Wiseburn Unified School Board Candidates Question & Answers

By Duane Plank

What skill set can you bring to the school board that is unique, considering that there will be budgetary challenges in the upcoming years?

Neil Goldman: (1) Strategic Planning/Financial Management. I own a strategic planning, financial services consulting company that has helped 500+ organizations make better resource decisions, create more engagement, and drive success. My financial foresight is already helping Wiseburn proactively navigate challenges: I've pushed to increase reserves—our District's savings—for a rainy day fund, and to similarly reconvene the budget committee. My strategy work led the Wiseburn Assurances, vision and priorities; my expertise here will help drive focus and alignment moving forward.

2) The ability to see the big picture, bring people together, and create all-win solutions. I honor, respect and seek out differing opinions, and then bring opposing parties together to listen to, and learn from, each other. My communication skills and entrepreneurial background help to drive understanding, create innovative options, and find non-obvious solutions. This may be especially important if difficult choices need to be made in a budget-constrained environment ahead.

Joanne Kaneda: I have a uniquely blended classroom and industry management skillset that is directly applicable to tackling WUSD budget challenges.

1. I am the only candidate that is an experienced, certificated teacher. I know first-hand the necessity of blending classroom goals with available budget to deliver the best education for kids and community.

2. I am also the only candidate with years of experience as a successful aerospace executive delivering on large commitments. My education includes a Master's in Business Administration and UCLA Executive Management certification. As your Board Member and Board Representative to the Budget Committee, I apply my industry maturity to plan and execute the WUSD budget within district and community priorities.

3. As your Board Member, I will execute a rolling five-year budget strategy focused on education commitments.

4. My combination of classroom and industry know-how ensures WUSD budget accountability with community input. More info at: <https://kaneda4wiseburn.com/>.

Jessica Daugherty: I run a public policy consulting firm that helps school districts, companies, non-profit organizations, and government agencies solve big challenges, create education and workforce programs, and fund those programs. I understand education policy and the myriad of funding available to districts. I also understand how to creatively braid funding streams across sectors in order to create collective impact and sustainable programs in tight financial times. For example, I helped the tech company mitú, develop an internship program for diverse youth that used City funding to provide stipends for students and corporate sponsorships to pay for the program creation. This allowed the company to expose youth to the tech industry at no cost to the company.

Furthermore, I raise millions of dollars for nonprofits and agencies by writing large government and philanthropic grants and developing fundraising plans. These skills are directly transferable to a School Board under budgetary stress.

What do you see as the two most important issues facing the District, and why?

Joanne Kaneda: The two most important issues facing WUSD are: 1) Safely returning students and teachers to campus during the COVID pandemic and, 2) Accurate, timely communication between WUSD, the Board, and the WUSD community.

As your WUSD Board Member, I believe educating our students safely during the COVID pandemic is our highest priority. While LA County remains in the "purple," most restricted tier, distance learning is the safe education solution for most students. Per LA County Health Department, only students in specialized programs can return to classrooms. Your WUSD Board will proceed in November with a phased plan to safely return these students to campus.

Your Board and WUSD Administration and are actively improving communication pathways with our community. In addition to improved clarity on the Wiseburn.org website, I'll add

@SWEETSBYCARLA
By Samantha Schmidt
INTRO

Hi Hawthorne! As of lately, I have been seeing many small businesses growing on social media, especially in the black and brown community. The last two businesses I talked seemed to not only benefit the owners but also develop more representation in the People of Color Community. Because I love representation so much, I interviewed another business owner who I been noticing all over my social media! I have a feeling you will like her since she is very sweet!

WHO IS SWEETS BY CARLA?
Carla Mosquero is a 19-year-old Colombian – American who started her custom cake business, Sweets by Carla. Although she grew up the first childhood years in Inglewood, she as well spent the rest of her youth as a resident in Hawthorne. Her parents both migrated in the U.S. from Bogota, Colombia, making her a first generation in her family. She claims that she grew up happily in Hawthorne, seeing the strong representation of the Latinx community, having Colombian family and friends, and the joy of being surrounded by culture daily. As of right now, she is a second-year Human Biology and Society student at UCLA, but is also taking advantage of quarantine by baking cakepops, chocolate covered strawberries, and much more! I became lucky enough to get to know Carla and the behind the scenes of her art.

THE START OF HER BUSINESS
Q: What do you do in your business?

A: My business is pretty much self-explanatory haha! I am a self-taught baker as well as home based! I make custom cakes and treats/sweets! Big, little, medium, all kinds of cakes! I also specialize in chocolate covered strawberries and make others like cake-pops, cakesicles, and other deserts!

Q: Describe the process of starting your business?

A: I got the creativity from my mom. My whole journey, I enjoyed simply creating things with my hands, whether it be arts and crafts or cakes. I used to bake a lot as a little girl, however, because of high school, I got extremely busy. To add, I helped my mom decorate family parties and candy tables! I loved creating party decors for others on their special day! It became a hobby of mine for a long time, but the amount of workload from school made that joy of mine fade away. Finally, I started baking more and more once I began college. I regularly came home from school and out of nowhere I baked a random cake for my family. All my close relatives and friends started asking me to make cakes for their birthdays and that’s basically how I got the idea. At first, I became hesitant of my idea, but it eventually grew on me. I finally decided to make a risk and start when my mom bought me my kitchen aid mixer for my birthday! I was so happy and spent so many days baking. What I find funny is how much I wanted to start my business but how scared I became! So much so that I created my Instagram page but did not tell anyone except two friends for a whole month. After processing a month, I changed my page to public and shared the news on my personal page! I am still surprised on how fast my business grew, but as well as the infinite support.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF HER BUSINESS

Q: What hardships have you experienced with your business? Have you improved?

A: Yes definitely. I’ve had trouble in handling everything myself! I feel like it’s much more difficult than working a job and coming home after your shift because it’s like I always must be doing something related to my business. Whether it’s making cakes/strawberry orders, answering inquires/messages, buying supplies, or writing down/keeping track of everything. On top of that, I am a full time pre-med student, thus, my classes are highly demanding!

Time management has been something I’ve improved and I am still in the process of doing better every day!

Regarding the quality of my work, I’ve improved so much! I know a lot more techniques now and I feel like my work speaks for itself. I always try my absolute best in weighing every order and I love the results! Although I’ve been running my business for two months, the comparison from my then photos to now, you can tell I’ve improved!

Q: Do you think Covid-19 is the reason why you initiated in your business?

A: I believe that Covid-19 is a big reason why I started my business. The pandemic made me come back home from college. If it wasn’t for Covid-19 making me move back to Hawthorne, I would have never started my business. This pandemic has been horrible and I never thought I would see a bright side, but it paved the way for me to work from home. If I had not come back, I wouldn’t have found the time to do what I do now!

HOW HER BUSINESS MADE HER GROW

Q: What did you learn from taking that one step to your platform now?

A: It sounds naïve, but I never thought this would be so difficult and tedious. It is a handful and will require a big part of your life. I See Hawthorne Hotspot, page 8

★ VOTE NOV. 3

Jessica Daugherty: The most essential issue to address in the WUSD is to improve District communication with the community and community engagement with the District. Parents, students, teachers, staff, and taxpayers must have communication channels through which they can communicate with the District and visa-versa. The pandemic has increased communication and equity gaps for families that are less technologically connected. Improved communication must also include improving communication and collaboration with Da Vinci Schools in order to better articulate programming from middle school into high school.

Second, we must identify a financially stable way to expand access to early childhood education and childcare in order to meet community demand. This includes immediately opening the CDC to provide families with support during the pandemic. Many districts have opened their child development centers with the CDC-mandated 10-1 ratio. Families need childcare right now more than ever and our District has not prioritized it. •

Huber's Hiccups

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

SANCTITY OF LIFE

Last week I wrote about pro-life and abortion. Some refer to the respect for life as the "sanctity of life". What does this phrase mean? For Christians, human life is sacred and is a gift from God which is to be respected and protected. The Bible teaches that human beings are created in the image of God. It also teaches that murder is forbidden. Another word for sanctity would be sacred. It's a holy act when we protect and preserve all human lives. That implies that we should keep old guys like me alive. God knows when my time is up here on earth. Even though some in my extended family would like to "pull the plug" on me and this rambling mess, I will continue to live and type away until God calls me home. The sanctity of marriage would be another one of those biblical based truths that is being questioned these days. Did God really intend for marriage to be between one man and one woman? It really gets down to whether we believe there are "absolute truths" that are absolutely true all the time regardless of the situation. God gave us choice. We can do right or we can do wrong. Most of our laws and our values are based upon the Ten Commandments. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adultery. We make life choices every day based on our beliefs and our values. Are we always going to do the right thing all the time? No. That's when Jesus jumps in to save us. That's why I can say to you: be happy, have a cold one and relax. Regardless of whether you are a bible believing, Jesus freak or not, most all of us want the best for our families, our neighbors, our communities, and for our country. We want the murders, riots, abortions, and hate talk to stop. We believe that all lives count and are precious. We want to be proud Americans. It seems like we are just all holding our breath waiting until November 3rd or whenever an outcome is finalized. There is one absolute truth that will not change ever. God is in charge. God loves you. God created you. God wants you to live and to enjoy life. Loyal readers, live your life with joy, relax, have a cold one, and please don't pull the plug on me.

CHANGE THE NAME?

Here is an email from one of my loyal critics: "Hiccups are spasms of the diaphragm resulting in involuntary expelling of air from the lungs. They are temporary, not enduring. Hiccups are not desired nor wanted. They are not normal. Consider changing your column to something like hubris, but that is brash. How about Huber's Humor? That says it all, for all chuckle and laugh at the drivel that comes forth and are mostly amused and entertained. "You are a buffoon" and we need such in life.

Bottom line - do whatever brings attention, for that is the purpose, whether the foolish followers realize it or not. Otherwise, why would this nonsense continue to spew forth on a regular basis?" I could not have said it any better. Deep down, I think this critic really enjoys reading my junk every week.

started two months ago but already feel like my mind is racing on what the next desert I need to bake. However, I am so grateful for this experience. I can't believe I created this business and even more in awe of those who support and appreciate my work! It means so much more than you guys will ever know! Getting to make something that will make someone smile or making an order that will be gifted to someone is special to me! I get even more excited when a customer wants my work to be a part of their special day, such as proposals, baby showers, milestones, or a birthday! Whenever I get pictures, I get emotional! I love doing my baking and my goal is to keep pursuing it until I pay my way through medical school and become a physician! I am confident that it will shape me into a responsible young adult ready to take in like and my future goals! It for sure teaches me a variety of qualities and skills that will come in handy later in my journey.

Q: What piece of advice would you give to those who are starting?

A: To those, who are starting, or want to start, please just do it! Start somewhere, everyone does. Don't compare your progress, have fun, and enjoy practicing your hobby/passion. There are no set of rules or anything, hence, do it your way and take the first step. After, everything will flow!

I was scared once, mostly the fear of failing and not receiving orders. Now I look back, I wish I would have started earlier. These two months have been nothing but positivity and glad I decided to create @sweetsbycarla. If I would have left my fear keep me from opening, I would have regretted it.

If you want to contact Carla to make an order of some chocolate covered strawberries or gift a close one some cake pops, place your order now! MY THOUGHTS

As I said before, I've been seeing many young adults my age building their own businesses and doing the most to receive exposure. As my position as City Clerk Intern and as someone who loves her Latinx community, I wanted to do something for them. I knew writing articles would be a huge help in not only improving my writing skills, but it would benefit the owner in experiencing recognition and a feeling of self-accomplishment and satisfaction. I feel like supporting these businesses is an act of respect. You acknowledge and learn the tremendous risks and challenges it took in starting. Not only that, but it is what makes the community! They give character and it develops relationships between the customers and the independent owner. At some point, it becomes familial. I wish the absolute best in Carla and her business. She seems to be triumphing the more I see her on my social medias! •
