Town Hall: City Awaits the Signal So Recovery Can Begin

By Rob McCarthy

El Segundo officials say they'll be ready when Los Angeles County's health officer in charge of the coronavirus response gives the signal to resume some business and public activities. The city remains under a stay-athome order until May 15, and Fire Chief Bill Donovan revealed department heads have begun drawing up plans on how to reopen after two months of closures of businesses, restaurants, bars and public events.

Fire Chief Bill Donovan discussed the development during a COVID-19 town hall public meeting on April 30, which was broadcast live on El Segundo TV. With the county's stay-at-home order ending next week, city management has shifted from an emergency response to the next phase of recovery for businesses and residents alike. Once the county's order is lifted or modified, department heads should have recovery plans to guide the reopening of workplaces, parks, retailers and the hospitality industry.

El Segundo's number of confirmed cases held steady at 27 over eight days, ending on Sunday. Del Aire had eight confirmed cases this week, the same number as Wiseburn. Donovan said wider testing to account for people carrying the virus but not showing any symptoms was important to the recovery and keeping businesses, workplaces and public spaces from having to close again for a second wave of the virus. Health officials expect cases to start increasing again later in the year, or a second wave.

Information about free local testing is available on the El Segundo city web site. A second test for antibodies to determine if someone contracted the virus and has immunity is available, too. Still, residents must call their health care provider or the county health care system, according to Donovan. Testing is going to be essential to provide local and state governments with data about the number of actual cases that have occurred. Between 60 and 70 percent of the population must develop a resistance to this coronavirus for "herd immunity" to take place. People who contract the virus or are vaccinated against it develop a defense against becoming a carrier of the coronavirus.

The fire chief offered a few tips for wearing and removing cloth face coverings after going out in public. Wash hands and use sanitizer before placing a mask or cloth face covering on the face, or taking it off. Wash face coverings once a day, if possible, in hot water and using a hot cycle in the dryer. The person wearing a surgical mask or bandana over the nose and mouth won't spread the virus to others through coughing, sneezing or loud talking, Donovan explained.

Councilman Lance Giroux, who took office in the middle of the pandemic, said he looks forward to El Segundo "making the pivot from response to recovery to reopening of the city and the economy." Downtown business owners will have a chance to learn more about the city's plans for them at a town hall virtual session at 3 p.m. May 6.

Giroux and Mayor Pro Tem Chris Pimentel participated in the virtual question-and-answer session to clarify the city's obligations to follow state and county guidelines, including the use of El Segundo's beach. The county has the authority over access and recreational uses of the beach, Pimentel explained in response to a question about the continued closure of the sand and ocean for recreational use.

"We fall under the county's jurisdiction," and the city going to follow the orders, Pimentel said. The city's Parks and Recreation Department is deciding about the hometown Fourth of July festivities at the park, the mayor pro tem said. No decision has made about whether the traditional hometown Fourth and fireworks show will be held. Pimentel pointed out that the county's stay-at-home order expires on May 15, creating a small window for the city to make plans to go ahead with the celebration. "It'll be close," Pimentel said, adding, "we're never happy to cancel things the community values."

The Lakes Golf Course remains closed because it's considered a non-essential activity by the county, too. Pimentel took a question about a possible reopening date for the golf course and driving range and said the decision is more complicated than reopening parks and ballfields. El Segundo has a long-term contract with TopGolf to improve and manage The Lakes property. It's unknown when the county will relax

Film Review

Queen & Slim is an Emotionally Charged Odyssey

By H. Nelson Tracey for cinemacy.com

Four years ago, Daniel Kaluuya was an unknown British actor whose most substantial credit was a supporting role in the Johnny English sequel. Fast forward to today, he's an Academy Award nominee, and more importantly, a chameleon with something new to say in each role. Perhaps now, he can even be considered a marquee headliner.

Queen & Slim, available to rent on VOD, continues Kaluuya's ascent to stardom. In accompaniment with three talented women, simple transition moments, like a car driving across an empty road, rich with texture and significance. At every step of the journey, Queen & Slim encounter people who have a choice: help these two and break the law, or aid in their arrest, and follow the law. Most characters pick the former, and that's what allows them to make their passage.

There are times where the film's pace lacks the sense of urgency established by the premise. The nature of stopping along the way means that at times, the movie's momentum is slow.

Queen and Slim, courtesy of Universal Pictures

they have created a bold new movie rare to be found from a studio release. Jodie Turner-Smith is the Queen to Kaluuya's Slim, and a brand new face on the silver screen. Writer Lena Waithe, an established name in young Hollywood, brings us the screenplay. And director Melina Matsoukas, one of the biggest names in the music video scene, makes a grand feature film debut with this emotionally charged film of the moment.

Queen & Slim is an odyssey in the classic sense: our two lead characters take a journey they did not sign up for, and along the way, encounter characters that shape and inform this trip, each with some interpretable subtext. This vignette approach certainly is reminiscent of Bonnie & Clyde, but also brings to mind a wide swath of other inspiration, from Homer's Odyssey to American Honey.

Queen & Slim start their journey in Southern Ohio and zigzag their way across the United States. Each location is deliberately given a name and place, unlike some road movies which hide where characters are supposed to be. I counted at least five states (or areas within those states) that are given name recognition. Matsoukas has a visual style that makes even

However, with each step comes intriguing characters and development of the two leads, so despite an occasionally meandering pace, there is plenty to be captivated by. Overall, it's a film worth seeing, for both classic movie fans looking for the Bonnie & Clyde homages, and also contemporary cinephiles looking for a roster of new talent on the climb to the top. •

Mortgage Relief During COVID-19: Here's What You Need To Know

(BPT) - In these unprecedented times, when many families are facing physical, emotional and financial hardships, a common question is, "How do I keep up with my mortgage when I'm not working?"

A home is a family's most important asset. But now it's more than that: It's where they are hunkering down and staying safe. That's why there is a plan for customers to delay monthly payments if they need help.

There are a lot of mortgage terms and provisions on TV and in newspapers related to the impact of COVID-19, and in some cases, there is conflicting information. Here are some common questions and answers from Mark O'Donovan, CEO, Chase Home Lending, to help guide you.

What's payment assistance or forbearance?

That means you won't be expected to make a payment for a period of time. For example, you can start with three months and you won't be charged a late fee, once you tell us you need help and sign up. We'll contact you during the three-month period to make sure you're doing OK, and we won't report the missed payments that come due during the forbearance period to the credit agencies. Before the period ends, we'll be in touch to discuss when you expect you'll be able to start paying again and how to handle the missed payments. If you can't make up the missed payments at the point that you resume making your regular payments, we can likely defer them to the end of the mortgage term.

How do I raise my hand?

At Chase, you can request help without waiting to speak to an agent. Simply start here: www.chase.com/mortgageassistance. You'll be able to log into your account, fill out a short form and enroll in the payment assistance program. You'll avoid waiting on hold - a process that is lengthier right now given the thousands of customers calling with questions. We will email or send you a letter to confirm that you're in the program. Don't worry if you don't get it immediately. It may take a few days, but the payment delays start right away.

Can I just stop paying without telling the bank?

That's not a good idea. By signing up, you'll get full access to all the program benefits - including delayed payments, no late fees and no negative reporting to the credit bureaus for payments due during the forbearance period.

What if I can still pay?

Then you should. Keep making your mortgage payments on time if you can. And know that the program is for customers who are suffering financial hardship resulting from COVID-19, so help is still available if your circumstances change as a result of COVID-19. There are also programs to help customers who suffer financial hardships for other reasons, including natural disasters.

What happens after the payment assistance period ends?

The national payment assistance program was created to provide immediate help to customers navigating this very uncertain time. If you're still not able to afford your mortgage at the end of the initial three months, you can request delaying payments for additional months at the end of the forbearance period. Many customers who can resume making their full payment after the assistance period can defer missed payments to the end of the mortgage. We'll check in with you near the end of the assistance period to help you understand your options.

While there is so much uncertainty right now, we want to be here for you to help. Stay safe and healthy. •

Huber's Hiccups

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

BIG NUMBER 65

I turn 65 years young this Friday, May 8th. Besides it being my birthday, it is the 75th anniversary of VE Day. VE stands for Victory in Europe for most of us who can't remember our high school history course facts. On May 8, 1945 Germany formally surrendered to the Allied forces signaling the end of WWII in Europe. Millions of people celebrated this victory, especially in Great Britain and the US of A. The celebration was somewhat muted by the fact that we were still fighting in the Pacific Theater. I guess my patriotism shows. I love recalling our American history, for better or worse. Things have changed since those days. A man named Walt was laughed at for building an amusement park out in the orange groves of Anaheim in 1955 the same year I was born. Critics didn't think enough people would choose to attend a park full of rides and attractions. Now, most of America is wondering when or if they will be able to ever go back to enjoy the excitement and fight the crowds at the Happiest Place on Earth. Most of us want to escape and venture into a fantasy world. No matter how high Disney raises the ticket prices to, we all want to take our mind off the present and go back in time to a simpler time, a time when we didn't have to worry about staying 72 inches apart from each other. Even the past wars that we have fought in were simpler to understand than this one we are fighting now. Back then there was an enemy. We knew whom we were fighting. We all pulled together to support our troops. We built ships, tanks and aircraft, some of which were built right in Hawthorne, CA. There was unity in fighting a common foe. This virus thing we are fighting now kind of snuck up on us. We have been given directions on how to fight, but are we winning? This enemy is elusive. If we knew where it was, we could isolate it, surround it, suffocate it, and destroy it. We long for those simpler times. We want to go back to relaxing and enjoying life be it in a crowd, taking an airplane trip, or simply gathering with friends and family to eat a meal and have some fun together. Life continues, no matter what. God has blessed me with a healthy 65 years. He has given me a dear wife, three children, two son-in-laws, three grandchildren, a whole lot of friends, 25 loyal readers, and just a few critical, extended family members. Every week my critics tell me to stop my blabbering. Every week I sit and type away believing that there are some people out there who enjoy reading this junk. Any way, to all of you who were born, happy birthday, have a cold one, and enjoy life.

MOTHERS DAY

I was always my mom's favorite. I was born on Mothers Day. Every mom deserves our love. She is the one who carried us around for nine months. We wouldn't be here without her. Pregnancy is a special time. My youngest daughter, Katie, is expecting this July 16th. Papa will be happy to see his third grandchild out in the world soon. A mother and child relationship is simply amazing. The love shown, the innocence of the child, the dependency of the little one to be fed and taken care of. It has to be the greatest example of love there is here on earth. We can't thank our mothers enough for all that they have given to us. Happy Mother's Day to every mother out there.

- Thanks for reading this week's ramble. Say hi to norb at: norbhuber@gmail.com

Everything You Need To Boost Your Self-Care Routine

(BPT) - When was the last time you treated yourself so that you could feel good inside and out? Now is the perfect time to show some serious TLC to your skin, nails and hair to give yourself the ultimate full-body pampering session.

Try these ideas for enhancing your self-care routine:

Get that Glow

While there are a suite of serums and creams on the market that give your face a gorgeous glow, what about your body? Whether you want to show off smooth legs or just want soft, healthy skin to slip into your silk PJs, try making your own homemade body scrub. All you need is one cup of brown sugar and half a cup of coconut oil for an exfoliating, yet soothing scrub that will leave your body feeling smoother than ever. You can add a drop of your favorite essential oil to your scrub that will offer aromatherapy and make your shower smell like a high-end spa.

Cleanse your Way

To feel fresh from head to toe, use a wash that you can trust to gently cleanse even your most intimate areas. Summer's Eve(R) Cleansing Wash is essential while taking a relaxing shower. Clinically and gynecologist tested, it refreshes by removing odor-causing bacteria, is designed to match your natural pH level, and is free from dyes and parabens. The cleansing washes feature an array of Clinically Tested Safe Scents(TM) or even Fragrance Free.

On days where you may not have time for a shower, grab a Summer's Eve(R) Cleansing Cloth - perfect post workout or just for a fresh pick-me-up!

Instagram-worthy Manicure

Give yourself a mani at home. With nail design inspiration on social feeds, creating a fresh and trendy nail look at home is easier than ever. A new favorite design of nail aficionados is the minimalist negative space manicure that focuses on painting only the mid-to-top portion of the nail with a color and leaving the lower nail bed area bare. Keep it simple and finish the design with a topcoat or add in a nail jewel or sticker for a bit of extra glam.

Luscious Locks

Infuse your hair with moisture and softness by creating a natural oil mask with ingredients you can find in your own kitchen. Rich oils like extra virgin olive oil, coconut oil or avocado oil are perfect for getting strands moisturized. Give hair a quench of hydration by working in a small amount of oil from your scalp through the ends of your hair, then wrap your hair in a warm damp towel and relax for 10-20 minutes. Shampoo your hair thoroughly and condition as usual. Whether you give yourself a blowout or air-dry hair naturally, you'll notice how soft to the touch your locks will be.

Set the Mood for a Night In

As you enjoy your self-care prep for a cozy movie night or date night, don't forget to set the mood at your place. First, make sure you use your favorite delivery app to order wine and snacks from your favorite local shops. Next, hit play on your favorite playlist.

Self-care shouldn't be limited to a special occasion. Put regular dates for at-home wellness sessions in your calendar. Treating yourself is always worth doing. •

Giroux, who began his four-term year in April and had two weeks on the job, said as a parent of a water polo player, he also wondered when the El Segundo Aquatics Center could reopen. Like the local beaches, the county order is keeping the pool closed and halts all polo practices and swim sessions. With no hint of what the county may do on May 15, Giroux said that he hopes the reopening of El Segundo's public pool comes soon.

Police Chief Bill Whalen said that reports about so-called coronavirus parties are reaching the police department and that it's reckless behavior that will bring a knock on the door from El Segundo officers. The same applies to the rules against playing in playgrounds and invading public property that's been locked and posted with no trespassing signs. "We need people to adhere to the rules," Whalen said, adding "pay attention to closure signs." Parties, except those involving family or roommates who live together, are not allowed for the time being.

"If we find out about it on social media, we're going to come and talk to you about it," the police chief said, repeating an often-overlooked reason for the ban on public gatherings of any size. It puts officers checking on a house party in contact with strangers and their guests - one of whom could be carrying the virus and not show any symptoms.

For the protection of officers and the public, the police department is handling less-urgent calls differently, Whalen said. Non-priority reports can be taken over the phone or online to minimize face-to-face contact and make everyone safer. Both the police and fire chiefs thanked the men and women in their department for contenting to provide excellent service to the city under trying circumstances since the local coronavirus emergency was declared for El Segundo on March 17. •

Every second of every minute of every day, a helpless animal is put to death just because no one was there to take them home. Give them second chance for love when you adopt one of these precious kitties. You can also check out their friends on our website www.kittenrescue.org

Apple is a beautiful calico kitten. At just three weeks old, Apple wound up at a local shelter with her three siblings. A Kitten Rescue foster parent picked them up and brought them home. Because Apple was a bottle baby, she loves people. She is fun, outgoing and very social. She plays and wrestles hard but when it is time for a nap, Apple is the first one to curl up into her foster mom's lap. Apple is very young and will adapt quickly to a new home. She must be adopted with one of her siblings: Coconut, Cherry or Rhubarb. Adoptions are still happening in this time of social distancing!

Bobbie

Ask about our no-contact adoption process.

Coconut is a sweet boy with loads of personality. As a former bottle baby, Coconut loves people. He is extremely outgoing, playful and silly. He loves to run around and play with his siblings. He is also brave and adventurous. At his young age, Coconut will adjust quickly to a new home with one of his siblings: Apple, Cherry or Rhubarb.

Cherry is a sweet, silly, fun girl. She has lots of kitten energy and loves to play. As most bottle babies are, Cherry is extremely friendly and outgoing. She will come right up to say hi when you enter the room. She loves to be held, to cuddle in your lap and purr. Cherry is ready to find a new home with one of her siblings: Apple, Coconut Rhubarb adores people. This little sweetheart loves to snuggle and purr. If you are petting him or cuddling him, Rhubarb turns up the purr volume to extra loud! He is very playful, loves to chase and wrestle with his siblings, or run after toys. At just 8 weeks old, Rhubarb will easily adapt to a new home; he must be adopted with one of his siblings: Apple, Cherry or Coconut.

Bobbie and Smudge are two adorable bachelors looking for love. They are ready to move into your place together to keep you company and entertain you! These boys love to play, but even more they love to get pets and snuggle. Bobbie is a little shy at first but warms up with just a few pets. His brother, Smudge is the super outgoing and brave one. They get along great with other cats and would probably be okay with dogs. Bobbie and Smudge will be a great addition to your family.

Casey is an amazing little bundle of joy. He loves to be caressed and kissed. As he prances around, Casey looks at you lovingly, seeking attention and affection. He is look-
