Congratulations to Our South Bay Cities Graduates

It is the final week of classes for the 2019-2020 school year in the South Bay. Although we have transitioned to distance learning, our schools are still celebrating graduation and promotion ceremonies virtually. We want to congratulate all the students, parents, teachers and faculty for an amazing job at finishing out the year. Photo courtesy of Pixabay.

Sophia Zago’s Bright Journey

By Gregg McMullin

Graduation from high school is the culmination of 13 years of schooling that started in kindergarten. Had the pandemic not shutdown our country, Friday night some 300 or so El Segundo high school seniors would have proudly walked through the highly decorated arches on their way to their seats.

The Pomp and Circumstance march would have serenaded the class of 2020 seniors, and speeches would’ve filled the air with remarks from school officials and students. One of those students would’ve been Sophia Zago. She would have flashed her signature smile as she strolled up to receive her diploma in front of thousands of well-wishers in the stands celebrating all the seniors. Instead, the outstanding cross country and track star will celebrate at home with her family and a select few friends.

Sophia is one of those people that has always felt the journey was the success, not the destination. She believes that focusing on the journey shines the light on what a person can get out of trying to reach one’s goals. Her journey through the last 13 years has been a ride she wouldn’t have missed. “I love going to school and seeing my friends between classes.”

Sophia’s senior year was marred by a pandemic that closed her school and all but ruined her final year of high school. She says it was a challenge not seeing her friends, but that didn’t break her spirit or her friends, according to her. “I think the most challenging part about not attending school has been not seeing my friends, teachers, and teammates daily. I think I will miss my teammates the most because I have spent the most time with them throughout the last four years.”

With school a big part of Sophia’s life, she says her favorite class is Medical Innovations, the last class on the Biomedical Pathway. This is another one of Sophia’s footsteps she is taking along the way to becoming a highly successful person long after she graduates. She plans on attending the University of California, Irvine this fall and join a good friend and former Eagle teammate Nikki Fulcomer on the cross country team. “My major is in biological sciences, and I will be competing on their cross country and track teams as well.”

Sophia is a great student, but she is one of the school’s top female cross country and track athletes. She has been a three-year varsity letterman for the Eagles in both XC and Track. She is the school record holder in the three mile, 800m, and was a member of the 4x800 and 4x1600 school records teams. She is one of only three of the school’s distance female runners to advance to the CIF finals; James Matlosz and Nikki Fulcomer are the others. She was the co-captain of the XC and Track program this past season. She helped lead the XC girl’s team to their best overall team time finish at the state meet having helped them to a podium finish in 2018. Sophia leaves with the top five times in all distances for both XC and Track programs. She helped the Eagles secure their first girl’s track league title in 2019. She is a remarkable talent that still has a lot left in the tank to help UCI this coming season. She admits that running for the Anteaters will be a challenge, but she’s ready to embrace that next chapter in her life.

Along her journey, Sophia has met many people who have influenced her and help guide her along the way. There was one person she pointed out who made the most significant impact on her, and she wanted to thank. “The biggest influence in my life has been my cross country and track coach, Marcos Bolanos. He is also my Economics/ Political Behavior teacher. He believed in my athletic abilities and constantly pushed me past my boundaries to help me reach my goals.”

Sophia was an athlete well before she got to high school. She participated in many different sports when she was younger and always enjoyed

Film Review

Support Black Cinema: Four Films To Watch

Morgan Rojas for cinemacy.com

Do films have the power to change the world? While Ryan and I both believe so, it's hard to say that definitively when we continue to see injustices against the black community. Since Cinemacy is a film community designed to champion independent filmmaking and voices, we'd like to take this moment to highlight four powerful films directed by black filmmakers about the struggle of being black in America. Watch their films. Learn their stories. Amplify their voices. Change the current narrative so that we can one day say, definitively, that films had the power to change the world.

Fruitvale Station | dir. Ryan Coogler | Available to rent on Amazon, iTunes, and other VOD platforms.

Before Ryan Coogler made history with Black Panther, he directed the indie film Fruitvale Station. The film, also starring Michael B. Jormaker Raoul Peck envisions the revolutionary book James Baldwin never finished.

If Beale Street Could Talk | dir. Barry Jenkins | Streaming on Hulu

Barry Jenkins' follow up to his Academy Award-winning film Moonlight tells a powerful story of love, family, and the racial bias that nearly destroyed it all. Based on the novel by James Baldwin, young wife-to-be Tish (KiKi Layne) is passionately in love with her artist fiancé Alonzo "Fonny" Hunt (Stephan James). Friends since childhood, the couple dream of a future together, but chaos ensues when Fonny is arrested for a crime he did not commit.

13th | dir. Ava DuVernay | Streaming on Netflix

Ava DuVernay's 13th is one of the most thought-provoking documentaries of recent times. Interviews with various scholars, activists and politicians shed light on the dan, is based on a true story about 22-year-old Oscar Grant who tries to get his life together after spending time in prison. He is a young father who supports his girlfriend and daughter and is determined to make up for lost time. Set in Oakland, CA, flashbacks reveal the last day in Oscar's life, in which he became swept up in an altercation with police that ended in a senseless tragedy.

I Am Not Your Negro | dir. Raoul Peck | Streaming on Amazon

Raoul Peck's documentary uses the words of late-author James Baldwin to tell the story of race in modern America. In 1979, Baldwin wrote a letter to his agent describing his next book "Remember This House," a personal account of the lives and assassinations of three of his close friends: Martin Luther King, Jr., Medgar Evers, and Malcolm X. When Baldwin died in 1987, he had only written 30 pages of this manuscript. In I Am Not Your Negro, film-history of racial inequality in the United States, specifically incarceration. The nation's prisons are disproportionately filled with African-Americans, and 13th offers an in-depth look as to why that statistic continues to rise. •

Morgan Rojas

Your Neighborhood Therapist

Dear Neighborhood Therapist,

I am in my 30s and would like to buy a home, but with my salary I can only save a little bit, and I don't know if I'll ever be able to afford to buy. I also don't make enough to take someone on dates or vacations, and while I know that's not everything, it just makes it that much harder to find a partner. I was working for a promotion, or a new job, but things just look bleaker than ever now. I feel stuck and cannot shake this feeling that I am a total failure and that nothing will ever change that.

– Failing at Life, I Think

Dear Failing at Life,

I'm a music lover. And a father. And a son. And a voter. A husband. Brother. Grandson. Uncle. Cousin. Person. Citizen. Friend. Acquaintance. Reader. Hiker. Camper. Tennis player. Baseball player. Employee. Boss. Writer. Sports fan. Student. Teacher. Coach. Producer. Consumer. Therapist. Angeleno. New Orleanian. Dreamer.

These are just some of my identities - some of the many hats I wear and have worn. I will certainly wear more in the future. No doubt you wear just as many hats as I do. If you can, please take a moment and write all of yours down.

I suspect you will notice that not all hats are treated equally. Think of meeting someone new. In the first minute you inevitably hear, "So, what do you do?"

"What do you do?" is a question often asked as small talk - but it is insidious. Specifically, it is an invitation for us to identify with how we make our living, and thus offer ourselves up for evaluation based on one aspect of a person's life. Try answering "What do you do?" with something like, "I bleed Dodger blue" or "I take good care of my friends" or "I am a wonderful uncle to my nieces" and enjoy the look of confusion on the questioner's face.

Our culture equates "success" with "worthiness," and too often defines success in terms of profession and wealth. Is the acquisition of material things a greater achievement than lovingly caring for a child every day? I don't think it is, and I don't think I'm alone in this position.

Why did I mention all the hats I wear, and ask you to note down all the hats you wear? Because all of us - including you - are so much more than traditional "success." We are all Walt Whitman: We are large. We contain multitudes.

Look at your list. These are your multitudes. Which of your multitudes are most important to you, and why? This is what matters. I humbly request that we all stop asking "What do you do?" It's the wrong question. Instead let's ask, "What's important to you?" I suspect, Failing at Life, that if you had the chance to speak more about what is important to you, you'd find you measure up just fine.

Huber's Hiccups

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

I can not talk about politics, no virus talk, no baseball to talk about, no Dodgers to get mad about, we all know about protests and riots, so what in the heck am I suppose to talk about? If I say the wrong thing, I may get fired from this volunteer position. But, what is the right thing to say? Our mothers used to always tell us that "if you can't say nothing nice, then you keep quiet". Now a days, our silence on an issue can be taken as nonsupport or disapproval. Whatever I say or do, more than likely I'm going to offend someone. If I talk to myself, I'm probably arguing with my conscience that is telling me that I'm wrong once again. So, this week, I will try to do my best not to write anything about anything. I won't tell you that God loves you more than you know. I won't say, just relax and have a cold one. I won't tell you to be positive about things and be safe. I won't share a comforting scripture like Philippians 4:6-7 that says, "do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus". I won't even attempt to look at things on the news and twist them into something meaningful. I won't attempt to write something stupid and get you to fake a smile or laugh. I do not want to offend your intelligence. I will not tell you to act stupid like me. The bottom line is this: if I don't share any of my views, thoughts, or stabs at wisdom, then maybe I should just shut it down, call it quits, put my mask on and ride off into the lockdown. If I did call it off, my 30 loyal readers would have to hang for themselves. You folks have heard me loud and clear. Some of you must be hard of hearing since you tell me to keep on writing. All of us have our problems, we all have our ways of dealing with life. We all have our views and thoughts. That makes us human, we are alive. God has created us all unique, with our own thoughts, views and values. The question needs to be asked, will we be able to freely express our views in the future and not be anxious about how it's being perceived and will we be safe from persecution or bodily harm if people disagree with us? Free and open discussion is the bedrock of America. I will continue to write and act stupid as long as I can. Sorry, if my views

ORANGEVALE MY NEW HOME TOWN

Where in the hell is Orangevale, CA? It’s 20 miles NorthEast of our State capital, Sacramento. Me and my dear wife, Linda, aka FOL (formerly called old lady) moved up here two years ago next week. After 40 some great years in Hawthorne, it was time to make a move. This community has a hint of rural but is surrounded by Sacramento suburbs. Most of the lots are a half of an acre or more in size. So, we have the best of both worlds. Linda likes the close by shopping, at least when it’s open, and I like the country feel. It’s a down to earth, humble place to retire to. The neighbors are friendly and we have some elbow room between our houses. We just discovered a neat little adventure recently. About a mile or so from our house right along the American River is a bald eagle nesting area. We have been there several times for a short walk to view a family of five bald eagles. The nest is at least eight to ten feet in length. The birds are amazing to see. There is so much to see in small and big towns across our great country. Every community has their unique beauty or interesting history. I can hardly wait to get out to explore some more of America the beautiful.

She's run in so many races over the past four years, but her favorite meet might be the CIF Southern Section Prelims her sophomore year. In that race, she broke the school record in the 800m. The other meet she remembers is the Irvine Distance Carnival, "because it's a fast track and such a fun event for the whole team to PR."

In the long term, Sophia will embrace her journey at the collegiate level both in the classroom and competing for the Anteaters. "I hope to place at the Big West Conference Championships and continue running through graduate school and beyond."

Summary of Adoption of Ordinance 2203 Enacting Chapter 9.71 A to Title 9 of Division VI of the Hawthorne Municipal Code ("HMC") Re: the Establishment of Eviction Moratorium During State of Emergency.

Pursuant to Government Code section 36933(c), the following constitutes a summary of Ordinance No. 2203 which was unanimously adopted by the City Council at its regular meeting on Tuesday, June 9, 2020 at 6:00 p.m. Pursuant to California Government Code section 36933(c)(1), the City Council has previously directed the preparation and publication of a summary of Ordinance No. 2203 which adds Section 9.71 A to the Hawthorne Municipal Code establishing an Eviction Moratorium During the State of Emergency.

On March 4, 2020, the Governor proclaimed a State of Emergency to exist in California due to the threat posed by the novel coronavirus and the COVID-19 disease resulting therefrom. On March 13, 2020, the President of the United States of America declared a national emergency and announced that the federal government would make emergency funding available to assist state and local governments in preventing the spread of and addressing the effects of COVID-19, and on March 15, 2020, the Hawthorne City Council adopted Resolution No. 8175, proclaiming the existence of a local emergency.

On March 27, 2020, Governor Gavin Newsom issued Executive Order No. 37-20, enacting a moratorium on the enforcement of eviction orders for renters affected by COVID-19 through May 31, 2020. The proposed ordinance protects the public health and mitigates the economic impacts of COVID-19, avoids displacement of residential and commercial tenants by temporarily prohibiting the eviction of tenants impacted by COVID-19 beyond the moratorium imposed by the Governor of the State of California. Governor Newsome also enacted a suspended "fajny provision of state law that would preempt or otherwise restrict a local government's exercise of its police power to impose substantive limitations on residential or commercial evictions" of certain tenants affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. Therefore, the City of Hawthorne has the discretion to enact the proposed ordinance.

The proposed Ordinance No. 2203 adds Title 9, Division XI, Chapter 9.71 A to Title 9, Division XI of the Hawthorne Municipal Code, which places a temporary moratorium on eviction for non-payment of rent by residential and commercial tenants impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic upon fulfillment of certain requirements by the tenant. The tenant remains obligated to pay the full amount of the missed rent upon expiration of the moratorium, and is given six months to pay the back rent.

The City Council finds and determines that there is no possibility that the adoption of this Ordinance will have a significant effect on the environment. Accordingly, this Ordinance is not subject to the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to Sections 15061(b)(3) and 15378 of Division 6 of Title 14 of the California Code of Regulations. A certified copy of the entirety of the text of Ordinance No. 2203 is available both on the City's website and also in the office of the City Clerk, 4455 West 126th Street, Hawthorne, California, and is open for public inspection. Hi, my name is Autumn. I am a pretty 5 year old DSH female kitty with a sweet disposition. I like to hangout in the cattery with my feline friends while I wait for my Friend for Life. I hope to find a warm home with lots of pets to lean into. <https://spcala.com/adoptable/pet/?ss=20-03559>

Angel is a 5 year old male Cockapoo who is looking for his forever home. His favorite treats are hotdogs and he is a bit of a lap dog. Are you looking for a friend who won't judge you binge watching Bravo? Look no further than Angel! <https://spcala.com/adoptable/pet/?ss=20-03545> •

Ken came to the spcaLA on March 9th on suspicion of being hit by a car. He had to have his lungs drained of fluid and was in immense pain. He was also absolutely terrified of human contact and of the leash. While the veterinary staff got to work helping his body heal, the Behavior and Training team started the long journey of repairing his relationship with people. It took ten days for Ken to approach people within the confines of his kennel run. It was another month before he tolerated being touched. Surprise! He discovered he liked neck scratches! Two weeks later and he was allowing multiple staff members to pet him. A week after that, almost two months to the day of entering the shelter, Ken allowed himself to be leashed.

Three weeks later, his fear of the leash was minimal and he was approaching various staff members for treats. Ken was finally ready to move on. Forte Animal Rescue came for a meet and greet with Ken that went above and beyond expectations. Ken was able to approach a total stranger, take treats from her, and seemed very comfortable with being pet. The foster picked him up the next day and reports he is already settling into home life and actually LOVES cuddling in her lap. Ken spent a total of 83 days at spcaLA South Bay Pet Adoption Center. While his journey to a forever home isn't over yet, we are so proud of his progress and that we were able to give him the care he needed during his time with us. •
