? As a follower of Christ, I base all of my beliefs on Holy Scripture. Based on the Bible, I believe that those who put their trust in the grace of God through the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ are saved. Our spirits are immediately taken to heaven, with our bodies staying in the ground until the last day when Jesus returns to earth. We will be reunited with our resurrected and glorious bodies on that day. It's not by my good works or by doing anything on my part, but simply by what Jesus has done. Salvation is a free gift from God. All other religions of the world require their followers to do something or give something. Christianity has it in reverse, we do nothing to earn salvation, God does it all. We don't choose God, God chooses us. So, there it is, that's what I put my hope on. I'm sure I will receive a few responses from one of my eleven loyal readers for this post.

Braddock

Every second of every minute of every day, a helpless animal is put to death just because no one was there to take them home. Give them second chance for love when you adopt one of these precious kitties. You can also check out their friends on our website – www.kittenrescue.org

Braddock is a super sweet, calm kitty. He loves to lay on top of or next to you purring away and waiting patiently to get petted. He will stretch out next to you so that he's super close, reaching out to you to ensure that you are paying attention. Braddock is also very playful, loves to play with his feather toy, and will go crazy for catnip. He wants to be the king of his household and be an only kitty so that you will give him all the attention. Braddock can be a little shy but once he gets comfortable, he's a love bug.

fighter and we knew she'd pull through. The moment she was safe and warm she turned into a little purr machine. Every day she's more loving, more playful, and is just so thankful to be with people who care. Sansa would be a wonderful addition to your home and would be an excellent playmate for another kitty. Be prepared to this little girl continue to bloom before your eyes.

Our adorable Astropop is your typical fun and happy-go-lucky teenager. Like most teenage boys, he has two loves in life, hanging out with his buddies and food! The hanging out part usually involves good-natured playing. His buddies are so important to him that we'd love to see him in a home with another feline who has the same energy level as he does. His love of food is just as cute. The minute Astropop hears a can or bag being opened, snuggling and laying on your chest while you're in bed and licking your nose. He is also okay with dogs and good with traveling.

Lotus and her three siblings were found outside a local Buddhist temple when a good Samaritan brought them to us. Lotus has a very sweet, calm, quiet disposition and will happily sit in your lap. She also loves to play with her siblings and with toys, as well as take regular cat naps in the sunshine. She loves humans and would do best in a quiet household with other kitty friends. Lotus would also be okay living with an older, calm dog. We think she's purrrfect!

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org. Your tax-deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Blvd. #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Blvd. just south of Manchester Ave. and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Ave, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location.

Join Kitten Rescue on March 7 and 8 as we run and walk to raise money to save homeless animals in the 2020 Los Angeles Marathon. Help us reach our fundraising goal of $100,000.00. The money raised from the Marathon directly impacts the number of animals that we can save.

Three months ago, the pet rescue community lost a hero to the cats of Los Angeles, Laura Katzman. Laura put her heart and soul into rescuing, rehabilitating and placing homeless cats. Her mother, Denise, has pledged to match up to $5000.00 in the next week for our marathon fundraiser in Laura's honor. The funds raised from the marathon will pay for medical care for homeless cats and kittens, so that they can find forever homes.

• $5.00 will microchip a kitty

- $15.00 will pay for a series of vaccines, worming and flea meds for a kitten
- $25.00 will provide antibiotics for a sick kitty
- $50.00 will pay for an FeLV/FIV combo test
- $75.00 will spay or neuter a kitty
- $150.00 will provide the basic medical care to save a kitty
- $500.00 will bottle raise an orphaned kitten our nursery
- $1000.00 will pay for dental surgery for a kitty
- $5000.00 will run our Sanctuary for a week

To learn more about joining our 5K, Charity Challenge (half marathon) or full marathon team, visit <https://kittenrescue.org/events/la-marathon>. Not a runner? You can still help us raise money to provide medical care for needy animals thru our website. Every donation makes a difference! •

Schmidt

Lord Tyrion is a small fellow with a beautiful orange coat and green eyes. He's a caring soul who has been watching over Lady Sansa since before they were both rescued. This young fellow loves to roll around and show his belly and is a fan of fine foods and crisp clear water. Tyrion is the best of the Lannister's and is made of pure gold. He will do well looking after another kitty or looking after you as a solo.

Lady Sansa like her namesake was in a rough spot when she was rescued. She'd been through a lot, but this fiery little lady is a he makes a bee-line for the sound to see what delicious morsel he might get! Astropop also has the sweetest meow we've heard in a long time; it's a very endearing, little squeak. With his sweet personality, adorable face, and gorgeous eyes, Astropop is irresistibly endearing.

A dark smoke tiger with white points, Schmidt has more personality than most cats you'll meet. He's easy going, playful and adjusts to new situations easily. Schmidt is a little more like a dog than a cat. He loves playing with toys of any sort and having his picture taken. This easy-going guy also enjoys
